BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

MONDAY, JANUARY 3, 1938, 2 P. M.

In Board of Supervisors, San Francisco, Monday, January 3, 1938,
2 p. m.

The Board of Supervisors met in regular session.

CALLING THE ROLL.

The roll was called and the following Supervisors were noted present:

Supervisors Brown, Colman, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Uhl—10.

Absent—Supervisor Shannon—1.

Quorum present.

President Shannon being absent, Supervisor Meyer was elected to preside.

APPROVAL OF JOURNAL.

The Journal of Proceedings of December 27, 1937, was considered read and approved.

SPECIAL ORDER—2 P. M.

The following matter was taken up:

Hearing of Appeal, Rezoning of Easterly Line of Lyon Street, 132.122 Feet Southerly from Marina Boulevard.

Appeal from the decision of the City Planning Commission, by its Resolution No. 1703, dated November 4, 1937, denying application to rezone from First Residential District to Commercial District, property located at the easterly line of Lyon street, 132.122 feet southerly from the southerly line of Marina Boulevard.

Privilege of the Floor.

Milton Marks, attorney representing the appellants, was granted the privilege of the floor and requested that the matter be continued one week.

He claimed that there was ample time since under the Charter he was entitled to forty days.

J. Sweeney, attorney representing opposing property owners, opposed continuance. He declared that attorney for appellant had not notified him as usual of his intention to ask for a continuance and hence all his people had come to this hearing.

Ralph Isaacs, attorney representing property owners, opposed a continuance on the ground that the opponents were there and would be put to great inconvenience if they had to leave their homes and work again.

Earnest L. West, representing Marina Home Owners' Association, also opposed continuance of the hearing.

Geo. Gearhardt, secretary of Civic League, also opposed postponement.

Motions.

Supervisor Colman moved postponement for one week.

Supervisor Brown moved as an amendment that we hear those who have come here and postpone action on the resolution until next week.

(Chair declared amendment out of order.)

City Attorney O'Toole advised that the appeal must be filed not less than ten and not later than 30 days after decision of Planning Commission and after date of hearing is fixed it must be concluded in ten days.

Supervisor McSheehy moved that this matter be heard here today.

Supervisor Brown moved as an amendment that we proceed to hear those present. Action on the matter may be deferred later.

Motion carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Brown, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Schmidt—6.

Noes—Supervisors Colman, Reilly, Roncovieri, Uhl—4.

Absent—Supervisor Shannon—1.

(Supervisor Reilly excused at 3 p. m.)

Privilege of the Floor.

Milton Marks, attorney for the appellant, thereupon stated that he represented the applicant for the zone change and again requested a continuance of the hearing until next meeting.

No speaker on the other side wishing to be heard, Supervisor Brown moved that if no one wanted to talk to the Board of Supervisors that the matter go over for one week.

Motion carried by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Brown, Colman, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Roncovieri—6.

Noes—Supervisors Ratto, Schmidt, Uhl—3.

Absent—Supervisors Reilly, Shannon—2.

Explanations of Vote.

Supervisor Uhl explained his vote by saying: I feel that I want to be fair to both sides and would like to be present when the matter is heard. I feel, on the other hand, that Attorney Milton Marks has had the matter in hand for thirty days. I'm against postponement.

Supervisor Schmidt explained his vote as follows: I just wanted to explain my vote. I am going to vote against this continuance for the reason I feel that a request was made that this date be set—that it was in the hands of the Board for a month, and I don't think this proposition is so involved and requires such deep consideration that it cannot be heard today. We are always being accused of procrastination, and on that basis I am going to vote against continuance.

Motion.

Supervisor McSheehy moved that the matter be made a Special Order for 2 p. m. next Monday.

Memorializing Congress to Pass Dingel Bill Permitting Federal Aid for Municipal Airports.

(Code No. 5.2)

Supervisor Roncovieri presented:

Resolution No. 3728, as follows:

Whereas, there is now pending in the Congress of the United States H. R. No. 6972, known as the Dingel Bill, which would permit the Federal Government to appropriate monies to assist cities in the development and maintenance of their airports; and

Whereas, it is becoming widely recognized that because much air transportation is interstate, this industry holds a position analogous to interstate rail, steamship and highway transportation and should therefore, be given cognizance by the Federal Government as an object of interstate and national character and one properly entitled to monetary assistance; and

Whereas, in the matter of national defense, airports constitute a most important factor and should therefore, with Federal assistance be so constructed, and provided with such facilities, as would make them available for use by Government's aviation forces, and this is particularly true of airports situate at vital or strategic points; and

Whereas, the City and County of San Francisco is developing what will ultimately be one of the finest airports in the country, both for land and amphibian planes, to serve the United States Coast Guard and the leading air lines of the nation, a project certainly not of purely local concern, but rather, of national and interstate importance; and

Whereas, because in the event of armed conflict, the probability of the Federal Government commandeering the San Francisco Airport is so likely as to justify governmental participation in its development and maintenance, through financial contribution; now therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco does hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States and does urge the passage of H. R. No. 6972, known as the Dingel Bill, to permit of Federal assistance to cities in the development and maintenance of their airports; and be it

Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the California delegation in the House of Representatives; to Senator Hiram W. Johnson and William G. McAdoo, as well as to Vice-President John M. Garner and President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Statement of Supervisor Roncovieri.

Gentlemen of the Board:

Hon. Frank Couzens, Mayor of Detroit, addressing the U. S. Conference of Mayors, said: At the present time it has been ruled by the legal division of the Department of Commerce that while the Federal Government is authorized to expend federal monies on the development of airways, that these airways stop at the boundaries of every city airport. Consequently, it is impossible for the Federal Government to share any of the cities' expense even though they may recognize the justice of it.

May I take the liberty of calling to your attention a bill which was offered in Congress at the last session, H. R. No. 6972, known as the Dingel Bill which was designed to remedy this situation and make it legal and possible for the Federal Government to share its logical and fair portion of the development of a national system of airports. For those who are not familiar with the Dingel Bill, it merely authorizes the Federal Government to share with cities and other political subdivisions of the United States the cost of improvement and maintenance of publicly-owned airports to insure the safe operation of aircraft.

Under the terms of the bill, the Secretary of Commerce is directed to make a study of the airports of the United States and report to the Congress annually, recommending the appropriation necessary for the improvement and maintenance of city, county and other publicly-owned airports.

This bill is a very simple one and in effect merely an enabling act which would bring to each and every city airport the assistance which is almost mandatory. Coming before the budget annually it would tend to meet the situations which are bound to occur in the future but which none of us are able to foretell.

May I point out that since the Federal Government has extended aid toward the development of railroads, steamship lines and highways, it cannot be charged that federal assistance toward the development of aerial transportation is in any way a departure from established practice and certainly cannot be termed a radical or revolutionary step.

The resultant increase in commerce, it is believed, would equal proportionately the volume of business created by the extensive construction of railways, highways and steamship lines in this country.

The Dingel Bill has been generally recognized as constructive legislation and its passage will depend primarily upon the force with which every city with an airport, impresses the seriousness of its individual problems upon its representatives in Congress.

Militant support of this bill will not only solve our city airport problems but will help make these United States assume the position of leadership in the field of aviation as it has in other means of transportation.

The problem of our city airports is not merely a local and individual one. Because it is a mutual problem it is naturally a national problem, and we should, therefore, unite and do something about it. We can all help materially by lending our whole-hearted support in urging the passage of the Dingel Bill.

This bill was approved by the Mayors' Conference and I now move that the resolution be adopted.

Supervisor Roncovieri moved the suspension of the rules and the adoption of the resolution.

Remarks of Members.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I extend congratulations and heartiest good will to all my colleagues who have been returned to office, and also, to those who are continuing members of this Board.

We have all been signally honored by the people. We must, therefore, recognize the responsibility of the high trust that has been placed in us.

The people have a right to demand that the great public questions which will most engross us, be lifted far above petty prejudices and personal differences. They expect us to be loyal to their interests; solving their problems to the best of our abilities.

The people will permit of no division into a solid majority, or a solid minority, solely for political expediency.

I venture the hope that each of us will think of himself as an independent member of this Board, unaffected except as his conscience may dictate in the solution of the people's problems, and that when the votes are counted for or against any measure they will at all times represent the composite thought of eleven Supervisors.

The sad side of public life, both in high and in low places, is the fact that it is all too often made up of cunning and intrigue, of seeking selfish ends at any cost to others, or preferring vain glory and personal advantage rather than the achievement of the common good; these are the weeds of political life that make the name politician a byword, and a term of opprobrium, when it should stand for the highest ideals in statesmanship.

Let us avoid these faults in order that the spirit of our actions may be fair—governed always by an innate love of justice.

Let courtesy, dignity and discriminating intelligence guide us in our relations one to the other, and to the questions before us for solution.

Let us be steady-minded men of vision.

Let us think of ourselves as builders for the people; savers, not wasters, of time, in order to expedite our work and establish public confidence.

Remember that what we do, and not what we say, is the only thing that counts with the people. The old adage is still true: "Actions speak louder than words." Therefore, when inclined to talk at length on any subject, remember the old Hindu proverb: "Wisdom is made up of ten parts—nine parts silence and one part brevity."

If we are staunch, loyal and true to ourselves, we shall be staunch, loyal and true to the people and to each other. "To thine ownself be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

And now, with these high ideals, I, as a member of this Board, rededicate myself to work constructively, conscientiously and wholeheartedly to the solution of every problem that is, and will be ours to solve, to the end that San Francisco may grow and prosper as the city loved 'round the world. With God's help, I shall keep the faith!

SUPERVISOR UHL:

Of course, this is a happy meeting. I am particularly happy over having received 81,400 votes, for which I am truly thankful, at a very small campaign expense. It is indeed encouraging to know it is not necessary to spend huge sums of money to be re-elected. Therefore, I feel gratified that on my record I have been re-elected.

In 1933 the public elected me upon a definite platform of policy. At the inaugural ceremonies before the Board of Supervisors on January 8, 1934, I submitted a program of policy to the Board. The major accomplishments in my platform of policy are listed below:

1. Consolidation of police stations, motorization of police department. This makes for economy and more efficient service to the public. I now suggest that the abandoned police stations be made available for meeting places of our citizens, and that the North End Station be used as a branch library.

2. Of greater importance is the removal of Calvary and Laurel Hill Cemeteries which will make available for home building upward of 30 blocks of land. Judging by the demand for home building sites in the subdividing of the old Masonic and Odd Fellows Cemeteries and houses erected thereon, it is a conservative prediction to say that within five years after Calvary and Laurel Hill Cemeteries subdivisions are placed on the market, homes will be erected thereon and millions added to the assessment rolls. Playground should be provided within the area of these cemeteries particularly adjacent to the Geary School where playground facilities are nil.

Today I submit the following propositions which I trust will merit your approval:

Charter Amendments to be submitted to the electorate at the first election:

1. Reduce number of Supervisors to 7; serve full time; salary $6,000 a year. Board meetings daily at 10 o'clock; all matters acted upon within 30 days. Committee meetings daily at 2 p. m., all matters to be reported back to Board within 10 days. This amendment, if voted, to become effective January —, 1942. I feel the change is necessary to speed up the work of the Board.

2. Term of Mayor and Supervisors. Renewing my suggestion of 1934, six-year term and lapse of one term before qualifying for re-election.

3. Amending Section 22. It was not the thought of the Board of Freeholders that a Supervisor elected by the people cannot suggest to a Commission of the Director of a Department, constructive legislation. Therefore, Section 22 should be amended whereby a Supervisor can offer a suggestion covering civic matters in which the community is interested to a Commission or the Director of a Department.

4. Recall. Substitute for the Recall Provisions in the present charter the provisions of the Recall as set forth in Sections 12, 2, 3, 4 and 5 of the previous charter, one of which sections provides "one petition is competent to propose the removal and election of one or more elective officials."

5. Purchase of Patented or Proprietary Articles. The Purchaser shall be required to advertise for competitive bids on a basis of specifications submitted, and permitting manufacturers of, or dealers in, other articles made and sold for the same purpose, to bid. I note that the Manager of Utilities during his term of office has purchased only White Coaches. No bids called for. Therefore, believing the City will carry on extensive purchase of buses, and that competitive bids should be called for.

6. Licensing for Revenue. Due to charter provisions licensing for revenue is not permissible. The Controller recently reported that license revenues are $500,000 less than in the past year. Therefore, this amount must be shifted to the shoulders of the taxpayer. In many cases there should be licenses for revenue.

7. Lake Merced and Aquatic Park. Lake Merced should be placed under either the jurisdiction of the Park Commission or the Recreation Commission. It should be made most attractive during the Exposition year. It can be done by stringing electric lights around the edge of the lake.

Provision for Canoeing. Canoe racks built, and also facilities in the way of tables and benches where families desiring to spend a Sunday or a holiday can avail themselves of same.

8. Amending Section 10 of the charter, which reads: "At twelve o'clock noon on the 8th day of January next following their election, . . ."

In place of same, to read "at twelve o'clock on the first Monday in January, etc."

9. Police Department. In order to bring the activities of the Chief of Police closer to the public I suggest the Police Commission become an advisory commission, that the Mayor appoint the Chief of Police in order that the Mayor becomes responsible for the acts of the Chief of Police; disciplinary measures to be meted out by the Police Commission.

10. Planting and Care of Trees. Trees mean so much in the beautification of a city I suggest the planting and care of trees between property lines on a thoroughfare should be under the jurisdiction of the Park Commission in place of the Department of Public Works.

11. Consolidation of Offices. Consolidation of the office of Tax Collector with the office of Treasurer, Controller to check receipts of Treasurer. Consolidating the office of Recorder with the office of County Clerk. Consolidating the office of Coroner with the office of the Health Officer. This consolidation will make for economy as well as efficiency.

12. Matters of Policy. Submission to the electorate at the first election the question of the sale of land lying between Ocean avenue and Greenwood, Phelan avenue and Plymouth. This tract covers approximately 12 blocks. It is desirable for homes. Neither Mr. Freeman, the eminent Engineer who laid out in detail the plans of supplying homes in San Francisco with Hetch Hetchy water, nor the plans of Mr. M. M. O'Shaughnessy, included this tract as a reservoir site. These 12 blocks should be subdivided for home sites and the Ocean avenue frontage for commercial purposes. It means putting a huge sum on the assessment roll.

13. I will introduce the following ordinances in the near future:

Eliminating sidewalks on one side of alleys wherever possible in order to afford additional parking space.

Placing the seal of San Francisco on all city-owned automobiles and trucks.

Prescribing the number of feet of depressed curb permissible for garages, parking lots, gas stations and apartment garages. In many cases more than 50 per cent of the curb space is at present being removed from parking facilities.

Cost of painting curbs red and white denoting parking restrictions. Inasmuch as the painting of the curb red or white is for the benefit of the tenant or the owner of said property, it is but fair that the cost of same should be borne by the owner or tenant in place of passing this cost on to the taxpayer.

Subdivisions in future should have no lot less than 33 feet in width, and no residence should be erected without having at least 3 feet clearance on all sides, except where, under one ownership, at the present time, a lot is either 25 or 50 feet in width.

Matters of Policy. Desirability of acquiring the southeast corner of Army and Kansas streets, thereby city ownership of the entire block bounded by Kansas and De Haro, Army to the alley on the south. The old incinerator should be removed, property leveled and made available as a hard baseball field. The hard baseball field in the Rolph Playground has recently been turned into a soft baseball field. In time this will become a very valuable piece of property. In the meantime it should be made available as a baseball field.

Request the Federal Government to build a road along the Ocean from Old Fort Point to Baker's Beach, making connection with road leading to West Clay street.

There is demand for a close in picnic ground that can be reached by street car. Such a site is owned by the City on Junipero Serra boulevard, close to Alemany and Junipero Serra boulevard, accessible to the "M" Line. This tract belongs to the Water Department. It is an abandoned pumping station. At moderate cost the buildings can be remodeled. The tract is beautifully wooded and ideal as a picnic site. There is a considerable demand through the summer months for such a picnic site, and it can be rented at an attractive price.

By purchase or exchange, acquire the lands adjacent to Twin Peaks boulevard, thereby perpetuating for all time the marvelous, unexcelled view from Twin Peaks boulevard, and also by purchase or exchange to secure ownership of the properties which obstruct the beautiful view up Telegraph Hill. Said properties are on Filbert street between Kearny and Montgomery streets.

Recognition of outstanding citizens who have contributed to the making of San Francisco, the City known around the world, by erecting some sort of a monument in a suitable location where a bust of such men as Alvord, one of the founders of Golden Gate Park, along with his colleagues, should be placed, and a bust of other men who have likewise had vision and did their part in making San Francisco, "The City Beautiful." It would be a most suitable place for a bust of our dear John McLaren.

Every effort should be put forth by the members of the Board during their coming term to secure control of our harbor facilities. San Francisco should positively own and manage its own harbor.

Industrial Lands. A request should be made of His Excellency, Governor Merriam, to have legislation enacted whereby the State will cede to San Francisco all tide lands lying south of Islais Creek in order that the City can reclaim same for industrial sites.

Bringing to Grade Streets in South Basin. Purchase by the City of lands in South Basin and providing in the budget $150,000 annually for the purchase of the tide lands in South Basin and adjacent lands to be used to fill in the tide lands purchased by the City. San Francisco will thereby be enabled to bid for industries seeking locations.

Elevated Limited Ways. There have been many persons killed on Potrero avenue due to the tremendous auto traffic on said avenue. Therefore, immediate steps should be taken to divert much of the vehicular traffic from Potrero avenue by means of an elevated limited way, location to be recommended by the City Engineer. We are lacking in vision if we do not appreciate the necessity of immediate action in so vital a matter, especially as it requires at least three years to take care of necessary studies, plans, survey and construction of such a contemplated elevated limited way. Appropriation should be approved by the Mayor in the 1938-39 budget in order to start this matter on its way.

Unemployment. Humane care of our citizens should be given such of our citizens as find it necessary to seek Relief, and a sufficient amount should be set up in the 1938-39 budget to alleviate this unfortunate condition.

Rapid Transit. There is no gainsaying the fact that our street car service is abominable and that some other means of rapid transportation of our citizens than that now used, must be devised. Bus operation seems the only answer. The fact that Mr. Cahill requests fifteen thousand dollars for a further study of the Uhl bus plan evidences the fact that bus operations have merit.

In place of spending fifteen thousand dollars for a report, I suggest placing in the 1938-39 budget, sixty thousand dollars covering a first payment on sixty 41-passenger buses costing approximately six hundred thousand dollars, the balance to be paid in annual installments over a period of six years, and such installments to be paid out of the Depreciation Fund, said buses to be operated on the following routes:

Route (a). Thirty-second avenue and California street to Bush and Market.

Route (b). From Fifth and Mint avenue to the County Line and Huron. Operation of these two bus routes will demonstrate the practicability of bus operations and the desirability of adding additional bus routes. Bear in mind the fact that the East Bay interurban trains will be in operation between the East Bay and San Francisco next December, cars with 104 seating capacity and every passenger guaranteed a seat. Compare this with passengers packed like sardines hanging on the steps of our trolley cars. I say, "Wake up, Public Utilities Commission."

Parking Area. There is crying need for parking space in the Triangle District. Provision was made that the surface below Union Square can be used for a garage. Tentative plans have been prepared for a two-story sub-garage with 1000 car capacity, the cost of said garage being estimated at $1,000,000. The promoters of this plan have been unable to finance same. I feel if private parties are not able to finance such a garage it might behoove San Francisco to do so. And I therefore suggest that the City Engineer in collaboration with the Manager of Utilities be requested to furnish the Board with an estimate of cost for construction of such a garage and a financial prospectus of revenues and operating costs.

Fourth of July Observance. Judged by the interest shown on the part of many of our citizens regarding the Fourth of July events held last year in the Kezar Stadium there is no doubt that a contest between drill teams, mass calisthenics, and athletic sports will prove most popular and keep many of our citizens in San Francisco on the Fourth of July. I, therefore, move at this time in order that such a program can be arranged that the Mayor be requested to appoint a Citizens Committee for the Fourth of July observance.

In conclusion, I desire to assure you of my wholehearted support for any constructive legislation. In order to maintain the dignity of the Board to refrain from personalities. The injection of personalities certainly cheapens the standing of this Honorable Board.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. Chairman, members of the Board, my colleagues, City officials, and ladies and gentlemen:

We are gathered here today to install five members of the Board of Supervisors who were elected on November the 2d of last year. During the number of years that I have served as a member of this Board never yet have I participated in an inauguration in which all of the incumbents were re-elected. I am sure that we five members of this Board who were re-elected to the office that we now occupy feel very grateful to the people of San Francisco for re-electing us to the office; it shows the confidence that they have in the members of the Board that they re-elected.

The Board of Supervisors today is a different board from what it was some years ago. A new Charter was carried by the people of this City some five or six years ago, and that Charter made this Board a legislative body only; that is, all we have to do is to legislate for this great City of San Francisco, and that is no easy task. There are problems before us today that should be carefully considered. There is one problem, the problem of transportation, and this Board should give great time and great study to that problem. Conditions have changed, and if we don't do something in the way of giving to the people of our City transportation, as I have stated many times on this Board, the people of our City will leave this City and reside down the peninsula or across the bay, or over in Marin County, so we must give transportation. Now to do it we simply have to study the problem and work hard, and bring to this Board some way of giving proper transportation to our people. It is a problem, and one that requires intense study, and I feel, after being re-elected to the office that I now occupy, as one member of this Board, I intend to give that problem study, because it means work and study. The ramifications of the problem are many, and the conditions are such that this Board must meet day in and day out, and bring to the people of our City a solution of this grave problem.

There are a great many other problems, and personally, speaking for myself, I feel that the water problem is an important problem, and I hope that some day, members of this Board, that we will construct legislation so that we can give to the people of San Francisco the seventy million gallons of water that are pouring into the Pacific Ocean every day. The people of this City are hungry for water. We should beautify our City, and the only way we can do it is by planting trees and allowing the residents of our City to plant shrubs and properly cultivate their gardens. It is a problem, and one that we must look after.

Now, there are other problems before us, problems of finance, problems of relief, and a great many other problems, and I dare say that every member of this Board has within himself some one problem that he is going to try, during the next two or three years, to convert a majority of the members of this Board to his way of thinking on that particular problem, and all I can say to you, as one member of this Board, personally speaking for myself, I will go into every problem with an open mind, so that I can justify myself in trying to help you to solve these problems. I have no fixed views and intend to have none on these problems; perhaps you have. I think that every member of this Board, and especially the five re-elected should have some particular problems which they should take upon themselves to advocate during the next two years, and I tell you frankly now I intend to give up every minute of my time that I can give up to convert the members of this Board to my way of thinking on the water problem. I have taken the initiative in that matter, and shall continue to take the initiative on that problem; and on transportation I will do everything that I possibly can, as one member of this Board, to help solve that problem.

I might take my position rather seriously, and I will say that I have taken it very seriously from the first day that I was elected to the office of Supervisor, and I will continue to take my position seriously. I made a statement on that day, the day I was first inaugurated—and it is a long time ago—that I would give the same detailed attention to this office that I have given to my own private business, and I have given it a lot of attention. I have no apologies to make, and I am more than pleased to think that the people of San Francisco re-elected me to the office I now occupy, and I here pledge myself that as a Supervisor I will do everything in my power that will mean the upbuilding of this great City of San Francisco.

Mr. President, members of the Board, I thank you.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Chairman Warren Shannon, members of the Board, and their wives and friends:

I have listened with a great deal of interest to what has been said today. I have no special program. I am going to try to put common sense in the things I do as a member of this Board, and if I do that I feel that I might be of some assistance in solving some of these weighty problems that come before us.

There are a few things that I believe San Francisco should give some serious thought to. I believe that in our Police Department no ranking officer should hold more than one specified position, not numerous. They should not hold two or more, and I believe that the duties of the department should be divided as much and as equally as possible among those who can take on that responsibility.

I believe that San Francisco men and women should be put to work on projects when San Francisco money is spent on them.

Next, I believe that we should encourage our industries in San Francisco, and do all we can to stop them from crossing the bay and looking to Southern California where cheaper labor conditions give them a chance to compete with San Francisco and our conditions here with our high standards of living, and we should do all that we can to encourage and keep them here so that the outside chiselers will stop coming to San Francisco and taking away the cream from our City and our taxpayers.

Next, I believe that our City employees, in standardizing their salaries, it seems to me that we should be perfectly fair to them; we have the cream of the employees in our City government, they possess high class and take a high standard of examinations, and you cannot compare, sometimes, a clerk in our City government with clerks on the outside who have not had the same experience and have not competed by examinations. We all have the same opportunity to study for examinations and to study for better positions, and the one who gives time and study to promoting himself should not be restandardized down, and he should at least be kept where he is.

My friends in these chambers, and the young men of San Francisco, and the Young Men's Council, I wish to thank. I cherish the thoughts of the last campaign. I enjoyed meeting Adolph Uhl, for example, and although we used to go to it occasionally, but for some reason all of the members of this Board have been courteous and have been kind, and we do like each other occasionally. We don't always get along, but nevertheless we do try the best we can.

There is one man in my life, and I more or less feel like I am receiving another diploma today, and that is Supervisor Roncovieri, because back in 1917 I have a picture of the diploma you gave me in the old Sunset Grammar School, and I am very proud after all of these years, coming from the Mission, from the poorer district, from Glen Park, and I am very proud as I sit here at your side, beside the man who sent me on my way from the Sunset Grammar School.

I repeat again, that I believe in the square deal for all of the people of San Francisco, and I believe that our great form of government, that the democratic government of the United States is the greatest thing that we have, and in a small way we must exemplify and perpetuate that form of government and permit no forms of isms or Communistic, or radical elements to come into our government that would disrupt it. I am proud to read in the Examiner an attack upon those that would undermine the very foundations of our government. Let's look at the thing right, with loads of confidence. We have a great City, we have a great people, we come from a great nation, and let's fight our battles together and let common sense rule the membership on this Board of Supervisors.

The re-elected Supervisors received the congratulations and fecilitations of President Shannon and of each member of the Board.

Letter From Mayor.

The following was received at 1 p. m. and read to the Board:

January 8, 1938.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors, City Hall.

Gentlemen: I have just received the following telephone message from Honorable Angelo J. Rossi, Mayor:

"Say to them that I wish them all well throughout 1938 and that I propose with them to work even more intensely for the future progress, development and growth of our mutually beloved city."

Yours sincerely,

ERIC CULLENWARD,
Executive Secretary.

vieri, Schmidt, Shannon—9.

APPROVAL OF JOURNAL.

The Journal of Proceedings of the meeting of January 3, 1938, was considered read and approved.

Resignation of Wm. P. Filmer, Golden Gate Bridge Director.

The following was presented and read by the Clerk:

January 5, 1938.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco.

Gentlemen: I hereby resign as a member of the Board of Directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District under appointment of your Honorable Board, representing the City and County of San Francisco, to take effect at midnight on January 10th, 1938.

Yours very truly,

(Signed): WILLIAM P. FILMER.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I am going to move that the resignation of Mr. Filmer be accepted and then if I can receive a second, I would like to make a few remarks.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Second the motion.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I think the people of San Francisco realize the splendid public service that has been rendered by Mr. Filmer in fulfilling the duties of Director of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and as President of the Board of Directors of that great district representing the monument standing at the northern entrance to San Francisco as a monument to Mr. Filmer's untiring energy, integrity and ability—the greatest bridge in the world.

Mr. Filmer served ever since the inception of the bridge and highway district as the President of that body and under his guidance the bridge took form and now stands as a completed reality, and I think this Board of Supervisors, in accepting Mr. Filmer's resignation, should do so with an expression of approbation of the splendid work

Mr. Filmer has done and regret for the fact that his personal affairs make it necessary for him to tender his resignation at this time.

I therefore move that Mr. Filmer's resignation be accepted and the Clerk directed to draw up a suitable motion of regret and approbation in acceptance of the resignation.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President—

PRESIDENT SHANNON: Just before the vote is taken, I would like to add a word to what Mr. Brown has said:

As a member of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District from its inception, along with Mr. Filmer, it was a great pleasure for me to have Mr. Filmer as a member of that Bridge and Highway District on account of my long personal acquaintanceship with him. Mr. Filmer was a personal friend of mine and Mr. Filmer's father was a personal friend of my father, such close personal friends that my father was made the executor of his will. I think the Filmer family have established themselves in San Francisco as outstanding citizens, and in every action of Mr. Filmer on the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District he did what he thought for the best interests of the district and of San Francisco and it is a pleasure for me to second the motion made by Supervisor Brown, and if there is no objection, the motion will be carried.

Whereupon, Supervisor Brown moved that a committee of the Board be appointed to draw up suitable expressions of the regard for the worth and service of Mr. Filmer, and regret for his severance with the Golden Gate Bridge Board of Directors, the same to be transmitted to Mr. Filmer. Motion seconded by Supervisor Shannon.

Motion carried.

Together with the existing buildings located on said land. Right reserved to construct, maintain, operate and repair pipe lines and other water works structures on the above described property.

Finally passed by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Brown, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Shannon—9.

Absent—Supervisors Colman, Uhl—2.

Supplemental Appropriation of $250 for Purchase of Stationery and Supplies, Jail Stores.

(Code No. 9.051)

Also, Bill No. 1493, Ordinance No. 9.051441, as follows:

Authorizing a supplemental appropriation of $250, out of the surplus existing in the General Fund by virtue of the increase in revenue from the sale of merchandise in the county jails, to the credit of Appropriation No. 707.300.04 for the purpose of providing funds for the purchase of stationery and supplies required for the operation of the jail stores.

Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco, as follows:

Section 1. An Ordinance Defining Classes of Meats, Retail Cuts of Meat and Regulating the Advertisement Thereof, Defining Offenses and Providing Penalties for the Violation Thereof.

(Code No. 17.04)

Bill No. 1497, Ordinance No. 17.046, as follows:

An ordinance defining classes of meats, retail cuts of meat and regulating the advertisement thereof, defining offenses and providing penalties for the violation thereof.

Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco, as follows:

Section 1. Every advertisement offering meat for sale at retail shall state the class of meat so offered (in type not less than one-half the size of type used to name the particular cut advertised). Any portion or "cut" of meat which is defined in this ordinance, must conform to such definition if advertised for sale at retail. Terms such as those used by the United States Department of Agriculture to establish grades of meat, such as "Prime", "A-1", or "Choice", shall not be used in advertising meat for sale at retail unless such meat is in fact of such grade. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm, co-partnership, association or corporation selling meat at retail, to misrepresent the classes of meat in their advertising or placards, or in any manner whatsoever.

Section 2. For the purposes of this ordinance, the classes of meat are defined as follows:

(A) "BEEF" is defined as flesh from animals of the bovine species, divided into the following classes:

(1) "Baby beef" is from steers or heifers aged from eight to eighteen months at the time of slaughter, showing finished fed condition, excellent conformation and quality.

(2) "Steer beef" is from a male that was castrated before he advanced far enough toward maturity to make reproduction possible. The animal must also have progressed beyond the veal or calf stages. The term "steer beef" shall not be applied to heifer, cow, stag, or bull beef.

(3) "Heifer beef" is from a female that has passed beyond the veal or calf stages, but has never had a calf, and has not reached advanced pregnancy.

(4) "Cow beef" is from a mature female that has had one or more calves, or was advanced in pregnancy at time of slaughter.

(5) "Veal" or "Calf" is from a bovine animal less than eight months of age at time of slaughter. "Milk Veal" is from a calf that has not been weaned.

(B) "Lamb" is defined as the flesh of animals of the sheep family or ovine species, not over twelve months of age at time of slaughter.

(1) "Spring Lamb" is from lambs less than six months of age at the time of slaughter. This term shall not be used in describing lambs offered for sale after October 1st, in any year, nor until the new crop of lambs arrives on the market about March 1st, in any year.

(2) "Fed Lambs" or "Lamb" is from lambs which have been weaned and which are sold for slaughter at from six months to twelve months of age.

(3) "Yearling Mutton" is defined as the flesh of animals of the sheep or ovine family which are from twelve to twenty months of age at time of slaughter. Such animals must be designated and sold as "Yearling mutton".

(4) All animals of this species which have passed the "Yearling mutton" stage must be designated and sold as "mutton", and shall not be sold or offered for sale as "lamb". Ewes, which are hereby defined as mature females of the ovine species, must be designated and sold as "Ewe mutton".

(C) "Pork" is from animals of the porcine species. Boars or sows over eighteen months of age shall not be advertised or sold as "Young Pork" or "Pig Pork".

(D) In all cases of doubt arising under these definitions, the standards prescribed by the United States Department of Agriculture shall prevail.

Section 3. The following terms, used in describing the various retail cuts of meat shall be used only as defined herein, as follows:

(A) In naming the ribs of the carcass, the first or Number One rib shall be that which is closest to the neck, the other ribs being counted from that point.

(B-1) "Prime rib roast" shall consist of from the eighth to thirteen ribs inclusive, of a beef carcass. "Short cut" shall be used only when the rib bone is not more than five inches in length from the junction of the eye and the rib. "Long cut" shall have the plate removed at a point parallel to the Chine-bone and making a twelve-inch wing.

(2) "Beef round" shall consist of the buttocks cut to include the section from the socket bone to the gambrel or hock.

(3) "Round steak" shall be cut from the round, including top and bottom with or without bone. In advertising any cut or round steak, the particular kind of round as defined herein must be stated.

(A) "Top round steak" shall be cut from the upper or inside portion of the round with or without bone.

(B) "Bottom round steak" shall be cut from the under or outside portion of the round without bone.

(C) "Heel of round" shall be the lower portion of the round, triangular in shape.

(C-1) "Forequarter of lamb" shall consist of not less than thirteen ribs, shoulder, breast, shank and neck.

(2) "Shoulder of lamb" shall consist of the shoulder in one piece including not less than three ribs, and may include the neck and shank. "Shoulder of lamb, Boston style" shall not be used with the term "leg" or "leg of lamb". Its use shall be confined to shoulders of lamb as herein defined.

(3) Any part of the shoulder of lamb cut to contain less than three ribs shall be described as "Yoke of lamb". Any yoke of lamb cut with the major part of the breast attached must be advertised and sold as "Yoke of lamb with breast".

(D-1) "Pork loin" shall be cut at the leg end at a point two and one-half inches above the Aitch-bone on the pork leg, and shall include thirteen ribs and no further portion of the shoulder, and the belly shall be removed at a point not to exceed five inches from the Chine-bone at the center part of the loin.

(2) "Pork loin roast" shall consist of not less than half the loin.
 (3) "Pork loin chops" shall be cut from the fifth rib to the hip-bone to the Aitch-bone inclusive.

(4) "Pork leg" shall consist of the hind leg, with foot removed through the hock-joint; the butt shall be rounded and the tail removed. "Leg pork roast" shall consist of not less than half a leg.

Section 4. Whenever a conflict arises in the definitions as set out herein, the standards of the United States Department of Agriculture shall prevail and conform in the operation of this ordinance.

Section 5. Any person violating any provision of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and each day's continuance of such violation shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 6. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance and each section, sub-section, sub-division, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, sub-sections, sub-divisions, sentences, clauses or phrases is declared unconstitutional or invalid for any reason.

Obligation of Market Street Railway to Repair Between Its Tracks.

(Code No. 15.091)

The following recommendation of Public Utilities Committee was taken up:

Resolution No. 3672, as follows:

Whereas, much of the street surface adjacent to the tracks of the Market Street Railway Company is in a deplorable state of disrepair; and

Whereas, this condition constitutes a hazard and a menace to the safety and comfort of pedestrians as well as automobilists in the City and County of San Francisco; and

Whereas, officials of the City and County of San Francisco have repeatedly importuned the Market Street Railway Company to comply with the plain provision of its franchises and operating permit which requires the Company to pave and keep in good condition the street area between and for a distance of two feet outside its rails and tracks, to the satisfaction of the Department of Public Works; and

Whereas, the Market Street Railway Company has failed and neglected to comply with said provision of its franchises and operating permit; and

Whereas, no assurance has been forthcoming from the Market Street Railway Company that it will endeavor to properly fulfill its obligations; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board of Supervisors does hereby authorize and instruct its Clerk to communicate with the Market Street Railway Company, calling attention to its laxity in this respect and requesting the Company to inform this Board, within fifteen days thereafter, of its position and attitude in this matter and what it proposes to do by way of complying in this regard with its obligations under its franchises and operating permit; and be it Further Resolved, That unless within the aforementioned period of time, this Board of Supervisors receives definite assurance from the Market Street Railway Company to the effect that it will immediately embark upon a comprehensive program of street repair and reconstruction, as required by its franchises and operating permit, which program shall be satisfactory to the Department of Public Works and this Board and convinces them of an earnest desire on the part of the Company to properly and expeditiously fulfill its obligations, then and in that event the City Attorney shall be authorized and instructed to immediately institute such proceedings as are necessary to compel the Market Street Railway Company to perform the paving and reconstruction work required to be done by the Company under its franchises and operating permit.

Privilege of the Floor.

Mr. Newton, representing the Market Street Railway Company, read letter of Samuel Kahn, president of the company, as to the money spent last year under the obligation of the company to repair pavement between tracks of its railway system in the sum of over $600,000, which amount is disputed by the Department of Public Works.

Supervisor Brown moved reference of the matter to the Department of Public Works, with request that it be ascertained whether or not the program indicated is satisfactory.

Supervisor Mead agreed to reference to Public Utilities Committee, provided a signed agreement from President Samuel Kahn is presented to the Board of Supervisors at next meeting, guaranteeing work as set forth by Mr. Newton.

Referred.

Whereupon, the foregoing resolution was referred to the Public Utilities Committee by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Brown, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Shannon—6.

No—Supervisor McSheehy—1.

Absent—Supervisors Colman, Ratto, Reilly, Uhl—4.

Adopted.

The following recommendations of the Public Utilities Committee were taken up:

Memorializing Congress to Pass Dingel Bill, Permitting Federal Assistance for Municipal Airports.

Resolution No. 3728, as follows:

Whereas, there is now pending in the Congress of the United States, H. R. No. 6972, known as the Dingel Bill, which would permit the Federal Government to appropriate moneys to assist cities in the development and maintenance of their airports; and

Whereas, it is becoming widely recognized that because much air transportation is interstate, this industry holds a position analogous to interstate rail, steamship and highway transportation and should therefore be given cognizance by the Federal Government as an object of interstate and national character and one properly entitled to monetary assistance; and

be so constructed and provided with such facilities as would make them available for use by the Government's aviation forces, and this is particularly true of airports situate at vital or strategic points; and

Whereas, the City and County of San Francisco is developing what will ultimately be one of the finest airports in the country, for land, sea and amphibian planes, to serve the United States Coast Guard and the leading air lines of the nation, a project certainly not of purely local concern, but rather, of national and interstate importance; and

Whereas, because in the event of armed conflict, the probability of the Federal Government commandeering the San Francisco Airport is so likely as to justify governmental participation in its development and maintenance, through financial contribution; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco does hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States and does urge the passage of H. R. No. 6972, known as the Dingel Bill, to permit of Federal assistance to cities in the development and maintenance of their airports; and be it

Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the California delegation in the House of Representatives; to Senators Hiram W. Johnson and William G. McAdoo, as well as to Vice-President John N. Garner and President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Arnold, et al., to certain property including a sub-surface easement for a portion of the Foothill Tunnel of the Hetch Hetchy Aqueduct in Tuolumne County, California; and

Whereas, said deed provides that under certain conditions, if the natural flow of water in any springs on the land of the grantors shall disappear or diminish, the City shall furnish to the grantors a continuous supply of water sufficient for the present domestic, irrigation and stock watering requirements of the grantors; and

Whereas, said deed provides a time limit for the ascertainment of the amount of any damage which may be caused by the disappearance or diminution of the natural flow of water in said springs; and

Whereas, said time limit was extended to October 1, 1936, by Resolution No. 2343, of this Board, adopted January 13, 1936; and

Whereas, said Martha A. Arnold, et al., have requested the Director of Property to further extend said time limit to October 1, 1938, and the Public Utilities Commission has recommended the further extension of said time limit; now, therefore, be it Resolved, That the Mayor and the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors are hereby authorized and directed to execute on behalf of the City and County of San Francisco, a written agreement with Martha A. Arnold, et al., extending said time limit of said deed to and until October 1, 1938, subject to all conditions contained in said deed, except as expressly modified in said agreement.

Mayor to Appoint Committee of Three to Recommend Best Method of Giving Transportation to the People of San Francisco.

(Code No. 15.094)

Supervisor McSheehy presented:

Resolution No. 3738, as follows:

Whereas, transportation is the most important problem confronting this Board of Supervisors and the people of San Francisco; and

Whereas, if some immediate steps are not taken to alleviate the chaotic traffic condition now obtaining on the streets of San Francisco many residents of our City will move across the Bay or down the Peninsula; and

Whereas, a number of suggestions have been made as to how this problem could be solved, among which was a bond issue of $49,250,000 submitted to the people last November, which measure being defeated by a large majority, showed that this suggestion was extremely unpopular; and

Whereas, the Charter governing this City and County places the responsibility of giving transportation to the people of San Francisco in the hands of the Mayor, the City Attorney, and the Board of Supervisors; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor appoint a Committee of Three, consisting of the following:

Whereas, said additional service has brought in more revenue and given comfort to passengers who ride these cars, besides providing employment for approximately eighty men at decent wages; and

Whereas, Mr. Cahill, prior to leaving San Francisco, issued an order directing Manager Boeken to discontinue this increased service on Monday, January 10, 1938. Said service amounting to seventeen eight-hour runs and, thereby, throwing thirty-four men back on the extra list and causing a decrease in their purchasing power; and

Whereas, the Street Car Men's Union, Division 518, does hereby condemn such action as being arbitrary and unnecessary in view of the fact that the receipts of the Municipal Railway are still higher than a like period of 1936; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors request his Honor the Mayor to ask the Public Utilities Commission to revoke the order of cutting service on the Municipal Railway until the return to San Francisco of the Manager of the Public Utilities Commission.

In Memoriam—Dr. Emmett Rixford.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: With your permission, Mr. Chairman, I would like to bring it up at this time and call to the attention of the Board and citizens of San Francisco the passing of one of the truly great men of our City, in the person of Doctor Emmett Rixford.

Unfortunately not every one could know Doctor Rixford as those close to him personally and in the medical profession did. It happens that he was a man who was not only a leader in his chosen profession of surgery, but in many other fields of activity. He was a scientist; he was an horticulturalist, and a research scholar of the first rank, and I dare say that Doctor Rixford did more than any other man in recent years to put San Francisco on the surgical map. He was not only known in San Francisco, but he was known throughout the entire surgical world, and as a result all parts of the world knew San Francisco. He was a man with truly a colossal mind, a man who was original in many lines of his work, one of the discoverers of the now famous San Joaquin disease, in which he did most of the original research work.

There is a lasting monument that he has established in being truly the founder of the Lane Medical Library, and to give you some idea of the monumental work that was and the credit that it is to San Francisco way out here in the West, we have the distinction of having the fourth largest medical library in the country, it happens that the largest in the world is the Surgeon General's Medical Library in Washington. Outside the library of the Surgeon General at Washington, the Stanford University Library—the Lane Library—ranks as third, which is truly a distinction, and it has done a great deal towards making San Francisco a medical center, and through that Doctor Rixford's name will live. He was truly a scholar and a deep research student and one of the cleverest surgeons San Francisco ever developed, and he was, strictly speaking, a San Francisco product. So I would like to move at this time that when this Board adjourns, that it do so out of respect to the memory of Doctor Rixford, and that a suitable letter be sent to the members of his family so notifying them.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Second the motion.
Motion adopted unanimously by rising vote.

Rezoning Southwest Corner of Bacon Street and Bay Shore Boulevard.

Appeal from decision of City Planning Commission by its Resolution No. 1718, dated December 2, 1937, granting application to rezone property located at the southwest corner of Bacon street and Bay Shore boulevard, from Second Residential District to Commercial District.

Privilege of the Floor.

Ray Williamson, representing appellant and property owners within the 300-foot area, opposed the decision of the City Planning Commission, rezoning property at the southwest corner of Bay Shore boulevard and Bacon street from second residential to commercial on the ground that the Commission had not a basis in public necessity and convenience for such a change.

Allison E. Schofield, attorney representing the applicant, was heard in support of the decision of the Commission. He contended that all those objecting were directly or indirectly related to the owner of an oil station in the immediate vicinity whose only interest, it was alleged, was to prevent competition of another service station.

Refused Adoption.

Whereupon, the following resolution was presented and refused adoption by the following vote:

Annual Message from Mayor.

The following was presented and referred to President for distribution to various Committees of the Board:

Letter of the Mayor*MAYOR'S OFFICE

San Francisco

January 11, 1938.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors, City Hall, San Francisco.

Gentlemen: Once again it becomes my pleasure, as provided in Section 25 of the Charter of the City and County of San Francisco, to render to you my annual report of municipal affairs, to comment and make suggestions for the future.

Herein I touch upon many of the problems of city government and draw your attention to more detailed analysis of the various departments and activities in the annual message which accompanies this letter.

We have passed through a difficult year but have emerged from it with our financial standing still among the highest in the country. With the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition in the offing, I look for a stimulated business throughout 1938.

However, there are two major problems before us which we must face resolutely. They are the maintenance of adequate and proper relief for those unable to work as well as the maintenance and proper care of our indigent poor, blind and sick.

The care and welfare of our own people is and must continue to be our first and main consideration.

The second great problem before us is that of auto traffic and transportation. If we are to continue a great metropolis; if we are to continue our steady growth; if we are to continue to attract and maintain our population, then a solution to this problem which is agitating every large city in the country, must be found.

There is no question in my mind that this solution rests upon a common desire of all districts throughout the city to find a common ground for that solution having for its objective the common good of the entire city.

Few will disagree that today it is a great mistake to continue to maintain a railway right-of-way on the main street of this metropolis, Market street.

Four tracks on Market street have proved a deterrent to auto traffic and to transportation both. Removal of at least two are essential and the four as soon as practicable.

Unification Again Urged

Substitution of a subway out Market street, which would virtually mean the construction of a new street, would benefit everyone in San Francisco and make of Market street one of the finest and most picturesque thoroughfares in the world. Michigan boulevard in Chicago or Fifth avenue and Park avenue in New York are examples of what wonderful boulevards can be made when unhampered by surface trolleys.

Removal of the four tracks would eventually lead to a unified transportation system for the city. In my annual message of last year I said:

"... it is essential that we enter into negotiations with the privately owned street car systems of San Francisco, toward bringing them into a single unified system of mass transportation, under municipal operation, which will insure the universal transfer privilege to our people."

I still believe it essential to enter into such negotiations—and as soon as possible.

Due to the vote of the people in November, 1930, many of the franchises of privately owned companies were extended and the majority now have 17 years to run. Meantime, no extensions of service are being offered the public by these companies. The citizens of San Francisco cannot wait for the expiration of franchises before agreeing upon the most essentially needed improvements in our transportation system.

A solution is needed and needed NOW. I do not propose to set myself up as an expert on just what is the proper method of solving this pressing problem but I do suggest and urge that a comprehensive plan which will serve all the people be worked out by engineers who are expert in this line and have accurate knowledge of the needs of this city.

Remove Bridge Tolls.

Another of our transportation problems is caused by the hindrance of free traffic by the tolls charged on the Bay bridges. These bridges are in fact main arterial highways for the State system, and every effort should be made to find a solution to reduce the tolls to a minimum and entirely to eliminate them at the earliest possible date.

It is indicated that if the bridge to Oakland were a free bridge, it would be impossible at times to carry the traffic that is asking for free admission into San Francisco.

One only needs to look at the heavy traffic to and fro on the Peninsula where the roads are free to know that this is correct.

Large amounts of money have been allocated by the State Highway Commission for luxury highways.

The bridge is permitted by law to receive money from the State Highway Commission, and one can visualize the difference in traffic that would flow over the Bay Bridge if toll free in comparison to the traffic that now goes over any of these luxury highways.

Each year an allocation should be made from the apportionment of highway funds in Northern California to meet the sinking fund requirements on the bridge for that year and so open the bridge to the public at a nominal charge or preferably none at all. This would better serve the needs of more than half of the population of Northern California than spending an equivalent sum of money on the construction of new roads or reconstruction of old. Unquestionably this road would provide the heaviest traffic of any in Northern California.

Rearrangement of auto traffic must depend upon rearrangement of street car traffic. The two are closely related.

While we are seeking an answer to the one, I urge a close study of the other and during it, a more rigid enforcement of present vehicular rules, particularly as to double parking and illegal parking, which blocks the easy flow of traffic, so that the entire movement of automobiles may be intensified.

I further demand such strict adherence to present laws to the end that the terrific toll of life and limb now being taken by automobiles may be materially reduced and the general welfare of both autoists and pedestrians be more fully insured.

None Shall Go Hungry.

Reverting to the first major problem—the welfare and care of our unfortunates—I insist that none should go hungry in this city and that as many as is humanly possible who desire to work should have jobs.

This problem of public welfare is a national one, indeed so much so that a special committee of the United States Senate is investigating it. The recently conducted unemployment census shows that the solution of this problem has not yet been reached. No single municipality can solve it alone. At the present time in this metropolis work relief from the Works Progress Administration is given to approximately 14,000 cases; unemployment relief, under the jurisdiction of the State, being given to more than 8500 cases, and the city, caring for the unemployable group, gives relief to 3200 cases.

May I pause at this time to express not only my own, but I am sure the thanks of every member of the Board of Supervisors to the Federal and State governments for their splendid assistance here and throughout the country in caring for those in need.

Nor can I permit this opportunity to pass without congratulating the newly created Public Welfare Commission and Public Welfare Department, created during 1937, on the splendid work they have done locally.

The magnitude of the public welfare problem need not be emphasized. San Francisco stands ready to continue to the utmost of its ability, its care of the needy. Continuation of Federal and State participation is absolutely essential.

Closely linked with the care of the unfortunate is the housing problem. I recently communicated with Governor Frank F. Merriam urging that a special session of the Legislature consider the United States Housing Act of 1937 (Wagner-Steagall Act) with a view to passing an enabling act which would permit this State to enjoy its benefits.

Housing Act Favored.

The United States Housing Act makes it possible to obtain Federal assistance for this purpose, provided a qualified local housing authority is established. While San Francisco does not have slums, nevertheless there are areas of sub-standard housing in the city which clearly fall within the definition of slums as contained in the United States Housing Act. There are considerable numbers of families of low income in the city who cannot afford to pay enough rent either to secure decent housing or to make it profitable for private enterprise to provide it.

Because of these two facts I urge that this city undertake an intelligent, long-range program, properly related to other factors of city planning and city development, to eliminate slum dwellings and rehabilitate areas of sub-standard housing, and to provide decent dwelling accommodations for low income families who can secure them in no other way than by a public housing program.

The system of Federal loans and annual contributions provided for under the act makes it possible for a local housing authority to conduct such a program at no cost to the taxpayers, except for the initial administrative expenses of the authority and the cost of preliminary surveys. The program is not centralized in Washington, but is a matter of local responsibility, with the Federal government providing financial assistance.

The broad social benefits of such a program are too well understood to require repetition. In addition, the high municipal costs in areas of sub-standard housing, by reason of greater fire hazard and higher rates of crime, delinquency and disease, can be materially reduced by the elimination of sub-standard dwellings and the provision of decent housing.

These benefits are being secured by cities in thirty states which already have adopted laws enabling the establishment of local housing authorities. California is not one of these states and is thus excluded from the program until the enabling legislation is adopted.

I strongly urge a special session of the Legislature in the near future so that legislation may be passed permitting California to share in the act's benefits. San Francisco can then establish a housing authority and formulate an intelligent housing program under the terms of the Wagner-Steagall Act.

Exposition Aid Pledged.

Now to a subject near and dear to the hearts of every San Franciscan. We are about to hold another great exposition and the memories of the 1915 Exposition still linger with many of us.

During 1937 the Golden Gate International Exposition has fulfilled many promises and has progressed to a midway point in preparation that assures a comprehensive "Pageant of the Pacific" next year—a lodestar that will draw millions of eager visitors to San Francisco.

Active support of the entire city administration, collectively and individually, has been a great factor in the now-assured success of America's official World's Fair of the West. More than 2000 citizens are now at work on Exposition projects, direct and indirect, and it is reliably estimated that the World's Fair activities will reach $50,000,000 in scope and will provide a total of 5000 man-years of employment.

The Public Utilities Commission has been particularly close to the scene of progress, being involved in the letting of major contracts and the supervision of construction of approximately $8,000,000 in building construction well under way on Treasure Island. December figures showed the structural contracts on the two hangar buildings to be 100 per cent completed; the Air Terminal building, 86 per cent completed; the six major Exposition exhibit halls, 98 per cent completed; and other items too numerous to detail, ranging from seven to 99 per cent finished.

Construction in general is reported as six weeks in advance of schedule, and other phases are equally advanced. The active, friendly co-sponsorship of the eleven Western States has been enlisted, and their efforts, with those of the transportation people and the Exposition itself, means a $3,000,000 program of travel promotion that should bring about the greatest westward tourist movement in history in 1939.

The State of California, in appropriating $5,000,000 to tell the story of the Golden State, set the pace for a State program that will probably include every State in the Union. Exactly half of them already have enacted appropriations or appointed commissions to plan their participation.

When the Federal government appropriated $1,500,000 it led the way toward a governmental program that already includes assured participation of Japan, Guatemala, Peru, Egypt, Italy, Nicaragua, El Salvador, Cuba, Honduras, Costa Rica, the Netherlands East Indies, Mexico, Ecuador, Santo Domingo, French-Indo-China, and British Columbia; territorial participation is also assured from Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and the Philippine Commonwealth.

This World's Fair will have the international flavor essential to success.

Improve City's Appearance.

Industrial exhibitors now number more than 40, many of them the ranking leaders in their respective fields.

I bespeak for this Exposition the most active support of every official and every citizen. San Francisco can and will show the world the way in Expositions.

Let's all put our shoulders to the wheel in this great enterprise that cannot help but result in splendid and lasting advertising for this city.

To prepare for this major event, we must clean up and beautify our city. We must be spick and span when our hundreds of thousands of guests arrive.

Not only must all city-owned property, consisting of streets, buildings, parks and squares, be in first-class condition, but with the generous cooperation of our citizens, this campaign must extend to the general improvement of the appearance of the entire city, with special attention to the reconditioning of building fronts and residences. A part of this program, already under way, provides for the planting of trees and shrubs along the streets and the general tidying of vacant property.

In this undertaking, due thought is being given to the improvement of all our recreational grounds and the facilities for outdoor play.

It is believed that by the time the Exposition opens its gates, the City will have completed most of this work and will be able to show itself at its best.

To the Citizens' Committee who are forwarding this enterprise, and the civic and other associations who are so ably and unselfishly assisting, my thanks are tendered most sincerely.

Broadcasts Aid City.

And may I also take this opportunity before turning from the Exposition and city beautification to thank those advertisers who are so generously helping spread the news of the Exposition to all corners of the earth and to the local radio stations also.

Officials of the radio stations have been more than kind to this city. Not only has N. B. C. donated a weekly broadcast to affairs of municipal government—sent out directly from the office of the Mayor—but all stations have done their utmost to promote the well-being of San Francisco.

To these I offer my heartfelt thanks. That their efforts bear fruit is proved beyond doubt by the hundreds of letters I have received in the past two weeks as a result of the recent Christmas carol broadcast. These letters come from all sections of the United States and express a warmth of feeling for San Francisco.

However, while addressing you so optimistically regarding the affairs of our City, I must again draw attention to a deficiency in our structure. I refer to harbor control.

In my last year's message to your Honorable Board I said in this regard:

"San Francisco's harbor has been at a disadvantage in competing with other harbors in California and along the Pacific Coast, because all these major ports have been locally administered. San Francisco's harbor has been under the control of a State Board, not necessarily responsive to local requirements. This condition remains an intolerable one for the people of San Francisco."

Again I urge upon your Honorable Board an active and definite program to gain for San Francisco that which is enjoyed by all other California ports.

Campaign for Harbor.

I urge a working campaign—a concerted drive upon our legislators in Sacramento to the end that this injustice may be speedily remedied. Last year's experience would indicate that little success may be hoped for unless adequate funds are provided for the campaign. San Francisco's harbor properties are valued conservatively at fifty million dollars. We should not begrudge an adequate fund to conduct a successful campaign.

Recent legal activities make the matter of the distribution of our hydro-electric power one which should receive the most careful consideration, not only by the Public Utilities Commission but also by the Board of Supervisors. The Federal Government, acting through the Secretary of the Interior, has instituted litigation in the District Court of the United States to restrain the City from continuing to distribute its power through the agency of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

The case, in the very able hands of City Attorney John J. O'Toole, has been tried and is now awaiting argument before Judge Michael J. Roche. While I am not anticipating a decision against the City, we should be prepared for any eventuality which may arise, for the reason that should the City be restrained from distributing its power as it is now doing, it must be ready to adopt a plan for municipal distribution or forego an approximate revenue of two million dollars annually.

This reduction in revenue will mean an increase in the tax rate of at least 25 cents on each one hundred dollars of the assessment.

I therefore recommend to both the Board of Supervisors and to the Public Utilities Commission that the matter of the distribution of our hydro-electric power directly by the City should not be overlooked, but that tentative plans should be worked out which will provide a method for its distribution which may be promptly submitted to the people should the occasion demand.

In conclusion, I cannot permit this opportunity to escape without thanking the Honorable Board of Supervisors for their cooperation during the past year and without wishing them a happy and prosperous New Year.

To the press of San Francisco, my appreciation of their permanent policy aimed to advance this beloved city.

Nor can I permit this opportunity to pass without deepest thanks not only to heads of Departments, Commissions and Boards in my administration for their valuable assistance in meeting the problems of local government, but to men and women constituting the faithful workers in municipal government. I cannot help but boast that the municipal employees of San Francisco stand second to none in the United States in efficiency and ability.

Yours sincerely,

ANGELO J. ROSSI,
Mayor.

Mayor's Annual Message.

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR, SAN FRANCISCO

January 11, 1938.

The Honorable the Board of Supervisors, San Francisco, California.

Gentlemen: My message as required by the Charter follows:

Controller.

With the death of Leonard Sumner Leavy, the first Controller of San Francisco, on June 11, 1937, the citizens lost a far-sighted, able executive and those of us who are employed by the citizens lost a sincere friend.

My appointment of Harold J. Boyd as Mr. Leavy's successor was approved by the Board of Supervisors on June 17th. The responsibilities of the Controller are manifold and Mr. Leavy's eminent performance of his duties places on his successor an added burden. The principles which Mr. Leavy laid down, the rules established, the policies formulated, provide the road which Mr. Boyd has pledged himself to follow.

In the task which is his, I am confident all officials and employees will continue in the coming year, as they have in the past six months, to render every possible co-operation.

The following information from the reports of Controller Boyd indicates that a sound general financial condition exists in San Francisco, and that its fiscal affairs continue to show marked improvement.

The peak of tax delinquency, which amounted to 5.37 per cent, was reached in 1933, while the tax delinquency for the year ended June 30, 1937, was only 1.45 per cent. The delinquency on the first installment of the current year's taxes, which were paid as of December 5th last, amounted to 2.79 per cent as compared with 2.83 per cent for the same period of the preceding fiscal year.

The Cash Reserve Fund of the City has grown to reach a total of $2,859,227.

The buyers of City and County bonds and tax notes have expressed their confidence in San Francisco's financial soundness in effective interest rates on securities sold during the year. Tax notes were sold for as low an interest rate as 15/100 of 1 per cent, and bonds were sold for as low an effective interest rate as 2.47 per cent. The average effective rate on bonds for the entire year was 2.68 per cent.

San Francisco's requirements from taxation for bond interest and redemption have decreased from the peak burden of 96.9 cents in the tax rate of 1934-1935 to 90.9 cents for the current period.

The tax requirements have decreased from the peak amount of $33,177,550 in 1930-31 to $31,795,936 for the current year, despite extraordinary added expenditures for relief, hospitalization, needy, aged, blind, widows' pensions, etc., which increase amounts to approximately $3,750,000 over the year 1930-31.

Radio Broadcasts.

Since 1932, I have sent broadcasts from the Mayor's office weekly, concerning the actual functioning of the several departments of the municipality. These broadcasts, provided through the courtesy of the National Broadcasting Company, reach a constantly increasing audience of students interested in the operation of municipal government.

As many commendatory letters and messages attest, these weekly talks are also arousing extended interest among our citizens and taxpayers, as well as those of neighboring municipalities.

San Francisco was the first ranking American city to undertake such a plan for reaching and teaching the populace as to such matters. I wish again to tender due thanks to Mr. Don Gilman, vice-president of the National Broadcasting Company, for his constant and cordial co-operation, in making continuance of the broadcasts possible, and absolutely without cost to the City and County of San Francisco. To his most courteous staff and announcers, these thanks go also.

Beginning on Christmas Eve, 1934, by courtesy of the National Broadcasting Company, San Francisco's broadcast of Yuletide carols and hymns was made each year. That of last Christmas Eve brought to me a flood of telegrams and letters from all parts of the United States and Canada, many describing holiday scenes in remote places and thanking San Francisco for contributing the program. This annual courtesy of the National Broadcasting Company, receiving worldwide appreciation, is one which merits sincere thanks of all our people.

San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

On January 12, 1938, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge will have been in operation for fourteen months and will have had approximately 10,750,000 vehicles crossing the great span, carrying almost 25,000,000 persons between San Francisco and transbay points. Thus the big structure has justified the dreams and plans of San Franciscans for generations, and the $77,000,000 investment has unquestionably proven a success.

A breakdown of traffic figures as of December 1, 1937, showed that from November 12, 1936, 9,721,328 vehicles used the Bay Bridge. Of this number 9,247,521 were passenger automobiles. The daily average number of vehicles throughout the year approximated 25,600.

The total number of buses, as of December 1, was 92,410, with the number crossing the span into San Francisco increasing monthly. During the month of November, 1937, 10,090 buses had used the bridge. A total of 688,524,183 freight pounds were transported by 322,372 trucks and truck trailers over the great span in the first twelve and one-half months of its operation.

Other totals for the first twelve and one-half months are: Auto trailers, 16,660; motorcycles, 34,240; tri-cars, 8125; 2,036,598 extra passengers were transported across the bridge during that period.

A survey made by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce on the bridge's first anniversary on November 12, 1937, called attention to the powerful business stimulant provided by the millions of vehicles that crossed the structure since it opened. This survey emphasized an increase of by more than two-thirds in transbay travel since the opening of the span. The survey pointed out the increase in attendance, since the bridge opened, at sporting events, including football, baseball, and boxing, and indicated that the bridge was "one of the important causal factors behind the fact that real estate sales from January to September, 1937, increased 20 per cent in number and 31 per cent in value over the corresponding value of 1936."

By the end of 1938 it is expected that the electric interurban railway will be operating across the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, knitting the San Francisco Bay communities even closer together.

The $2,250,000 terminal on Mission, between First and Fremont streets, in San Francisco, is well under way, while massive redwood ties are already being placed on the bridge proper. Work is also rapidly progressing on the viaduct which will bring the trains from the bridge into the station. The terminal, located as it is, will take 50 per cent of the commuters from the East Bay to within walking distances of their places of employment.

Plans for the terminal call for trains to loop from the bridge into the 780-foot structure at elevation. Walking distance within the building has been cut to a minimum. Passengers taking streetcars need only pass from the trains on the upper level to a covered ramp on the mezzanine floor level, over which streetcars will loop at elevation into the station.

San Francisco can well anticipate a stimulation of business as a result of the improved transportation facilities provided by the electric railway, just as it enjoyed them last year because of the fine and speedy highway over the span itself.

Golden Gate Bridge.

The prediction, in my past message, that this magnificent structure would be ready for dedication in May, 1937, was realized. The Bridge was opened to traffic at noon, May 28th, with dazzling ceremonial.

Financed by bond issue, authorized by the taxpayers of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, comprising six counties, its cost was approximately $35,000,000. It is the longest and highest single span suspension bridge in existence, having a span of 4200 feet, 700 feet longer than its nearest rival, the George Washington Bridge, recently completed at New York City.

The record of traffic, May 27th to December 1st, 1937, shows the following statistics: Passenger autos, 2,030,482; trucks, 59,858; automobiles and trailers, 11,954; non-revenue traffic, 40,966. The total number of vehicles passing over the bridge was 2,166,759. Pedestrians, 363,159.

The total revenue amounted to $1,109,241. And the average toll per vehicle, $.5036. The averages per day: 11,618 vehicles; pedestrians, 1937.

Federal Projects.

Honorable W. Arthur Newman, District Engineer of the Procurement Division of the Treasury Department, gives me a most inspiring account of the status of Federal projects for the City and County of San Francisco.

The new Mint, anchored in solid rock facing Duboce avenue, was dedicated May 15th. This, the world's most modern and impregnable mint, has the following outstanding features: electric super-protection, silver storage vaults, tear-gas system, precipitator equipment for reclaiming metals, sound detectors, radio call signal system, electric melting furnaces, and shooting gallery. The cost, $1,199,055, to date. An appropriation of $220,000 has just been made for additional vault storage facilities.

A Federal allotment has been made of $2,000,000 for the new Parcels Post Building, to be erected near the Interurban Depot of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

For the new Appraisers' and Immigration Building, to adjoin the Custom House, an allotment of $4,250,000 has been made.

On a site awaiting selection, the San Francisco Quarantine Station will be constructed at a cost of $300,000. Work on plans for these projects is now going forward.

For remodeling and improvements to the San Francisco Post Office and Court House, $164,000 has been allocated. The work is now under contract.

The old Mint, at Fifth and Mission, will probably be sold during 1938.

Municipal Court.

For the period January 1st to November 15th, inclusive, the following is a concise report of the administration of the Municipal Court of the City and County of San Francisco:

In the twelve Municipal Courts, there were 11,040 civil actions; 5941 small claims—total, 16,981; and in the criminal department, 103,875 proceedings were filed.

Official and pauper actions filed in the civil department, 474. Small claims, 1978.

Receipts, $217,401.25. Expenditures, $188,110.76. Excess of receipts over expenditures, $29,290.49.

Public Defender.

The office handled 1163 cases in all courts; made 2201 appearances in the courts. In the Superior Court 476 cases were handled, which is approximately 40 per cent of all the cases handled in the criminal departments of the Superior Court. One hundred fifty-nine defendants represented by the Public Defender on felony charges entered pleas of guilty in the Municipal Court and were certified to the Superior Court, thereby saving much time to the courts and considerable expense to the City and County. The office also appeared for 24 persons on insanity hearings in the civil courts at the request of the judges presiding, although the Charter does not provide for this service. The courts justly feel that people without funds on insanity hearings should have representation so that it cannot be said that they were "railroaded". In addition to this service, although further not provided for in the Charter, advice was given to 3086 indigent persons seeking information on civil matters.

The office of the Public Defender is being conducted under a budget of $18,980.

Police Department.

The following is a resume of the activities and accomplishments of this Department during the calendar year 1937:

From facts secured in both a nationwide and local survey, a detailed "Summary of Survey and Report" of the San Francisco Police Department was made and submitted to the Mayor on January 9, 1937. This survey report proposed that all of its recommendations be made effective by February, 1938. Some of the recommendations required radical Charter provision changes, and consequently sections 35, 146, 148 and 172 of the Charter were materially amended. Thus, by an affirmative vote of the electors of San Francisco, the proposed reorganization of the San Francisco Police Department became an actual fact. To date the following recommendations have been put into effect without interfering in any way with the normal functioning of the Department:

1. Six new key posts, under the Chief of Police, created to improve the organizational structure of the Department, have been filled. These positions are: Deputy Chief of Police, Department Secretary, Supervising Captain of Districts, Director of Personnel, Director of Bureau of Criminal Information and Director of Bureau of Special Services.
2. A modern "show-up" room inside the City Prison was completed. Its location and equipment are ideal and it is doubtful whether there is a better "show-up" room in any Police Department in the nation.
3. With the abolition of the rank of Corporal in the Police Department, patrol sergeants were assigned to patrol cars for the purpose of improving patrol and fixed-post supervision. After several months of experiment, however, the Police Department did not find this system practical and has recently returned patrol sergeants to foot patrol in the downtown and most populous residential and business districts.

4. The bookkeeping system and handling of departmental accounts were completely reorganized. It is now possible instantly to arrive at an absolute financial statement showing the four individual groups comprising the grand total of the annual budget appropriation, thereby enabling the Department to budget its expenditures in strict accordance with the "one-twelfth rule" required under Charter provisions.

5. To enable the Bureau of Inspectors to check personally on visitors to persons charged with serious offenses, the duty of issuing visitors' permits to the City Prison was transferred from the Bureau of Records to the Bureau of Inspectors.

6. The establishment of a Bureau of Personnel permits an equitable distribution of police numerical strength in the various stations and bureaus, whose needs are determined through personal investigation rather than through extent of territory, population, precedent, etc., as heretofore. A system of transfer of commissioned and non-commissioned officers has also been inaugurated.

7. The personnel records of the Department were completely reorganized so that a detailed record of each member and employee of the Department is instantly available.

8. The Bureau of Criminal Information has, as its major unit, the Communications Bureau which was established in December of 1936. It includes also the Record Bureau, which contains a complete record of all warrants, both local and foreign, and maintains complete files on all crime and accident reports, complete statistical information on modus operandi and all information concerning crime that may be needed to compile criminal statistics. Certain functions of the Bureau of Inspectors—namely, the operation of local and state teletype systems, the indexing and filing of warrants, crime records and reports and the broadcasting of radio messages—were transferred to the Bureau of Criminal Information. The telephone exchange of the Department was removed from the Central Station to the Hall of Justice and the teletype and radio equipment were likewise transferred so that the three units are consolidated in the Communications Bureau. These changes were made under a W. P. A. project with Federal funds granted, amounting to $2,562. A "Monitor Board" of ten of the Department's trunk lines was established to facilitate the handling of emergency calls. A record is kept of radio cars in and out of service, their assignments and action taken. Bank and burglar alarms ring directly into the Communications Bureau, from whence radio cars are instantly dispatched. A central index of local teletype messages is also kept, thereby relieving various district police stations and bureaus of that routine.

9. The Bureau of Special Services was established to prevent crime and suppress commercialized vice. It investigates all complaints relating to gambling, prostitution, violations of narcotic laws, degeneracy, etc. The Big Brother Bureau, designed to reduce juvenile delinquency, is a unit of the Bureau of Special Services. During the past year over 765 boys were contacted by the Big Brother Bureau. A number of boys' athletic clubs have been organized under the direction of members of the Big Brother Bureau. The activities of this bureau have been extended to include transient boys who are a definite police problem, inasmuch as every one is a potential criminal. With the abandonment of the Potrero Police Station, the Police Department requested that the building be turned into a shelter for transient boys. The St. Vincent De Paul Society volunteered to operate such a shelter and the Mayor agreed to turn the old Potrero Station over to the society at a nominal rental. The St. Vincent De Paul Boys' Center was opened, as a result, on May 26, 1937, and up until November 30th had cared for 600 transient boys, most of whom were picked up by the police as delinquents or in the company of undesirable and sent to the Juvenile Detention Home and to the Center. Most of these boys were influenced to return to their homes; some were placed in employment and others helped to enlist in the Army, Navy, Marines or C. C. C. None of the boys transgressed the law while staying at the Center. The Police Big Brother Movement, started by the San Francisco Police Department, has spread until it is now a unit of the California State Peace Officers' Association, International Association of Chiefs of Police and the World Police Association.

10. Through the consolidation of certain police districts, the number of district stations has been decreased from fourteen to nine, thereby relieving for patrol duty a number of officers who had been on office duty taking in "ring-ins" from patrolling officers and doing other clerical work incidental to the operation of a station. The districts consolidated are as follows: Potrero with Southern, and known as Southern; North End with Ellis-Polk, and now known as Northern; Western Addition with Stanyan, and now known as Park; part of Golden Gate Park with Richmond, and known as Richmond; Bayview with Ingleside, and known as Ingleside; the rest of Golden Gate Park with Taraval, and known as Taraval.

11. Every Police District has been equipped with a full quota of radio cars, each of which rings in every hour to its station, in addition to being at all times within radio call from the Communications Bureau, thereby insuring a city-wide fleet of radio cars at all times, ready to act as a unit in the capture of fleeing criminals, etc.

12. The indexing of teletype messages and general orders to Company Commanders in the various district police stations has been discontinued and a master index is kept in the General Office at the Hall of Justice, thereby eliminating considerable clerical work at the stations.

13. A uniform system of recording overtime has been installed, all such records now being kept at Headquarters instead of at the respective police stations.

14. A bookkeeper has been employed in the police garage to carry out the newly installed uniform system of computing the cost and maintenance of all automotive equipment.

15. Through a system of "staggering" or overlapping the three watches into which the twenty-four hours are divided, there is at no time a complete turnover of the police force which would leave our citizens unprotected during a change of watch.

16. A Traffic Accident Division, designed to reduce traffic accidents through a study of accidents immediately after their occurrence and apply all possible corrective measures which are suggested through such study, has also been established.

17. A modern academy for recruits to the Department has recently been established. The ten most recently appointed officers are now in their third month of study and training at this school. The curriculum covers every phase of police duty, as well as instruction in first aid, water life-saving, military drill, etc.

18. In connection with the complete change in departmental form reports and record system, Hollerith Statistical Tabulating Equipment has been installed and is now operating in the record division of the Bureau of Criminal Information.

Despite these radical changes in the organization of our department, it has functioned smoothly and efficiently. San Francisco has maintained its reputation as being one of the safest cities in the United States for, according to figures released by the Federal Bureau of Criminal Identification at Washington, D. C., we are among the leaders in cities of 500,000 and over in keeping crime at a minimum.

In this class San Francisco is again in the first three for the minimum number of fatal traffic accidents, although our records show that we had more such accidents in 1936-37 than in the preceding year. We are also third nationally in cities of comparable size in the lowest gross total of traffic accidents for the fiscal year 1936-37.

With 3971 automobiles reported stolen in San Francisco in 1936-37, we show a total of 3926 recoveries, or 99.01 per cent. According to a report of the National Automobile Theft Bureau, San Francisco leads other metropolitan cities of the United States in the percentage of automobile recoveries.

Largely through the efforts of our 3000 School Traffic Patrol Boys not a single death to school-going children has occurred at the 550 school crossings during the past year.

The following statistics reflect in a general manner the immense volume of police activities during the fiscal year 1936-37: Missing persons located, 2494; lost children returned to parents, 409; insane persons cared for, 284; sick and injured taken to hospitals, 5999; fires attended, 4596; subpoenas served, 8002; letters received and answered, 18,310; radio messages broadcast to locate missing persons on account of deaths in families, etc., 5438; warrants of arrest handled, 10,201; convictions obtained, 21,956; prisoners brought to stations, 51,978; value of property recovered, $158,076.56; arrests made, 78,972.

We point with pride to the fact that during the past year San Francisco has been entirely free from the operations of organized criminals, and gangsterism is still unknown to our citizens. We did not have a single bank holdup or attempted bank holdup during the past year—a record which is probably unequaled by any metropolitan city of comparable size.

Despite the fact that during the past year San Francisco was host to approximately three million visitors, drawn here by conventions, the opening of the Golden Gate Bridge or as tourists to view the two great bridges, bunco-men did not operate here. It is worthy of note that during the past year our Department has been working on plans for the protection of the visitors who are expected here during the 1939 Exposition and an exchange has been established with other cities to the end that members of this Department can thoroughly acquaint themselves with the photographs, descriptions and modus operandi of criminals who have operated during such celebrations in other cities and who might attempt to operate here.

Fire Department.

The records of the San Francisco Fire Department show that during the last fiscal year it has responded to 8917 alarms of fire, against 8492 alarms of the previous year, or an increase of 425 alarms.

Throughout the year this department has functioned competently and smoothly, maintaining its usual high standard of efficiency, which has earned for it the reputation of being one of the finest and most effective fire-fighting organizations in existence.

This year has seen the completion of the extensions to the auxiliary high pressure water system and the underground fire cisterns installed from the 1933 Bond Issue, and these improvements add materially to the security from fire dangers of the districts which they cover, namely: the Potrero District, the Mission District, the South of Market District, the Clay Street Hill District, the North Beach District, the Marina and Golden Gate Valley District, the Hayes Valley District, the Park-Presidio District, the Sunset District, the Western Addition District, the Bay Bridge Approach and several sections of the Waterfront.

With these added facilities, I feel confident that the Fire Department will be well equipped to meet any possible emergency, and that it will continue to furnish adequate and satisfactory fire protection. Purchases of apparatus during 1937 have materially assisted in putting this department, mechanically, in step with any similar fire-fighting organization in the United States.

Civil Service Commission.

The Civil Service Commission completed during the past year 103 examinations. Under the present Charter all civil service eligible lists automatically expire after four years. Civil service emergency appointments may not continue beyond ninety days in any fiscal year. The number of classifications for which examinations must be held has been very much increased because of Charter provisions. The terms of the present Charter have therefore brought about a tremendous increase in the number of examinations required of the Civil Service Commission and while these provisions are sound and wise and have strengthened and vitalized the merit system principle, it is to be expected that the cost of examinations will increase.

The Commission has completed during the past year an extensive investigation of wages being paid in private employment and in other comparable governmental organizations in this state. These data have been analyzed and interpreted and the Civil Service Commission is holding hearings relating thereto, preliminary to formulating and submitting to the Board of Supervisors its recommendations for salary standardization schedules to be applied to approximately 8500 municipal employments, as provided under Section 151 of the Charter. These recommendations for standard salaries will be submitted to the Board of Supervisors during the early part of January and it is hoped the Supervisors will see fit to adopt salary standardization and put into effect the provisions of Section 151 of the Charter before the adoption of the budget for the coming fiscal year.

In addition to these activities, the Commission has continued to enforce strictly all provisions of the Charter governing civil service, in the belief that the fundamentals of the merit principle in public service are more deeply rooted in the San Francisco municipal service than ever before.

Board of Education.

To our citizens no single function of government is of greater interest—none touches our homes more vitally than our public school system.

During the fiscal year, ending June 30, 1937, we expended for education, including new buildings, bond interest and redemption, and, most important, salaries for instruction of pupils, the total sum of $12,625,770.40 to maintain, operate and improve our public school system. On the basis of enrollment more than 100,000 children from kindergarten through junior college age are taught in the public schools. Actual cost of operation of this branch of the government was $9,588,733; $4,626,585.46 of which was paid by the state government on the basis of average daily pupil attendance.

Our most pressing problem of public education today is to provide, at an early date, permanent quarters for the newly established San Francisco Junior College. An excellent site has already been located at Balboa Park, Ocean and Phelan avenues. The Board of Education has appropriated, awaiting plans and specifications for more than a year, a sum in excess of $600,000 for erection of the first unit of permanent junior college buildings. I am happy to report that the plans have been completed and within a few days a foundation contract will be awarded for the first building. Barring delays, junior college students will be housed in their permanent home at Balboa Park within the next year.

The campus of the new college was originally occupied as the county jail. After abandonment of the site by the sheriff's office, the land was placed at the disposal of the Recreation Commission without cost. This Commission now recognizes the urgency of the need for the Junior College and has transferred the land for use by the School Department to accommodate the college buildings and campus. Another section of the same site, comprising thirty acres, is under the jurisdiction of the Park Commission, which body has also recognized the needs of the new Junior College. It is hoped that transfers of this property to the Board of Education will be speedily executed.

The new Sunshine School for orthopedic children and those inclined toward ill health was opened in the Mission District in August, in a new two-story fireproof building of modern design. As will be recalled, construction of this building was recommended by the Superintendent of Public Schools, the Board of Education, the Director of Public Health, the County Medical Society and the Grand Jury. It is a source of satisfaction to note that this new type school building has been declared a vast improvement over the old Buena Vista Health and Sunshine Schools which occupied separate buildings in other locations.

Another recent development in public education was the opening of the Samuel Gompers Trades School at Twenty-second and Bartlett streets, replacing the old Agassiz School, a wooden building erected in 1892. The first unit of the trades school, a three-story reinforced concrete building, was opened for pupils in August, 1937. The trades school operates from noon each day through the evening hours and is intended to give supplementary instruction to apprentices already engaged in trades as well as to high school students who have shown a definite tendency toward proficiency in certain crafts or trades. Demand for instruction in the subjects offered has already exceeded the physical facilities of the Gompers Trades School. For the past three months instruction, approved by both employers and employees, is being given at other quarters in sheet metal working, painting and paper hanging, cabinet making and steam fitting. It is hoped, through this phase of education, to improve the technique of our young people and point the way for them to become proficient in recognized trades at an early age.

Reduction in the size of classes in elementary schools to a level suggested by Joseph P. Nourse, Superintendent of Public Schools, was authorized by the Board of Education during the past year. The cost of this operation was largely offset by a slight decline in the school population at the elementary level, a reflection in our schools of the national decline in birth rate.

Restoration of teachers' salaries to the 1930 level and the restoration of annual increments, excepting to those teachers already enjoying maximum salaries, has been in effect for the past two years. The cost of this service last year was $108,261.08. The Board of Education has recognized the rights of teachers to the annual increments, and all sides agree that these increments have now been restored to the 1930 level. The Board also recognizes that any attempt to increase salaries to new high levels must be undertaken with caution, having in mind the rights of all affected.

As part of the building program now in progress, the Board of Education has opened within the past three months fireproof auditorium additions to two new elementary schools, and plans the erection of two high school gymnasiums, one at Lowell High School and another for George Washington High School; an auditorium at Portola Junior High School, classroom additions to the Franklin Elementary School and an auditorium addition to the Francis Scott Key Elementary School. All are included in the present school building program. Together with the estimated cost of the first unit of the San Francisco Junior College, this program represents an investment of $1,160,175.10, for which $638,096.30 has already been appropriated in the current school department budget. On my recent trip to Washington, I interviewed federal authorities in the hope of receiving favorable action on San Francisco's application for a federal grant of $522,000, under the terms of an application filed more than a year ago. At the present time indications are that the federal appropriations will NOT be forthcoming within the immediate future. This means that the school building program must be carried over into the next fiscal year.

It was a source of satisfaction to me as Mayor to renominate to membership on the Board of Education, Honorable C. Harold Caulfield and Mrs. Edwin R. Sheldon, and to find that these choices were overwhelmingly confirmed by the voters at the recent November election. The past services of these commissioners of education is a guarantee that our public schools will be managed in a manner which will insure continued success.

Employees' Retirement System.

The Retirement System included 11,583 employees at June 30, 1937. During the fiscal year ending on that date 181 members were retired because of age or disability and 114 active members died. Many of the positions thus vacated were not filled. During 1936-37, 127 retired persons died, and on June 30, 1937, there were 1730 persons receiving allowances under the Retirement System, this number including aged and disabled members retired from the several departments and also retired firemen and policemen, and their widows, where death resulted while in performance of duty.

The administration of the State Compensation Insurance Law, as it affects all City employees, is centralized under the Retirement Board in accordance with the new Charter, instead of being handled by the various departments in which injured persons are employed. Reports of all injuries among approximately 11,750 employees are made to the Retirement Office and claims are adjusted and benefits paid in accordance with the State law and Charter, the City and County now acting as self-insurer in relation to all employees. During the fiscal year 1936-37, 940 compensation cases were handled, under which either weekly benefits or medical expenses were paid. Approximately 1522 additional cases were handled which were not of sufficient severity to qualify for compensation benefits of any kind. The investments of the Retirement Fund at June 30, 1937, totaled $19,643,000, as against $17,768,000 as of June 30, 1936.

Assessor.

The Assessor's efforts, in 1936, to gain a more equitable distribution of the tax burden as between real property and personal property resulted in an addition of $10,500,000 to the tax base.

Maintaining this policy in 1937 resulted in another increase of $5,000,000 in tangible personal property and $9,500,000 in intangible personalty. Present plans of the Assessor call for an active continuation of this policy; deputies are in the field now making preliminary surveys of the personal property of apartment houses and businesses as a basis for the 1938 assessment roll.

To prevent any over-emphasis in the assessment of personal property and to maintain an equitable distribution of the tax burden, the Assessor has now employed Civil Service Land Appraisers and Building Appraisers from lists recently made available by the cooperation of the Civil Service Commission. These deputies are now actively engaged in making a thorough inspection of real property, using as a guide the newly designed building valuation and land valuation cards, to show a complete picture of the condition of these properties.

Improvement in procedure and service to the 250,000 people who visit the Assessor's Office annually, started on its way by improved working conditions and equipment, has been continued. The recently created Department of Public Service and Information has been of vital assistance to the tax-paying public.

Sheriff.

The report of Daniel C. Murphy, Sheriff of the City and County of San Francisco, for the calendar year 1937, to December 1st, indicates the following activities:

Total amount received, $351,119.98. Process and papers filed and received, 20,121; personal property sales consummated, 112; amount, $113,157.68; writs of possession received or filed, 271; possession to plaintiff, 223; unexecuted, 48; forcible evictions, 31.

Average monthly population of County Jails, numbers 1, 2, 3 and 4, was 683.4. Federal prisoners received, male, 313; female, 22; daily average, 53. Amount received for maintenance and sustenance, fiscal year ended June 30, 1937, $15,012.

There were transported from the Detention Hospital to various State institutions, 872 male and 461 female patients. From County Jails, 119 male and 4 female prisoners were taken to State penitentiaries and other correctional institutions. While the Sheriff, under State law, is permitted to retain surplus moneys received from such sources, the Sheriff believes they should be used for the benefit of the taxpayers; therefore, as was the case last year, he has deposited them with the Treasurer, in the amount of $6,293.82.

Profits from articles sold for the convenience of prisoners in the County Jail Stores amounted to $5,253.38, which was deposited with the Treasurer, as provided in Ordinance No. 7061, Bill No. 860.

Public Utilities Commission.

San Francisco's municipal utilities added to their record of improvement of service and profitable operation during the past year. I refer briefly in the following paragraphs to the operations of individual utilities during 1937:

Municipal Railway

The Municipal Railway has completed its twenty-fifth year of operation and has continued to render the best service possible to patrons and residents of San Francisco.

Revenues have continued to increase. Operating revenue for the year 1937 amounted to $3,286,000, an increase of about $147,000, or approximately 4.7 per cent over the preceding year. Partially, this increase is due to the fact that the larger of the two competing privately-owned street car companies in San Francisco was granted a 2c transfer charge on July 6, 1937, which resulted in increased patronage of the Municipal Railway lines. This healthful increase in street car riding for the fourth successive year is gratifying. Although service has had to be added to keep pace with the increase in travel, and the cost of wage concessions, etc., further increased operating costs, a net income for the year 1937 amounting to $200,000 is found, as against the net income of $165,000 for the year 1936.

The increase in patronage of the Municipal Railway during the past year resulted in serious overcrowding of street cars. Following its policy of placing profits back into the system in the form of increased service, the Public Utilities Commission added 151 extra car trips daily to the various municipal lines starting in September and October. All available street cars owned by the Municipal Railway are now in operation during peak hours of travel.

Ordinance No. 4.0521, which provides for sick leaves with pay for employees, required an expenditure of $19,000 by the Municipal Railway for the six months' period, July to December, 1937.

Track, roadway and equipment have been maintained in excellent condition, the sum of $342,000 being expended for this purpose.

Fifty-six car bodies and nine buses and service trucks were overhauled and painted, 325 Thermit weld rail joints were installed, 850 lineal feet of single track were reconstructed, 80,000 square feet of asphalt paving were renewed and 37,800 square feet of concrete paving base were placed.

Capital expenditures and replacements amounted to $170,000. This sum includes $23,000 for the railway's proportion of cost of the line "L" extension from Forty-sixth avenue and Taraval street to a terminal on Wawona street, near Fleishhacker Playfield, a total of .90 of a mile of single track; $17,400 for resetting trolley poles on Van Ness avenue, Market street to North Point street; $46,000 for reconstruction of Market street, Geary street to Sutter street; $5,000 for track reconstruction on Market street, Fremont street to Embarcadero, and $13,800 for miscellaneous track and equipment replacements.

Six new modern buses were purchased at a cost of $60,000 to replace obsolete equipment and improve service. One old tower truck was replaced by a new tower truck at a cost of $4,800.

Rail operation on the Bay Bridge is scheduled to be inaugurated in November, 1938, and it is of vital importance to the residents of San Francisco that they be furnished with improved transportation facilities.

On December 1st the sum of $100,000 in bonds of the railway was retired from earnings so that there now remains an indebtedness of only $1,500,000 against the Municipal Railway properties, which are conservatively valued at $10,000,000.

Over 84,400,000 passengers were carried during the year, an increase of over 4,000,000 passengers over the previous year. Street cars and buses traveled a distance of 9,000,000 miles. Car service has been increased; a total of 23,000 car hours over the preceding year was operated.

Water Rates

I desire to call the particular attention of the citizens of San Francisco to the fact that four reductions in water rates have been accomplished during less than eight years of municipal ownership of our water system.

The latest reduction, effective January 1, 1938, will go far toward making San Francisco attractive to new payroll industries and at the same time will retain for us existing industrial and commercial consumers who may have otherwise been attracted elsewhere by lower water rates.

We feel certain that increased sales of water and increased revenue resulting from these new rates will make further rate reductions possible in the near future.

The San Francisco Water Department's record is highly significant in view of the history of repeated rate increases under private ownership of the system prior to 1930.

With surplus available, it is good business for San Francisco to obtain additional water revenue by sales to outside communities so that this revenue may be applied to reduce the cost of water for our own citizens.

Water Department

As the San Francisco Water Department approaches the close of its eighth year under City ownership, it presents a very substantial record of achievement. Progress has been made in service rendered, both as to quantity and quality of water supplied. Although rates have been lowered four times, a very sound financial status has been maintained.

These four water rate reductions within less than eight years of municipal operation contrast with operation of the water system during the prior decade by a private company. Under private ownership San Francisco water rates were raised in 1918 and again in 1921.

The four reductions in water rates ordered since March, 1930, when the City acquired the water system are:

Effective October 26, 1932, rates were materially reduced for fire sprinkler services. Before this time charges for standby service of this character had ranged from $9 to $24 per month. Under the new rates the charge is $3 per month. This reduction is designed to improve fire protection and to stimulate the installation of private automatic fire protection systems.

On December 1, 1934, all water rates were reduced 10 per cent. This reduction included equal lowering of the service charge from 78c to 70c per month in the case of residential consumers. Consumers have saved approximately $1,800,000 through this reduction.

Effective January 1, 1937, special "Inducement Rates" were placed in effect to increase sales of water in San Francisco and to peninsula communities. This reduction was also because of surplus waters available from the Hetch Hetchy project.

Effective January 1, 1938, industrial and commercial rates were further reduced. Under these new rates more than six hundred large payroll industries in San Francisco will be able to obtain water at a saving of approximately 50 per cent below rates formerly charged.

Total savings to consumers through these several rate reductions amount to more than $2,000,000. The new water rates just made effective undoubtedly will further stimulate the sale of water, particularly to San Mateo and Santa Clara County communities. This will bring additional revenue to the Water Department, which, in turn, will make possible further material rate reductions to San Francisco consumers.

Water consumption for this year has averaged 59.2 million gallons daily, which is a gain of .8 of a million gallons daily over the preceding year and is an all-time peak consumption.

Water sales for the first ten months of the year amounted to $5,818,095, with net profit from operations of $2,755,908 as compared to $2,622,421 for the same period of last year.

The special rates in the higher usage brackets for new and increased usage, put into effect January 1, 1937, with the view of stimulating the sale of available surplus Hetch Hetchy water, have resulted in approximately $190,000 of increased revenue to the Department.

Construction of a pipe line is at present under way for the purpose of supplying water to the City of Palo Alto and other peninsula communities. The cost of this pipe line, which has been underwritten by the San Francisco Water Department, will be paid for by the consumers served, through a surcharge on the existing water rates.

Constant effort has been made to attract new business and to increase sales, and in line with this policy negotiations are now under way looking toward sale of water to the City of San Jose.

With the Hetch Hetchy sources to draw upon, it has been possible to maintain maximum storage in local peninsula and Alameda reservoirs. Storage in these reservoirs reached an all-time high of 59 billion gallons at the end of the last runoff season, and at the close of the year will approximate 40 billion gallons—the same as last year. Draft on the Hetch Hetchy system was greatly curtailed during the year due to abundant local runoff from the winter's rains. The total delivery to date from Hetch Hetchy sources now approximates 36 billion gallons, almost the equivalent of the present combined local storage.

Maintenance work has been carried on as usual, with a generally high state of efficiency resulting for all of the Department's properties. Construction work necessary to the betterment of service and to serve new consumers has been carried on with due consideration to economy of operation.

The $12,095,000 Public Works Administration project is rapidly nearing completion, with all contracts awarded and only two projects remaining to be finished. Aside from the Bond Issue Program, the most notable new project undertaken during the year was the construction of the pipe line to serve the City of Palo Alto and adjacent territory as above mentioned.

A resume of the financial results of City's operation of the Water Department from March 3, 1930, to November 1, 1937, shows gross income of $50,391,762, with operating expenses of $30,370,834. The net income of $20,020,928 was used for:

Contribution to General Fund.....	$6,740,603
Bond Redemption .....	7,515,094
Additions and Betterments .....	4,441,917
Contributions to Hetch Hetchy Project.....	1,314,432
Miscellaneous .....	9,882

Hetch Hetchy and Utility Construction

The enlargement of O'Shaughnessy Dam, raising the crest to a height of 312 feet above stream bed and 430 feet above the lowest point of the foundation, is completed, except for a portion of the work of grouting, which will be finished very early in 1938. The enlarged dam provides for a reservoir capacity of 117 billion gallons, an increase of 70 per cent over the former capacity, and will make it possible to operate Moccasin power plant at full capacity throughout the year.

At Moccasin and at Priest Reservoir nine cottages are being added to the existing housing for employees. At Tesla Portal, where the San Joaquin pipe line of the Hetch Hetchy Aqueduct connects to the Coast Range tunnel, a chlorinating plant was added to the system.

On the San Francisco peninsula, Crystal Springs pipe line No. 2, 60 inches in diameter, paralleling the 52-year-old 44-inch line No. 1, is completed. This provides for delivery of a much greater flow by gravity from Crystal Springs reservoir to University Mound reservoir for distribution to the downtown district and other relatively low-lying sections of the City.

Work has been commenced on construction of the Palo Alto pipe line, a 36-inch line 5½ miles long to extend from the Hetch Hetchy Aqueduct at Redwood City to the southerly section of Palo Alto.

Most of the building construction work so far undertaken for the Golden Gate International Exposition on Yerba Buena Shoals has been carried on under P. W. A. contracts, with the City acting as sponsor through the Public Utilities Commission. This department has supervised all such construction. The larger buildings, including ferry terminals, administration building, hangars, and exhibit palaces, are completed, and the remainder of the work under the Commission will be finished in the spring of 1938.

The detail planning and preparation of contracts for the enlargement of the airport, to be financed from the bond issue approved by the electorate in November, 1937, are in progress. The beautiful, up-to-date new administration building of the airport was opened with appropriate ceremonies October 24, 1937.

Hetch Hetchy Power

In March, the Public Utilities Commission's Plan Seven for distributing Hetch Hetchy power was placed before the voters in the form of a charter amendment. This amendment would have permitted the Public Utilities Commission to issue revenue bonds in the amount of $50,000,000 for the purpose of acquiring and completing a power distribution system. When this amendment failed to pass, the Secretary of the Interior wrote me that he would allow fifteen days for the City to submit some other program of procedure, which would meet his interpretation of the Raker Act power clause. He further stated that if the City failed to act as stated, he would bring suit to terminate the present contract with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. As there was no other plan to be submitted, and feeling that the present contract with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is legal, the Secretary was asked to bring suit to settle this matter permanently. This he did. The hearing was held in the United States District Court in October, but as yet no decision has been handed down.

The Hetch Hetchy power property is being maintained in such a way as to render creditable service. During the spring the water wheels were overhauled and brought up to modern standards of efficiency.

The water situation has permitted continual operation at full capacity throughout the year and there is still sufficient water in storage to continue operation well into the year 1938. Under normal conditions runoff will be available before stored water is exhausted.

Street and Public Building Lighting

The City of San Francisco now owns approximately 3000 of the 21,000 street lights in service. The widening and improvement of streets throughout the City has made it necessary to remove old street lighting fixtures and these in almost every instance have been replaced with new municipally owned lamps of modern and efficient type.

A large number of the streets south of Market street have been relighted, as have a number of the important roadways approaching the Golden Gate Bridge. Van Ness avenue and Taylor street have been equipped with new lamps. As the cost of operating the City-owned lamps is considerably below that of company-owned lamps, these improvements have not appreciably added to the annual bill. This in spite of the fact that in most cases the effectiveness of the lighting has been doubled or tripled.

As many portions of the City are still poorly lighted, I would recommend that the City add to the municipally-owned street lighting system every year. The increasing use of automobiles makes dark streets very hazardous.

Rapid Transit

The Public Utilities Commission's plan for the construction of rapid transit lines reaching to all parts of the City was finally ordered placed on the November ballot by the Board of Supervisors in August. A Citizens' Rapid Transit Committee did everything within its power to educate the public as to the necessity for this improvement.

The privately-owned railway lines, appreciating that the system proposed would materially cut into their proceeds, indirectly opposed the bond issue very vigorously through a central committee and neighborhood improvement clubs. As a two-thirds vote was necessary for approval, the time allowed for educational purposes was not sufficient to overcome the organized opposition; and, on November 2nd, the plan was decisively defeated at the polls.

For the best interests of our City and the good of every citizen, some practical solution must be found for our public transportation problem. This should be done soon, as we are already laboring under a great handicap which is laying a heavy toll in time and money on everyone. The Public Utilities Commission plan is, I believe, the only effective and permanent solution yet submitted.

San Francisco Airport

San Francisco Airport's position in the world's air commerce has been enhanced materially during the past year. As a definite guarantee that this position will be maintained and that our Airport facilities will meet the demands of phenomenal increases in airplane size and performance that will be forthcoming during the next few years, the people of San Francisco at the election of November 2, endorsed by a vote of 108,573 to 46,683 an Airport bond issue in the amount of $2,850,000.

Major developments to be provided under the bond issue include completion of the seaplane base now under construction at the field, and the addition of some 300 acres of land to the Airport proper by reclamation of tide flats along the east border of the landing area. Runways varying in length from 4200 to 6000 feet will be provided.

The seaplane base will be the Pacific Coast headquarters of Pan American Airways, largest transoceanic air transport line in the world. The establishment of its base at our air terminal will assure San Francisco a dominant position in the great field of transpacific air commerce, which is now so successfully being pioneered. With inauguration of transatlantic air schedules our City will become an important link in round-the-world air service.

Congress has authorized establishment of a U. S. Coast Guard air base with seaplanes, amphibians, hangars, and a personnel of some sixty men on our seaplane harbor. U. S. Army engineers have been authorized to provide one-half the cost of channel dredging and all maintenance costs.

Additional improvements to be financed by the bond issue include hangars, shops, paving, drainage, radio and lighting equipment.

A major acquisition of the year with regard to domestic air commerce was the inauguration of service between San Francisco Airport and the east coast by Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc. A permit to pioneer a second transcontinental air route from San Francisco was granted this major airline by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Schedules were inaugurated on September 5, with San Francisco Airport as the western terminus and base. The new route runs via the southern Sierras, Las Vegas, Nevada, and Albuquerque, New Mexico. It is considered one of the most scenic in the world.

United Air Lines' operations at our terminal have been greatly improved during the year. Transports of greater speed and twice the size of those in use a year ago have been brought into service. Some of these are of de luxe "skysleeper" and "skylounge" design.

Our Airport operations offices are now housed in a new $160,000 Administration Building, unexcelled in Airport administrative structures. The building embodies a happy combination of beauty and efficiency. It is topped by a double-deck traffic control tower with latest type radio equipment. The new building was publicly dedicated on October 24, with an afternoon's aerial program attended by throngs of San Francisco citizens, and broadcast over NBC radio lanes.

Airport traffic figures for the calendar year 1937 show:

Passengers, arrivals and departures (excluding "through" passengers) .....	50,800
Air Mail poundage "in" and "out" .....	1,165,100
Air Express poundage "out" .....	169,600
Transport planes "in" and "out" .....	16,000

Commercially and privately based operators at the Airport, apart from the airlines, include the Coast's leading airplane sales and service organization, five airplane agencies, and four flying schools. Forty-two airplanes are based at the field. The terminal is used also by itinerant aircraft from all parts of the nation.

San Francisco's second airport of the future, now in the process of construction at the Treasure Island fair site, has taken definite form during the year. Buildings of the Golden Gate International Exposition, for which purpose the site is to be used during 1939, are rapidly springing up, and the future Airport Administration Building and hangars are nearing completion. The need of providing this second Airport is clearly indicated by the great strides being made in air commerce.

Office of the Treasurer.

The Treasurer's Office is conducted strictly under the provisions of the laws of the State of California, the Charter and the ordinances and resolutions of the Board of Supervisors. The following is a brief summary of the business of the office for the fiscal year 1936-1937:

Cash received, $77,571,203.59. Cash disbursed, $80,796,008.45. Total cash, $158,367,212.04. Interfund and departmental accounts, $105,966,008.17. Interest earnings on the deposit of public funds in banks, $121,255.40. Cash on hand at the close of business June 30, 1937, $23,783,115.59. Tax anticipation notes sold, $7,500,000.00.

Inheritance tax collected for the State of California, $1,928,319.31. Commissions and fees earned for collecting the tax and deposited in the treasury, $12,369.74. The collection is not a municipal function but is a responsibility imposed upon county treasurers by State law.

During the fiscal year the office handled twenty-two P. W. A. accounts under Federal and local control. Funds allocated to these accounts are frozen under the terms of the agreements and grants of the Federal government. Moneys in these funds cannot be borrowed for current expenses under Section 31 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California.

The National City Bank of New York, the designated fiscal agent, paid bond redemption, $3,063,100.00, and bond interest, $3,697,176.25 to eastern bondholders.

The securities of the Retirement System of the City and County in the custody of the Treasurer amount to $18,227,087.50.

The Treasurer's Office handles the funds of the Islais Creek Reclamation District without compensation.

The annual audit at the close of the fiscal year showed the accounting and cash exactly correct.

Parks.

With the approach of the International Exposition in 1939 and its attendant thousands of visitors and tourists to our city from all quarters of the globe, our park system and the beautification of our public places assume an added importance.

Many thousands of Fair visitors will take a trip through our Golden Gate Park and Zoological Gardens, while in the city, and with this in mind every effort is being made to refurbish our more familiar beauty spots.

San Franciscans who live in the Richmond and Sunset districts now find in use a modern, high-speed crossover drive through Golden Gate Park, connecting Nineteenth avenue in the Sunset with Twenty-fifth avenue in the Richmond. It is hoped that this road will be utilized in the future as an auxiliary approach to the Golden Gate Bridge, especially in connection with the Bridge link to Thirteenth avenue now under construction. This work was undertaken and carried to a successful conclusion by the Works Progress Administration.

A large new meadow immediately east of the Golden Gate Park Stadium is rapidly nearing completion and it is hoped that it will be available for healthful recreation facilities this coming spring.

The Golden Gate Park Stadium itself, with its training quarters, has undergone complete restoration and now has available for the use of spectators at all types of athletic contests eight thousand modern stadium seats, overlooking the interior of the Stadium.

The alteration of the cooling sheds and the surrounding area for the use of those who take part in the trotting races and polo games is an active W. P. A. project, and it is hoped that the entire plant will be completed and ready for use for the many athletic activities that will take place there during the Exposition year.

The famous tennis center in Golden Gate Park has been resurfaced, additional courts added and other features installed to improve this ever-popular San Francisco activity.

The Zoological Garden at the Herbert Fleishhacker Playfield is rapidly nearing completion and hundreds of large trees have been moved in to create a park-like appearance on an otherwise sandy terrain.

The modernistic bathhouse and recreation center at the Aquatic Park is also about 75 per cent complete and the work thereon is still progressing satisfactorily.

Artists of the Works Progress Administration have completed the embellishment of the Mothers' House at the Fleishhacker Playfield and are adding a touch of brightness by mural decoration at the Beach Chalet, at the west end of Golden Gate Park. The portion of this work that has already been completed has received very favorable comment in national art circles.

An unusual recreation feature for our future anglers is now completed and in operation immediately west of the Stadium in Golden Gate Park. It is a series of pools for the use of fly casters. These pools also serve as a reservoir for the irrigation of the Park.

The restoration work at the Palace of Fine Arts is rapidly terminating. As this is the only remaining structure of the Panama Pacific International Exposition, it will no doubt be seen and commented upon by large numbers of visitors to the new Exposition. The restoration of this classic structure had been a source of satisfaction to all good San Franciscans.

Under the guiding genius of John McLaren, dean of all park superintendents, our parks, with their many and varied forms of amusement, beauty spots and landscaped vistas, present a well-rounded recreation system for the young and old of San Francisco.

Recreation Department.

The Recreation Department in the past year, in keeping with the trend of the times, has provided a stimulating program of varied activities to meet the needs of young and old. The facilities have been taxed to the limit as many of our people find themselves forced by circumstances to seek their recreation within areas under jurisdiction of this Department.

The personnel of the Department, year by year, becomes more efficient and resourceful. The staff has had the added responsibility of an extensive W. P. A. program which it has directed with success.

It is the policy of the Commission to anticipate and foster new recreational interests. In line with this policy, gardening has been made a major interest, and a city-wide response has been most gratifying. The first hobby show held in the San Francisco Art Museum was visited by many thousands. The Department recognizes hobbies as an important form of recreation, and ideas and directions are given at the Junior Museum.

Within the budget, land has been purchased in the following districts: Bay View, Corona Heights, Eureka Valley, Haight-Ashbury, Longfellow, Sunset and Upper Noe Valley. Eleven recreation areas are being developed.

The president of the Commission has added four acres to Stern Recreation Grove. This purchase makes possible a permanent and adequate entrance into that area.

Camp Mather was improved, the season extended, and the attendance the greatest in its history.

Cooperating with the Golden Gate Bridge Committee, Columbus Day Committee and the Golden Gate International Exposition on Treasure Island, hundreds of children trained by the personnel of the Department took part in the celebrations during the year.

Attendance has increased on all grounds. Reports from directors-at-large still show a lessening of delinquency and recidivism. With the addition of two directors-at-large, all districts in San Francisco will come under this unique plan of delinquency prevention. Many of the citizens are not familiar with this work, which is widely recognized as an original approach to the problem.

The Department wishes to thank all city departments that have generously cooperated with it as this cooperation has made the Recreation Department more efficient.

Board of Permit Appeals.

During the six years of its existence, under the new Charter, this Board has heard 389 cases. It has given adequate consideration to all appeals, endeavoring to satisfy those who have come before it. During 1937, it heard 64 appeals.

The Board of Permit Appeals gives thoughtful consideration to appeals taken from the decisions of the Chief of the Police Department, Chief Engineer of the Fire Department, the Director of Public Health, the Director of Public Works, the Department of Electricity and the License Department of the Tax Collector's office.

Many important projects have been expedited by this body, which is ably justifying its existence.

City Planning Commission.

The City Planning Commission reports that the draft of proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance referred to in my report last year is now complete and will shortly be forwarded for consideration of, and action by the Board of Supervisors. The proposed amendments will serve to clarify the wording of the present ordinance and introduce a proceeding which will allow the Commission some latitude in the application of some of its provisions which now may be considered somewhat inequitable.

The W. P. A. land use survey project sponsored by this Commission was completed about two months ago. Now available are 14 new maps graphically showing present land uses throughout San Francisco, together with an examination sheet of the use of each parcel of property in every block. As time permits the information thus made available will be studied to determine what changes are indicated in the zoning plan of San Francisco, following which such changes as are considered desirable will be recommended to the Board of Supervisors.

Eighty-one applications proposing the reclassification of property under the zoning ordinance were filed this year. This is a further increase over the corresponding period of last year. In each instance the particular property involved in a proposed change was visited personally by the Commission and public hearings held thereon.

Seven applications proposing the establishment or change of building set-back lines were filed during the year. The Commission on its own motion, however, established building set-back lines in some 14 instances, among which was the establishment of such a line along the westerly side of Junipero Serra boulevard from Ocean avenue to Nineteenth avenue. This action was taken in order to provide sufficient area for the continuance of a service road paralleling Junipero Serra boulevard and conforming to the service road north of Ocean avenue to Sloat boulevard. It is planned to continue this scheme southerly from Nineteenth avenue to the County Line. The San Mateo County Planning Commission has been apprised of our plan for Junipero Serra boulevard development and it has been suggested that a similar plan be adopted for its improvement in San Mateo county.

Before the close of this fiscal year the Commission will, on its own motion, establish building set-back lines in residential districts in various sections of San Francisco as funds permit as was done last year. This process will be continued until such has been done in all residential districts throughout the city. Set-back lines were established for street widening purposes on Army street, San Jose avenue, Third street and Portola drive.

The City Planning Commission, on its own motion, established a building set-back line and advocated the acquisition of a strip of land along the easterly side of Portola drive, between Twenty-fourth street and Twenty-sixth street. This property, located on the southeasterly slope of Twin Peaks, affords one of the most beautiful panoramic views of San Francisco. From this point the visitor to San Francisco, from the south, gets his first glimpse of the city. It is proposed that this small area be appropriately parked and improved to serve as "Observation Point."

The Commission has initiated a W. P. A. project to make a 50-foot to the inch scale plat of every block throughout San Francisco on which will be shown every use made of the land, improvements erected thereon, their construction, height, etc. In the streets will be shown all sub-surface utilities. These maps will be invaluable not alone to this department, but to the Assessor, Department of Public Works, Health Department, Fire Department, and others; the finished maps being a complete inventory of each block.

Charter Section 24 provides that no permit or license affected by the zoning or set-back line ordinance shall be issued without the prior approval of the City Planning Commission. The Bureau of Building Inspection and the Fire Department have complied with this requirement. The Department of Electricity is now collaborating in this connection. Negotiations with the Department of Public Health to similarly effect such cooperation have been started. Other departments affected will be contacted to the same end as time permits.

Numerous plans of proposed sub-division and re-subdivision of undeveloped area have been studied by the Commission during the past year. The Charter makes it mandatory that the City Planning Commission shall make recommendations on all sub-divisions of land laid out in building lots in the City and County.

Outstanding and of tremendous importance in this field of activity is the proposed development of that vast unimproved area lying westerly from Junipero Serra boulevard to the ocean shore, and southerly from Sloat boulevard to the County Line, more commonly known as "Lake Merced Lands." There is no question that this area, properly planned and developed, will become one of the choicest residential sections in our city. Careful and deliberate consideration should be given to its ultimate development. The northeasterly portion of this area, bounded by Sloat boulevard, Junipero Serra boulevard and Nineteenth avenue, is now under development. The owners of this undeveloped tract of land have evidenced a willingness to collaborate in this work and have submitted a tentative master plan which is now being studied.

Consideration is being given by the Commission of the possible development of Lombard street as to the Use Classification of the property fronting on this street, in view of its contemplated use as the main east and west on and off approach to the Golden Gate Bridge.

War Memorial Trustees.

The two great buildings which constitute San Francisco's War Memorial still stand as a unique monument of respect and honor to those who have served their country in its wars. There are probably no two buildings in the municipal family group, here or anywhere in America, which serve a greater cross-section of our citizenry than the War Memorial Opera House and Veterans' Building. Ever on the up-growth, their activities reached a new high during 1937.

It is hard to estimate the exact number of San Franciscans who use the Opera House in a given year, but a conservative estimate would easily reach a total well over 500,000. It is the home of the opera and the symphony—the temple in which all great visiting artists make their appearances. It is the place of graduation for the pupils of our high schools, and in other ways serves many groups of citizens. The Opera House is the haven of all music lovers, and San Francisco is known the world over as one of the foremost music-loving American cities. The 1937 opera season was so outstanding that our great sister city of Los Angeles commandeered our entire organization—principals, chorus, ballet, orchestra, and scenic productions, for a supplementary season in the southern city. The advertising derived from this one source puts the name of San Francisco on the lips of cultured people throughout the world. If it is a forerunner of future possibilities, and if our opera company is called North as well as South, it will not be long ere San Francisco will be known as the "Salzburg of America," and the investment in the Opera House and the operation thereof by the City, will become infinitesimal as compared with the valuable exploitation along this line alone.

The Opera House last year had a particularly busy season, and the productions excelled anything heretofore attempted. The symphony enjoyed an augmented number of concerts, together with an important series for school children, and visiting artists came to be heard at the Opera House during the concert season as often, in some instances, as three and four times in a week. In addition to a regular subscription series of eleven operas, the Saturday night popular-priced series was continued, opening up a great vista of music to the public at large. Again there was not a vacant seat for any of the eighteen performances given. The capacity of the Opera House makes possible the annual visit of a popular priced opera company, to which the best seats are available at no more than $1 each. This season of three weeks brings within the reach of everyone very fine grand opera performances.

One of the busiest spots in the entire City is the Veterans' Building, twin of the Opera House in outward appearance, but, of course, entirely different within its four granite walls. The activities in this building increase year by year, and definite statistics reveal that there were 4453 meetings held during the year, an average of 371 per month, and that the attendance in this building during the year, including meetings and attendance at affairs in the auditorium, but not including the use of the offices on the ground floor, the use of the club rooms, the library and lounge, or the number of patrons using the facilities of the Art Museum exceeded 700,000. Improvements in this building are constantly under way. Further comforts are provided and a dignified and becoming atmosphere maintained everywhere. It is indeed the finest shrine to veterans in America, and the number of citizens that found use for its various facilities proves beyond peradventure that the Veterans' Building is one of the most appreciated of the City's many assets.

Year by year, the activities of the San Francisco Museum of Art on the fourth floor of this building bring public attention to this section of the Memorial group. More than 160,000 people have availed themselves of the facilities of the spacious museum galleries during the last year. Three hundred sixty lectures, class meetings, assemblies of art groups, etc., one for every day of the year, have been held. Twenty major exhibits have brought to San Francisco the finest of contemporary and recent art compositions. One especially noteworthy exhibit, from the standpoint of public interest, was devoted to land-scaping. A current exhibit of great interest is known as the hobby show. As is generally known, this museum is open evenings, and is probably the only major palace of art in the nation in which such a condition prevails. The beautiful grounds and gardens of the War Memorial buildings are becoming more beautiful. They are among the most artistic park plantings in the City, and have rapidly taken a place among the most important of San Francisco's notable land-scaping features.

The War Memorial buildings are a constant tribute to the finest elements of the community. San Francisco's famous Civic Center is fringed with these magnificent edifices which form its western back-ground. The War Memorial is operated by a board of eleven trustees, of which Allison E. Schofield was president last year.

Art Commission.

With the obvious indications of its scope and work accomplished since its establishment, the San Francisco Art Commission, supervising and controlling the City's policy for the advancement of art and music, has become one with the fullest power and jurisdiction of any similar body in the country.

Music continued to play an outstanding part in the activities of the Commission during the past year. The subsidy, the only one of its kind in the United States provided by Charter amendment, has been an important factor in re-establishing the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra to a high place among the major orchestras of the country. The municipal series with the symphony, and internationally known ballets, world famed soloists, our own municipal chorus and distinguished local soloists have continued to attract thousands of music lovers to the Civic Auditorium and the Opera House. In conformity with the established policy of the Art Commission, these events were offered to the public at prices ranging from 20 cents to 80 cents. Surely there is no city in America or in European music centers that offers to its citizens such a standard of music attractions at such nominal prices within the reach of all.

The activities of the Art Commission in other fields, such as architecture, painting, sculpture and landscaping have been numerous. Whether it be the acceptance of any work of art ranging from the plans of the largest public building to the most insignificant lamp post on any public street, the Commission has looked to the protection of the City and its citizens who under other circumstances might have had forced upon them various works or buildings of inferior merit or mediocre execution.

Gratifying to the municipality is the assurance that this Commission, composed of architects, artists, musicians, litterateurs and laymen of distinction are unselfishly giving time and study to the aesthetic and cultural problems confronting them, and have worked with acknowledged success. This is a source of satisfaction to those who were instrumental in the conception and development of the San Francisco Art Commission.

It is with regret that the limitations of the physical health of Mr. Edgar Walter, the former president of the Art Commission and a member of seven years, compelled him to submit his resignation. His distinguished services and leadership have meant much to the Commission, who hope to be favored by a continuance of his valued advice and excellent judgment.

San Francisco Museums.

The year 1937 was marked by gratifying progress in the development of the two municipal museums of San Francisco. Nearly 900,000 people visited the California Palace of the Legion of Honor and the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum.

Of outstanding importance was the exhibition of paintings, drawings, and prints by Francisco Goya, celebrated Spanish painter of the late Eighteenth and early Nineteenth century, held at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor during June. This exhibition, containing a comprehensive group of paintings by the master, together with a notable series of his drawings and practically all his graphic work, was the largest representation of Goya's work ever assembled in this country. Presented at a time when Spanish affairs were claiming world-wide attention, the exhibition attracted no less than 50,000 visitors during the four weeks that it was shown.

A second exhibition of special interest was the large collection of sculpture by Anna Hyatt Huntington, which was held at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor during the month of July. This exhibition was made possible through the generosity of the sculptress and her husband, Archer M. Huntington, both of whom have long been active patrons of the museum. On the occasion of this exhibition, Mrs. Huntington's large equestrian statue of The Cid, presented to the museum some time ago by Mr. Herbert Fleishhacker, was placed in front of the building as a companion piece to the Joan of Arc, donated several years ago by Mr. Huntington. Numerous additional monthly shows have provided an exhibition schedule of varied interest.

The extensive work of reconstruction, which considerably handicapped the exhibition activities at the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum during 1936, was completed in January, 1937. To inaugurate the new galleries, a comprehensive exhibition of Islamic art was held at the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum during the period from February 24 to April 7. Not only was this exhibition the first of its kind to be brought to San Francisco, but it also provided the most exhaustive survey of the arts of the Near Eastern countries ever shown in America. More than 120,000 people attended the exhibition. A variety of smaller loan exhibitions, embracing the plastic and graphic arts of Europe and America, served to round out the schedule of exhibitions for the year.

A number of important works of art have been added to the permanent collection of the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. Mr. and Mrs. H. K. S. Williams, whose generous benefactions have, during the past few years, so notably enriched the museum's collection, signified their continued interest in the California Palace of the Legion of Honor by presenting three paintings. These are: "A Portrait of the Gardner Children" by William Beechey, the Eighteenth Century English master; a landscape by Frederick Lee, English artist of the Nineteenth Century, and the portrait of a Spanish Peasant Girl by Martin Baer, contemporary American painter. The fine "Portrait of a Young Man" by the well-known French artist of the first half of the Eighteenth Century, Jean Francois de Troy, has been acquired for the Collis P. Huntington Memorial Collection from funds provided by Mr. Archer M. Huntington. Lastly, the museum was fortunate in acquiring a particularly important example of the work of Ferdinand Bol, the Dutch artist of the Seventeenth Century who was the favorite and gifted pupil of Rembrandt. The painting in question is a monumental canvas entitled, "The Archery Prize," a picture generally acknowledged to be one of Bol's most significant works. In connection with the Goya exhibition, the museum acquired a complete set of the master's famous series of aquatints: "The Disasters of War," eighty in number, and a partial set of his equally celebrated aquatints: "The Proverbs."

Four California period rooms form a special feature of the newly reconstructed west wing of the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum: a bedroom of 1850; a sitting room of 1865; a parlor of 1870, and a boudoir of 1885. This last room was the generous gift of Mrs. Herbert E. Clayburgh, presented as a memorial to her mother, Carrie Heller Newman.

The permanent collection of the M. H. deYoung Memorial Museum was also augmented through valuable additions made possible by funds left by the late Mr. M. H. deYoung. Among these were the handsome portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Hunerwadel, by the great French artist of the early Nineteenth Century, Francois Gerard; a beautiful French mantelpiece of the early Eighteenth Century, and a colossal stone hand, a rare example of Chinese sculpture of the T'ang Period (618-907 A. D.).

The educational activities of both museums have progressed in a most satisfactory manner, lectures, radio talks, etc., given by members of the museum staff, having met with a gratifying response on the part of schools, clubs and the general public.

In short, the year 1937 has been a most auspicious one in the development of our two City museums.

San Francisco Public Library.

The Library Department consists of the main library in the Civic Center, twenty-one branch libraries, and seven deposit stations. The collection of books is approximately 500,000 volumes. The circulation of books for home reading during the past year amounted to 3,500,000 volumes. While no record is kept of the material used in the various reference and reading rooms of the main library and branches, it is estimated that it would more than equal the home circulation of books. During the year about 9,000,000 people availed themselves of the facilities of the library.

During the last fiscal year, $100,000 was spent for books which is the largest book fund that the library has had for many years. From this amount, the main library and branches were supplied with new books, as well as complete collections of up-to-date reference material. Five thousand dollars was spent for art books, which were secured from European as well as American markets. It is a pleasure to state that the library now has one of the finest art divisions in the West. The division of history was enriched by a large collection which was purchased through the European second-hand book markets. In this way, much valuable material was replaced which was destroyed in the fire of 1906.

The appropriation for the current fiscal year amounts to $470,000, which is an increase of $20,000 over that of the last fiscal year.

In preparation for the large number of visitors who will be in San Francisco during 1939, the library has started an extensive program of cleaning and repairing at the main library and branches. One of the major improvements was the installation of proper lighting facilities in the main reading and reference rooms. This adjustment proved a source of much comfort to the reading public.

Extensive renovations were completed on the Richmond and Mission branches. These improvements not only made the branches named more attractive, but also made it possible to serve more effectively the large number of adults and children who use them. The Sunset branch was reorganized. A children's room, similar to the ones at the Mission and Richmond branches, was installed. The Presidio and North Beach branches were also cleaned and repaired. The remaining branches will receive necessary attention during the coming year.

The Business branch in the Russ building was moved to larger quarters from the eleventh to the sixth floor. Many improvements have been made and new equipment installed which makes this service to the public more efficient and convenient.

As an experiment, a small deposit station was opened at the Potrero Hill Neighborhood House. If this venture is successful it will be tried in other districts of the city.

The library has been working in close cooperation with the Convention and Tourist Bureau, in the endeavor to have the American Library Association hold its annual meeting in San Francisco in 1939. It is estimated that this convention will bring about 4000 visitors from all parts of the country to San Francisco.

During the year, the library received many interesting and useful gifts of books, music and pamphlets. One of the most important gifts was the library of the late Joseph Bluxome which included many rare volumes. These proved a valuable addition to the collection. Many educational, literary and musical lectures and exhibitions were held in the main library during the year, attracting large audiences.

On account of the lack of Federal funds, the building of the branch libraries in the West Portal and Bernal districts has been delayed. However, through the cooperation of the Public Welfare Commission and the Library Commission, funds have been supplied and the work on the West Portal branch building will begin the first part of the year. It is hoped that the Bernal branch building will begin shortly after.

The library suffered a great loss in the death of George W. Kelham, who was chairman of the Building Committee for many years. He was succeeded by Maurice E. Harrison. Sylvester Andriano resigned as Library Commissioner, to accept a vacancy on the Police Commission. He was succeeded by Daniel J. Murphy.

Chief Administrative Officer.

Through the adoption of up-to-date methods and the installation of modern equipment in the various departments under his jurisdiction, economies have been effected by the Chief Administrative Officer and a high degree of efficiency obtained.

The major projects, completed during the past year, by the Department of Public Works are fully described in the attached report.

Work planned for the near future includes the construction of the Funston avenue approach to the Golden Gate Bridge through the Presidio Reservation for which negotiations with the Federal government over a period of five years have just been satisfactorily completed.

The widening of Lombard street, to be undertaken in the immediate future, will solve a difficult traffic problem and afford more ready access from the eastern portions of the city to the Golden Gate Bridge.

The construction of the sewage disposal plant for the entire western drainage area is in progress and should be completed during the calendar year of 1938.

The street traffic problem has been the subject of intensive study by the City Engineer. The Street Traffic Advisory Board has held monthly meetings and recommended many necessary installations of equipment and the widening of traffic arteries.

Since the defeat by the voters of the elimination of dead-end streets on Market street opposite Fifth and opposite Grant avenue, the City Engineer has begun a study of the possibilities of underground or overhead vehicular passages across Market street. No determination, however, has yet been reached on this subject.

The opening of the Psychopathic Building by the Department of Public Health marks a decided advance in the treatment of mental ailments.

The adoption of the health bonds to the extent of $1,600,000 will make available necessary additions to the Relief Home and the Hassler Health Home.

A major change has been the creation of the County Welfare Department, which now is in charge of relief activities instead of the Chief Administrative Officer.

The Chief Administrative Officer is appreciative of the splendid cooperation of the various department heads and employees under his jurisdiction.

Department of Finance and Records.

This Department includes the functions and personnel of the offices of the Registrar of Voters, County Clerk, Recorder, Public Administrator and Tax Collector. Herewith are the reports of the offices named. As you will note, the figures are not all complete to the end of this calendar year, as at this date it is impossible to arrive at them. However, in most cases an estimate has been arrived at, which from previous experience should be approximate.

The total expense of this office for the calendar year 1937 is $7,936.49. All requisitions, purchase orders and warrants connected with the five departments clear through this office, and a complete account is kept of their expense and operation.

Tax Collector.

Tax Collector Edward F. Bryant reports that real estate and secured personal property taxes collected amounted to $28,163,457.03; unsecured personal property taxes amounted to $957,256.85.

The Bureau of Delinquent Revenue collected unsecured personal property taxes and various delinquent accounts from other departments, in amount, $85,818.39; for the San Francisco Hospital, $19,939.55; for the Sonoma State Home, $7,466.81; for the County Welfare Department, $4,341.50.

In the Bureau of Licenses, for the year ending June 30, 1937, there was collected various license and inspection fees amounting to $351,410.88. The total collections for the office were $29,589,691.01.

Registrar of Voters.

During the current year, two public elections were conducted by this office, a Special Election held March 9, 1937, at which were submitted eighteen proposed Charter amendments and two ordinances, and the General Municipal Election held November 2, 1937, to fill certain municipal offices and to vote on nine sundry propositions.

In addition to these, this department was also required to conduct the election of the municipal employees to select the Directors of the Health Service Board. This election was held from April 25 to May 7, at which 9335 votes were cast. There were forty-eight candidates, of which number nine were elected.

At the Special Election held March 9, the total registration was 281,146, of which 152,469 voted, and for the General Municipal Election, out of a total registration of 290,019, 176,200 voted.

During the year this office registered 15,646 new electors and also re-registered on account of changing residence 14,271 electors, or a total of 29,917.

In addition, this office was called upon to change the political affiliations of 3732. These figures in the aggregate do not seem formidable when compared to the total registration but call for a great deal of detail work.

No record is made of the certificates of registration issued to applicants who want them for identification purposes, for civil service requirements or for old-age pension necessities, but the number issued runs into the thousands and keeps the clerks busy constantly hunting up necessary records.

Six initiative and referendum petitions—aggregating 160,134 signatures—were submitted to this office for checking and were certified to the proper officers. At the General Municipal Election 1267 voting machines were used and again demonstrated their efficiency and correctness in recording the will of the voters.

Again, I would urge the building of a central warehouse, properly equipped to protect all voting machines under one roof. The present set-up is very unsatisfactory and does not provide necessary protection, either from the standpoint of possible miscreants or from climatic conditions. The $1,500,000 invested in these voting machines should warrant such protection as I suggest.

At the Municipal Election there were 3368 officers of election, the great majority of whom are efficient and trustworthy and imbued with a civic spirit to do their part for the general government. They are on duty practically fourteen or fifteen hours on election day besides other time devoted to their instructions as to their duties. I would urge that serious consideration be given to increasing their compensation to $10, as the increase will induce a more competent body of electors to apply for the positions as inspectors and judges of election. And, while on this matter, I believe an appeal to the employers of San Francisco to encourage their employees—particularly the younger men and women—to do service as election officers, would provide this office with a more efficient and competent corps.

The budget allowances for this current fiscal year did not take into consideration any special elections to be consolidated with the municipal election and it may be necessary to readjust the finances of this office to provide for regular expenditures until June 30, 1938.

County Clerk.

Extensive changes and alterations planned for the County Clerk's Office have been completed during the past year. These changes include the adoption of flat files for original papers, photographic copying of records, the adoption of a central cashier system, and rearrangement of office departments.

The relative volume of business of the office as compared with the year previously reported is as follows, covering the year preceding November 1, 1937:

Civil actions filed, 7592 as against 7632 for previous year; probate matters filed, 3110, an increase of 203; marriage licenses totaled 6758, an increase of 62. Criminal actions were 1130 in number.

Fees in all departments for the period named amounted to $115,986.56.

Law Library fees were $14,649, which brings the total of moneys collected for fees and fines to $130,635.56, a gain of $2,705.99.

Public Administrator.

The report of the operations of the office of Public Administrator, covering the period from January 2, 1937, to November 30, 1937, is summarized below:

Number of estates wherein Public Administrator took possession from January 2, 1937, to November 30, 1937, 320; number of estates in which final accounts have been settled and allowed, 229; Administrator's fees collected and paid into County Treasury, $29,849.37; attorney's fees collected and paid into County Treasury, $29,854.38; total fees paid into Treasury, $59,703.75; total cost of operation of office from January 2, 1937, to date, $36,175.87; profit, $23,527.88.

Recorder.

For the calendar year 1937 the Recorder reports receipts of recording fees amounting to $131,682.95; paid out for salaries during the year, $95,777.77; excess, receipts over salaries, $35,905.18.

During the year this department copied, free of charge, for veterans and their dependents, for the United States and for this State and its political subdivisions, some 3255 documents containing 15,593 folios.

My 1936 report stated that owing to the heavy increase in volume of work received, the copying department was some 96,000 folios behind. With the help of extra copyists during part of 1937, the copying department is now almost up to date with its work.

Department of Electricity.

During the calendar year 1937 this department manufactured, installed and maintained fire alarm boxes, police boxes, traffic-control devices and street signs.

Radio receiving sets were installed in 70 Fire and Police Department cars, 37 motorcycles and 19 police stations.

There have been installed 19 fire alarm boxes, making a total of 1528 boxes in service. Monthly tests of fire alarm boxes totaled 15,184. Total number of signals transmitted, 44,064.

In the Inspection Bureau, 17,784 applications were received; inspections made, 46,422; installations approved, 15,875. Inspection fees and other revenue received, $72,700.03. Inspections of overhead line construction numbered 3833.

There were manufactured in the machine shop 53 traffic signals, five fire alarm boxes, seven police boxes and two beacon reflector units.

Total expenditures in the department amounted to $201,219.

Real Estate Department.

A right of way 5 miles in length is being acquired by the City for the Palo Alto pipe line. This pipe line will furnish Hetchy water to the towns of Atherton, Menlo Park and Palo Alto.

The department is continuing to purchase land for widening Nineteenth avenue from Lincoln way to Sloat boulevard and Army street westerly from Bryant street. Most of the buildings affected by the widening of these streets are being relocated by the owners at the City's expense. A contract has been let for grading and paving the section of Nineteenth avenue from Taraval street to Sloat boulevard.

About 140 parcels of real property have been bought by the City during the year 1937 for various projects, including parks, playgrounds, schools, pipe lines, reservoirs, streets and the airport, at a total cost approximating $683,000.

Appraisals have been made for the proposed extension of Fifth street and Grant avenue; also for a proposed new street south of Market street, between Third and Fourth streets; and for many other projects.

In July, the Director of Property assisted the Board of Supervisors, sitting as a Board of Equalization, in passing upon requests for reductions in 1937-38 assessments on taxable real property in San Francisco.

Two 20-year leases have been entered into by the City as lessor. One lease covers the property on Kansas street near Army street, the other lease pertains to the block at Fifteenth and De Haro streets, at total rentals of $43,200 and $105,000, respectively. A parcel of City land at the corner of Portola drive and Woodside avenue has been leased for 10 years.

Twenty-one parcels of City land have been sold for the sum of $91,266. Many homes are being constructed on this property and hereafter the City will derive taxes from these lands and improvements.

For the last six years under the new Charter the revenues for each year received for the use of the Civic Auditorium have exceeded the expenditures. Prior to that time there had been an annual deficit in the operation of the building.

Department of Public Works.

Available statistics indicate unabated activities with commensurate progress and achievement by the Department of Public Works, which has functioned smoothly and effectively during the year. Major projects follow:

Final projects under the 1933 Sewer Bond Issue Program are now in process of execution as follows:

No. 1. Richmond Sewer Tunnel—total estimated cost $444,444.44—90 per cent complete. No. 2. Richmond-Sunset Sewage Treatment Plant—total estimated cost $435,389. Will be completed November, 1938. No. 3. Richmond Connecting Sewer, between Richmond-Sunset Sewage Treatment Plant and Forty-first avenue and Fulton street—total estimated cost $28,640. Will be completed June, 1938. With the completion of these three projects, San Francisco will have taken a long step in the ultimate objective of totally eliminating pollution from our beaches.

Under the 1933 High Pressure Bond Issue the program has advanced during 1937 as reflected, following:

New cisterns constructed at various locations—total cost $80,417. High pressure extensions completed: Embarcadero, Sec. "C"; Park-Presidio, Sec. "C"; Potrero District, Sec. "E" and "F"; Clay Street Hill, Marina District, Mission District and Sunset District, total cost $223,678.57.

In addition to these new cisterns and high pressure extensions, a new maintenance yard has been established on City property on Jerrold avenue, at a cost of $26,442, which will terminate a previously existing annual rental cost of $12,000 for the maintenance yard site, formerly at Sixth and Hubbell streets.

Alemaney Sewer, Bond Issue of 1929, with P. W. A. Aid: Sections "E" and "D" completed in 1937, at a cost of $523,033.30; Boulevard Bond Issue, 1927: Alemany boulevard, Naglee-Lawrence streets, completed November 15th, 1937, at a cost of $18,969.36. Hospital Bond Issue, 1929: Psychopathic-Cancer Building, completed April 10, 1937, at a cost of $771,861. School Construction, 1933 Bond Issue and P. W. A. The following schools were completed during 1937: Agassiz School, costing $188,220; Marina Junior High School, Shop Building, costing $218,636; Sunshine-Buena Vista School, costing $268,985, and Glen Park School Auditorium, costing $62,590. In addition to these completed buildings, Architect T. E. Pflueger has been appointed under contract to prepare preliminary plans for the San Francisco Junior College on Ocean avenue, which have been approved by the Board of Education. The architect's final plans for the Science Building have also been approved, and bids for the foundation of the first unit will be received on January 12, 1938.

First Quarter-Cent Gas Tax: Nineteenth avenue, Sloat boulevard to Taraval street, contract awarded and work under way, cost $110,316.90; land being purchased from Taraval street to Lincoln way. Contracts will be awarded in 1938; Park-Presidio boulevard from Fulton to Presidio, Thirteenth-Fourteenth avenues. Contract will be awarded in 1938; boulevard constructed, connecting Sloat boulevard with Sky-line boulevard, cost $225,621.02.

Second Quarter-Cent Gas Tax: Laguna Honda boulevard from Lawton to Plaza, contract awarded, cost $55,691.30; Valencia street from Market to Mission, work being performed by W. P. A. and City and County purchasing materials, etc., at a cost of $50,000; Geneva avenue, W. P. A. labor, City contributing, $50,000.

County Road Funds—One-Cent Gas Tax: Third street widening, from Bayshore boulevard to Burke avenue, W. P. A. labor, City and County contributing $60,000 for materials, etc.; Seventeenth street from Market street to Harrison, widening, W. P. A. labor, City contributing $24,000 for materials, etc.; Golden Gate avenue widening from Van Ness avenue to Masonic avenue, W. P. A. labor, City contributing $8,000.

Traffic striping of boulevards and major streets has advanced throughout the City, and schedules as adopted will be consummated during the remainder of the fiscal year within limitations of appropriations made for this purpose.

Health Bond Issue, 1937: Favorable action by the voters of San Francisco at the November election will provide $1,600,000 for additions to Laguna Honda Home and certain improvements and alterations at the San Francisco Hospital and Hassler Health Farm, which work will be under way early in 1938. Architects Riedy and Meyer have been appointed under contract to prepare necessary plans and specifications.

All bureaus of the Department are performing their respective functions with required efficiency, and the various operations of each bureau under budget appropriations are being creditably discharged. With the exception of track areas of the Market Street Railway Company, our streets throughout the City are in excellent condition. Nevertheless, many of our sewers and sub-drainage structures are troublesome and the maintenance costly, due to their many years of service and consequential deterioration. The financial necessities of the Department, in this respect, will be reflected in our 1938-1939 budget requests.

The Parker avenue slide area is still existent, without any outward visible progress toward proper repair and restoration. However, during 1937, boring and test hole operations have been carried on under direction of the City Engineer, and all necessary factual data have been acquired by geologists, permitting procedure on the legal aspects involved for final clearance and ultimate execution of the field work at the site.

Department of Public Health.

General health conditions on the basis of impressions gained from available vital statistics were slightly better for 1937 than for 1936. No very great change is apparent in the death rate, the crude rate for 1937 being 13.7 as compared with 13.01 for 1936. A greater and more significant rise is indicated in the birth rate (10.5 for 1936—11.7 for 1937). Infant mortality shows a marked decrease, with no change in the relative rank of those causes of death taking greatest toll in this under-one-year group. The rate for 1937, as indicated at the present time, will be about 32 per 1000 live births. Last year this rate was 42. A definite decline in the number of cancer deaths is noted, while deaths from heart disease reach a new high level. Early in the year 1937 the city experienced a mild epidemic of influenza and accompanying respiratory infections, which fact accounts for the increased totals in the number of deaths from influenza and lobar pneumonia. It appears, however, that the death rate from pulmonary tuberculosis will be slightly lower than that for 1936. The influence of this epidemic is felt in the increased incidence of reportable diseases, an estimate of 23,000 cases for this year, 2681 of which were from influenza. Highest among these was mumps, with 2863 reported cases, and whooping cough with 1434 cases reported. The occurrence of four deaths from this disease again emphasizes the dangers of whooping cough during the early years of life. Infantile paralysis showed a sudden rise this summer but subsided quickly, ending with but 21 cases for the year. This was truly gratifying, as the East and Middle West witnessed greater incidence. Recently a late model of the Drinker Respirator, or "iron lung," for the treatment of infantile paralysis has been acquired. This machine has many new features for the comfort and safety of the patient as well as ease of handling. Pneumonia continues on the same level as last year, and the Director has recently formed a Pneumonia Committee which will undertake special studies in an effort to reduce not only the mortality from this disease but the morbidity also.

Publicity given to the study and analysis of venereal diseases has emphasized the importance of reporting such cases, with the result that 1937 will show a definite increase in both case reports and the number of deaths where syphilis is a contributing factor. A Wassermann survey was instituted several months ago. This permits any person to obtain a blood test at any Emergency Hospital one day weekly. To date 2700 persons have had tests. They have shown 6.5 per cent positive. Of these latter about 50 per cent had no history or knowledge of the infection. Many papers and talks have been furnished during the year in cooperation with the National Publicity Campaign. In addition, the services of three public health nurses have been made available through Social Security funds and the State Department of Public Health for epidemiological follow-up public health work in the venereal disease campaign.

The campaign against tuberculosis has received new impetus since the opening of the new quarters for the Chest Clinic in the San Francisco Hospital. This consists of a spacious, well-lighted area, and the fact that it is an attractive center has already increased the attendance until now it is double that of five years ago.

Child health activities, including public health nursing, were further expanded this last year with the addition of four public health nurses and two dental hygienists. In the schools 42,500 children were examined by physicians, and 3000 vaccinations and 3000 diphtheria immunizations given. Eight thousand tuberculin tests were made. School nurses made 56,000 home visits. There was a total of 1003 well baby conferences held during the year, with 1800 vaccinations and 2000 diphtheria immunizations. Over 3000 children were seen for the first time at the conferences and a total of 33,922 examinations were made. It is estimated that almost 15,000 defects discovered in school children were corrected during the year.

In the technical sections of the department the routine inspection of restaurants and markets revealed a satisfactory condition of affairs with the exception of the poultry business, and it is very apparent that this industry is inadequately supervised. Inquiries revealed that the poultry industry, not only locally but throughout the United States, lacks proper supervision because the control is handled in connection with the meat inspection laws. An ordinance formulated for the purpose of correcting conditions would go a long way towards insuring people of San Francisco sound, wholesome poultry supply.

The amount of milk shipped into San Francisco has not increased and is still 99 per cent Grade A Pasteurized, the balance being Certified. Notwithstanding the educational work on the advantages of milk in an adequate diet, the consumption does not increase. The department is now paying for the milk for needy children in the schools formerly supplied from other funds.

In the chemical laboratories over 11,000 samples of milk and cream were examined and in addition a new test to determine whether the milk has been properly pasteurized or not was evolved. In addition to many specimens from salvage dealers, miscellaneous preparations such as cosmetics and canned goods were examined. Bacteriological work in addition to the milk examinations and routine examination of cultures contributed to the investigation of material suspected of causing food poisoning.

The Housing Division continued its Clean-up Campaign and succeeded in having 125 insanitary structures demolished. The Director of Public Health is actively engaged in promoting a low-cost housing project in conjunction with other agencies of the City. In addition, over 12,000 inspections were made and 358 plans for new buildings and alterations of existing buildings were reviewed. Surveys are constantly being carried on, especially in new districts, to prevent the erection of "refugee" type of shacks, buildings without foundations, rat-proofing or sewer connections. Kindergartens, nursery schools, convalescent and nursing homes have also been routinely inspected to maintain local requirements.

In the institutional section of the department the San Francisco Hospital took care of 14,000 patients and the Laguna Honda Home, 1880. Complete social histories were taken on 16,847 prospective patients and plans for patients from the hospital to homes or other disposition made for 15,227 patients. The population is divided about equally between hospital and ambulatory groups and the demand for hospital beds is constantly increasing. In fact, there is a waiting list owing to the lack of beds for the care of these cases. Again, the National Security Act has a marked effect upon the employment in the institution. Formerly the able-bodied aged inmates were used in various occupations. Today this group, on reaching the age of 65, goes out on pension. Others do not come in to take their places, and we are forced to increase the number of employees constantly to meet this deficiency, thus necessarily increasing the cost of maintenance of the institution. As the years pass this will become more and more apparent. About 25 per cent of the new arrivals are aged pensioners who come in as hospital cases to end their days. It is also noticeable that these aged people who leave here to go out on pension return after a short period as bed cases, this due to lack of supervision of diet and other care.

To meet the hospital program for aged chronics imposed by changing conditions outlined above, the people of this City have just voted the sum of $1,000,000. This will give an additional building of some 400 beds, will remodel one of the existing buildings of 400 beds for hospital purposes and will construct all the necessary adjuncts to the hospital, such as surgery, X-ray, laboratory, pharmacy, etc. Consolidating the hospital in one location rather than in two, as it now is, will give modern, up-to-date and sanitary conditions.

An additional bond issue of $400,000 was voted by the community to enlarge the capacity scope of the work for the tuberculous at the Hassler Health Home, as well as $200,000 for modernization of X-ray and other equipment at the San Francisco Hospital.

City physicians attended nearly 16,000 people during the year.

The Emergency Hospital, with two new ambulances put in service during the year, made 30,000 ambulance calls and treated over 60,000 patients in addition to covering all polo and football games with ambulance service. Representatives from eastern cities continue to be deeply interested in the organization of the Emergency Hospital Service.

The department maintained its record of the previous year in scientific publications. The Director of Public Health and his associates prepared scientific articles for publication, outstanding among which was the Handbook of Public Health Bacteriology, which has created nationwide comment and approbation. The articles published were:

Two Outbreaks of Food Poisoning; Influenza: The San Francisco Outbreak of January, February, 1937; Health Department Remedies for Sick Housing; Enteritis of Unknown Origin; Infant Mortality in San Francisco; Staphylococci in Raw Oysters; The Use of the Phosphate Test in Detecting Under-pasteurized Milk in San Francisco; Relation of the Hospital Interne to Preventive Medicine; How Clean Is Your Home? Tuberculin Test in Children in the San Francisco Schools.

In addition to the above, monthly articles dealing with historical aspects of the department appeared in the Bulletin of the San Francisco County Medical Society.

The Department of Public Health took an active part in the practical training of the School of Health Officers and Sanitarians conducted by the University of California under the Social Security Act. These men, coming from the western states, received actual instruction and field work supplementing the theoretical work which they have received at the University.

The educational side of the Health Department is growing rapidly. Reaching, as it does, all groups of people, including school children, the opportunities for educating the public are exceptional. An additional effort will be made in this direction each succeeding year.

Juvenile Probation Department.

In the report of Chief Probation Officer R. R. Miller, it is shown that, during 1936-1937, a total of 1407 new cases passed through the Juvenile Court, as against 1289 for the year previous; 3526 children were cared for during that period as against 3364 the previous year. The Detention Home during the fiscal year cared for 1663 children.

During 1936-1937, $530,218 was expended for maintenance of minors. Reimbursements from the State, Federal government, parents, etc., amounted to $182,190. The cost of State School commitments was $17,425.

Public Welfare Commission and Public Welfare Department.

The Public Welfare Commission and the Department of Public Welfare were created by Charter amendment, voted upon and passed by the people in March, 1937, and ratified by the California State Legislature in April, 1937. For the first time there is official recognition of the need for a permanent organization within this governmental unit for the administration of the several public welfare activities of the City and County of San Francisco in one coordinated program.

At the present time the Department includes four heretofore separately existing units having to do with: (1) relief to the unemployed; (2) public assistance to the needy aged, blind and half-orphaned children; (3) certain phases of the Works Progress Administration, and finally (4) the accounting related to these functions.

While centralization of administration is clearly defined in the Charter amendment, now Section 61.1 of the Charter, actual and effective coordination is difficult of immediate accomplishment because the various units of the Department are housed in ten offices in six different locations at widely scattered points in the city. Many of the difficulties related to this phase of the Department's activities will be corrected, in all probability, with the occupancy of a building of moderate cost soon to be constructed on the site of the old Moulder School, as a W. P. A. project. The new quarters, which probably will be ready for occupancy during the late summer of 1938, will provide space for most of the employees and services of the Department, thereby relieving other Departments of the necessity of providing space for the Public Welfare Department, and at the same time permitting of the development of the related services of the Department into the coordinated and integrated organization that was intended under the Charter amendment.

Several factors have operated to increase the cost of public welfare administration in San Francisco during these past several months. Last February and March the relief case load was at the lowest level it has been for many months. Since that time, and during these intervening ten months the case load has almost doubled (1700 to 3100). This rather startling condition is a result of certain factors: (1) the State Relief Administration has made further restrictions in its rules of eligibility, and (2) the recent "business recession" has manifested itself in increased numbers of applicants for direct relief for unemployment and, in turn, for the unemployable unemployed. An added factor, reflected in the total cost of relief, though not affecting the amount paid in direct relief, involves the installation of permanent employees on a civil service basis, in the newly created Department, more specifically the County Relief Division. At the present time 3100 cases are carried on relief at a total monthly cost of approximately $120,000.

The cost of public assistance to the needy aged, blind and half-orphan groups, likewise, has increased during recent months because of the liberalization of State laws in the 1937 session of the California State Legislature and because of the acceptance of certain additional responsibilities by the City and County of San Francisco. Under the present legislation, with less rigid requirements of age, residence and citizenship, effective September 1, 1937, increased costs were imminent. The result has been manifest, not only in the expenditures for direct maintenance of these specific groups, but also in personnel and other administrative costs. Public assistance, in San Francisco at the present time, is being given to approximately 7500 needy aged, 400 needy blind and 500 families in which there are 1300 children who have lost their natural protectors. The total cost, per month, for these three groups, combined, approximates $295,000.

During 1937-1938 the coordination of various Works Progress Administration projects in which the City and County of San Francisco made a sponsor's contribution, was made a responsibility of the Public Welfare Commission. These W. P. A. work projects in San Francisco employ approximately 12,000 persons. All labor costs and part of the non-labor costs are borne by the Federal government and the City and County of San Francisco bears the remainder of the non-labor costs, which will approximate $360,000 during the current fiscal year.

It is my belief, and I am certain that it is yours, that the public welfare of San Francisco is being ably administered by the Public Welfare Commission. That the problems incident to the administration of relief, public assistance and public welfare in general are of increasing importance can be denied by no one. These complications of present-day living probably will remain with us for some time to come. It is gratifying to me, as the Mayor of San Francisco and as a citizen, that the people of San Francisco have recognized the importance of public welfare as a governmental responsibility and that appropriate provision has been made in the Charter for its permanent administration in keeping with modern trends.

Coroner.

Dr. T. B. W. Leland, Coroner of the City and County of San Francisco, reports a most active period from January 1 to November 1, 1937. His statistics are estimated for November and December, 1937.

Number of cases handled, 2800; inquests held, 2333; jurors summoned and serving, 803; autopsies performed, 1902; pathological examinations, 1753; toxicological examinations, 2054.

Motor vehicle fatalities show an increase, 96 as against 84 last year. Of the 96, 72 were pedestrians. Sixty-one of these deaths occurred at intersections. Sixty-four occurred during the night. Happily, a decrease in the number of motor vehicle deaths among children under fifteen years: five as against eight for 1936. San Francisco's record of no deaths having occurred to school children going to or coming from school or in zones patrolled by school-boy traffic officers, is still upheld.

Suicides increased over 1936 by 39, the total having been 210. Homicides show an increase of eight over last year. Falls continued to lead, 133 deaths having resulted, as against 161 in 1936.

Juries made 31 recommendations. Money received and deposited with City and County Treasurer, $1,006; for uncalled for effects of deceased persons, $123.85.

Since the last report, W. P. A. has completed construction work and San Francisco now has a most beautiful municipal mortuary, unique in that it is probably the only one of its kind in the United States.

This mortuary has, as a distinguishing feature, a mural painting by the distinguished artist, Gottardo Piazzoni. The municipal mortuary offers the opportunity for bereaved people, without means to defray expense of a private funeral, to hold their services here without expense whatever.

In the case of a practical Catholic, a grave is donated by the Archbishop and the parish priest officiates at the funeral. A further service at the grave is held by the priest detailed at the cemetery.

In the case of a Protestant, graves have been generously donated by the Protestant cemeteries and a minister of the appropriate denomination offers his services at the funeral. If the deceased is a Protestant, and denomination is not known, the Salvation Army volunteer their services and furnish the music with a choir, and so with other deceased persons, according to their belief. The City provides the casket and the City undertaker attends to the interment.

Purchasing Department.

A recapitulation of purchasing activities for the year 1937 follows:

A total of 46,965 requisitions for materials, supplies, equipment and contractual service was received, which made necessary the issuance of 49,084 purchase orders, involving an expenditure of $5,587,277.83. This reflects an increase of 5.34 per cent in purchase orders and 12.66 per cent in money orders over the preceding year. A condensed summary of the number of purchase orders issued and the expenditures are: General and miscellaneous departments, 25,971 orders, $2,485,028.42; education, 5465 orders, $753,810.74; Health Department, 5375 orders, $842,966.42; Water Department, 3706 orders, $313,311.20; utilities (exclusive of Water Department), 4519 orders, $580,926.77; Works Progress Administration, 3196 orders, $517,590.75; unemployment relief, 852 orders, $93,643.53. Average cost per order, $1.46. Ratio of purchasing cost to total value of purchases, .012.

Municipal purchases are of a great interest to the industrial and business community. The city is a large customer and highly rated as a credit risk. The operations of the city require a great stream of materials, supplies, equipment and contractual services to carry on its manifold activities. The purchasing is done under strict Charter provisions. This rigid regulation provides a clear guide to proper conduct of the office, reasonable safeguards, and adherence to the proved reliance upon specifications, competitive bidding and similar practices. Experience has proven that a competent purchasing department is a very effective means of assuring smooth and economical operation and a source of savings to every department of the city government.

Agricultural Commissioner.

The inspection of all inter and intrastate shipments of plants, bulbs and seeds falls under the responsibility of this department. During 1937, to December 1st, 1678 shipments of incoming nursery stock, making a total of 22,973 packages were inspected, with 18 rejections. Nurseries inspected, 115; private homes, 16 inspected at request of owners. Nursery stock and cut flowers shipped interstate and inspected by this office, 3594 shipments, 4928 packages. Shipments to points outside of the United States, 277 shipments, 5773 packages.

Retail store inspection: fruits and vegetables, 1919 stores visited, 1296 packages reconditioned, 65 packages remarked and 1494¼ packages dumped. Eggs, 176 stores visited, 1637 dozen reconditioned and 173 dozen remarked. Honey, 1185 stores visited, 787 jars remarked.

Wholesale fruit and vegetable market: 1387 inspections, 17,864 packages reconditioned, 11,377 packages remarked and 29,752 packages dumped.

There were inspected 7128 shipments for export, comprising a total of 437,594 packages.

All city institutions' products were inspected, with only 28 rejections during the period named.

The revenue taken for export work amounted to $7,884.07 and for city institutions, $863.86.

San Francisco-San Mateo Livestock Exposition Buildings.

The Livestock Exposition building, for which $250,000 was appropriated by the city to equal a State appropriation of a like amount in 1934, is progressing satisfactorily. I am informed that Number One-a District Agricultural Association and the San Francisco Bay Exposition have reached an agreement by which the building under construction and other permanent buildings to be erected, will be used by the Bay Exposition during the year 1939 for its livestock, horse show and other Exposition purposes. This project has received liberal contributions from the Federal government, and when completed by additional State and national help will undoubtedly be the largest and best equipped livestock exposition building in America.

The use of these buildings by the Golden Gate International Exposition will bring to the mainland a large and most necessary part of the Exposition for 1939. San Francisco has long sought to have such a plant as this; which, when completed, will continue San Francisco's proud place, as the center of the livestock industry of the eleven western states.

The management of this building and the expositions to be held therein, except during the year 1939, will be in the hands of Number One-a District Agricultural Association, which is a State institution, functioning through eight trustees appointed by the Governor who, in turn, elect a president, secretary and treasurer. The district, which is one of several similar districts in California, embraces San Francisco and San Mateo counties. The plant and buildings are located on the county line between the two counties and thus the people of both counties have participation in this project. When completed there will be invested by the State, City and County of San Francisco, San Mateo County, and the Federal government, approximately three million dollars. The plant to be erected will be the largest, best appointed and most complete plant of its kind in the United States. Not only is this money well invested from the standpoint of assisting the livestock industry, which is the second in importance in California, but the erection of this plant during the depression gave much needed employment to qualified labor and relief workers. Both W. P. A. and P. W. A. have participated in its building. Not only will the wealth of the community be augmented, by this splendid development, but it will afford an opportunity for the youth of both counties to become better acquainted with the livestock industry and serve to bring the peoples of the great hinterland of San Francisco into closer contact with the people of the city, with consequent financial and social benefits to both.

District Attorney.

During the year 1937, this office participated in and conducted approximately 17,100 court hearings; issued 17,700 citations; conducted 14,000 citation hearings; was represented at all sessions of the Grand Jury during the year, both regular and special, and collected and turned into the City Treasurer's office in bail money the total sum of $625,840.

In addition to the above, this office participated in all Coroner's inquests wherein suspicion of crime in connection with deaths was present, attended all meetings of the parole board, all meetings of the traffic committee on safety matters, met with groups of merchants and organizations interested in the various phases of the Unfair Practices Act and prepared and gave instructions and lectures on the same to such groups for the purpose of averting law violations and court prosecutions.

The total cost of conducting the office for the year was $110,780. I am informed this is lower than that of any other District Attorney's office of comparable size in the United States.

Of the cases handled by the office of the District Attorney during the year 1937, of the 17,100 court hearings, approximately 1200 were felony cases that reached the Superior Court, and approximately 15,500 were misdemeanor cases disposed of in the Municipal Court; approximately 250 were crimes involving children, disposed of in the Juvenile Court.

Of the total number of approximately 17,700 citations issued, 9000 were issued by the Bureau of Domestic Relations of this office, dealing with failure to provide for minor children, indigent wives and aged parents and similar domestic cases; 2300 were issued by the Fraud Bureau of this office, dealing with crimes of frauds, swindles and violations of the Corporate Securities Act, misleading advertising and various other rackets; 6000 were issued by the Warrant and Bond Office dealing with miscellaneous offenses, felony and misdemeanor alike, and with violations of City ordinances; 400 were issued by the deputy in charge of the Juvenile Court work relating particularly to sex offenses and juvenile delinquencies. Hearings on citations were approximately as follows: Bureau of Domestic Relations, 8700; Fraud Bureau, 2000; Warrant and Bond Office, 6000; Juvenile Department, 350.

The Warrant and Bond Clerk's Department, aside from the issuance of citations as above noted, prepared 40,000 complaints and 10,500 warrants were issued upon these complaints.

Out of 192 narcotic cases disposed of during the year 1937, 179 were convictions. These figures pertain to proceedings in the Superior Court.

City Attorney.

An increased amount of business over the previous year passed through this department. This increase was reflected, not only in the number of actions filed against and for the City, but also in the additional work coming from the several departments. It would serve no purpose to itemize the various matters in litigation, save than to say that most of the cases prosecuted for the City were proceedings in eminent domain instituted to acquire land for public purposes.

There were no new actions filed affecting our water rights on the Tuolumne River. All of the actions heretofore commenced are still pending, for the reason that the Supreme Court has made no final disposition of any of them.

The case instituted by Meridian, Ltd., against the City, which was the first of the riparian cases to be tried, was argued in the Supreme Court several months ago and is still under submission.

The case of Williams et al. v. City and County of San Francisco, which also involved riparian rights on the lower stretches of the Tuolumne River, was tried in the Superior Court of Merced County early during the year. The decision was in favor of the City. An appeal was taken to the Appellate Court of the Third Appellate District and the case will be argued before that court on the 6th day of the present month.

Hetch Hetchy Power Litigation

In May of the present year the United States of America brought an action in the United States District Court to enjoin the City from continuing the distribution of its hydro-electric power through the agency of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. This action was tried during the month of November. On behalf of the City I have filed a 200-page brief setting forth the City's contention in the matter. The case has been continued until February 2 for argument.

One-Man Car Case

The appeal in this case has been perfected and the record has been filed with the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. In all probability, the case will be disposed of during the months of March or April.

Street Railway Cases

There has been the usual number of actions arising out of claims for damages in the operation of the Municipal Railway. These cases are all carefully defended, as will be shown from the reports submitted by the Public Utilities Commission setting forth the amount of damages paid on these claims, the amount paid during 1937 being less than any previous year, notwithstanding the large increase in the number of passengers carried.

Board of Education Litigation

The actions affecting the increases in teachers' salaries which have been pending since 1934 have been partially heard and determined. Judgments in these cases are now being prepared. While some increases in salaries were allowed, on the whole the result of the litigation was in favor of the City.

There were thirty other cases instituted during the year against the Board of Education, some arising in damages for personal injuries sustained by pupils and others were instituted by teachers to determine their status, or to prevent removal or compel reinstatement.

The principal judgment rendered against the City during the year was in the case of Belva Bellman v. Board of Education for injuries sustained while participating in athletic exercise. A judgment of $15,850 was rendered against the City. This judgment was set aside and the case is now before the Supreme Court on a petition for rehearing.

Tax Litigation

During the year an additional action was commenced by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company to recover taxes paid under protest on its utility property. The amount involved was approximately $200,000. A similar suit was filed in the previous year which is still pending. Similar actions have been commenced by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company against all the counties and the principal cities in the State. The actions against San Francisco will possibly be tried in February or March of the present year.

The question as to the right of the City to license for revenue is still pending in the Supreme Court. The lower court has held that under our present Charter the City can license for regulation only. The test case has been briefed and is now pending in the Supreme Court.

During the year 229 actions have been brought against the City. Many of these have been tried and determined, while others are still pending. One hundred and three of these cases were for damages arising out of the operation of the Municipal Railway. The remaining ones, involving nearly every form of litigation, arose in the other departments of the City government.

During the year the City instituted 13 suits, 10 of these being in eminent domain, and three to abate nuisances.

From January 1, 1937, to the end of the year, 74 opinions were written and transmitted to the several departments in response to their requests for legal advice.

Communications.

The following were presented and read by the Clerk:

OFFICE OF MANAGER OF UTILITIES

December 28, 1937.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors, 235 City Hall, San Francisco, California.

Gentlemen: The Public Utilities Commission is averse to seeing any transportation in the City of San Francisco abolished, because the Commission is of the opinion that what we need in San Francisco is more transportation, not less.

The Commission is, therefore, of the opinion that the Market Street Railway should not be forced to discontinue its line on Twentieth avenue in the Sunset District. Albeit the transportation along Twentieth avenue is bad, it is, nevertheless, better than no transportation; and there are parts of San Francisco which have no transportation and which deserve to have it.

If, however, your Honorable Board sees fit to eject the Market Street Railway from Twentieth avenue, the Public Utilities Commission will establish a bus line running along either Nineteenth or Twentieth avenue, as the engineers may decide at present and subject to change at a later time. This bus line will operate from Taraval street to Judah street, and from Judah street back to Taraval street, transferring to both the N cars and the L cars in both directions.

Very truly yours,

E. G. CAHILL, Manager of Utilities.

Protest Against Removal of No. 17 Car Line.

San Francisco, California.

January 21, 1938.

Clerk, Board of Supervisors, Room 228, City Hall, San Francisco, California.

Dear Sir: Re: Meeting held 10:00 a. m. Friday, January 21st, regarding removal car tracks, Twentieth avenue.

A copy of the following protest from Mrs. Leo V. Cox, 1930 Twenty-first avenue, was requested by Supervisors McSheehy to become a part of the record of the meeting. In keeping with that request, I am herewith giving you the information as stated at the meeting, and would appreciate your making it a part of the record as requested by Supervisor McSheehy:

"As an interested property owner I desire to register a protest against the removal of the No. 17 car line from Twentieth avenue, thereby taking away from residents of the district dependent upon this car line through service to the downtown district.

"A definite need for this line is greater today than in the early days of its operation, which to my knowledge has been approximately fifteen years ago.

"I am absolutely opposed to busses either on through service to town or connecting with either of the present municipal lines now serving the Sunset District. Busses are a very unsatisfactory substitution for street cars as they do not permit of the same facilities for handling the people or coping with the traffic.

"Myself, along with a considerable number of other people contacted, want through street car service to the downtown business district as evidenced by the petition and personal letters presented before this Board a couple of weeks ago."

Thanking you, I am

Yours very truly,

(Signed: Frances L. Cox)

MRS. LEO V. COX.

1930 Twenty-first avenue.

The following recommendation of the Exposition Affairs and Industrial Affairs Committee was taken up:

Golden Gate International Exposition Building Ordinance.

Bill No. 1483, Ordinance No. 5.951, as follows:

An ordinance to be known as the "Golden Gate International Exposition Building Ordinance" governing the erection, use, repair, demolition and control of buildings and structures, and the installation, use, repair and control of plumbing, sewerage, water, gas, steam, and other pipes, and the installation, use, repair and control of electric light, power and other wires, conduits and other apparatus, and the erection and maintenance of steam boilers, steam, gas and other engines and other apparatus and governing other matters of building construction or repair, necessary, proper or expedient for the safety, health, convenience and welfare of the public within that portion of the City and County of San Francisco located on Yerba Buena shoals now in course of reclamation selected as the site of the Golden Gate International Exposition and now held under a lease heretofore granted to the San Francisco Bay Exposition, a non-profit corporation by the City and County of San Francisco.

Be it ordained by the people of the City and County of San Francisco:

Section 1. This ordinance shall be known as the "Golden Gate International Exposition Building Ordinance" of the City and County of San Francisco.

Section 2. This ordinance shall apply to and govern the erection, use, alteration, repair, demolition and control of buildings and structures of every nature and description; the installation, use, repair and control of plumbing, water, gas, steam, sewerage and other pipes and other instrumentalities; the installation, use, repair and control of electric light, power and other wires, conduits and apparatus; the erection and maintenance of steam boilers, steam, gas and other engines and other apparatus; and governing any and every other matter of building construction or repair necessary, proper or expedient for the safety, health, convenience and welfare of the public, within that portion of the City and County of San Francisco located on Yerba Buena shoals now in course of reclamation, selected as the site of the Golden Gate International Exposition, hereinafter referred to as the "Exposition", and now held under lease by the San Francisco Bay Exposition, a non-profit corporation, hereinafter referred to as the "Exposition Company," which is sponsoring said Exposition, the said lease having been made by the City and County of San Francisco as lessor and said Exposition Company as lessee under date of August 22, 1936, pursuant to Ordinance No. 12.173544, Bill No. 1064, of the City and County of San Francisco, approved August 4, 1936.

Section 3. The Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco hereby declares that this ordinance is necessary in the public interest. It hereby finds that the site of said Exposition in, on and to which this ordinance will apply is a portion of the City and County of San Francisco separated from the mainland thereof and entirely surrounded by the waters of the Bay of San Francisco except as it is connected with Yerba Buena Island by a Causeway approximately three hundred (300) yards in length; that said site is now being improved by the City and County of San Francisco out of funds supplied by the Federal Government and said Exposition Company with certain buildings, structures and other improvements of a permanent character now in course of construction intended for municipal use in the operation of a public municipal airport on said site after the close of said Exposition; that said site is now being improved and will be further improved by or for said Exposition Company with certain buildings, structures and other improvements of a temporary character for the use of said Exposition in the conduct of said Exposition, which by the terms of said lease are to be demolished and removed by the Exposition Company following the close of said Exposition and on or before the 31st day of December, 1940; that by reason of the location and surrounding of said site and by reason of the temporary character of the buildings, structures and improvements to be placed thereon and subsequently removed by the Exposition Company, this site and the temporary use and improvement thereof for Exposition purposes present problems which differ in character from those concerned with the mainland and which can be adequately provided for in the interest of public safety, health, convenience and welfare by standards of construction, maintenance and operation different from those prevailing on the mainland and more suitable to the intended temporary use of said site for Exposition purposes; and that the Exposition Company has issued and published certain "Rules and Regulations for Grounds and Buildings," approved by it on May 11, 1937, duly certified copies of which have been transmitted to and filed with the Mayor of the City and County of San Francisco and the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of said City and County, which "Rules and Regulations for Grounds and Buildings" prescribe certain and definite standards for works of construction on said site, and for the maintenance and operation thereof, which, if duly observed, will provide for safe and sanitary buildings and structures and for proper protection against fire hazard and will adequately provide for the public safety, health, convenience and welfare.

Section 4. (a) The Exposition Company may erect, use, alter, demolish and control buildings and structures of every nature and description, including therein all provisions for plumbing, water, gas, steam, sewerage and other pipes and instrumentalities, and electric light, power and other wires and conduits in or used in connection with any building or structures erected, used, altered or controlled under the provisions hereof, on the condition that electrical distribution system, wiring, installation, apparatus and electrical equipment shall be subject to the inspection and approval of the Chief of the Department of Electricity of the City and County of San Francisco, and on condition that the plans and specifications for the erection of any such building or structure which said plans and specifications shall show the provisions made for the installation of plumbing, pipes and appliances and the scheme of electric wiring shall first be submitted to and approved in writing by the Bureau of Fire Prevention and Public Safety before works of construction thereunder shall be commenced and provided that any plans and specifications for alterations and repairs to any such building or structure estimated to exceed one thousand dollars ($1,000) in cost shall likewise be so submitted and approved before such alterations or repairs are commenced.

(b) During or after the erection of any building or structure under the provisions hereof, the same or any portion thereof, may be altered, used or demolished by said Exposition Company, and it may erect, use, maintain and remove booths of every description, railings, cases and shelving for exhibitors, and may install in any such building, structure or improvement any plumbing, water, gas, steam, sewerage and other pipes and instrumentalities, electric light, power and other wires and conduits, steam boilers, steam, gas and other engines and apparatus subject to inspection and approval as hereinbefore provided in subparagraph (a) of this section.

(d) The Exposition Company may install, use and control all electric light, power and other wires, conduits, generating, transmitting and other apparatus which it shall deem to be necessary, proper or expedient for the safety, convenience and welfare of the public within the said site subject to inspection and approval as hereinbefore provided in subparagraph (a) of this section.

(e) The Exposition Company may erect, maintain and use all boilers, steam, gas and other engines and apparatus which it shall deem to be necessary, proper or expedient for the safety, convenience and welfare of the public within the said site.

(f) The Exposition Company may erect such buildings and install such appliances for the storage and use of and may store and use such crude oil, gasoline and similar substances, as it shall determine to be necessary, proper or expedient for the safety, convenience and welfare of the public within the said site.

(g) The Exposition Company may establish, maintain and use such emergency hospitals and make such provision for the sanitation of that portion of the City and County of San Francisco within the said site as it shall determine to be necessary, proper or expedient for the safety, convenience and welfare of the public within the said site, provided that in matters affecting the public health the Exposition Company shall cooperate with and be subject to the inspection and approval of the health officer of the City and County of San Francisco.

(h) The Exposition Company may erect, maintain and operate such places of amusement, including theatres and moving picture shows, as it shall determine to be necessary, proper or expedient for the safety, convenience and welfare of the public within the said site.

(i) The Exposition Company may maintain and operate concessions for restaurants, sales of curios, pictures and any and all classes and kinds of goods, wares and merchandise.

Section 5. All work hereinabove in Section 4 of this ordinance provided for may be done by, and all privileges therein given to the Exposition Company shall inure to the benefit of, the employees, contractors and licensees of the Exposition Company, provided that no general powers or privileges therein given to the Exposition Company shall be delegated by it, and that it shall not by its own act be relieved of any of its obligations hereunder, and provided, further, that all of the work to be done and all of the privileges to be exercised hereunder shall be in accordance with said "Rules and Regulations for Grounds and Buildings."

Section 6. And the City and County of San Francisco, in recognizing the existence of the Exposition Company and any rights or authority granted hereunder to it does not assume any responsibility or obligation for any claim or demand of any person for injuries or damages of any nature or description growing out of any of the work or things for which provision is herein made.

Section 7. Save and except as herein provided, no permit or license shall be required for the doing of any of the work or things herein provided for by said Exposition Company, its employees, contractors or licensees, and no charge or fee shall be made against or required or demanded from the said Exposition Company, its employees, contractors or licensees, for the doing of any of the work or things herein provided for, except that the Exposition Company shall pay to the City and County of San Francisco the direct cost of electrical inspection within the limits of the site of the Exposition, provided, however, that all electrical or fixture work on the Exposition grounds or in, or about, any building or structure thereon, shall be subject to the provisions of Ordinance No. 11.114, approved August 18, 1936, and all contractors or other persons doing or performing any such work shall be registered in accordance with the provisions of said ordinance and pay the registration fees therein provided.

Section 8. All ordinances and regulations or parts thereof in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance shall, so long as the provisions of this ordinance are in full force and effect, be of no force and effect in that portion of the City and County of San Francisco located on Yerba Buena Shoals, now in course of reclamation, selected as the site of said Exposition, and now let and demised to said Exposition Company under and by authority of the lease thereof, hereinabove described, or with regard to any works of construction or repair or any installations on said site or the maintenance, operation or control thereof, but with regard to all such matters the provisions of this ordinance shall alone be in force and effect during the effective period of this ordinance.

Section 9. The provisions of this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after the effective date hereof until January 1, 1941.

Section 10. If any section, sentence, clause or part of this ordinance is for any reason held to be unconstitutional or in conflict with or violative of the Charter of the City and County of San Francisco, such decision shall not affect the remaining portions of this ordinance. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance and each section, sentence, clause and part thereof despite the fact that one or more sections, sentences, clauses or parts thereof be declared unconstitutional or in conflict with or violative of said Charter.

REPORT BY SUPERVISOR ALFRED RONCOVIERI OF PROCEEDINGS OF UNITED STATES CONFERENCE OF MAYORS HELD IN WASHINGTON, D. C., NOVEMBER 15, 16, 17, 1937.

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:

Gentlemen: I am presenting to you, for the record, the highlights of the United States Conference of Mayors held in Washington, D. C., November 15, 16 and 17, 1937.

At the conference there were present the Mayors and other officials of one hundred and fifty of the nation's larger cities. The topics of discussion affecting municipalities, covered a wide range; among them were the municipal airport problem, social diseases, relief and unemployment, the new federal housing program, and industrial disputes.

You will find this report full of important information of benefit to San Francisco.

Respectfully,

ALFRED RONCOVIERI,

Supervisor, Delegate to the United States Conference of Mayors, Washington, D. C.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1937.

The Conference was opened by Honorable Fiorello H. LaGuardia, Mayor of New York City, and President of the United States Conference of Mayors, who delivered the following address:

In reporting the activities of the past year I am sure that it is not necessary to tell you that we have had a very busy time. We find that more and more this conference is looked upon as the official spokesman of the mayors of the country. Therefore, I find that our responsibility is constantly increasing. This is due to the fact that we have sought to be accurate in the presentation of facts. To date I believe that every survey which we have made has been found by experience afterwards to have been correct.

Sometimes we are criticized for our efforts, and perhaps anxiety, in reporting conditions and in seeking aid. The mayor of a city is closer to the problem than any other official under our dual form of government. I can speak from actual experience when I say that it is far easier to be a legislator and tell the whole world and the other fellow what to do than to be a mayor and have to do it yourself.

Our first problem after we adjourned last year was to get some action on public works where cities had held bond elections. The P. W. A., as you all know, tapered down to a point where there were practically no new applications granted. Many of the cities had held elections on bond issues and found themselves having carried an election, and with all preparations and plans, but no resources to carry through.

We made arrangements with the Public Works Administrator, who is always understanding and desirous of being cooperative. We prevailed upon him to consider and grant applications where bond elections had been held and carried. To that extent we relieved many municipalities of embarrassing situations.

The next important matter, I think, was that of housing. We took a very careful survey of all the cities and received from you full and complete data concerning the housing situation and slum conditions throughout the country. Under your direction I appeared before the Senate Committee and then the House Committee, presented the facts, and urged the passage of some measure which would bring Federal aid to this important question of housing.

I need not review the opposition—you will find that in the minutes of the hearings it was the usual story of governmental interference and encroachment upon the field of private industry. But finally the Steagall-Wagner Act was passed and signed by the President.

It is yet too early to say just how many municipalities will be able to avail themselves of the provisions of that act. As you know, it requires an initial contribution on the part of the municipality or agency in charge of housing or undertaking the construction of low-rent housing. Once the initial contribution period has been met, the bill is generous in its provisions in making low rents in decent, sanitary dwellings possible.

One encouraging feature is that the President of the United States has appointed as Housing Administrator one who is familiar with housing conditions and is thoroughly conversant with municipal finances and the limitations of cities. That he is an excellent and well-qualified person I am sure you will understand when I tell you that he was one of my housing commissioners of the Municipal Housing Authority of New York City. A better choice, of course, the President could not have made.

The states and cities having housing authorities who can qualify under the law should be quick in making preliminary preparations and filing their applications for loans and the subsidy provisions. The bill provides for apportionment throughout the states, with a maximum limit for any one state, so that every section of the country is fully protected.

You gentlemen from the midwest will be happy to hear that the recommendation of this conference for a natural gas regulatory law was received by the House of Representatives and passed the House at the last session. We got it through very quickly, but I am too seasoned to say whether or not we slipped one through the House or whether the utility interests are waiting to fight it in the Senate. So, you gentlemen who are interested please get busy with your Senators. We will do all that we can to bring the information desired to the appropriate committee of the Senate and to urge its passage. The bill is now in the Senate and should pass at this session. I fear that we may find opposition in the Senate, prompted and motivated by the utility interests, so let us not rejoice until it is passed.

We endeavored to have the Federal Reserve Act amended so as to permit interest paying on city deposits. Unfortunately we failed, and, as you know, banks are not permitted to pay interest on city deposits. Many cities have met that condition by making time deposits. That, of course, is not easy, and there is a loss to the cities even though the interest rate is very low. I, therefore, commend for your consideration again a request to Congress to amend the law, so as to permit interest on city deposits.

New York City has made arrangements for time deposits on certain portions of its cash balance. We were getting only quarter of one per cent, but when we have a cash balance of from ninety to one hundred twenty million dollars all of the time, of course, every quarter or every fraction of one per cent counts. I do not see why we are not entitled to interest on our money, unless, of course they want to force the municipalities into the banking business. We could not do any worse than is being done now. (Laughter.) We are not supposed to be business men. (Laughter.)

We have been very successful you will be glad to hear, in breaking up combinations in restraint of trade. Through the initiation of Mr. Paul Betters, director of our conference, we have established a clearing house for comparisons of prices on material and supplies purchased by municipalities. In fact, we have been the chief client of the Federal Trade Commission during the past year. We have filed several complaints where we had absolute proof of collusion in bidding for cities' business. Among the chief commodities are electric cable manufactures, cast iron soil pipes, water works valves and hydrants, turbine generators, cement, and even paper cups.

The Federal Trade Commission is acting very promptly on our complaints, and we are getting very satisfactory results. On the other hand, I want to commend to you the necessity of cooperating with the Federal Trade Commission by giving force and effect to its desist orders, not only on the supplies which we purchase by a reverse clearance, but when you get a notice from the director of your conference that there is a desist order see to it that you get the benefit of honest competition when you next advertise for the purchase of the given commodity.

I had an opportunity in New York City to give very effective force to one of the Federal Trade Commission decisions which did not affect the city purchases. This order was issued on certain candy manufacturers that featured gambling in the sale of their candy. You know, a given color receives a prize or a nickel back, and all sorts of chances, in the sale of candy. Needless to say, the candy was of inferior quality, and we had quite a problem in the large cities, because it really created and stimulated an appetite for gambling among the younger school children. The desist order was in effect several months when my attention was called to it, and I simply invoked the gambling laws of the State of New York and put the police on the job, and we have cleaned New York City of inferior candy with perfectly no-good prizes.

I hope you will give the Federal Trade Commission orders your consideration, because they are giving splendid assistance.

From candy we go to airports. We have received many complaints, and a great deal of dissatisfaction has been engendered because of the uncertainty of requirements of commercial airports. Many cities have invested large amounts in building airports, to find that by the time the airport is completed, it no longer conforms to the Department of Commerce requirements. Now, either the art is progressing more rapidly than airports can be constructed, or airports are not progressing sufficiently rapidly to keep up with the progress in the art. The fact remains that many of the airports which were supposed to be the last word, on completion were found to be too small and have been discontinued from the main lines.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Johnson has been invited to speak on the subject, and mayors having that problem before them I am sure will be interested in hearing him and discussing the subject with him.

Another innovation which we are seeking to bring about in order to reduce the costs of supplies and materials purchased by cities, is to avail ourselves of omnibus contracts and prices obtained by the Federal government. The Procurement Division of the Federal government, as you know, contracts for Federal supplies and materials used by the various departments of the Federal government, which naturally obtains low prices by reason of the quantity purchased or to be purchased.

It occurred to us that municipalities that have not their own purchasing department or that require but occasional purchases of a given commodity, or small quantities, could avail themselves of the prices thus obtained by the Federal government, and draw upon the manufacturers by requisition of any commodity contracted for by the Federal government. We, therefore, asked the Procurement Division of the Treasury Department if they would write a stipulation on all of their specifications giving to any city the right to purchase at the same price and under the same terms and conditions as the United States government. They were very anxious to cooperate, but found that they could not do so, under the law.

We have prepared a bill which we shall submit for your consideration; and I hope that you will all give it your approval, so that we may have it introduced in Congress. And if the contractors' association and the manufacturers' association do not oppose it too strenuously, I think we shall be able to have it passed. If it is passed, it will result in a very substantial saving to many municipalities and, in fact, to all municipalities that desire to take advantage of that provision.

You will recall that last year this conference approved the resolution forming a Public Health Committee, consisting of the United States Public Health Service, the Public Health Institute, the Academy of Medicine, and other medical organizations, to establish standard and uniform requirements and qualifications for public health officers. We have now learned that public health is a special and different branch of medicine than the practice of medicine and surgery; that actual experience can only be obtained in the public service; that public health service is now one of the principal responsibilities and functions of municipal government, and that it was difficult for large, medium-size and small cities to know where they could get the right kind of experienced and trained personnel for their public health work.

To that end this committee was organized at your request, and gave a whole year of study and consideration to the problem. We have received their report setting forth standards of experience and qualifications and classifications so that the smaller cities may be able to obtain the best available and experienced talent, and that larger cities may draw from the smaller cities, thereby creating regular "career" municipal public health officers.

As you know, in New York City—much to the disappointment and chagrin of politicians—I went out of the city to select a public health officer. I have done that on several occasions. And the results in New York City justify the hope that by establishment of such a national municipal career, all cities may be able to have at all times first-class service and uniformity in health and disease prevention throughout the country.

The next step, when you receive the report of the committee, is to carry out the intent of your original resolution and establish a list of eligibles from which the various cities may draw.

Another very important matter, which I can take up only in very sketchy manner, is the electrical code problem. Now, somebody has been "getting away with something" for a long time. There are 704 cities throughout the United States enforcing municipal electrical ordinances. These ordinances are commonly known as electrical codes, and are rules and regulations governing the installation of electrical equipment. The municipal officials enforcing that code are the municipal director, the inspector, and other city officials. Broad powers are enforced by these officials, such as electrical contracts, installation of electric wiring, regulations concerning fire underwriters, and the like, and establishing penalties for noncompliance. These 704 cities have a total population of approximately fifty million people.

This master code is formed by a private group composed chiefly of manufacturers and fire underwriters. Their purpose is the practical safeguarding of persons, buildings and their contents. The National Electrical Code originated as a fire insurance code or standard, and slight changes are made from time to time.

Now, we have ascertained that cities are not getting the full benefit of improvement in the art; that improvements in wiring and other electrical installation appliances are purposely withdrawn in order to consume stock on hand, and that the most economical means are not employed in the rules and regulations of the code. While the code is revised every year, yet we of the 704 cities seemingly must follow the code of the manufacturers and fire underwriters. To give you an idea of how it works out: There are 47 votes, I think, in this Code Committee. And out of the 47 votes—mark you, representing all the municipalities—New York City—a municipality—has one vote; and the National Municipal Signal Association, which seems to be a public organization, has one.

There are two methods of approach. One is to seek to obtain larger representation on this code committee. I do not see how that would be very helpful, because even were they to increase the representation, we would still be in a minority. And the other method, and the one which I prefer, is that we establish our own code committee and have our code committee consist of the municipal officer in charge of that work in the various cities, have them meet once a year, and then have them coordinate with this private organization so that we may be kept informed of what they are doing and they may be kept informed of what we require, and at the same time utilize the benefit of our actual experience-to-be—and take the lead rather than be told by the industry just what we should buy and how we should buy it. We commend that to your consideration, and hope you will give it action.

We had very successful regional meetings at Philadelphia and were very hospitably entertained by Mayor Wilson. We took up matters concerning the cities of the east. We had a regional meeting at Los Angeles, where we were entertained by Mayor Shaw, and took up some of their problems there. I hope that this system of regional meetings will be continued by my successor, because I find that at these regional meetings there is more time for going into the details of the various problems confronting the mayors.

Last year, after the great flood, we decided that it might be well to approve some rules and regulations on emergency action by cities. As you know, Mayor Wilson of Philadelphia, was selected chairman, and I believe that committee is ready to make a report to this conference.

Now, gentlemen, we all come here burdened with a great many problems. I have had the pleasure of speaking with many of my colleagues yesterday afternoon and yesterday evening, and I sincerely trust that we will have full and frank discussion of the problems which are confronting the cities of this country. If necessary we might have a meeting this evening, so that mayors of the various cities may have an opportunity of taking the floor and expressing their thoughts and suggestions on some of these problems, and how they should be met.

I know that I express the regret of every mayor present that we are unable definitely to report an improvement in the unemployment situation. Each year as we gathered and received the survey of conditions in our cities it has been our fond hope that in the next conference we could see an improvement and be able to so announce it.

Gentlemen, we are not legislators. We are not the Congress; nor do we control the industries of the country. We are just mayors. We are confronted with actual conditions and we are bound to report realistically conditions as we find them, and only as the mayors of the cities of this country know them.

In the course of this conference the director of the United States

Conference of Mayors will report the findings of our last survey, upon which we must base our estimates of relief requirements for the balance of the fiscal year and the fiscal year 1938-1939.

In this regard we find ourselves in a most unpleasant situation. We are charged with appearing constantly in the role of beggars for Federal funds, and we are daily being hard pressed for more relief. Only through the stress of necessity and the anxiety to alleviate suffering do we assume this role. The administration of the Federal Works Progress Administration locally, on the whole has improved, and is now reaching the point of being well organized, with less and less loss of motion, effort, and waste of funds. Home relief, or direct relief administered by states, counties and municipalities, is likewise being well administered, with trained and experienced personnel—all, of course, within the limited resources of the fund-providing agency. Though the amounts required are staggering, yet no one will be able to point to any schedule of allowance for relief that is either extravagant or over the bare necessity of keeping body and soul together. The cost of administration is reducing constantly, to the point where a standard of proper administrative cost may be established. Frankly, I believe we will have to ask for a deficiency appropriation if the present trend of industry and employment either continues or becomes worse. It follows, therefore, that our estimates will indicate a large amount for the fiscal year 1938-1939.

Now, gentlemen, every mayor that I have spoken with, and they represented almost every section of the country, has felt the responsibility, and has felt that conditions for the winter will indicate an increase of unemployment. It would appear as though we are confronted with a recession in industry and in business. That is bad enough, but I want to take this opportunity of registering an emphatic protest against those who take great joy, and gloat in ballyhooing a return of this situation. I believe that a great deal of fear and timidity has been created by those who are ballyhooing what they call another depression. It is doing the country no good; it is doing our people no good; but, above all—they do not seem to know it—it is doing the very people who are doing the ballyhooing more harm than they can at this time contemplate.

Naturally there has been a reduction in production in the heavy industries. The result of that is that the vast public works program of the Federal government is just about completed. There was no complaint when the government was doing the ordering and doing the buying. Everybody seemed to be happier. When I say "everybody" I am referring to this group who are now complaining. On the one hand they want the orders, and on the other hand they do not want the government to spend any money. That is about the only suggestion received from that particular quarter to date.

There has been complaint and criticism of the various methods of caring, or failing to care for, unemployables in the various cities. I need not submit that it is manifestly unfair for cities that provide generously for unemployables and a large percentage of employables, and states that do likewise, to bear not only the cost of relief carried on by them, but also to contribute their share of the cost of relief for states and localities which make little or no provision. I can speak feelingly on the subject, gentlemen, because it happens that my town, along with some of the others, is caring not only for the unemployables, but for a large percentage of the employables. In other words, we are spending in New York City slightly over 10 million dollars a month for relief. That includes the city's share of about five and three-quarter million dollars a month, and the state's contribution of slightly over 4 million dollars a month. That means that we are taking over part of the load which, under the formula announced by the administration here in Washington, should be borne by the Federal government—that is, caring for the employables.

Now, then, if any state fails to contribute any part of the relief, and depends entirely on the relief situation and what the Federal government does, you can readily see that they are receiving 100 per cent of relief and paying but a small fraction for it, while other communities that have the additional burden must contribute a large percentage of the general cost. We must work out some formula. It is not as easily done as said. I had a talk with Mr. Hopkins yesterday, and he is hopeful that we may be able to work out some formula.

Therefore, I would suggest that the committee that takes up this question should confer with the officials in Mr. Hopkins' office who have the data and the figures, so that we may make some suggestion to Mr. Hopkins, the Works Progress Administrator, on just how this is to work out. This is important, my colleagues, because if Congress attempts to re-write a fixed contribution on relief for employables, there are very few cities in this country that will be able to qualify under such a formula. It is not pleasant for me to make that statement, but somebody must make it, and we cannot be anything but realistic when we are dealing with a problem as human as that of relief, where we have millions of American families in need, through no fault of their own. We must be frank about it.

This brings up the question of cost, and its concomitant, taxes, federal, state and local. Loud is the grumbling about existing taxes, and with some justification, but, gentlemen, I repeat, we are not legislators. Many of us have been, and when we were legislators, we wanted to run the country. They would not let us. So here we are as mayors now.

When we talk about taxes we, as mayors, do not escape our share of abuse on local assessments and taxes. Every mayor will agree with me that our share of abuse on taxes is not only voluminous, but insistent and persistent. There is not a city in the country that has not its own tax troubles, and is on very thin ice in keeping the local budget balanced. Additional revenues from real property are simply not possible. When I say that I believe I am speaking for every mayor in this country. Sources for additional revenue for cities are naturally preempted either by the state or the Federal government. The prospect of maturing bonds issued for public works or for relief is not a pleasant one for any of us to contemplate. I point that out to show that cities have borne their just share of the depression costs. It is conceded that no city or state can possibly bear the entire cost of carrying the unemployed. That being so, the Federal government likewise is confronted with a critical condition. Responsibility cannot be avoided. It seems to me that in the matter of taxes uniformity might help a great deal in spreading the burden.

You will all recall our conference with the President of the United States two years ago, and the profound impression he made when he sensed most of our troubles by putting his finger on the taxing sore spot of our country. He pointed out the many, many tax collecting agencies and told us that he was bearing in mind the necessity of a tax reform program which would eliminate some of these agencies and thereby reduce some of the troubles, difficulties and burdens of our multiple taxing system.

It occurred to me that in the administration of income taxes it would not be difficult for the Federal government to adopt a system which would bring uniformity throughout the entire country. This would be advantageous to states that have attempted income taxes and would not put them at a disadvantage as compared with states which refused to do so and brazenly advertised the fact in order to attract industry within their confines.

I would suggest the Ramseyer formula, which has been adopted by the Federal government in the collection of Federal inheritance taxes. The formula was at first suggested by former Representative Ramseyer, from the state of Iowa, when an increase in the inheritance and gift taxes was proposed by Congress. It soon developed that states not having inheritance taxes hurried to write exemptions in their statutes and even in their constitutions. This resulted in the migration of millionaires and multi-millionaires to the non-inheritance tax states. Such conditions gave rise to the Ramseyer formula, which provided credit for the state taxes of a certain percentage of the Federal tax. If the state imposed that percentage, the Federal tax was reduced to that extent. If not, the Federal tax was imposed and the revenue turned into the United States Treasury. We now have practical uniformity in inheritance taxes throughout the country. The same system should be adopted in income taxes. A casual survey would indicate an average of state income taxes which could be figured for a fair percentage allowance of the Federal taxes, and thereby not only bring about uniformity of income taxes, both personal and corporate, but would prevent what might be called unfair competition among the states. It would do a great deal to eliminate unfair competition, and also to establish a more uniform rate of wages in industry. I commend this plan for your consideration and action.

Not until the question of labor is definitely and satisfactorily settled can we hope to arrive at a point where we can estimate on a minimum permanent relief requirement. We are still struggling along, seemingly, blind, with the same old vicious circle—lack of purchasing power, reduced production; reduced production, reduced employment; increased relief. This conference has repeatedly expressed itself as to the necessity of creating a greater spread of employment and putting that vicious circle in reverse. This, in turn, is translated into increased purchasing power, increased production, increased employment, and decreased relief. It has now been accepted, I hope, by all, that the rural sections of our country and the cities are in the same boat. I point out that because I remember my early days as a member of Congress twenty years ago, when the cities used to oppose agricultural legislation and the rural representatives used to oppose measures affecting the industries. Rehabilitation of industry without the prosperity of the farm is as impossible as prosperity for the farmer without rehabilitation of industry. A way must be found to balance the surplus man-power of the one with the surplus crops of the other.

In establishing the so-called spread by a shorter working day and a shorter working week, it is necessary to give industry fair consideration, but industry should be willing to cooperate in this legislation instead of opposing and fighting it blindly. Eventually it will result in reduced taxes by reason of reduced appropriations for relief. It might take some time to reach this point. In the meantime I suggest for your consideration a recommendation to Congress to consider the advisability of providing, during the initial and adjustment period, some tax credit to industry that will adjust itself to shorter hours and a shorter week, thereby increasing the number of employees. This may well be worked out on the basis of percentage of employment increase.

We hear a great deal these days about the troubles of industry, but, gentlemen, unless we establish purchasing power in this country industry will have no market. I will concede that what business in this country requires is stability. On the other hand, what labor requires is security, and if we have security for one we can have stability for the other.

We hear a great deal now about so-called hard-headed financiers. The trouble, gentlemen, is that they are not hard-headed financiers. They thought they were. They were hard-hearted financiers, and soft-headed. They knew more about the design of a stock certificate than they knew about sound finances, which caused most of our troubles.

I welcome the situation of hard-headed financiers, but to date I have not heard or seen any constructive or helpful suggestions. If there ever was a time when this country required cooperation among all of its people in the face of a great emergency, it is this very moment. I know that I speak for the mayors of our cities when I call upon industry, finance and labor to get together and to work together for the mutual benefit and welfare of our country. (Applause.)

On the labor side of this question, the mayors are in a position to speak from first-hand information. While there may be a division of theories on the labor question, the fact remains that every mayor must sleep with his labor troubles. We do not get our information from surveys or reports; it comes right to our desks every morning.

On two separate occasions has this conference made direct appeal to organized labor for unity in its ranks. No matter how sympathetic a mayor may be to the cause of labor, it is extremely difficult to improve labor conditions as long as there is a split within the ranks of organized labor. Just as soon as we have been relieved by the settling of a given labor dispute, invariably we are confronted with the fact that another group of organized labor has started a strike in the very same industry or, perhaps, in the very same shop. To see one group of organized labor strike against an employer who has just settled with another group of organized labor is not only unsatisfactory but is most discouraging.

There is but one objective of organized labor, and that is to see that the wage-earner is fully protected against exploitation, to improve working conditions, and to insist upon fair, equitable, and just wages. That being so, it is devoutly to be wished that pending differences between two great labor groups be speedily adjusted and that organized labor again operate through united leadership, heading one family.

At this very time it is encouraging to know that there is being held here in Washington a meeting of the representatives of the two groups of organized labor. I, therefore, commend to your consideration the preparation of another message to the present labor conference here in Washington, urging and pleading for a speedy adjustment, as I have just indicated.

That, gentlemen, will briefly indicate the problems that we shall take up during the sessions of the next three days. A program has been arranged, bringing here outstanding authorities on the subjects they will discuss.

One of the immediate matters before us is that of obtaining an accurate unemployment census. The mayors of the cities have been called upon to appoint advisory committees. I am sure you have all done so. In New York City we have an advisory committee that is now waging an educational campaign. We have now recruited or put into service our entire relief administration, consisting of several thousand investigators. This will be followed up, during the last three days, by concerted police action in checking to see that every one has properly filled out the questionnaires. It is important that we get an accurate census. Not for our benefit, gentlemen; we know the conditions; but to convince many—I won't say many; but some people—in this country, who are under the belief that there is work and people refuse to take employment. It is, therefore, necessary to record the actual conditions which you and I and every other mayor of the United States know.

I now take pleasure in presenting to you the Director of the Unemployment Census, Mr. John D. Biggers, who will go into detail on the subject. (Applause.)

Address of Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service, on "The Cities and the War Against Social Disease."

Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service, addressed the United States Conference of Mayors on the subject: "The Cities and the War Against Social Disease."

Dr. Parran discussed this problem in a frank and scholarly manner, calling the attention of the United States Conference of Mayors that syphilis is essentially a "city" disease, being four times more prevalent in cities than in the rural sections, and that Health and other municipal authorities can do much to stamp it out.

The two principal sources of original infection are the prostitute and the clandestine.

He told the Conference that every city in the country is paying for syphilis whether controlled or not. He assured the Conference that the control of the disease would pay big dividends. Its control is one of the most urgent problems of public health, because syphilis is so insidious that one-half of the people infected with it are not aware of its existence.

He pointed out that in many cases the first symptoms are both slight and transitory. They appear for a short while and then entirely disappear, except for positive showing in a blood test.

Dr. Parran called attention to the case of a man in high standing, who consulted him professionally. Dr. Parran told this gentleman that if he, the doctor, were not so well acquainted with him, because of his splendid reputation as a professor in one of our colleges, that he would say to him: "Professor, you have all the symptoms of syphilis." As a personal friend of this distinguished gentleman, Dr. Parran, after making the proper test, found that it was a case of congenital syphilis in the professor's grandchild who had passed the disease to the grandmother who fondled the child, and from the grandmother to the grandfather, and all due to their son-in-law, who believed that he had been cured before his marriage.

The congenital cases represent syphilis in its most tragic form. Sixty thousand cases of congenital syphilis are discovered annually, and these are entirely preventable.

A mother treated in the first months of her pregnancy has a chance of having a normal healthy child; while one without treatment suffering from the disease has ten out of eleven chances of delivering an infant which will be a victim.

It is not a social disease like tuberculosis. It is an anti-social disease. Ten to twelve per cent of all heart attacks are the result of heart syphilis. Ten percent of all admissions to insane asylums are the result of syphilis.

The war to eradicate syphilis involves large expenditures, but these expenditures are justified on humanitarian grounds. Money cannot be spent for a better purpose than to prevent still births, blind and crippled children, insanity, sudden heart deaths, misery and untold suffering.

Wherever syphilis is attacked it recedes. In all Sweden, a country of 6,500,000 people, there were last year only 369 known cases, and only 12 congenital cases in Copenhagen.

And finally, Dr. Parran said that a good clinic is the backbone of the control of this disease, and that every city should make every effort to aid in the eradication of this horrible disease.

The Municipal Airport Problem.

Colonel J. Monroe Johnson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, outlined the importance of aviation and called attention to the accelerating tempo of technological progress in aviation. He stressed the fact that cities are encountering extreme difficulty in keeping step with the rapidly increasing demands of the larger aircrafts. He said that the development is progressing faster and faster all the time, and the rate of progress is increasing. The whole movement is speeded up. Every significant discovery makes the next one easier. Every significant invention forms the source from which a dozen others spring. The whole process of aviation ramifies, intensifies and accelerates and there is an irresistible trend toward greater size and mechanical intricacy. We know that air traffic, in some localities, has increased as much as 200 and 300 per cent during the past few years; that during 1937 we will fly about one million passengers on our scheduled airlines, an increase of 25 per cent over last year. We know that our express business had doubled in the past twelve months; that frequency of schedules has markedly increased; that transport aircraft weighing 83,000 pounds are now under construction, and that one company, at the present time, is designing a transport plane weighing 186,000 pounds, compared to about 24,000 pounds, the present maximum. The cold fact staring us in the face is the realization that within the next twelve months there will be mammoth transport planes in the air which, in all probability, cannot satisfactorily use more than five or six, at most, of the airports in this country in their present condition.

The Bureau of Air Commerce is making a factual survey of all the airports in the United States as to their physical facilities, character, possibility of extension, personnel and service, meteorological data, together with all relevant facts concerning landing strips, the runways, the aprons, the hangars, the administration buildings, the lighting, the marking and identification, the obstructions on or near the field. These features determine the airport's present classification.

The Assistant Secretary of Commerce recommended that all obstructions, such as high smokestacks and towers of all kinds, be eliminated in proximity to the airports, for the reason that modern planes travel several miles before they get to a safe altitude and that the new planes weighing 186,000 pounds will require greater space in which to gain elevation. In concluding his address, he said: "... the municipalities of the United States and the United States itself will not be parsimonious to this new form of transportation that is revolutionizing the relationships of mankind, redesigning the pathways and cross-roads of transportation, and removing the handicap of remoteness. No municipality in our nation can be wise that fails to make such sacrifice and expenditures as will make certain and sure that these modern roads of the air come to their domain and at their doors."

Mayor Allen of Augusta, Georgia, said that the question of airports is the concern of three agencies: First, the municipality itself; second, the Federal Government; and third, the airlines that use or hope to use these fields.

The Government should aid municipalities in construction and maintenance of airports, primarily for national defense; and secondly, for a first-class mail service that its citizens are entitled to. The type of ships now being flown by American lines can be readily converted into highly efficient bombers, and it is for this great potential defense reason that our Government should be more generous in its assistance to municipalities.

The Government subsidies for carrying the mail are the principal support of the airlines, but the Government has done little for the airports. If the Government changes its regulations from time to time as to minimum length of runways, it should pay for the increase in the length needed.

Airport aid is one of the most justifiable expenditures that the Government can indulge in, in relation to assisting municipalities. Not so much revenue as yet can be expected from airlines. These airlines cannot, in view of the rapid obsolescence of equipment, expensive operation, and always new and expensive safety measures, make money by hauling passengers. If the fares charged were on this basis, we would see only a few hundred people in this country able to ride in aeroplanes. The airlines must make their money on the subsidies for carrying the mail, and for national defense.

The main problem is the rapidly increasing, and seemingly never ending demands being made on municipalities by the Government and the airlines, for enlarged airports and better accommodations. Three thousand five hundred foot runways are about the maximum now. It is conceded that runways should be increased for the reason that the heavy planes now being constructed require greater length. He said: "... the runway behind the aviator is not worth a damn. What is in front of him is what counts. The Government should pay for the increase in the length."

Honorable Frank Couzens, Mayor of Detroit, said that progress in aviation in the last seven years has been so rapid and amazing that one hesitates to prognosticate the advances that may be expected in the next decade.

A very large percentage of operation carried on at city airports is devoted entirely to interstate travel and traffic. Every airport is a potential port for interstate operation.

This brings up the question as to whether or not it is the sole responsibility of an individual city to carry the burden of providing interstate facilities.

A few years ago when the financial problem of cities was less severe and when the romance and enthusiasm of the general public were at a high peak, little attention was paid to this question of interstate travel, but now it is being questioned by city officials and taxpayers alike.

Exhaustive and fair-minded study of the situation makes it apparent that the cities logically should bear a major portion of the expense of operating a city airport for the general advantage of fast transportation to its citizens, but that the Federal Government should also share in the cost of providing a general national system of airports.

There is nothing new or radical in this idea, it has a perfect analogy in the development of federal highways linking one city with another. It has a further analogy in the tremendous sums which have been devoted to the development of rivers and harbors for ship transportation, and for navigational aids along these rivers and harbors. Still another analogy is found in the subsidizing of railroads in times past.

The Federal Government has still another and all-important reason for the development of a national system of airports and that is for the benefit of national defense. Quoting Major-General Oscar Westover, Chief of the Air Corps of the United States:

"The principal basis for defense against air attack is the network of civil airports, extending into all the strategic areas of the continental United States. It is fortunately situated in possessing, in most areas, an adequate number of civil airports for the purposes of defense. In several strategic areas, due to sparsity of population and consequent lack of demand, civil airports are inadequate in number at the present.

"Where large defensive air forces are operating, a considerable number of airports are required to permit the desirable amount of dispersion of the air units. The fewer the number of planes located on a given airdrome the less remunerative is the target they present to enemy air attack.

"A large number of airports available also permits frequent changes in locations of the operating units, so that one day an airport may be occupied and the next day not. This tends to render extremely difficult the attack operations of enemy aircraft. This same multiplicity of airports favors the third device of defense—concealment.

"With a large number of airports available, some of which are unoccupied, and with frequent shifts, concealment is more apt to succeed, since the enemy may assume that an airport where airplanes are well concealed is not in use."

At the present time it has been ruled by the legal division of the Department of Commerce that while the Federal Government is authorized to expend federal monies on the development of airways, that these airways stop at the boundaries of any city airport. Consequently, it is impossible for the Federal Government to share any of the cities' expense even though they may recognize the justice of it.

May I take the liberty of calling to your attention a bill which was offered in Congress at the last session, H. R. No. 6972, known as the Dingel Bill, which was designed to remedy this situation and make it legal and possible for the Federal Government to share its logical and fair portion of the development of a national system of airports. For those who are not familiar with the Dingel Bill, it merely authorizes the Federal Government to share with cities and other political subdivisions of the United States the cost of improvement and maintenance of publicly-owned airports to insure the safe operation of aircraft.

Under the terms of the bill, the Secretary of Commerce is directed to make a study of the airports of the United States and report to the Congress annually, recommending the appropriation necessary for the improvement or maintenance of city, county and other publicly-owned airports.

This bill is a very simple one and in effect merely an enabling act which would bring to each and every city airport the assistance which is almost mandatory. Coming before the budget annually it would tend to meet the situations which are bound to occur in the future but which none of us are able to foretell.

May I point out that since the Federal Government has extended aid toward the development of railroads, steamship lines and highways, it cannot be charged that federal assistance toward the development of aerial transportation is in any way a departure from established practice and certainly cannot be termed a radical or revolutionary step.

The resultant increase in commerce, it is believed, would equal proportionately the volume of business created by the extensive construction of railways, highways and steamship lines in this country.

The Dingel Bill has been generally recognized as constructive legislation and its passage will depend primarily upon the force with which every city with an airport impresses the seriousness of its individual problems upon its representatives in Congress.

Militant support of this bill will not only solve our city airport problems but will help make these United States assume the position of leadership in the field of aviation as it has in other means of transportation.

The problem of our city airports is not merely a local and individual one. Because it is a mutual problem it is naturally a national problem, and we should, therefore, unite and do something about it. We can all help materially by lending our whole-hearted support in urging the passage of the Dingel Bill.

Hon. James W. Cole, Assistant to the Honorable Harlee Branch, Second Assistant Postmaster General, read a paper entitled "Airmail Service and City Airports." Mr. Branch was unable to be present, due to an automobile accident.

With the development of larger, heavier and faster airplanes arises a serious airport problem. During the past four years this problem has grown more and more acute.

Many of the airports along our commercial airways were laid out and constructed for planes in service at the time of their construction. Neither the engineers nor anyone else could foresee the remarkable development which has come about, and airports which were adequate at the time became inadequate with the introduction of larger and faster types of planes.

While cities are reaching their limits to provide funds for airport development, the development of larger, heavier and faster planes goes on all the time, and almost every year the factories are turning out new models which cannot land on or take off from airports which a few months previous were considered perfectly adequate.

The total amount of money invested in airports in the United States is approximately three hundred and forty-two million dollars, and of this amount the Government, through the Public Works program, has expended seventy million dollars.

Municipalities appreciating the advantage of being on regularly scheduled commercial airlines, have, almost without exception, been eager to provide adequate airports and in many cases they have willingly incurred a financial strain in order to do so. Therefore, one can easily imagine their dismay when they receive notice that new types of planes are being installed on the routes which serve them, and that their airports are inadequate for the landing and taking off of such planes, so that service must be discontinued at their cities until such time as the airports can be improved and expanded, or until entirely new airports can be provided.

This has happened quite frequently in the past two years. Some cities have had their service interrupted for months, and some for more than a year, while they were enlarging their old airports or constructing new airports, and what is more disturbing is that when airports have been expanded and when new airports have been constructed, the cities owning them have no assurance that within a year or two still larger and still faster planes may not again disrupt their service and call for further heavy airport expenditures.

Let us consider a concrete example. About two years ago fourteen passenger, one hundred and seventy-five mile-per-hour planes were put in operation on all of our transcontinental lines, and during the past year these lines have added twenty-one passenger, one hundred and ninety mile-per-hour planes. With the installation of the fourteen-passenger planes some airports became inadequate, and service had to be withdrawn until they could be improved, and when the twenty-one passenger planes were put into service, other airports became inadequate and, in fact, some of those which had been enlarged to serve the fourteen-passenger planes would not accommodate the twenty-one-passenger planes.

Cities which lost service because of these conditions very naturally and very vigorously complained. They had expended hundreds of thousands of dollars on their airports and were amazed to find them practically useless. A few cities gave up altogether; said they had reached their limit and could provide no more money. Other cities insisted that the airlines should be made to provide equipment which could use their airports, and practically all of them demanded assurance that if they met the airport requirements of the new planes, they would not next year, or the year after, find themselves in a similar situation.

Within the next year, four-engine, thirty-two and forty passenger, two hundred and fifteen mile-per-hour planes will be in operation on some of our transcontinental routes.

Another airport problem that must be seriously considered is the selection of a site susceptible of expansion, and not too close to rivers, highways, telegraph lines, mountains, smokestacks, tall buildings and other approach obstructions.

Notwithstanding the airport and its problems, the Government has built up a remarkable and marvelously efficient air transport system in the United States. Rarely a month passes that we do not have representatives of foreign governments coming to the United States to look over our airlines and to study our operations.

In our domestic airmail system, which embraces practically all of the commercially operated transport airlines, we have thirty-two thousand route miles, over which planes fly more than fifty million miles a year. There is not a minute of the day or night when transport planes are not winging their way over some of these routes.

Every route in our airmail system is now being operated with multi-motored planes.

During the past five years airmail volume and revenues from airmail postage have practically doubled, while there has been a very considerable reduction in the cost for transporting airmail.

For the fiscal year 1937 the Department paid the domestic airmail contractors approximately twelve million nine hundred thousand dollars for the transportation of nineteen million pounds of airmail, from which the postage revenues amounted to more than twelve million dollars.

Included in the nineteen million pounds of airmail transported during the last fiscal year over our domestic airlines were more than one hundred and fifty million letters which were posted by more than fifteen million firms and individuals. A large percentage of it was important business mail, and much of it was of an emergency character.

This foreign airmail service extends from the United States to all the Latin American countries, to Puerto Rico, to the Virgin Islands, to the principal islands of the Windward and Leeward groups, to Canada, and across the Pacific Ocean to Hawaii, the Philippines, and the Orient. We have airmail service between the islands of the Hawaiian group and in Alaska.

We expect to have service to Bermuda, and across the Atlantic Ocean to Europe, and within the next two years we hope to have a line operating from some point in the northwestern section of the United States into Alaska, connecting with the service now being operated in the Territory.

With such growth and development it is not surprising that many serious problems are encountered. The Assistant Postmaster General assured the Conference that the airport problem, as serious as it is, is just one of a number of very perplexing questions, all of which require much careful study for constructive solution.

Mayor Carson of Portland said it should not be the sole responsibility of cities to provide proper airport facilities. The Government has subsidized railroads in the past and should subsidize any increase in requirements of municipal airports.

Mayor Wilson of Philadelphia said the construction and improvement of airports is just as much the duty of the Government as the building of battleships. Planes of 150-foot wingspread are being built and require greater and corresponding accommodations. The Mayors at the Conference represent forty million people and they have a right to demand assistance from the Government to improve the airports. For a municipality to go on spending money to meet advance and improvement in aviation in order to accommodate the Government for air defense is as ridiculous as if a municipality should provide railroad stations and post offices.

The problem of airports, and there are 728 of them in the United States, is a national one for the benefit of the entire nation. To keep airports abreast of the rapid advance in aviation demands that the United States Government shall pay for the improvements and the changes required from now on.

Mayor Mansfield of Boston said that the cities should not be expected any longer to further the development of airports for Government purposes.

A letter was read from Miss Jeanette Randolph in which she recommends that the one-cent collected on gasoline used by airplanes should be turned over to the airports for improvements.

Mayor LaGuardia of New York called attention to the fact that the railroads received land grants and subsidies in the early days; that the Government has done practically nothing for aviation; in fact, aviation has developed in spite of the Government; that the Government must be awakened from its indifference and that even now there is a woeful lack of safety appliances.

We have received many complaints, and a great deal of dissatisfaction has been engendered because of the uncertainty of requirements of commercial airports. Many cities have invested large amounts in building airports, to find that by the time the airport is completed, it no longer conforms to the Department of Commerce requirements. Now, either the art is progressing more rapidly than airports can be constructed, or airports are not progressing sufficiently rapidly to keep up with the progress in the art. The fact remains that many of the airports which were supposed to be the last word, on completion were found to be too small, and have been discontinued from the main lines.

He said that under the dual control of the Department of Commerce and the Post Office Department, aviation cannot reach perfection. The Post Office Department is political and kicks aviation around to suit itself. The authority over aviation should be transferred to the Department of Commerce and to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

At the conclusion of the Conference, the following resolution calling upon the Federal Government to establish a national policy with regard to airports was adopted unanimously:

"Whereas, The major cities of the United States have expended millions of dollars for the construction and reconstruction of public airports and the combined investment of cities in air terminals now reaches a substantial sum, and

"Whereas, Many of the airports built by the cities during the past few years under established rules and regulations of the United States Bureau of Air Commerce have already become or will shortly become obsolete due to the rapid development of larger and heavier aircraft, and

"Whereas, The cities are unable financially to continue pouring local funds into the enlargement of airports in order to keep abreast of the requirements of present and potential types of equipment used by the air transportation industry and approved by the Federal Government, and

"Whereas, Cities should not be expected nor does there exist any reason why they should subsidize a form of transportation that is now almost completely inter-state in character both as to passenger travel and airmail service, and

"Whereas, Air transportation and the terminals required are now analogous to rail and bus transportation for which the cities are not responsible for maintaining terminal facilities as well as comparable to highways and rivers and harbors, in which fields the Federal interest has been accepted for many years, and

"Whereas, It is agreed, from the standpoint of national defense, that many of the municipal airports are of greatest importance and are vested with a national interest, and

"Whereas, Up to the present time no definite and long-term federal policy has been established with regard to airports as a phase of the publicly-subsidized air transportation industry,

"Therefore, Be It Resolved, That this Annual Conference of the United States Conference of Mayors directly representing the major cities of the nation involved in this problem call upon the President and the Congress to initiate legislation providing for a federal airport policy which, when applied in cooperation with the aid of the cities, will meet the present situation, and

"Be It Further Resolved, That in view of the national interest and responsibility this proposed legislation provide for adequate and proper federal financial responsibility for constructing and maintaining, in cooperation with the cities, those air terminals forming a part of the national airways system."

Resolution on Federal Aid for Airports.

The following resolution on the subject "Federal Aid for Airports" was submitted by the Honorable Frank L. Shaw, Mayor of Los Angeles, at the United States Conference of Mayors:

Whereas, there are 758 municipal airports now operating in the United States; and

Whereas, these airports constitute an important and vitally necessary unit of the aerial transportation system and of the aviation industry generally, rendering a public service of great benefit to the entire nation; and

Whereas, the municipal airports are indispensable to the United States as a facility of national defense; and

Whereas, with the exception of such funds as have been made available under the various Emergency Relief Programs, the burden of the cost of acquisition, construction, development and maintenance of these airports has fallen almost in its entirety upon the municipalities, notwithstanding the national and extra-municipal scope of the service rendered to the public and the aviation industry by the said airports; and

Whereas, large sums have been, are now, and will be required in the future to keep the development of facilities of these said airports abreast of the progress and expansion made in the manufacturing and operating divisions of the aviation industry, and to insure the safe and efficient operation of all types of aircraft; and

Whereas, adequate funds with which to prosecute necessary and desirable improvement and expansion programs are not readily available from their own revenues to most of the municipalities operating municipal airports; and

Whereas, the restriction of development of ground facilities, resulting from the lack of such funds involves the safety of air transportation and threatens seriously to impede and hinder the continued advancement of aviation and of the service rendered the public by aviation; and

Whereas, the need of modern, improved ground facilities at airports is a continuing one, and one which, therefore, demands a permanent program of financing in order satisfactorily to meet conditions as they arise; and

Whereas, the Federal Government, recognizing the importance to the nation of its transportation systems, has as a matter of public policy, rendered financial and other assistance in the construction and development of the railroads, in the construction and development of marine shipping, in the construction and development of harbors and inland waterways, and in the construction and development of a national highway system; and

Whereas, the adoption of a policy of Federal financial assistance and cooperation in the development of the public airports of the nation would not, therefore, mark any departure from established public policy, inasmuch as safe and adequate airports are absolutely essential to the satisfactory functioning of aerial transportation; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the United States Conference of Mayors petition the Congress of the United States to enact such legislation as is necessary and competent to provide for and authorize a permanent program of Federal financial cooperation in the construction, improvement, development and expansion of publicly owned airports, to the end that adequate funds will be available, when needed, to carry on and complete such projects of construction, improvement, development and expansion as are necessary to meet the requirements of public safety, public convenience and the proper functioning of the aviation industry in its service to the people of the United States.

(Resolution adopted unanimously.)

GOVERNMENT AND INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES.

Address by Honorable J. Warren Madden, Chairman National Labor Relations Board, on "Industrial Disputes From the National Viewpoint."

When the Congress decided in 1935 to undertake the regulation of employers in their labor relations, on an extensive scale, it made use again of the same device which it had used to regulate railroads, wire and radio communications companies, trade practices, and so forth. It set up a Board and gave it power to investigate and adjudicate cases of unfair labor practices by employers, in which the national government had an interest by reason of the effect of these practices upon interstate commerce. It did not attempt to duplicate laws and enforcement machinery already in operation in the states. It recognized that there was already plenty of state law regulating the conduct of employees who had struck or been locked out by their employers. The very physical facts of the situation put such employees out in an exposed position where they were within easy reach of numerous state and local laws.

The problem of administration of the law as to employees is largely a problem of policing the scene of the trouble. That is a difficult and delicate job which sometimes requires large numbers of officers available on short notice. It is a field into which the Federal Government should not enter unless it is willing to set up a large police force scattered over the country so that the Federal men could take charge of strike situations displacing state, county, and local police officers. No government can take the responsibility for a job of law enforcement without, at the same time developing the power to do the job.

But on the employer side, there was an almost complete absence of state law. If an employer refused to recognize and bargain with representatives of his employees, thus leaving them no recourse except a strike when he could probably have saved the community and the country all of the inconvenience and danger and financial loss by bargaining with them, there was no law to reach him, though there was plenty of law to reach his employees after they had struck. If the employer discharged employees who took positions of leadership in their unions, thus practically compelling their fellow employees to strike or surrender all possibility of having a union to improve their bargaining position, there was no law to reach him, though he was the sole original cause of the strike and its consequences.

Here then was an open field, untouched by existing state law, which desperately needed to be brought under legal regulation. The condition of the law in placing all legal responsibility for labor troubles upon the workers who were frequently the victims of the real wrong, and were obliged to get into the street to preserve their self-respect, was a public scandal and was recognized by Congress as such. It therefore provided that there should be some law for employers, to accompany the large amount of existing law for employees. It did not enact criminal law with the accompaniments of policemen's clubs, patrol wagons, jails and police courts. It provided for a mild administrative hearing after due notice, leading, if a violation is proved, to an order to "cease and desist" which must be reviewed and approved in a Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States before it can be enforced.

Many of you know some of our field people, in your regions, very well. We do not have agents located in all of the important cities, but only in twenty-two, each office serving a region. Some of these regions cover several states, while others cover only one, or a part of one state, depending on the density of the population. It would be well if our field people would call in and get acquainted with the mayors, for we are all dealing, from different angles, with common problems. We are attempting to achieve and preserve industrial peace coupled with freedom and self-respect for American workmen. America today is a shining example of the virtues of that political freedom for the common man which is called democracy. In a world of dictatorships of various brands, some of them achieving much physical neatness and good order under governmental compulsion, what decent American would exchange his free political status for the condition of the subjects of those countries, even though the blunders of his American governments, national and local, are frequent and costly.

Being as devoted as ever to political democracy after long experience with it, there is no reason whatever for Americans to be pessimistic about the practicability of industrial democracy. And that industrial democracy can come only through the organization of workmen into strong, self-reliant unions. Every informed person knows that the individual workman is helpless, so far as having any control over his wages, hours, conditions of employment and the security of his job is concerned.

This is said with full recognition of the fact that there are many employers who out of benevolence or enlightened self-interest may voluntarily give to their employees advantages approximating those which could be gained by organization and equal bargaining. But such employees are just as helpless and economically dependent as are those of the worst type of employer. You have, no doubt, frequently heard it said "Why does the union bother the X company? It treats its men the best of any employer in the community. Why doesn't the union limit its activities to Y and Z who are bad employers?" I have no doubt that in the days of human slavery, many slaves were treated better by their owners than they were treated by the world after they were given their freedom. But that was never regarded as a reason for freeing only the slaves of vicious masters, and leaving those of benevolent masters in slavery. There can be no question about the right of unions to organize the employees of benevolent employers, nor of the right of such employees to join unions if they choose.

We come back then to the premise that American workmen need to organize to escape economic helplessness. The law, in the administration of which I have a part, is an attempt on the part of the National government to protect workers in their enjoyment of the right to organize. The National government's interest in the question, which forms the constitutional basis of the statute, is that denials of this right have, in the past, habitually caused industrial strife which has disturbed the flow of commerce in more states than one. It must be conceded that these problems are also of vital interest to the states. But, as is true in many other situations under our American system of dual sovereignty, where both the national government and the local government have an interest in a problem, the interest of the national government takes precedence. As Dean Inge has said "If two will ride a horse, one must ride in front."

The statute does not, as you know, apply to all employers, but only to those whose business is sufficiently related to interstate commerce. That leaves a large number of employers for the states alone to deal with, and several important states have this year enacted statutes similar to the federal statute. But all of you have in operation within your states the federal statute. The achievement of the purposes of the federal statute will have many local effects which will be of interest to you. If employees of interstate enterprises in your communities secure the right to have unions, through the federal statute, this desire for freedom will undoubtedly spread to employees of local enterprises, and they will resent, even more than they have in the past, interferences by their employers with this right. You will have then the task of persuading your local employers to concede this right to their employees, even though you have no state statute to compel them to do so. Your justifications for trying to so persuade them is that it is morally indefensible for an employer to deny to his employees this right, regardless of any law, and that by doing so he invites and incites industrial strife. Another effect on the national law, which effect should be temporary is that there may be, accompanying this new freedom a certain amount of difficulty in achieving the numerous and somewhat delicate adjustments which are necessary in the new relation. You may have had, on the one hand, an employer enterprise which has spent years and large sums in inculcating into every one of its officers and supervisory employees, down to the last sub-foreman, the idea that it was required of them to hunt out and discharge any employee who dared to take a serious interest in unionization. You then have had, on the other hand, a mass of workers who never dared to discuss or hear discussed in open and frank American fashion, the problems of unionization or the proper methods and manners of industrial statesmanship. There had been no opportunity whatever for the gradual discovery and development of leadership, for an assumption of union leadership marked a man and his family for economic destruction.

Then came the National Labor Relations Act with its promise of freedom from this kind of suppression. Attempts to exercise the new freedom followed, but were ruthlessly suppressed by many employers in complete defiance of the law. The disappointed promise of the law and the delay in its enforcement caused by litigation merely deepened the growing resentment. Then, in some cases by means of strikes, in other cases by reason of a realization on the part of executives of great enterprises that this kind of tactics was leading to probable disaster, agreements were made between the high executives of the companies and of the unions. But whence were to come all the thousands of lesser leaders, from the ranks of both management and men, who were to man this fundamentally new relationship and make it an effective orderly thing down in the ranks where the men work and foremen direct.

There followed the inevitable period of reconstruction which always has and always will follow fundamental changes in human relationships. There followed also the senseless cry from the thoughtless, and from others who must know better and whose good faith must therefore be questioned, "see what you get when you attempt to deal with a union which hasn't developed adequate and responsible leadership." Does it not occur to these alarmists that the public got just what the companies in question had been engaged for years in deliberately manufacturing for them; dissension between company supervisors and foremen who were expected to deal with unions when they had for years been meticulously trained to suppress unions, and men now in positions of local leadership in unions, who had ruthlessly denied any opportunity to develop their qualities of leadership by experience. In truth, the results have been surprisingly good, as many of you know, and both sides have accommodated themselves to the new situation with more success than might reasonably have been expected.

In any event, and whatever the difficulties of reconstruction are to be in any industry, there is no possible way to completely escape such a period. If we wait for industrial democracy in any industry or in any community until a sufficient number of leaders on both sides experienced in the practice of industrial democracy come forward to man the new enterprise, we have lost our common sense and are waiting for the impossible.

For those of you whose communities have been bedeviled by these problems of reconstruction, and by resistance and non-compliance which has denied to your communities the benefits of this law, I can only say that I hope and believe that such troubles are temporary and that you can help to mould public opinion in the direction of compliance with the law and ultimate industrial peace.

I should be less than frank in addressing a gathering of mayors if I should fail to point out some of the shortcomings which we have observed on the part of some mayors who may or may not be members of my audience today. There are some cities in which the law of the land as represented in the National Labor Relations Act is being frustrated with the connivance of the mayor and other officials who are sworn to uphold the law. Mayhem, murderous assault, and kidnapping have been committed with impunity in some cities against American citizens whose only offense has been that they were union organizers. Some of these crimes have been committed under circumstances in which the criminals could not possibly have escaped detection unless the police had been under instructions that crimes against these people were to go unpunished. I have seen a man who is as gentle and as deserving of the protection of the law as you and I are whose head was hammered to a bloody pulp with an iron hammer on the main street of a great American city by a gang of criminals in plain view of many witnesses. He was a union organizer. No arrests were made.

Some communities have sold their souls to the proprietors of runaway shops, and their leading citizens, mayors, and police regard it as a part of the bargain that they must violate their own criminal laws and prevent their workmen from enjoying their rights under the National Labor Relations Act, lest the runaway shall again run away. I do not think that any community really profits from the presence of an industry which constantly threatens that it will not stay unless the citizens and public authorities participate in or connive at violence and crime. It may keep its working people in subjection through fear of physical injury and economic destruction for a time. But there is something essentially decent about American people and they will not tolerate for long this kind of anarchy. Many closed towns have been opened up in recent months. The constitutional liberties of freedom of speech and freedom of assembly and the right of American citizens to walk the streets without risk of being arrested for some imaginary crime and given by some company controlled magistrate the choice of getting out of town or going to jail, have come for the first time to many communities. And these liberties will come to the communities where they are still denied. If the influential people in these communities are wise, they will concede these fundamental rights and bring their communities back into the normal civilization of the United States. They will not continue to give working people the well-grounded impression that the law is not made for them, but for the more fortunate classes. In this way the period of reconstruction can be shortened and in many cases entirely avoided.

In the Board's consideration of cases under the Act, it frequently appears that contracts have been entered into by the employer with some purported representatives of his employees. Sometimes the employer addresses to the board an argument based upon such a contract which, when analyzed, is to this effect: "Yes, I did violate the terms of the law; I did prevent my employees from exercising their rights to have representatives of their own choosing; I did coerce them into accepting representatives of my own choosing. But I have made a 'contract' with the representatives I have chosen for my employees, and there is nothing you can do about it."

That argument would make lawful a yellow-dog promise exacted from employees, or an arrangement with a company-dominated union, simply because those promises or arrangements had been reduced to the form of a contract. That argument amounts to say that the Constitution protects the employer against the application of the law because he took it upon himself to make a contract in the teeth of the law, and this notwithstanding the fact that the law has been fully sustained as constitutional by the Supreme Court. That argument in short would permit employers to nullify at will any and all provisions of the law, simply by making a "contract" about them or inconsistent with them.

No thoughtful person would expect a board honestly devoted to the effectuation of the policies of the law to agree with such an argument. The present board has refused to do so from the very beginning of its administration of the law, and it will continue in this position until the courts, which have the last word on these matters, hold to the contrary. The fact is that the courts have already repeatedly rejected any such argument in situations where, as here, it would nullify the congressional purpose expressed in valid legislation. In a very important recent decision, Chief Justice Hughes wrote for the Supreme Court: "Contracts may create rights of property, but when contracts deal with a subject matter which lies within the control of the Congress, they have a congenital infirmity. Parties cannot remove their transaction from the reach of dominant constitutional power by making contracts about them." (The Gold Clause case, 294 U. S. 240, 307-8.) In that same case the Chief Justice cites a series of illustrations from the cases going back over many years holding that contracts inconsistent with the law cannot stand; for example, contracts between shippers and carriers stipulating rates contrary to those prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, even where the contract is a charter granted by a state or where one of the contracting parties is a municipality; contracts in restraint of trade, contracts providing for the exemption of the carrier from liability under the Employers' Liability Act; and so forth. The so-called gold clause in railroad and other bonds is the most recent illustration of the paramount authority of the Congress.

There is a vast difference between a contract embodying terms inconsistent with the law or made with a representative set up in violation of the law, and the traditional valid trade union agreement between authorized representatives of labor and the employer. Such valid agreements are the objective of the Act, and it fosters and promotes their making. But in order that the way may be open for such valid agreements, the law must refuse to give effect to pretended agreements, not made with freely selected representatives of the employees. To tolerate such pretended agreements brought about by the interference or coercion of the employer would be to perpetuate the condition which Congress sought to abolish.

The Federal government has now undertaken a definite role in the labor relations of your communities. It has guaranteed to working people in important enterprises the right to have unions if they want them. Among the results should be a more intelligent and self-respecting citizenry, a greater equality of bargaining power, and the substitution of the procedure of the conference table for the strike and the lockout. These results will be advantageous to nation, states, and cities. The responsibility for good government rests upon the officials of all these governmental units. To the extent to which our law succeeds, your burdens are lightened. To the extent to which your communities are given liberal, orderly government, our burdens are lightened. Toward these common objectives we and our staff offer you our cooperation.

Address by Honorable William H. Davis. Chairman New York State Meditation Board, on "The Responsibility of State Government in Industrial Disputes."

The subject given to me for discussion is "The Responsibility of State Governments in Industrial Disputes." Such qualifications as I may have to discuss that subject arise out of my experience in the state of New York. Many other states have set up agencies for dealing with such disputes, but I shall not attempt to discuss the institutions of any other state than my own. Nor do I understand that I am expected to say anything about the police powers of the states—the responsibility of state governments to maintain public order and to prevent or punish common law or statutory crimes. I shall confine my discussion to state agencies for adjusting industrial disputes, their relations to one another and to the federal agencies.

In New York state the agencies set up by the state government for handling industrial disputes may be classified under three heads: (1) a law enforcement agency, the New York State Labor Relations Board which deals with unfair labor practices as defined in the State Labor Relations Act and with the orderly selection of bargaining representatives; (2) mediation agencies, the New York State Board of Mediation and the Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration in the State Department of Labor, which have no law enforcement function, and (3) fact-finding agencies equipped to investigate the causes of industrial disputes.

Law Enforcement.

The New York State Labor Relations Act, which became effective July 1st of this year, and which is generally referred to as the "Little Wagner Act," provides for a labor relations board of three members and gives to that board powers and duties generally comparable to those of the National Labor Relations Board; although there are in the state act some interesting departures from the provision of the federal law. In it, as in the Wagner Act, unfair labor practices are defined and the board is given the power to restrain them by the issuance of cease and desist orders. Its orders are reviewable in the supreme court of the state, either upon petition from enforcement by the Labor Relations Board or on petition of the person against whom the order was issued, just as the orders of the National Labor Relations Board are reviewable in the federal courts of appeals. The State Labor Relations Board, like the National Board, also has the power to determine, by holding elections or by other suitable method, and to certify who are the chosen representatives of the employees; and in this connection it has the power to designate the bargaining unit. This power is, however, unlike the power of the national board, limited by the proviso that in any case where the majority of the employees of a particular craft shall so decide the board shall designate such craft as a unit appropriate for the purpose of collective bargaining. A proviso inserted in the state law on behalf of the craft unions at the instance of the A. F. of L. The state board is expressly forbidden to investigate any question or controversy between the individuals or groups within the same labor organization or between labor organizations affiliated with the same parent labor organization. This prohibition embraces, I suppose, jurisdictional disputes, but apparently not, under present circumstances, disputes between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. The state board is also forbidden to include on any ballot or certification any association of employees which it finds to be a company union, as defined in the act. And, unlike the national board, the New York state board may, under carefully-defined circumstances including a public hearing, entertain requests initiated by the employer for the designation of employee bargaining representatives. The state board, like the national board, has wide investigatory powers and right of subpoena for the purpose of all hearings and investigations which in the opinion of the board are necessary and proper for the exercise of the powers vested in it.

The act creating the State Labor Relations Board went through the legislature concurrently with the act creating the New York State Board of Mediation, and the legislature, enlightened by experience in the federal field, took great care to separate the functions of the two boards, so that law enforcement would not be mixed up with mediation or mediation with law enforcement. Thus the Labor Relations Act provides, first, that neither the board nor any of its agents or employees shall engage in any effort to mediate, conciliate, or arbitrate any labor dispute, and, secondly, that the power of the board to prevent unfair labor practices shall not be affected or impaired by any means of adjustment, mediation or conciliation in labor disputes that have been or may hereafter be established by law. The labor relations board has, of course, the power to adjust and accept the withdrawal of charges of unfair labor practices, on agreement of the parties, just as a court of law may suggest and approve an agreement to settle a legal controversy. But the board may not, for example, offset by mediation concessions of improved working conditions against charges of unfair labor practices. And so likewise the mediation board may not condone any infractions of the law or make compromises that involve unfair labor practices.

Mediation and Arbitration.

By a second act, which also became effective on July 1, 1937, the state legislature provided for a New York State Board of Mediation composed of five members compensated on a per diem basis. The act declares the public policy of the state to be that the best interests of the people of the state are served by the prevention or prompt settlement of labor disputes; that strikes and lockouts are forces productive ultimately of economic waste; that the interests and rights of the consumers and of the people of the state, although they are not direct parties to the labor disputes, should nevertheless be considered, respected and protected; and that the voluntary mediation of such disputes under the guidance and supervision of a governmental agency will tend to promote permanent industrial peace and the health, welfare, comfort and safety of the people of the state. The board has no law enforcement function, no power to issue orders or exert compulsion in the settlement of labor disputes. It acts wholly by persuasion and not at all by force. The duties, rather than the powers, conferred upon it are that upon its own motion in an existing imminent or threatened labor dispute the board may, and upon direction of the Governor the board must, take such steps as it may deem expedient to effect a voluntary and expeditious adjustment of the settlement of the issues between employer and employees which have precipitated or culminated in, or threaten to precipitate or culminate in, such labor disputes; and to this end the duty is imposed upon the board to arrange for and hold conferences between the disputants; to invite the disputants to attend such conferences and to submit at the conferences their grievances and differences; to discuss such grievances and differences, with the disputants and to assist in negotiating and drafting agreements that will terminate or avoid the labor dispute.

The powers of the board, thus limited to voluntary mediation, do not include any form or suggestion of compulsory arbitration. It is, however, a matter of experience that the disputants, when they have reached a partial or a complete agreement, frequently agree upon arbitration of particular points or of future disputes and provide in the arbitration agreement that the arbitrators shall, in the last resort, be designated by the mediation board. For that purpose, and even for the purpose of acting as mediators in particular cases under the direction and supervision of the board, the board has set up throughout the state panels of prominent citizens from which it may choose, as occasion demands, individuals or groups to act as arbitrators and mediators.

The mediation board is not the only mediation agency in the state.

The industrial commissioner of the state, under the act creating the Department of Labor, has had for some years the power and duty to endeavor to effect amicable settlement of labor disputes, and that duty has been entrusted by him to a Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration created within the department for that purpose. The bureau has trained mediators who are full-time employees of the state and devote all of their time to mediation work. Since the creation of the mediation board the Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration has, under the direction of the commissioner, worked in close contact with the mediation board. The bureau and the board now have common offices and in practical effect work as one organization. The extent of the work that has been done by the Bureau of Mediation, apart from the mediation board, may be indicated by a few figures. In 1934, 75 strikes were reported to the bureau and it intervened actively and exclusively in 38 of them. In 1935 these figures rose to 330 strikes and 260 interventions; in 1936, 347 strikes and 270 interventions. This year the number is running much larger, not necessarily because there are more strikes but because of the growing activity of the bureau. This year the number of disputes handled by the bureau has been in the neighborhood of four disputes a day.

The mediation board takes over disputes which the bureau has not been able to settle and also takes up directly a great number of disputes that come directly to it, for one reason or another. In the four months of the existence of the mediation board disputes have been brought to it at the rate of approximately 40 per month. Experience has been that in this formative period about half the disputes brought to the attention of the board have been of a character which it was not authorized to, or could not, handle. The disputes actually handled by the board have been about 20 per month.

Before the creation of the State Mediation Board Mayor LaGuardia set up in New York City an industrial relations board that hung up a record of brilliant achievement in its brief history. When the state board was created Mayor LaGuardia disbanded the city board, and he has since displayed toward the state board that spirit of wholehearted cooperation that is one of his most endearing characteristics.

Fact-Finding.

It is understood that within the law enforcement field—the field of unfair labor practices and designation of chosen representatives—the Labor Relations Board has full fact-finding powers. Outside of the law enforcement field, within the field in which the mediation board operates, the fact-finding powers of the mediation board are practically limited, as the law is now interpreted, to cases in which the disputants voluntarily accept the mediation of the board. The industrial commissioner of labor of the state has, however, under the act creating the Department of Labor, the power to inquire into the cause of all strikes, lockouts and other industrial controversies and to that end he has the power, which he may delegate to other officers of the department, to issue subpoenas and to take testimony in the manner prescribed by law. This power has rarely been exercised, but it is always available. In combination with the powers of the Bureau of Mediation and Arbitration and of the mediation board it creates the possibility of following in the state a procedure quite analogous to the federal procedure under the Railway Labor Act, except that the state law does not in any wise provide for the compulsory maintenance of the status quo pending settlement of the dispute. That is to say, under the state law if mediation is unsuccessful and arbitration is declined there may follow the appointment of an official fact-finding agency with subpoena power to find out what the facts are that led to the dispute and to make the facts available to the public. There is no way, however, in which the state authorities can prevent a rupture of industrial relations in the meantime, except by the power of persuasion and the pressure of public opinion.

Summary.

I am not sufficiently familiar with the details of the work of the State Labor Relations Board to discuss them authoritatively; but it is perhaps enough for the present purpose to say that the board discharges the law enforcement responsibility imposed upon it by the state law in substantially the same way that the National Labor Relations Board discharges the national responsibility. I am told that cases have been coming into the state board at the rate of about 100 a month. The line that divides the jurisdiction of the state board from that of national board is the line that divides intrastate from interstate commerce within the meaning of the Wagner law—a line that I shall certainly not attempt to draw today. The state board and the national board exchange information quite freely and I am told that no difficult questions of jurisdiction have arisen. It may be of interest to give an example. In the case of a large chain store company, with retail stores and warehouses within the state, complaints of unfair labor practices in the retail stores were handled by the state board and complaints as to the ware houses were handled by the national board because of their direct participation in interstate commerce.

I think it is important to emphasize that the Labor Relations Board acts to enforce a law (safeguarding employee organization, collective bargaining and free choice of bargaining representatives) put on the statute books as the result of a political decision. The state law is an expression of the public policy of the nation. Some employers approved unhampered self-organization of their employees and collective bargaining with freely chosen representatives, while other employers opposed and interfered with these things. Issue was joined in the political arena and the legislature decided that the denial of employers of the right of employees to organize and the refusal by employers to accept the procedure of collective bargaining violated the natural rights of the employees and was contrary to public policy; and forbade it. It is a typical instance of substantive statutory law. The restriction of the freedom of individual action of some citizens to protect the liberties of others. The imposition of a pattern of procedure upon individual members of society following legislative determination that a contrary procedure is inimical to the public welfare. To effect in the industrial world the full application of that legislative decision is a law enforcement job; and may I here express my opinion, based upon fairly close observation, that this job is in thoroughly competent hands in the Federal field and also in New York state.

Mediation activities are of quite a different sort. They depend upon reduction of heat, increase of light and persuasion, and they proceed, I suppose, upon the sound and ancient theory that enduring progress in civilization may be achieved, step by step, by a succession of victories of reason over force. That is, by education. I suppose everyone would agree that at the millenium labor disputes will be settled in every case by direct negotiations between the parties to them. In the meantime, during what I think may be regarded as the early stages of collective bargaining in this country, our experience seems to indicate that the legislature was right in supposing that voluntary mediation under the guidance and supervision of a governmental agency will tend to promote industrial peace. It is not, of course, so desirable a road to peace as direct negotiations between responsible and experienced bargaining representatives if that road to peace is open; and it certainly has very definite limitations in practical application. But experience shows that there are many cases, in the present state of affairs, where the interposition of an impartial agency overcomes difficulties which otherwise would disturb industrial relations. I suppose that if negotiators were endowed with infinite wisdom and so could always clearly see in all their significance the alternatives that confront them, they would always be able to choose the better and reject the worse. But in our experience we have not met any negotiators endowed with infinite wisdom, and in the present state of progress we have been able sometimes to lessen friction, to clarify the issues, to identify and evaluate the alternatives and so to substitute reason for force. Our motto may be said to be "Call us before you call a strike," and we always try even though we frequently fail.

Statistics recently published by the Federal Department of Labor covering the ten years from 1927 to 1936, inclusive, show that 45 per cent of the strikes that have occurred in the United States in that period have been chiefly concerned with questions of wages and hours, 35 per cent with union organization matters, and 18 per cent with other issues. The percentage has not been the same in every year; there is observable a definite tendency for the percentage of disputes that arise out of union recognition to increase during times of business prosperity and to decrease during times of depression. But the percentage I have given is the over-all percentage for the ten years. And as Chairman Madden and Senator Wagner have remarked, the disputes that have involved questions of organization, which predominate only in the United States, always have a core of bitterness which is not present when the cause of the strike is nothing more than the determination of the workers collectively to quit work because they are not satisfied with the terms of employment offered by the employer. For this type of dispute there now exists, in the labor relations boards, a legally established mechanism for judicial determination, subject to review in the state and Federal courts. If we could visualize a state of society in which all such disputes are determined by this new available legal procedure, industrial disturbances would be cut substantially in two; and if we could go farther and visualize a state of society in which collective bargaining was universally established and in the hands of responsible and experienced negotiators we could perhaps anticipate even a very much greater reduction of industrial disturbances. In the meantime the responsibility of the state in industrial disputes has led to the creation of these agencies which I have tried to describe. They are a new type of social institution. Indeed the labor relations boards, in the particular legislative form which they have taken in this country, are a result of a situation peculiar to this country, and are so far as I know unique. It is, however, by the creation of such institutions, and by the gradual development of a customary procedure under them, that in a free country liberty of individual action is reconciled with the general welfare. The building up of such procedure—its acceptance as a habit of society—takes a lot of time. It is the function of these boards, as I understand it, to discharge the responsibility of the state in labor disputes by gradually and persistently pushing forward the development of such habits. We look forward, for our children's sake, to a time when all industrial disputes may be settled by direct negotiations between freely-chosen, responsible and experienced representatives.

WILLIAM H. DAVIS.

Address by Honorable Cornelius D. Scully, Mayor. City of Pittsburgh, on Labor Disputes From the Viewpoint of Municipal Government.

This discussion of labor disputes from the viewpoint of municipal government proceeds from the basic assumption that workers have the right to organize and bargain collectively through agents of their own choosing.

This right has been incorporated into Federal law and into the laws of several states, including my own Pennsylvania. So normal and right does this seem that we hardly realize what a momentous step forward in our collective thinking the common acceptance of free association of workers represents. It is assuming the shape of a basic civil liberty. Collective bargaining is today the law of the land; tomorrow it may be a folkway as well.

Historically, the principle of trade unionism has been a logical and inevitable development accompanying the advance of industrialization and large-scale finance. In this country, as in others, unionism followed the organization of capital and the formation of trade associations among entrepreneurs.

Trade associations are as old as any form of activity directed towards the distribution of goods and service.

In the history of modern Europe, of which we are an integral part, the Merchant Guilds of the Middle Ages, the Hanseatic League and the London and Dutch trading companies were the predecessors of our Chambers of Commerce, our Maritime Associations, our Iron and Steel Institute. They sought precisely the same advantages now procured by our million and one organizations of producers and distributors.

The story of trade unions is a much shorter one. This simple historical fact may in itself explain much of the cause for present-day labor problems. Trade unions were, in part, born out of the disappointments of journeymen who saw that the increasing number of workers on the steps leading from apprenticeship to master status meant that many were doomed to failure.

It was the Industrial Revolution, however, which fixed the trade union as an organization of workers to protect their common interests. The Industrial Revolution gathered large numbers of workers into factories; it supplied tool and machine to replace hand labor; it spurred the development of large urban communities in which lived thousands of workers intimately associated with one another.

In this new world the trade union flourished despite every governmental and private effort to discourage or even suppress it. Trade unions were an inevitable accompaniment of the new industrialism. For almost a century now British unions have been recognized by law. Some of these unions are so old and well established that they take on and exhibit all of the sturdy caution and conservatism of the Ancient Guild of Cordwainers.

One can hardly imagine Mr. William Green or Mr. John L. Lewis receiving the accolade of knighthood from a conservative administration in this country. Yet in Great Britain a Tory Prime Minister included Walter Citrine, secretary of the Trades Union Congress, in his Honors List.

In America, chiefly because of the ever-expanding frontier up to this time and the almost unlimited natural resources at our disposal, trade union development has been slower, but it has been just as sure.

I have taken these few minutes to survey the development of trade unionism for the purpose of enlarging the shadow under which our current labor problems rest. In history and in law the principle of labor organization is established. We find the principle of collective bargaining, which entails free association, mutual recognition, the conference method, and the acceptance of contractual responsibility by employers and employees, equally well established. All democratic societies now recognize the obvious fact that the individual worker cannot strike his own bargain with his employer. It is likewise reasonably clear that unaffiliated unions cannot deal effectively with nation-wide syndicates of producers. In a free society, therefore, it is imperative that the power of employer groups banded together for mutual advantage must be balanced by independent workers' organization.

Our present problems are such, however, that governmental interference has been found necessary at many points. We are witnessing today a great effort to organize all of American labor, the unskilled as well as the skilled. We have two vigorous labor organizations contesting in the keenest sort of rivalry for membership. We are in the midst of years of economic flux, in which the business index moves in peaks and valleys, rather than plateaus.

Conflict is inevitable in a period of transition. Many men in all ranks prefer "the good old days" and try desperately to maintain them.

Self-discipline in labor relations, whether on the part of the employer or employee is just as difficult to establish as it is in any other relationship of life. The newly-formed unions are filled with men to whom it is a new experience to belong to labor organizations. Their disciplining is a task requiring the utmost patience. And by the same token, our mills are filled with executives, minor and major, to whom it is a new experience to deal with their men on labor union terms. Their education likewise requires patience. It is significant that, until recent times, no great engineering school, to my knowledge, has included in its curriculum, courses on labor relations.

In this period of tension the role of government becomes exceedingly important. Governments exist to serve the needs of all the people within a given constituency. Since the effects of labor disputes are felt by those not directly involved as well as by the participants, the government must seek at all times to facilitate orderly labor relations.

This is what we have sought to do in Pittsburgh.

To whatever sources we owe it, we have had in Pittsburgh in the last year, a remarkable exhibition of self-discipline and tolerance on the part of both capital and labor.

In the past year the city of Pittsburgh has been the fortunate beneficiary of enlightened labor policy on the part of both employers and union leaders.

It was not always so. The tradition of the Homestead strike of 1892 lingered long in Pittsburgh and western Pennsylvania. Until very recently, the extent of unionization in the city was very largely confined to the building and printing trades.

One act of what has been truly termed industrial statesmanship, formulated in a specific agreement, erased the memory of bloody Homestead and established collective bargaining as the keynote of industrial relationships in the Pittsburgh district. I refer to the written contract entered into between the subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation and the Steel Workers Organizing Committee of the C. I. O.

None of us can praise too much the initiative, intelligence, and public spirit of the leaders of the great steel corporation and of the new steel workers' union. Myron Taylor and John L. Lewis who framed the agreement; Ben. F. Fairless, of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, and Philip Murray and Clinton S. Golden, of the S. W. O. C., who have carried out the agreement so successfully, are industrial statesmen in the true sense.

While this agreement may have saved Pittsburgh lives and property, the greatest saving it brought to our city was the preservation of the spirit of civic unity. The representatives of capital and labor have struck hands in the interests of a greater community for whose good they are commonly striving.

The C. I. O.-Carnegie-Illinois agreement has served as a model of industrial relations in the whole Pittsburgh district. Smaller steel plants and industries of every description have followed the lead of U. S. Steel, and established amicable collective bargaining. So closely has business generally followed the leader in our community that I know of one plant where the operators rejected a proposed and possibly a more favorable agreement to accept in lieu thereof the then somewhat tested terms of the "Big Fellows" agreement.

Pittsburgh also in this period of labor transition has the good fortune to be located in a coal mining district organized by the United Mine Workers—a union so ably led, so indomitable in the spirit of its membership, so honest in its adherence to agreements, that its example and its men are a beacon guide to all union membership in the Pittsburgh district.

Pittsburgh has by no means been free from strikes. In this past year there have been more than a hundred, I should say. But our strikes have been free from violence and they have been settled in a fashion leading to permanent adjustment of labor difficulties in the establishments affected.

Perhaps 35 per cent of our wage earners have been on strike or have threatened strike action in the past year.

A brief strike took place at our major steel plant which employs 12,000 men at peak production. Two smaller steel fabricating plants had stoppages lasting a month or more. Approximately 2000 persons were involved.

A large cannery employing 2000 workers was closed by a strike.

Two large hotels, many restaurants, and a number of small manufacturing shops have been affected. There was a brief strike in the baking industry, and our four major laundries have been strike-bound.

The full figures are not available, but if all the many troubles, some of which might not even have achieved the dignity of full-blown strikes, were listed, I am sure the figure would reach more than one hundred.

But to date no one has been killed in Pittsburgh and no one seriously injured in a labor difficulty in the past year. Less than a dozen persons have required hospital attention and less than a dozen arrests have been necessary. This record compares most favorably with that achieved in handling the traffic, scalpers, cheering sections, and intoxicants at three major football crowds this autumn.

The sit-down wave barely touched Pittsburgh and the few small sit-downs we have had have settled themselves.

To my knowledge, only one strike in violation of an agreement has taken place and in that case the international union involved, having final judgment, promptly disciplined its members.

We have been very, very fortunate. But despite our fortune, we are groping along with the rest of the cities of America for a permanent policy for dealing with labor disputes during this interim period of transition into general collective bargaining. Anything I say today must represent therefore only my observations on various aspects of the problems involved, rather than the exposition of a full-blown philosophy on the subject.

First, I submit that the shame of our cities in the past has been the product of the alliance of municipal government and privilege-seeking industry. The use of the police power as a strike-breaking weapon has been a commonplace occurrence in the history of our cities. This I submit to you as the truth. I wish that I might be presenting it as evidence of a barbarous day quite unknown to us. Such is not yet the case entirely.

There are indications, however, that the use of the police power as the exclusive arm of one side or the other in industrial disputes is almost over.

This, of course, leads us to the very vital question of what the police activity shall be. I should say first that the ordinary civil liberties must always be preserved—that the rights of free speech, free press, and free assembly shall not be denied. Secondly, police action should always be aimed to prevent trouble, not start it; to avoid clashes, violence, injury, and death. Human life once taken cannot be restored.

I have found that the average employer does not press for the "whiff of grapeshot" method of dealing with his striking employees.

Sociological investigation may show us formulae for the course of strikes, which will aid in predetermining governmental action.

But for the present, I see no substitute for broad tolerance and exacting patience.

One temptation of the future is almost certain to be the use of the police power as a means to win strikes for a minority of workmen unable to win them for themselves. This, it seems to me, would be repetition in reverse of the errors of the past.

Another major aspect of the role of municipal government is that of mediation. We have witnessed the growth during the past four years of a vast network of labor relations boards—federal, state and municipal. I am convinced that these services are necessary. Certainly, they have justified their creation by performing valuable services in determining the instrumentalities of collective bargaining. The National Labor Relations Board, in every contact we have had with it in Pittsburgh, has been most constructive and most useful. Several of our largest disputes were settled through its medium of government-regulated elections.

On the municipal level, certain dangers of the mediation board system seem to me to deserve some mention here. In the first place, it is quite possible that municipal labor boards may overlap the functions which fall to the lot of state and national boards. It is also possible that the services of government boards can be so extended as to hamper the development of and tend to add a formality to procedures which are in essence informal natural bargaining relations between the parties affected. While this is certainly not true on the national scene at the present time, it may be true where overlapping boards function at cross-purposes.

There is another point also. Governments change periodically in democracies. Have we any assurance that labor boards will function well if manned by men whose political affiliations may be such as will turn them out of sympathy with the purposes proposed by the law creating their official existence?

The essence of the matter lies, I believe, in the acceptance of the responsibility for carrying on negotiations by the parties involved as soon as their respective organizations are prepared for this step. It is my belief that the future place of the labor board is not as a policing and enforcing agency but as an agency for the provision of the machinery of adjustment.

Certainly, the good offices of every public official should always be extended to the disputing parties in a labor controversy but I am not yet prepared to accept any established form for the extension of those good offices.

There are times when they work best under cover; there are other times when the best results are obtained in the full glow of publicity.

We cannot proceed on the assumption that in any case someone is absolutely right or someone is absolutely wrong. There are human relationships and every man is at some time fallible.

Trial and error may well be the best recipe for labor problems in this transitional period.

I read these two letters, one from an employer, another from a union representative, as examples of the goals which the municipal government must see in its participation in labor disputes.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 12, 1937.

Hon. Cornelius D. Scully,
City County Building,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Your kindness, clear vision and impartiality in lending your aid has settled a small civil war in our company.

For fourteen weeks we have been experiencing a condition that was most distressing to employee and employer alike.

Father arrayed against son, mother against daughter and brother against brother.

Our company has been continuous for more than sixty-six years, and many of our employees have been with us thirty years or more, and their children have joined us when seeking employment.

Using your formula of conference and open mind we have reached an amicable agreement, and today we are again one happy big family thanks to you.

Sincerely yours,

UNITED LAUNDRIES,

J. R. Fullerton, President.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 3, 1937.

The Honorable Cornelius D. Scully,
Mayor's office,
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Mr. Scully:

The members of the United Department Store Employees, Local No. 101, United Retail Employees of America—C. I. O., have asked that a communication be sent you expressing their appreciation and gratitude for the fine attitude manifested by the Pittsburgh police on the occasion of the strike at (Blank's) last Tuesday, October 26, 1937.

These workers engaged in a struggle for a living wage and humane working conditions, will not soon forget that your administration demonstrated in a practical way that it is mindful of the rights of workers and is not a puppet creature of the employers. Their application, too, was of a practical nature and was today given expression.

As this is written, the returns indicate that thousands of other workers in this district have done likewise.

Accept our sincere congratulations on your victory.

Respectfully,

JESSIE HARTMAN,

Secretary-Treasurer,

United Dept. Store Employees Union, Local 101.

One method of labor procedure in my own city has my full admiration and I think, illustrates the goal of self-settlement of labor disputes I have set here today.

It is employed by the Pittsburgh Railways Company—our trolley system—and the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway and Motor Coach Employees. It is very seldom that a city official in Pittsburgh has anything good to say of that company—their service is terrible—but they have perfected a splendid system of labor relations.

Without governmental interference of any sort, each side chooses a representative. They choose a third. And it has been possible for company and union to agree on such men as Dr. J. Warren Madden and Dr. John A. Lapp for this crucial third place.

The arbitration board holds public hearings which are fully reported in the newspapers into the financial status of the company, the needs of the men, their demands and the possibility of granting them.

The finding of the board is binding. The result has been a steady series of wage increases and improvements in working conditions of the employees with no loss of earnings through strike action and no interruption of a vital public service.

If Pittsburgh is any type for the nation, our industrial relations are steadily improving in tolerance, in understanding, and in benefits to the general welfare. There are dangers ahead, of course, but with careful attention we should steer clear of many of them.

There is always the danger of labor leaders becoming seekers of special privilege for themselves, just as industrialists have been seekers of special privilege.

And there is the danger of labor-management crises arising from a period of business recession, wage cuts, and unemployment.

On this point, I wish to close with an expression of a personal belief. I would not be true to my own inmost philosophy if I failed to state what I consider the true cause of severe labor troubles. And at this time, I do not mean the little things that arise from seniorities and jurisdictions, but the real prolonged and widespread disputes.

In the last analysis, the conflict between capital and labor is a conflict over what is left to each of them by the land. We have the interests of land, labor, and capital—and land fixes the terms on which capital and labor can and do work.

Settlement of Industrial Disputes by Honorable Edward D. Vandeleur, Secretary, California State Federation of Labor.

Presented by Honorable Angelo J. Rossi, Mayor of San Francisco.

The question of settling industrial disputes is one that should be given careful and sincere consideration in every community.

Basically, it might be said, that industrial disputes can easily be adjusted where a spirit of good will exists between employer and employees.

Usually where disputes arise and develop into stoppage of work it is due to the fact that conditions under which employees are working have through some combination of circumstances, or lack of understanding, become so intolerable that the workers have become embittered. With this feeling in their minds they look with a great deal of distrust upon any offer of the employer and are perhaps antagonistic to him, thus the dispute.

Many of our large employers very seldom, if ever, have a real get-together meeting with their employees. They know very little of the actual conditions existing in their industry so far as the actual treatment or condition of the employees are concerned.

The welfare, moral and otherwise, of the workers is left in the hands of a superintendent or other executive. The day has arrived when the employer should know his employees and their problems and treat them as humans if he wants to escape industrial disputes.

Now, of course, this does not go for all employers. There are many who profit by an intimate understanding of the problems of their employees. We are discussing here those employers who become engaged in industrial disputes because of lack of understanding of the workers' problems or conditions.

Another element which enters into the control of industrial disputes is the fact that too often the employer, in the belief that he is practicing self-preservation, or to make certain that he will outsmart the employees, hires one of the most learned attorneys he can obtain. He knows full well that very few groups of employees have sufficient funds to employ legal advice.

Too frequently, attorneys hired by panic-stricken employers have no sympathy or understanding with the problems or conditions of the workers. They go into the conferences on the same theory they would go into court to win, regardless of circumstances. In many cases a lack of understanding of individual situations by such counsel provokes a wider breach than originally existed.

In any event, where counsel is hired, the employer has the advantage. Bitterness grows in the minds of the workers and suspicions develop that are not easily overcome.

There are exceptions to the presence of counsel, of course, where they understand the particular problem or groups with which they are dealing.

But, all in all, many troublesome disputes are happily adjusted when attorneys are asked to leave conferences.

I wish to call attention to a recent situation in California, affecting more than 60,000 cannery workers. And, let me say that 80 per cent of this group of workers are bona fide residents and home owners, with families in the various communities in which they work. For the first time in history, and the first time any such a large group was thus represented in California, representatives of these cannery workers met with the employers.

Only a few conferences were held, and because of the fact that the employers were present and could ask any question they wished of the workers, and the workers could do likewise of the employers, they became friendly. And, it was indeed a happy moment for both groups, when, in a space of about two weeks, a satisfactory agreement was reached.

This is one very good example of direct negotiations, although no actual open dispute existed at the time negotiations began, but might have developed had action been postponed.

This agreement saved the $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 California cannery crops, due to the fact that no labor disputes developed and the great volume of crops moved to market without spoilage or delay.

This was due to direct cooperation between employers and employees.

In San Francisco, we have been successful in bringing disputing groups together, either through the good offices of a major labor leader, or a ranking city executive. The plan, followed in many communities, has been to call one side in at a time, and then arrange a joint conference.

Again, no counsel has been present and the dispute is settled.

When settlement is agreed upon, that is the time and place for the legal minds to appear and draw the final agreement, if legal approval of such agreements is deemed necessary.

I would say that 90 per cent of the employers in California are ready and willing at all times to deal with their employees, and to deal honestly and fairly.

This is proven by the fact that 90 per cent of our industries have had no labor disputes this year.

The other 10 per cent of the employers will do everything in their power to destroy the morale and happiness of their employees. Their general attitude destroys the confidence of the workers in such employers, and continued impositions, such as long hours and low wages, result in an industrial dispute.

Cooperation between employer and employee is the answer to avoiding industrial disputes.

And honest and sincere efforts of both employer and employees to effect a satisfactory adjustment of problems, when they arise, is the answer to settling industrial disputes.

Let both sides sit down together, with a minimum of outside advice from persons unfamiliar with the particular problem, and virtually any dispute can be adjusted quickly and happily, if both groups deal fairly.

Settlement of Industrial Disputes by Honorable J. W. Howell, President of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and Mr.
Reed Funsten.

Presented by Honorable Angelo J. Rossi, Mayor of San Francisco.

Your question, as to how industrial disputes might be handled, is, of course, one which the group with which I am associated has spent a great deal of thought in the past months. My belief is that there is no formula by which industrial disputes can be settled. Each one is a problem of human relations differing from every other one. A plan which will settle one controversy may be ineffective as to the next one.

There are, however, certain fundamentals which in my opinion assist in avoiding industrial disputes or tend to bring them to an end when they occur.

First, I would say that employers under the present law and in view of the prevailing attitude of people generally must recognize the right of employees to organize and must meet with their actual representatives in an honest effort to reach a settlement that will recognize the employees' needs, and the business's ability to pay. Dividends should be sacrificed if paying them means continuation of starvation wages.

Secondly, the employees should be represented by men of their own choosing and who are familiar with their particular problems. Too frequently their spokesmen are professional organizers whose objective is either political or the creation of a position of power for themselves. It must be remembered that the average working man is unable to speak for himself or to express his own desires. If those few who can do so are prevented by force, it is easily possible for a very small minority, many of whom are communistically inclined, to control a large group in a way that is not in its best interest.

Thirdly, while the right to strike should be recognized and the right of labor to notify the public that it considers a particular employer unfair should be admitted, violence in a picket line, or the use of force preventing those who wish to patronize that business from doing so, or a breach of law in compelling men to refrain from working if they desire to do so, should not be condoned. In my mind the worst effect of our labor disturbances is the growing disregard for law and order and the fact that a small minority may disrupt the activities of an entire community. This can only be prevented, and both employers and employees properly protected by prompt and vigorous action by the constituted legal authorities. Too frequently the attitude of the police force is that it do nothing until violence occurs instead of taking steps to prevent it.

I do not think it is within the duties of a head of a city government to act as an arbitrator in labor disputes. His position should be one of strict neutrality, allowing both sides to act within their respective rights, but immediately using all the means within his power to prevent either group from violating the law or interfering with the lives of those who make up the general public. If a police force is numerically inadequate to do this it can be supplemented by volunteers acting under the orders of the Chief of Police. If peace cannot be preserved in this way local government has failed and an appeal for help should be made to the State.

Resolution Adopted.

The United States Conference of Mayors unanimously adopted the following resolution on "Labor:"

Whereas, it is to the best interest of all concerned that the jurisdictional differences existing between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. be eliminated; and

Whereas, the experience of the mayors of the cities of the United States has demonstrated the great benefit which would result from the elimination of these jurisdictional disputes; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That there be conveyed to the officers of these organizations the view of the United States Conference of Mayors that it is of the greatest public interest, including the best interests of labor, industry and the general public, that, at the earliest possible time, the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. adjust all differences between them and thus enable their members to devote their united efforts to the recovery of industry and the full return of prosperity.

RELIEF AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

Address of John D. Biggers, Administrator of the National Unemployment Census.

As a result of unemployment your municipalities have found it necessary enormously to increase indebtedness. Unemployment has disturbed your financial programs by greatly increasing the demand for social service and recreational facilities. In many cases it has hampered the proper and necessary expansion of your school facilities.

Unemployment has in fact brought upon you a double burden, because while it has decreased the ability of your citizens to pay taxes, it has made necessary the increasing of the gross amounts raised by taxation.

I know, therefore, that you are directly and deeply concerned in the development of any national plan which will put people back to work.

But I know that your concern over the evils of unemployment extends beyond these enlarged financial problems. You have been able intimately to observe the damaging effects of unemployment on the morale of your communities.

Mental depression is contagious and when any substantial segment of a community is without the exhilarating stimulation of productive activity, the spirit of the whole community suffers and your capacity for going ahead with constructive measures is impaired. I feel under very great obligations to the mayors of American cities for the constructive help they have given in getting the message of the unemployment census to the people.

The wholehearted manner in which every city and town executive cooperated demonstrates in my opinion, that we as a nation, have in spite of our troubles, not lost our zeal and our zest for public undertakings aimed at the common good. As a result of your cooperation and the aid of your local committee organizations, and the endorsement of leaders in national thought, I have every expectation that the results will conform to the President's expressed desire that this census shall be complete, honest and accurate.

The great problem of America today is to get all of our willing workers back to productive work. All of our efforts will have been wasted unless this census enterprise makes available to the President, to Congress, and to all thinking people throughout the land, the basic facts of unemployment which can serve as a comprehensive corrective plan. Our future economic and social welfare demands the evolution of a plan under which the capabilities of all our people can be enlisted in the attainment of national happiness and security.

Statement to the United States Conference of Mayors by Alan Johnstone, Counsel to the Special Committee of the Senate to Investigate Unemployment and Relief.

He said the Senate of the United States in June last authorized the appointment of a Special Committee to investigate Unemployment and Relief in this country. The Vice-President has appointed, in response to that resolution, a committee consisting of seven members of the Senate.

The subject of the committee's investigation is perhaps the most important subject in the country today. Even a cursory view of it reveals that it touches the life of all the people at many points and affects the condition of their lives at more points than any other domestic problem. To a very large group of our people, happily being reduced in numbers, it means want and privation and in many cases despair. To the balance of us, it means the loss of the productive labor of the unemployed, lack of their powers to purchase the goods and services resulting from our labors, tax burdens and large outlays for relief and security. To the unemployed it means a failure to share in and contribute to the full life of the commonwealth. To the rest of us it means a decrease in the total volume of the national income and prosperity. As has been said, "unemployment is still the black cloud that impedes recovery"; and as may well be added, relief, the artificial and costly substitute for employment according to the American tradition. The problem is arresting. Regardless of many preconceptions or widely varying convictions, there are some points of general agreement that: any rational approach to this problem must take into account the total problem of dependency in the country. Specifically, in considering measures for amelioration of relief and the points at which tax funds may be withdrawn from the income of all the people, consideration must, of course, be given to the total burden and how it has been or may, in future, be borne.

Unemployment, while it may be a phenomenon of long standing, is an abnormal condition. The normal way for an American citizen to get a living is to work, and that for wages, salary, or as his own employer. The first attack, therefore, must employ all possible force and means to reduce the number of the unemployed by the adoption of any policy rightfully open to business or agriculture or to the government, and likewise by the abandonment of any policy that prevents or impedes normal employment.

Insurance for workers of yesterday and unemployment compensation for workers of today have been adopted by the general government and by the states as a policy of social security for them and for all the people.

Work on public projects at security wages paid from public funds is now used as an emergency measure and as the second line of defense against insecurity resulting from unemployment. Stated relief payments or public assistance, varying in amount from state to state, to certain of the aged, the young and the handicapped, in the form of categorical aid is also the recently adopted policy of the country.

Finally, grants from public funds without compensating work is the catch-all into which those dependents fall who may not or cannot be served by the foregoing. And to this type of aid, meagre in spots, generous in others, these forgotten men cling with declining hope. So much for our current program.

This brief review of what I have called points or facts on which we may all agree may serve as the background against which we may pose, though not attempt to answer here, certain questions:

(a) Why do men go hungry, half clothed, ill housed and without a job in America?

(b) What can be done to solve this economic paradox of hungry, idle men in this abundant and busy country?

(c) By what units of government and in what proportions shall the cost of security, public work and relief be borne, and on what terms?

(d) How, in the long reach, may public programs for necessary security, public work and relief be best administered?

To find the right answers to these questions, in whole or in part, is an undertaking which will require non-partisan, national thinking and fact-finding and will tax to the utmost the ingenuity and good temper of all men who claim to be Americans.

In just that spirit, I think, this problem must be approached. There must be no shirking or shadow boxing at any stage of the play.

To you gentlemen who represent the people in the great centers of population of this country where full two-thirds of the dependent live, I present these questions in the frankest spirit of real inquiry. And, in so far as I may appropriately speak, I say that the fairest hope of a successful issue of the investigation of the Senate Committee lies in common counsel with you and all other responsible men at whose official door the American people, including those who are dependent, stand and wait for our answer. I trust that you will join with me in the hope that they shall not stand for long nor wait in vain.

Address by Mayor Frank L. Shaw of Los Angeles on the Indigent Transient Problem.

Reliefs and remedies for unemployment remain our major concern, despite improved conditions. The plight of the migratory unemployed, and the serious situation presented by this group to municipal governments has been little changed by the relief programs of the last four years. You and I, as public officials, confront this fact every day. Every day we must deal with it as practical administrators, while we continue to hope for some ultimate solution.

The cities of the Pacific Coast and certain sections of the south are more keenly aware of the transient unemployed than those of other parts of the country. The study prepared for the Works Progress Administration by Mr. John N. Webb, discussing the migratory-casual worker, reveals that, out of five hundred cases examined, more than one-fifth sought their principal employment in the three Pacific Coast states. Add to this proportion, the larger part of fugitives from drought and flood areas, who come directly to Southern California, and you will understand our deep concern with the problem. But it cannot be our problem alone.

As early as 1933 the Federal government recognized the special problem of the migratory unemployed, and undertook measures to relieve these people. The transient camps, established and maintained by the Federal program, contained some three hundred and six thousand persons in September, 1935. Incidentally, while California has but four and seven-tenths per cent of the population of the United States, fourteen per cent of the transient unemployed of the country at that time were in the Federal camps in our State. Then, with little warning, the Federal program was completely liquidated in three months, leaving the problem apparently as big as ever, and certainly no nearer solution than before.

Today it is probable that somewhere between five hundred thousand and six hundred thousand persons, including many family groups, are wandering through this country without ample means of support. The net annual earnings of the great majority average less than three hundred dollars each. They forage as they go. They huddle together in unsanitary squatter settlements and in jungles, that radiate disease throughout the community. Their children do not receive any education much of the time, and when they are enrolled in school, they find themselves retarded two or three years behind children of their own age. It is not surprising that more fortunate people, who have established permanent homes and possess substantial occupations, dislike having such migrants in their midst. They are foreigners, everywhere in their own native land. In Los Angeles, disagreeable as the facts appear, we find it necessary to charge a large part of our crime to these transients. In the winter of 1936, we found that twenty-four per cent of all vagrants arrested by our police had previous felony records. A study just completed by the Los Angeles Police Department shows that for the fiscal year 1936-37 of those arrested and sentenced from our city to the state penitentiaries, thirty-two per cent of the homicides, thirty-four per cent of the robberies, twenty-one per cent of the burglaries, fifteen per cent of the forgeries, and twenty-one per cent of the thefts, were committed by persons who had been in California less than one year. It is our experience that our total crime rate increases twenty per cent during the winter months, and that this increase is entirely accounted for by transients from outside the state. I do not doubt that other cities of the west and southeast can verify every one of these facts from their own records.

I direct no indictment against the transient unemployed as individuals. I recognize that it is superficial thinking which dismisses them as "worthless bums", "undesirables" and the like. The immediate problem is not one of morals or ethics. It is an exceedingly critical problem of economics and social administration.

The seasonal migratory worker, who follows the crops or the industrial activities through the country, fills a definite economic need. In grain crops he is in demand throughout the states west of the Mississippi. In fruit crops he is best known to the Pacific States, and to Georgia and Florida. In beet and berry crops, he travels up and down the Pacific Coast and the Mississippi Valley. Railroad work takes him throughout the United States, but especially in the North Central section. Logging operations take him through the northwest and into California. In normal times he is self-supporting, on a low level of subsistence. He is typically without family ties. He becomes a serious social problem only during off-seasonal periods, when he and his fellows tend to congregate in our western cities to spend their small savings in dissolute relaxation, and then to become public charges in jails, or charitable institutions, until they can again wander forth in search of work. The problem imposed upon us by migrants of this class is to better their working conditions, raise and stabilize their incomes, give intelligent direction to their movements from place to place, and improve their standards until such time as agriculture and industry may be so organized as to reduce the seasonal factor to a minimum.

In a report filed with the United States Senate on July 3, 1937, the Secretary of Labor declared that two hundred thousand people have migrated from the drought area recently, and more of them are expected to move in the near future. Four-fifths of them the Secretary declares, have gone to California. The state has received an additional influx of indigent migrants from the flood regions of the Mississippi Valley. Inevitably, some of these people join the ranks of the seasonal workers. For the rest, we have at present only two choices. We must either care for them and secure a foothold for them at the expense of our own taxpayers, or we must round them up like cattle and ship them back to the states they came from. The Far West is no longer a frontier, with tillable soil to be had for the asking, and a living to be made by anyone with an axe and a plow. With more than one hundred and twenty thousand employable residents of California still on our relief rolls, it is not easy to see how we can "crowd over" to make room for these newcomers. And we recognize, as well as anyone, that transporting the homeless back and forth across the country is an aggravation of the problem rather than a solution.

Our Social Welfare Act of 1933 in California provides that no person is eligible to public relief until he or she has been a resident in the state for three years and in the county for one year. We are compelled, by circumstances I have described, to enforce that law strictly. And yet, local private and public agencies in Los Angeles even now are expending sixteen thousand dollars a month for emergency relief, averaging nearly six hundred cases a day, of transients who are unable to claim permanent aid under the law. We repatriate transient applicants for relief as rapidly as their places of legal residence can be determined. This policy means that thousands are careful not to apply for relief. They do one of three things. They starve. They turn to lives of crime. Or they go out and take jobs away from our resident workers by underbidding them in the labor market. Our State Relief Administration reports that between eleven and fifteen per cent of the transients who apply for relief are found to have no legal place of residence in any state of the Union, although by far the larger part of them are natives of the United States. These are turned off to swell the ranks of those others, who become a menace to themselves and to society. We are offered no help whatever from the outside, toward solution of this problem which the outside has sent to us. In response to a most urgent appeal, which I directed to the Works Progress Administration last July, I was advised that, under the terms of the emergency relief appropriation act of this year, no program for transient relief could be developed, except at the expense of local W. P. A. quotas. Since we now carry approximately sixty per cent of our local relief load on local resources, we cannot entertain such an alternative.

At this point, permit me to make an additional comment upon a phase of this problem that deserves special consideration. I have already mentioned the educational difficulties that arise for the children of indigent transient families. The other side of the same situation, is the extraordinary burden imposed upon the educational facilities of the communities concerned. I have just received a report that seven thousand and twenty-three pupils were enrolled in the high schools of Los Angeles this fall, none of whom ever attended a school in our city before. Most of these have entered the high schools in the low-rent area, causing serious congestion. Seven thousand new pupils amount to more than two hundred classrooms full of children. At an average of twenty classrooms per school, this would require ten new high schools for proper accommodation of the overload. Twenty-six per cent of this increase comes from the drought region. We estimate, in Los Angeles, that we must have a fixed capital investment of six hundred and seventy-five dollars and seventy cents to provide accommodations and equipment for each high school student. In addition to that, the current operating cost of our high school establishments amounts to one hundred and forty-eight dollars and fifty-seven cents for each pupil for one year. In other words, the taxpayers of Los Angeles are immediately called upon to provide eight hundred and twenty-four dollars and twenty-seven cents for each of these new pupils. These costs are not excessive, being approximately the average for the entire United States. The parents of the overwhelming majority of these new pupils are practically non-tax-producing. Where Los Angeles taxpayers are going to get four or five million dollars immediately to care for this abnormal migration of these children of unemployed is no easy question to answer. I have mentioned only the high school problem. The elementary school problem has not been estimated.

The only alternative to the undue local burden for education of these children at the present time is that they shall not be educated. This alternative is a serious one.

We find it necessary to use legal compulsion on many transient families in order to get them to enroll their children in school anywhere. They evade the school laws in every possible way, in the hope that the children may be kept free to earn a few cents. I dread to think of the future lives of these children. How many of them will be recruited into the ranks of crime and dependency within the next ten years?

As I have already remarked, while most of the information I have recited is based upon our California experience, nevertheless it is a problem for all of us, in one way or another. Other cities suffer similar situations, in greater or lesser degree. Those that do not, are certain to feel the reaction of any defensive measures adopted by communities that are feeling the burden. Nineteen states of the Union are represented in the migration of drought and flood refugees to Los Angeles alone in the last two years. Some of them are represented to the extent of tens of thousands of cases. They cannot escape the consequences of any decision that is made, or any program that is adopted.

It has become the fashion, in recent years, whenever we are confronted by great difficulties, to insist at once that these are problems for the Federal government. There is not a little justification for our attitude. In so many factors of modern life, state boundary lines are simply fictions. But in this problem there is an older precedent for asking Federal intervention. That is the distinctly interstate character of the problem. Any attempts at solution on the part of the separate states will unavoidably involve a snarl of reprisals, that will only complicate the difficulty. Local efforts, unable to contemplate the entire situation, will produce only superficial results. Purely local relief will mean aggravation of the trouble in other quarters. Only the Federal Government can rise above such efforts, and carry out a program that will be at once effective and fair to all.

The resolutions adopted by the Trenton Conference on Transients and Settlement Laws, held in New Jersey last year, the Council of State Governments held in the national capitol last January, and the Midwest Conference called at St. Paul last March, all agree there is no hope for solution without adequate Federal support and supervision of whatever program may be devised. In the words of the Trenton resolutions, they agree that transiency is a problem having its roots in conditions beyond the control of the individual states. In one respect, the Pacific states will disagree with the resolutions of these three conferences, and our disagreement proves even more plainly the need for Federal action. That point is the proposal for uniform laws on establishment of residence. So long as our Pacific region continues to be the principal goal of the depression transient, and so long as we have no compensating assistance from other states or the Federal government, we must protect ourselves with higher residence restrictions than other sections. We cannot do otherwise, in simple fairness to our own people. Nor can we consent to the Midwest Conference proposal, that indigents shall not be returned to their places of legal residence without the permission of those places. I believe that, both in our agreements and our differences, we thus confirm the claim upon the prompt aid of the Federal government.

There are four things that the Federal government can obviously do. First, it can provide immediate relief by restoring suitable transient camps, and by compensating local subdivisions for emergency medical and hospital aid required. Second, it can adjust W. P. A. quotas so that non-residents may be given employment in suitable numbers and for limited periods, and charged to the quotas of their places of legal residence. Third, it can give increased rehabilitation aid to distressed regions, which will induce residents of those sections to remain where they are. Finally, it can direct, through the Federal employment service and the Resettlement Administration, the flow of migrants to places where jobs are available, or where permanent settlement is feasible, and discourage their movements to other quarters where they will only become public burdens. To quote Congressman Voorhis, "California needs Federal aid to help meet its non-resident relief problem. But a far more constructive approach, from the standpoint of California, is Federal action to guide, stabilize, and reduce this whole migratory movement."

I conclude with the words of a resolution adopted at the Los Angeles Regional Meeting of the United States Conference of Mayors on May 15, 1937. "Those cities and communities which receive undue influx of migratory indigents are confronted with extraordinary emergencies of relief, social welfare, and crime control far in excess of those with which such local jurisdictions should be expected to cope. These migrations are interstate in character, and therefore constitute a national problem and responsibility."

Honorable Harry L. Hopkins, Administrator of the Works Progress Administration, addressed the Conference on the subject of "The National Problem of Relief and Unemployment." Mr. Hopkins referred, at the start of his remarks, to a survey of the unemployed recently made by the United States Chamber of Commerce. This survey, he said, represented one hundred cases taken from the direct relief rolls of Baltimore. It showed that fifty per cent of these unemployed never had jobs but for brief periods, even before the enactment of the W. P. A. law.

The survey, Mr. Hopkins said, was entirely misleading and when the W. P. A. investigated, it found that 95 per cent of the cases covered were those of unemployed and for the most part, old and infirm persons.

"I am fully convinced," said Mr. Hopkins, "that there is still plenty of work to be done—enough for 20 years to come and work which is desirable and important to be done." Mr. Hopkins also said he was convinced that public opinion was with the W. P. A. when it came to providing work for people who want to work and are unable to find employment in industry. He stated he had no sympathy for those persons who would put such persons on direct relief. He said that out of eight million people one million five hundred thousand have left W. P. A. for other work but that now there is a constant change and that new persons come on the rolls. The unemployed left the W. P. A.

at the rate of four per cent per month but a certain number return on the list. Old-age pensions is the technique of social security. Groups of old people and unemployed are becoming more articulate every day. One-third of our population is not properly housed, fed and clothed and have no real security. They do not know from day to day what is to become of them. Mr. Hopkins finally said there is no reason why in America we cannot proceed to abolition of poverty.

Address by Honorable Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland on "An Industrial City Looks at Relief."

Is there need for governmental relief?

If there be such need, how can it be reduced or ended?

While the need exists, how should it be met?

I am asked to answer these questions in the light of conditions in Cleveland. I am asked to use Cleveland so that, by applying your knowledge of the differences between your city and mine, you will deal with facts and avoid dependence on averages drawn from everywhere but representing actual conditions nowhere.

Is there need for governmental relief?

In any metropolitan industrial center, the answer is emphatically and tragically "Yes." The need, actually, is so clear, so great and so tragic that it is a cause for grave concern that enough doubt exists to raise the question.

I have found no doubt on this point among Federal officials. This may well be because they are especially familiar with conditions in the metropolitan industrial centers of the nation. In each of these the need repeats and emphasizes itself so clearly that no one thinks of questioning it there. However, among officials of our state of Ohio, there are some who find it hard to believe that the direct relief requirements of Greater Cleveland are actually about one-third of those of the entire state, although its population is only about one-sixth of that of the state. The explanation of this difficulty of understanding is probably the fact that about one-half of the population of Ohio is in communities having little or no relief problem and that even among our cities the relief needs increase in proportion to the industrial congestion rather than to mere population. An industrial city of a million is not ten cities of 100,000 each, laid end to end. It is more accurately ten cities of 100,000 each, laid on top of each other.

Our duty in every industrial city is, therefore, two-fold. We must make sure of our facts and then so present them that our needs will be as clear to others as they are to the mayor himself. We have as yet no adequate unemployment census. We have tried unsuccessfully in Cleveland to secure this, either through private resources or through a W. P. A. project. Today we are cooperating fully with the Federal voluntary unemployment census in the hope that this will either develop the facts or will demonstrate the need for a still better census of unemployment. The figures we do have are those of our relief load. They amply establish the existing need. The peak of total relief occurred in Greater Cleveland in April, 1935, with 80,000 cases, representing about 250,000 people, or 20 per cent of the population. One year ago this peak had been reduced to 60,000 cases, 35,000 of which were on Federal work relief and 25,000 on local direct relief. Today it is down to about 42,000 cases, representing about 125,000 people, or one-tenth of the population. This is a reduction of almost fifty per cent from the peak of April, 1935, and of thirty per cent from this time last year.

While we have reviewed and tested these cases in many ways and are continually reducing the load, we are also receiving applications of persons entitled to be added to the rolls. If, therefore, to avoid all argument we suppose that some reasonable number of those on relief can be shown by further investigation not to deserve it, we are perfectly confident that, substantially more than 100,000 people are, beyond every possible doubt, relief cases whose needs are vital and urgent. These people find themselves citizens of a national, state and local government, under which they are unable, except with governmental relief, to earn tomorrow's food for themselves or their children. If we cut off governmental relief to these bona fide cases, we will find in Cleveland 100,000 people compelled to choose between starvation on the one hand or lawless search for food on the other. To present such a choice is not to promote law and order; it is to foment anarchy. To the mayor of any industrial city with 100,000 people facing that issue, it is not necessary to argue the point further.

To bring out the picture more clearly, I add the following facts: In about two-thirds of the relief cases they represent families of two or more individuals, sometimes as many as ten. In the remaining one-third they represent, in about equal numbers, unattached men and women. There is an average of about one school child to every case. The 100,000 people would probably include about 34,000 needy school children. About eighty-five per cent have no income whatever. The remaining fifteen per cent have incomes, so small that it must be supplemented to provide even the relief scale of living. Sometimes this income represents the work of a child, sometimes the part-time employment of the father or mother, sometimes a small pension or occasional gifts.

Some are employable, but many are completely unemployable. If we use the tests of employability used in qualifying for W. P. A. about one-third are unable to qualify for even those simple types of work. This includes the physically, mentally and emotionally handicapped persons, those of advanced age and those women who, as heads of families, cannot possibly take employment outside of the home. It includes the crippled, those with high blood pressure, bad hearts, defective eyesight, hernias and other handicaps which are tragically present in fact, although not always obvious to the casual observer.

In the industrial centers of these post-depression days, personal savings are gone, and friendly neighbors or relatives are on relief or on the border line. In the past thirty days applications for relief have more than doubled in number. The fact, therefore, must be faced that in the industrial centers there today exists a need for relief in addition to what can be met by the permanent statutory relief services, such as those for the widows, aged, blind, disabled, or the paupers. This need extends to something like 10 per cent of the population, and is now met solely by Federal work relief and local direct relief. The need for this governmental relief is both undeniable and substantial.

If there be need for governmental relief, how can that need be reduced or ended?

Destitution is in great part a shadow cast by unemployment. In Cleveland, we have estimated that about 70 per cent of the destitute now on relief, are eligible for W. P. A. work relief—and in fact about 50 per cent out of the 70 per cent are there now. Many of these certainly would be able and glad to accept some kind of private employment if that should become available to them. With this challenge before us, every governmental official owes his best efforts to assist in the development of every reasonable program to develop private employment.

It is not for us, in this conference, to borrow the troubles of the national administration and undertake to deal with the development of foreign trade, the encouragement of new inventions, the increasing of volumes of production, the raising of real wages or the struggle with the general economic trends of the day. As mayors of industrial cities we do, however, owe a deep obligation to cooperate aggressively with all constructive efforts made toward recovery and which depend for their success in any degree upon the cooperation of our respective governmental units.

We also should contribute, in our respective cities, every possible bit of initiative toward the development of new industries and the encouragement of private employment. Even though the gaining new industries may sometimes mean the taking of them from one city to another, this competitive effort to locate industries in those places best fitted for them is a healthy development. We can also definitely contribute to the success of private industry by following a policy of local government dedicated to economy of operation, to the maintenance of law and order, the creation of confidence on the part of both employer and employee, to the principle of serving the interest only of the community as a whole, rather than any special interest whatsoever. Such a policy includes a direct drive against extortion and all forms of racketeering, unfailing emphasis upon competency of individuals serving the city, support of Civil Service and the subordination of all partisan interests to public interests.

Using Cleveland again as the example and without attempting to attribute progress and employment any more than partially to the efforts of the city government, we find that the average of employment in our city has for the past year exceeded by five to ten per cent, the average of the nation as a whole. During the past two years we have sought to encourage the location of new enterprises there. We have secured more than fifty new industries, bringing employment to more than 3500 men and women at jobs that did not ever exist there before. In addition, several steel plants have enlarged their capacity so that with the recovery of the steel industry they will put to work about 3000 men at places never before occupied. We have sought to bring to the aid of our industrial center, some of the funds of those who live in surrounding areas that are not so directly burdened with the problem of industrial relief. We have done this through two years of the Great Lakes Exposition on the shores of Lake Erie, which attracted millions of visitors and brought millions of dollars to the community, to say nothing of employing between 6000 and 7000 people each summer. We have been favored with many conventions and large industrial exhibits. We have just opened a privately-owned million-dollar sport arena, built to serve the population within at least 100 miles of our city.

The Federal government has been helpful through its P. W. A. and similar projects. Cleveland and Ohio have benefited in many indirect ways by such projects even when constructed at great distances from us, but calling for materials which we manufacture. Locally we have not been able to make use of this opportunity as much as we would have liked because our state laws have so restricted the ability of the cities to provide local funds that we have rarely been able to command a Federal grant or loan on the conditions prescribed. The effect of these projects upon the need for relief is necessarily indirect. The need for continuance of such aid therefore, can be measured better by the Federal government rather than by the local governments. If there is to be reduction in Federal expenditures, a reduction of it in this field would cause far less tragic immediate consequences than the reduction of aid in the field of Federal work relief, generally referred to as W. P. A.

We must also emphasize the possibility of reducing the relief load by the careful removal and exclusion from relief of all who are not fairly entitled to it. The responsibility for this is local. In Cleveland all relief clients have been required to re-register since May 1st. Careful examination is made of their connections and resources of all kinds. All must be registered with the Federal, state and city employment office, and if capable of doing work, must be ready and willing to accept it when available. Under this system of investigation, an average of but one out of two cases applying for relief is found qualified. Following admission to the relief roll, visitation of clients is essential. This should occur at least once a month. We advocate a load of not more than one hundred cases per visitor. Beyond that point it becomes more expensive to economize on visitors than to pay for additional visitors.

To avoid blindness to our mistakes, we have employed the services of an out-of-town experienced auditing and credit concern to which we refer cases when doubt is raised as to their right to relief. Out of six thousand cases this investigation has eliminated from 15 to 20 per cent. On the other hand, we have found that often where we have dropped people from the relief rolls after special examination, it has not been because of misrepresentation of facts in securing relief, but rather when they have been able to find some kind of partial or full-time employment they have continued to accept the relief payments in addition to their new income, so that they might pay up past due rents or bills, or buy some needed clothing or household articles that were badly needed but which they had been unable to buy out of the relief allowance itself. They have left it to the relief agency to cut off the relief and have merely failed to cut themselves off from it. Another obligation is to transfer from relief rolls those who belong under such permanent provisions as are made for dependent children, the aged, the permanently disabled, the paupers, the blind, and for soldiers' and sailors' relief.

In 1936, in Greater Cleveland, whereas our average case load of direct relief cases was about 25,000 we eliminated during the year about 40,000 or an average of 3300 cases per month. New cases took their places, but the net result was the gradual reduction of the load to about 20,000 cases. During the same year the number of employees on the relief staff dropped from 2200 to 700.

It is essential that the administration of relief command the confidence of the community in which it is administered. To do this we believe there must be a competent and adequate staff of workers. There must be absolute freedom from political considerations both in the employment of the workers and the administration of relief. We find an advantage in the use of trained social workers over amateurs who obtain their training at the expense of the relief agency and the relief clients. A low turnover in the staff of employees is of the greatest importance. Each relief case with which they deal is an individual tragedy and familiarity with it spells competency in its handling. We welcome suggestions and complaints from the public and follow up promptly information supplied by the public as to abuses of relief. In doubtful cases we require the client to come in and make affirmative demonstration of his need for his relief order before he receives it. Relief standards are not high enough to render them more attractive than employment. The average allowance for food to an individual member of a family of five is about nineteen cents per person per day.

The cities can contribute most to the reduction of the relief rolls by the promotion of private industry, the prompt exclusion from relief of those not deserving relief, and the constant practice of trustworthy, economical local government.

While the need for governmental relief exists, how should it be met?

This brings us to the issue which is so real to the mayor of every industrial city but which the general taxpaying public hates to face, namely, the actual presence of about 10 per cent of the population who have no means whatsoever of securing their daily food or their needed shelter or clothing without governmental relief. This issue must be treated apart from philosophical discussions of policies of recovery and of any long-term methods of reducing the load.

In Cleveland, with at least 100,000 people in need of relief, 70 per cent of them belonging to families some one or more of whom is capable of doing some kind of simple work, the argument for "work relief" as against "the dole" seems unanswerable. To permit 30,000 employable cases, out of a total of 42,000 cases, to remain idle when they could work and would like to work is a reflection on the good sense of the governmental agencies which should seek to preserve the productive capacity of these cases for future industrial use. But even more pressing is the fact that such a great volume of idleness cannot from the mere point of view of local safety and law and order, be permitted to continue.

This presents a matter of tremendous importance to the stability and morale, not only of the city directly concerned, but of the state and nation of which it is a part. The nation has done an extraordinary service to the country and to the localities within the country through the W. P. A. work relief programs to meet this emergency. I strongly urge their continued support with Federal funds. The Federal government appreciates the needs of the large industrial centers. It can deal with them on a fair and comparable basis. A state which has in it but one or perhaps two such areas has difficulty in seeing the problem in its true perspective. A state tends to weigh the needs of its largest municipal industrial center on the same set of scales as the small community which has no relief burden. The bulk of the metropolitan relief load will not fit such a scale and cannot be fairly weighed upon it.

Our state also is restricted by constitutional and statutory provisions in the financing of work programs which present great difficulties. The state Constitution prevents the issuance of state bonds in any substantial sum and there is no reasonable possibility of securing a constitutional amendment for relief purposes. The need for work relief nevertheless is just as clear in Ohio as elsewhere from a national standpoint and the recognition of this nation-wide need by the Federal government has been an essential factor in meeting it.

From another standpoint, the Federal W. P. A. program has been of great value to Cleveland. Restricted by state laws and constitutional limitations adapted to the smaller communities, Cleveland, without W. P. A. is unable today to carry on any substantial construction program although the need is clear, the plans and supervision are ready, and the laborers are available on the relief rolls.

Faced with this situation for the past two years Cleveland has presented its program and condition in detail to the Federal government, has offered the most careful planning and supervision of W. P. A. projects, has presented its sponsor's share of the projects and in some cases has secured voluntary contributions from other interests so as to provide such sponsor's share. The result has been that Cleveland has been able to carry more than one-half of its relief cases on Federal W. P. A. and N. Y. A. projects. While this has not absorbed all of the employables, it has met many crying needs for improvements. Over the life of W. P. A., and extending to June 30, 1938, we have had a $40,000,000 program, of which about $5,000,000 represented the local contribution. Our method of handling the subject has been to appoint an executive assistant to the mayor in charge of Federal relations. To him was assigned the responsibility for securing and supervising all projects involving Federal aid. This centralization of authority has proved successful and convenient. The projects have included the enlargement of our airport, the building of a lake-front highway, the paving of fifty miles of streets, the construction of many sewers, the digging of a cut to improve the course of a river, the excavation of a reservoir, the grading of municipal cemeteries, the rehabilitation of parks and playgrounds, the rehabilitation of public buildings, the making of clothing for relief and also important art, educational and music projects.

From the experience in Cleveland, the need for the continuance of W. P. A. work relief on substantially the same basis and the same scope as at present is clear. If there are to be reductions in Federal expenditures, W. P. A. is not the right place to make the reduction until there is a reduction in the emergency for the employment of the laborers now entirely dependent on this source of income for their living.

If there is to be any change in Federal contributions or any decentralization of the source of funds for this service, it is of the greatest importance that those who secure such changes shall also secure a new source to take up, without the intervention of a single day, the responsibility for human needs thus transferred. The decentralization of administration may have advantages if properly supported in the states, but the redistribution of the source of funds is too vital a matter to be left to experiment.

To put it simply, if the taxpaying interests of the nation are seeking a change, they should also see to it that the need is actually met through state or other local agencies before serious disorders are forced upon local communities with no adequate means to prevent or to control them. Those who seek to make changes must realize the actual presence and needs of the unemployed people. They must realize that any local government within whose boundaries these people are living will have to sacrifice every orderly agency of government to meet this need rather than permit anarchy to result. To throw this burden from the Federal government to the cities spells local disaster at the most critical points in the stability of popular government. There could be no more futile or shameful procedure than for the taxpaying interests of this nation to create any impression that the Federal government can be taken out of the work relief program before supplying some adequate substitute for that work relief on a scale that is at least state-wide. These taxpaying interests must not represent that they wish the Federal government to shift the load through decentralization to the local communities and then appear before those local or state authorities and attempt to dodge the expense of the burden, which they themselves thus shifted from Washington to their respective states and communities. Those who argue for the reduction of Federal work relief work should at the same time provide a firm underwriting by the states to carry in some manner the human needs of the thousands of people thus actually cut off from every available means of earning food, clothing or shelter. The unavoidable and primary consideration must be the human needs of those who are in need. To my mind this points clearly to the wisdom of the continuance of the Federal sponsoring of W. P. A. projects to meet the needs of the employable relief cases in accordance with the originally stated and often reiterated policy of the U. S. Conference of Mayors.

In the field of direct relief, as distinguished from Federal work relief, Cleveland now supplies direct relief to about fifty per cent of her total relief load and inevitably must continue to supply relief to about thirty per cent of that load, as these are the actual unemployables. The situation in Cleveland is so extraordinarily critical due to failure of the state to meet the situation, that our experience may serve as a warning of what should be avoided. In 1937, in Ohio, the state government, through sales taxes, carried much of the cost of direct relief up to May 1st. On that date the state abandoned the relief load. It not only stopped its appropriations but also disbanded its relief machinery. Even the counties, through which relief funds had been administered, were advised that they no longer could administer relief for the many cities and villages having a common problem within their county. The position taken by the state immediately forced each city and village to look after its own relief load and prohibited any from contributing to the help of another. The result was that Cleveland's suburbs which benefit by the prosperity of Cleveland and which, through county taxation, had willingly carried their share of the relief load of the Greater Cleveland area, now found themselves without means of contributing to this effort. The state had provided neither funds nor enabling legislation to meet the need. It simply adopted the policy of discontinuing relief and of waiting to see what would happen.

As an emergency measure we secured permission to divert for relief purposes funds previously required to be set aside to retire scrip issued during the depression and also to divert to relief any taxes on intangible property received in excess of the original estimates. The available funds from these sources have been enough to cover about one month. The only other resources which developed was the receipt of delinquent real estate taxes in excess of budget estimates. There was an extraordinary need to use these funds to do what the city had left undone when the taxes had been left unpaid. The city, however, sacrificed all needs for police, fire and hospital equipment, and all chance for enlargement of its police and hospital service, and poured the local funds into relief. These funds lasted until about the middle of October. The state declined to call a special session before election and has only now consented to call it on November 29. Under the present laws there is no way in which a city can raise funds to meet relief requirements for the balance of 1937 and none by which they can levy a tax even on real estate for 1938 without requiring a 65 per cent vote of the people. It is possible under the home rule charters of certain cities to amend those charters by a fifty per cent popular vote, but this also would not help the 1937 emergency. There is readily available in the state an opportunity to renew utility, malt and admission taxes for relief on a state-wide basis. Such a program has been presented by the cities. It collects taxes locally and returns them to the point of origin. No program has been agreed upon by the state authorities, and the best that can be hoped for at present is that upon the opening of the special session on November 29th there will be an emergency appropriation of state funds for local relief purposes to be charged against and future authorization of relief funds during the special session of the Assembly.

This means that this week the city of Cleveland is compelled to sacrifice street cleaning services, rubbish and garbage collection service, and otherwise sacrifice essential regular operations to help provide emergency funds until the Assembly meets. This means that the absence of a state program is today beginning to cripple regular city service. I mention all this because if there should be any discontinuance of the Cleveland Federal W. P. A. program—or any attempted transfer of it to the state of Ohio—the difficulty would be double that which is now impending.

The organized taxpaying interests of Ohio, in seeking to prevent all possible state or local taxation, are creating an emergency in the administration of relief. It is to this situation that I refer when I urge that whatever policy be adopted on the Federal program, it must not include an abandonment of work relief until such time, if ever, that adequate provision has been made in the states to absorb that added burden in the industrial centers.

Returning to the three original questions:

First: Is there need for governmental relief? I answer emphatically yes, in the industrial centers of the nation.

Second: If there be such need, how can it be reduced or ended? It can be reduced permanently or ended only through industrial and agricultural recovery, which is a subject beyond our jurisdiction. It can be reduced partially by local cooperation with all constructive national recovery programs, by the aggressive promotion of local initiative in business, by the economical operation of local governments, by the careful supervision of the administration of relief itself, and by the maintenance of a generally high standard of local government and law enforcement.

Third: While the need for governmental relief exists, how should it be met? Work relief should be continued on a Federal basis. This should include the employment on Federal projects of all employable relief cases. While there might be more decentralization of administration there certainly should be no decentralization of the source of funds for such work relief until adequate new sources are clearly established.

At the foundation lies the absolute necessity for the continuance at present of a clear policy of adequate relief, although the amount required has been greatly reduced during the past two years. It is the duty of the industrial cities to present the facts, without equivocation, to the Federal government, to their respective states and to the taxpayers and voters in each area. Our cities stand today in the front line of defense of popular government in America. Our cities are fighting this battle on the frontier of democracy. They must not be abandoned. I have full confidence in the ability of popular government to meet this test. The foundation of success is a willingness to face the facts in a united drive for recovery, but never forgetting in the midst of that drive, to feed and clothe the men, women and children who are the victims of existing conditions.

To fail to strive for recovery is treason to democracy, but to fail to so conduct our recovery program as to care for our needy men, women and children in the meantime, is treason to humanity.

Resolutions Adopted.

The United States Conference of Mayors adopted the following resolutions:

Indigent Transients.

Whereas, the unemployment problem of many sections of the east, as well as other parts of the United States, is greatly aggravated and distorted by the mass movements of indigent transients into such areas; and

Whereas, those cities and communities which receive undue influx of such migration of indigent transients, seasonally or continuously, are confronted with extraordinary emergencies of relief, social welfare, and crime control far in excess of those with which such local jurisdictions should be expected to cope; and

Whereas, these migrations of indigent transients are interstate in character, and therefore constitute a national problem and responsibility; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Annual Conference of the United States Conference of Mayors recommend to the Congress of the United States and to the appropriate committees thereof suitable action to accomplish a solution of this urgent problem.

Relief.

Whereas, judging from the estimates filed with the United States Conference of Mayors by the major cities of the nation, present relief rolls during the past few weeks have been increasing and the trend is upward; and

Whereas, in the event the relief load continues to increase during the next few months, it is apparent that the W. P. A. must increase its employment quota in the affected areas, in order to meet these needs; and

Whereas, to do this it would be necessary to request a deficiency appropriation; and

Whereas, the formula of dividing the fund appropriated for the present fiscal year into twelve monthly allotments is unscientific; and

Whereas, if we are to continue the present American program of providing work for those who are able to work, it is necessary to make these recommendations; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Annual Conference of the United States Conference of Mayors indicate the above facts at this time and direct the Executive Committee to conduct a survey of conditions in December and report the findings of such survey, together with specific recommendations, to the Congress when it convenes in January, 1938.

ORGANIZED CRIME.

Address by Honorable Philip J. McCook, Justice of the Supreme Court, State of New York.

Mr. President and members of the United States Conference of Mayors:

One night eighteen years ago, when your President and I went campaigning in the Bronx, we were ushered into a tiny clubroom for one of our round of speeches. He was then mayor, not twice-elected Mayor La Guardia, and running for the presidency of the Board of Aldermen. The audience consisted of a dozen people, four of whom, as we entered, were playing pool. We made our speeches, while the four in the back of the room kept right on playing pool. You are more polite than they, and we thank you for interrupting your pleasant conference to listen to a subject which has been of particular interest to us both. We have been friends for a quarter century, but his sentiments and practices on the duty of government towards organized crime are as well known to you as to me, although, like myself, he realizes that the need for crime prevention and rehabilitation is never to be forgotten.

A judge usually talks about the law and his experiences on the bench to members of bar associations who are, as officers of the court, able at least to get his point of view and presumably willing to put up with a certain amount of dullness. Each of you represents an important city. You are fellow officials, each in some measure charged with the duty of law enforcement. I therefore count on your sympathy and understanding. My primary aim will be to speak as an observer rather than as commentator or adviser. From his high bench the judge has an unparalleled opportunity for observation. His difficulty is to describe what he observes vividly enough to be interesting without offending the proprieties.

Mr. Justice Cardozo, while he was chief judge of the Court of Appeals of New York, said in the course of a series of lectures:

"My analysis of the judicial process comes then to this, and little more: logic, and history, and custom, and utility, and the accepted standards of right conduct, are the forces which singly or in combination shape the progress of the law. Which of these forces shall dominate in any case, must depend largely upon the comparative importance or value of the social interests that will be thereby promoted or impaired. One of the most fundamental social interests is that law shall be uniform and impartial. There must be nothing in its action that savors of prejudice or favor or even arbitrary whim or fitfulness. Therefore in the main there shall be adherence to precedent."

In a different connection he quotes Mr. Justice Holmes when the latter observed:

"The law has grown, and even if historical mistakes have contributed to its growth, it has tended in the direction of rules consistent with human nature . . . ."

Judge Cardozo also stated, in yet another place:

"There is nothing new in this notion of the subordination of legal concepts to expediency and justice, though as with many an old truth, there is need to restate it now and again. What is new, perhaps, is the readiness to avow what has always been practiced more or less intermittently, and at times with scant appreciation of the nature of the motive force."

In March, 1935, one of the regular grand juries of New York county, exercising its ancient and undoubted privilege, took the bit in its teeth and became what has since been known as the run-away grand jury. Disagreeing with the district attorney, they went to Governor Lehman and laid before him what they considered to be certain alarming conditions in that county. The outcome was the Governor's famous order or proclamation of June 28th, which appointed an Extraordinary Special and Trial Term of the New York Supreme Court, and designated myself to hold it. The purpose stated was that of inquiring into "(1) any and all acts of racketeering and vice; (2) any and all acts of organized crime or any other crime; (3) any connection between such acts and any law enforcement officials . . ." committed within New York County. (In passing please note that there are five counties in New York City, each with a district attorney independent of any other, and no district attorney and no grand jury can act on crimes taking place entirely outside the county in question.)

This action of the Governor was taken after consulting the Association of the Bar of the City of New York. In view of the way the matter came up, it was decided to name a special prosecutor, and he appointed Thomas E. Dewey, who was sworn in, caused the first grand jury to be selected, and began his work.

What is a racket? This is what I said in my charge to these grand jurors:

"Racketeering is a comparatively new expression. When loosely used it is broad enough to include all crookedness of a systematized or organized kind under business forms. As employed in the Governor's order, you may take it to mean something more definite and limited, namely, extortion, by intimidation or otherwise, from legitimate or illegitimate business."

No such crime is known to the law of the State of New York as racketeering, although the institution has existed in New York City for at least a generation, and the idea probably is as old as community life. Extortion, however, is a crime and most of the prosecutions which I am about to discuss were for extortion, that is, organized extortion. Neither the special prosecutor nor myself ever had any idea that he would or should attack ordinary crimes, no matter how serious, or ordinary vice, however common. These were to be left to the elected district attorney. When, however, punishable vice or any other crime was found to be organized or systematized, that obviously fell within the scope of the investigation.

The inquiry had, before a year was up, grown to such proportions that the Governor named an additional justice and created a second special and trial term of court, providing for another grand jury. To conduct the new term he designated the Honorable Ferdinand Pecora, and ever since then the two terms and two grand juries, with the help of the same special prosecutor, have worked harmoniously side by side. Many indictments have been handed up. Four have been tried in the Supreme Court and many misdemeanors before the Court of Special Sessions, upon informations filed there by direction of one grand jury or the other. There have been 71 convictions out of 73 trials. No conviction was reversed. Indeed, as the investigation progressed, pleas of guilty became more and more common.

I am giving you these and subsequent details because your President has told me that you would not be alarmed at the thought of listening to law, and would be truly interested in procedure which might bear upon your own problems.

The historian Macaulay indicates that one of the first recorded racketeers was Robert, later Lord Clive. As a boy in rural England, it seems that the future conqueror of India organized a local gang which terrorized the tradesmen by breaking windows, and sold immunity for apples and half pence. Strange to say, the first defendant caught in the special prosecutor's net was a window-breaker, a youthful second offender who had almost killed a baby in a tenement with a brick thrown to make good an extortion threat. The early information was that he was a member of a ring, but when he pleaded guilty, no evidence of accomplices was found. He was sent to Elmira Reformatory.

Next to appear above the surface were the "loan sharks", and for the first time the public saw, in the form which later became so familiar, Prosecutor Dewey's peculiar technique. After long and careful preparation, with no necessary detail omitted, and in the utmost secrecy, even among his assistants and a special force of police, he suddenly pounced, and placed all the principal defendants at once in custody. Even then no publicity was permitted until identification of the prisoners by the witnesses had, so far as possible, been made. I need scarcely point out that this procedure had at least two important advantages—the defendants were less likely to escape and intimidation of witnesses was less probable.

Next, so far as I was concerned, came the so-called vice prosecution, ultimately involving Luciano and twelve others, charged alike with "conducting and directing on a large scale the business of prostituting women, with features of wholesale oppression and corruption," and including the systematic abuse of bail bonds. All defendants were convicted and sentenced to various terms from seven and a half to fifty years in State Prison. Luciano was not caught in the original raid and was not at that time under indictment. He was arrested in the State of Arkansas, fought extradition vigorously and was returned to New York after proceedings of an unusual and interesting character, which displayed the utmost resourcefulness on both sides.

Before the vice trial and after the original indictment antedating the one which included Luciano, the New York Legislature passed an amendment to Section 279 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Ch. 328, Laws of 1936). This celebrated law permitted the indictment and trial of several distinct offenses, if similar in character or connected together as parts of a common scheme or plan. A companion statute (Sec. 2190 of the Penal Law) made provision for sentence in such a case. Each section was expressly made applicable to all indictments or informations subsequently filed, whether the offenses alleged were committed before or after enactment.

This third conspicuous prosecution at which I presided was that of the restaurant racket. Preparation had been going on practically since the first day of the investigation. Some of the most interesting developments in the whole inquiry were connected with this difficult pursuit of what was charged to be a complete industrial market. In September, 1935, the treasurer of the Metropolitan Restaurant and Cafeteria Association, a man named Grossell, later convicted upon the main trial, was brought before me charged with contempt through failure to deliver subpoenaed books. He was punished by imprisonment for fifteen days and the documents were then surrendered. This incident was not without importance, but was followed by others far more symptomatic. It was reported that witness after witness was failing to disclose the truth. The usual history of the matter was that he would first hesitate to talk at all, then tell a little, but whenever the crux of the matter was approached, he would evade, lie, and in short, substantially foil the purpose of the inquiry. The situation was brought to a head by the case of People v. Finkel. The defendant, a respectable business man and employer, was charged with criminal contempt. He was found guilty and sentenced to jail for thirty days. Extracts from the opinion give the picture:

"After being examined by a district attorney in the latter's office, he was taken before the grand jury of the Extraordinary Special and Trial Term of this court sitting for the investigation of rackets, and more particularly considering the activities of persons controlling a certain organization known as the Metropolitan Restaurant and Cafeteria Association, the alleged commission of extortion by those persons, and the alleged illegal relationship existing between that organization and certain labor unions. He was there questioned during five separate sessions. His testimony occupies about 250 pages of the record, exclusive of exhibits."

"He failed to give any reasonable explanation except that he had been 'fishing for answers', or to add to the so-called information given to the grand jury."

"The simplest form of obstructing justice is to refuse to answer a proper question. Another form is to assert failure of memory when there is in fact no such failure. A third is to profess at all times that one has nothing to conceal and is telling the truth, but to pretend to forget or to pretend to remember what is not, so whichever may be handiest at the time, to lie when one can, to tell the truth when one must, and by glibness and insolence waste more time than would be possible under either of the other methods. It is an interesting technique—also a dangerous one. If it can be employed with impunity, it is likely to spell the end of any attempt to procure evidence of organized and lucrative crime in which normally well-disposed citizens have become involved on a large scale through cupidity, timidity or passivity."

The judgment was affirmed with one dissent in the Appellate Division of my court. Presiding Justice Martin expressed the view of the majority, writing in part as follows:

"The answers were not only false and perjurious, they were answers in form only and were clearly tantamount to a refusal to answer, and they therefore constitute a criminal contempt of court. The dissenting opinion stresses the fact that the power exerted by the court is a dangerous innovation. Courts have had this power from time immemorial and it has not been abused. Many writers assert that such a power is inherent in the courts. There is very little danger of an abuse of such a power, especially in view of the fact that there is a complete remedy by appeal. The far-fetched cry of safeguarding the defendant or a witness has reached the point where it is used to defeat detection and prosecution of those who violate our laws. We must realize that the time has come when we must give more attention to protecting the honest citizens."

Unanimous affirmance by the Court of Appeals brought almost instantaneous results. Witnesses began to crack, one after the other, and indictments followed. The defendants indicted almost immediately raised the constitutionality of the statute permitting the joinder of separate crimes, which I have already described, by demurring to the indictment. I held the indictment valid and the legislation constitutional, whereupon the defendants raised the same point by habeas corpus. One of these writs (People ex. rel. Pincus v. Adams) was heard by Mr. Justice Wasservogel, who said:

"The amendments to Section 279 of the Code of Criminal Procedure created no new offense, imposed no greater punishment and took away no defense. I am in accord with Mr. Justice McCook, who overruled the demurrer to the indictment, and I hold that Chapter 328 of the Laws of 1936 works a change in procedure only and affects no substantial rights of the relators."

After the restaurant racket trial, which resulted in the conviction of all defendants except one (as to whom a mistrial was declared for ill health) and sentences of from five to twenty years in state prison, an appeal from the Wasservogel decision was taken direct to the Court of Appeals. In unanimously affirming the decision, the court (Judge Finch writing) treated the different angles of a question which was entirely novel in New York, though the new statute followed laws which had been held constitutional in the Supreme Court of the United States and several state jurisdictions.

An attempt to persuade the Supreme Court of the United States to review the question failed. Mr. Justice Cardozo, to whom application was made, wrote: "I find appellant's grievance to be unsubstantial", and disallowed appeal.

The appeal from the restaurant conviction (People v. Coulcher and others) has not yet been perfected. I have laid so much stress upon People ex rel. Finkel v. McCook and People ex rel. Pincus v. Adams and quoted so fully the reasoning of the courts, because of their importance to the whole investigation, and their novelty and historical significance.

The last of the three major cases which I tried was the garment trucking racket. An entire association of truckmen had been shaken down by two gangsters or mobsters. These men, with their confederate, later killed, had established themselves as persons to be feared in the industry, by terror, through stench bombs, destruction of the engines of trucks by emery powder mixed with the oil, and beating up truckmen. They dominated an association of truck owners in downtown New York. But they were not satisfied with their territory and so decided to move in on the garment district uptown. One night in 1933, the president of the uptown association was accosted on the street by one of the gangsters and told that his whole association would have to pay for protection. He pleaded with the racketeers and finally asked: "Suppose we don't pay up." The gangster looked him over and said, "If you don't pay, we'll come uptown, bust the trucks of every member you've got and break their heads." The president of the association replied that he would talk to the board of directors, and he did. Someone made a timid suggestion that they all go down to the district attorney's office. It was vetoed because they were afraid of their lives, and so the association began to pay monthly tribute, and here is the way the matter was handled:

Checks were drawn each month to the directors as salary, although the directors had never before received salary and did not intend to keep it now. They would turn these checks over to a man who would cash them and slip the cash to one of the mob on the street. This had been going on for years.

At the close of the people's case the defendants pleaded guilty and were sentenced to state prison for from three to ten years. I have felt freer in describing the facts of this case and making comment because, unlike some of the others, it is entirely concluded, and the truth of the charges has been established without hope of appeal.

For the same reason I may without impropriety describe what I have been informed was the procedure on the part of the prosecutor in preparation of the same case. First the books were subpoenaed and examined by accountants. Then began the task of confronting each witness with the cashed directors' checks, continuous questioning of the signers and the individuals who had delivered the cash. At first they stood pat and stuck to the story that they had kept the salaries. They were then played off, one against the other, using part of the truth told by some to break the lies of others. Finally, enough was pieced together to prove that at an early directors' meeting they had agreed to pay the mob. As they became aware through subtle hints that enough of them had broken secretly for all to be safe in testifying together, they were for the first time assembled. The ground was traversed in the presence of all; turning first to one, then to another, admission was piled on admission, and a substantial addition was made to the knowledge already accumulated. The tension relaxed. Fear ended as witnesses realized that each had been afraid to talk because the others might not. There remained the president of the association. He was the only witness actually threatened by the gangsters. He had been worked on to the point where he knew that some of the others had cracked and that he was in the middle. At last the whole story came out. He declared himself ready to tell the truth and did so, though avowing that he would never testify. That was the link needed. He did testify and, as I have already said, when the people's case was in the two defendants pleaded guilty.

All this took several months of work. I have previously told you how long was required to break the restaurant racket, and why. The organized vice case took less time, the loan shark racket least of all.

The Court of Appeals has not yet decided the appeal from the judgment upon the verdict of the jury in People v. Luciano and others. The appellate division has unanimously affirmed it. Nearly a year after the verdict Luciano and some of the other defendants moved for a new trial upon the recantation of three out of the people's sixty witnesses, and the motion was denied; the denial has been affirmed by the appellant division, though by a divided court, and the Court of Appeals has eliminated from the record on appeal from the judgment all proceedings upon the motion for a new trial, so I take it that to that extent the decision of the trial justice stands. Since a thousand pages of affidavits were submitted on one side and the other, and one of the chief contentions was that various members of the prosecutor's office had been unfair, oppressive and even fraudulent in their methods, a good legal test of the technique previously described was presented. The part of the opinion which deals with that contention reads:

"Every step of each of the three recanters in supplying information to the prosecutor, from the moment of first contact to the time she took the stand, has been followed and described by the member or members of the staff to whom the information was given firsthand. Every doubt sought to be thrown by their latest affidavits on any particular transaction on the chronology and relation of the different transactions is fully cleared. After reading both sets of papers, any impartial person must, I feel sure, conclude that the information used was fairly and honestly elicited by proper means and accurately recorded, and that any contrary version now put forward is untrue."

Clearly, substantial progress has been made in the past two years. In March, 1935, the regular County Grand Jury advised Judge Koenig, of the Court of General Sessions, as follows:

"We have heard evidence on various forms of organized crime, including commercial prostitution, bail bond abuses, policy operations and other so-called 'rackets'. The evidence submitted, while incomplete and inconclusive, has convinced us that these types of crime are rampant and have reached such proportions as to constitute a public menace, with potentialities for the corruption of the agencies of law enforcement. It has become evident to us that the uncovering of organized crime is not a mere police routine but a major undertaking. . . ."

Commenting on this report, the speaker said in his charge to his first grand jury:

"If common report is accurate, rackets at the expense of legitimate business have indeed reached such proportions as to constitute a public menace, by levying on the whole city a tribute of formidable size, and our people, employers and employees, taxpayers and tenants, residents and visitors, are alike victims of an intolerable system. No community can long sustain a burden so costly and demoralizing. You will have no difficulty in imagining, if such a condition should be permitted to continue unchecked, important business drawn away from our city, with the loss of its well earned leadership in trade and in industry."

Since I suppose it is considerations like those suggested by this contrast, which have caused you to ask me to address you on the subject of organized crime, perhaps you would like me, so far as time permits, to call your attention to conclusions which the special prosecutor says he has reached. I am further moved to do this because some of you may find in your own communities parallel situations to which similar remedies would apply. On an automobile trip across the Mississippi Valley in the summer of 1935, just before the present investigation began, I took occasion to stop in three large cities for the express purpose of inquiring into local situations for my own information and guidance. In the first instance, I was told that the place had been racket-ridden but the racketeers had recently been driven out; in the second, that nothing of the kind had been known in twenty years; in the third, that they scarcely were aware what the expression meant. Perhaps you are not all so fortunate as that. Well-informed persons have told me they believe no city of 100,000 or more is free from racketeering.

Of course, as I indicated in the beginning, there is nothing new in the idea of extortion by fear. The new aspect, if any, is the large scale on which it has been practiced in certain places, from the viewpoint of the number of individuals engaged, the perfection of the organization, the skill and power of the leaders, the terror displayed by the victims, and the almost incredible sums of money at stake. Opinions differ respecting the part played by the attempted enforcement of the prohibition amendment to the United States Constitution and the disastrous failure of that attempt. At all events, we have heard more about racketeering since 1919 than we did before—that is certainly a conservative assertion—which seems a striking coincidence, at least.

What I am quoting Mr. Dewey for, was said within two months to the annual convention of the Association of International Chiefs of Police, at Baltimore, Maryland:

"But suppose one man strikes another over the head with a piece of pipe on a city street. The policemen on the beat promptly arrests the slugger, rounds up several bystanders as witnesses and takes them all to the police station. The cop's job is done then, because an assault has occurred, an arrest has been made, and by ordinary standards the case is ready to be marked 'closed' in the police files. But why did the prisoner slug the victim? Was it a simple assault case, or was there something more significant behind it? While the matter is new and before the witnesses forget what they know, that is the time for the modern police officer to exercise his judgment. He must quickly analyze the situation, examine it for motives, and if he has the slightest reason to believe that there is something behind the slugging, the prosecutor's office with its specialized knowledge should be called upon to assist. Paired together, these two agencies may find that the slugging meant that a mob is taking over some racket, or beginning a new one. Both agencies must then move promptly to investigate and suppress the racket. The slugging is a symptom of danger—not a single criminal act to be punished and forgotten.

"In the modern racket, the tool who throws the stench bomb or conducts the shake-down of a business man often does not even know why he does it. He only knows who told him to do it. His immediate boss often does not even know the name of the ultimate boss. The police may know, from rumors or underworld gossip, the name of the Number One Man, but the job of tracing the command for the slugging through several intermediaries up to the rich and powerful criminal leader is a long and difficult job. This is not the job of the patrolman on the beat, the precinct detective or the headquarters detective. They have no power of subpoena. They have no accountants. They cannot trace on the books of the frightened victims the essential links in the chain of evidence. The job requires organization, long range drive and absolute freedom from political influence. And unless the job is done, the arrest of the tool of the mob does not stop, does not even interrupt, the racket."

Those are suggestions from the man since elected District Attorney of New York County under the state system for the coming four years. You may be interested also in what the United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York, George Z. Medalie, thought about the future in June of 1931:

"I think in large measure the remedy lies in the hands of business, and particularly in the hands of our business leaders. I believe also the remedy lies partly in the creation of police and detective forces adequately organized to meet the threat of racketeering in any industry at any time that it shows itself. Both are worth trying and I am convinced that before long they can produce substantial results. Primarily they can contribute to the creation of a new public viewpoint of courage and resistance to the terrorism exercised by society's parasites."

Finally, some brief remarks on my own account. The first thing which occurs to almost everyone when he finds a bad situation is: let us radically change the machinery and start all over again. If one were to accept the views of a French civil lawyer about the reasons for the failure of American criminal justice, as described in a recent article on the subject by a specialist from Louisiana, the Honorable Pierre Crabites, one might conclude that the grand jury is the relic of a caste-ridden state of society, in the habit of placing blots on the characters of the innocent and, therefore, resentfully and instinctively opposed by the petty jury, even where evidence of guilt is unmistakable, and thus responsible for unwarranted acquittals. Such a critic would abolish the whole system or adopt some other drastic means to the end desired.

I am not now arguing the merits of the grand jury as contrasted with some other agency such as, I am told, has been created and found effective in other states. Yet the fact remains that in New York whatever the present investigation has accomplished has been produced with the tools of the trade supplied by existing law. It was only when Mr. Dewey found himself faced with a rusty or clearly inadequate implement that he sought new laws or a new interpretation of the old.

My personal view is that, to the extent that good has been done and evils have been overcome, it is largely because we found, ready for the occasion, grand juries aware of their power and courageous enough to use it; a governor sensitive to a grand jury's complaint and the needs of the situation; a legislature which abstained from playing party politics and responded to public demand, a mayor and other local officials willing to cooperate and make themselves personally responsible for the cost in appropriations; a police commissioner prepared to reward by commendation and promotion intelligent devotion to duty; a bold and resourceful prosecutor; and courts alert to new demands resulting from new conditions, and wise enough to meet them.

Consider in this last connection, the duty of the lawyer. We have the recent illustration of an interesting judicial pronouncement delivered in civil disbarment proceedings and of wide application, in line with a decision on similar facts by the highest court of Pennsylvania, and again from our First Department Appellate Division in New York:

"The license to practice law does not permit attorneys to engage in criminal activities with their clients, nor does it permit them to aid or abet the commission of crimes. . . . When the conduct and actions of an attorney over a period of years clearly show that his purpose and intention was to aid and guide a combination of persons engaged in crime, he becomes in effect a member of the criminal organization and forfeits his right to membership in an honorable profession."

What I have been telling you does not mean that we have overlooked the sanctity of the bill of rights, for words and phrases, when all is said and done, are relative. Take the application of the constitutional word "excessive" to bail, for example. True, the object of requiring bail is to produce the accused at his trial, but the expression should surely be construed in the light of a modern temptation—that of a defendant, charged with an illegal "take" running into six figures, to decamp until he has disposed of the witnesses. When provision was made by the fathers against the possible tyranny of judges, they did not intend to approve insolent defiance by a grand jury witness in the specious form of compliance. With the growth of organized crime, novel situations present themselves.

In the last analysis, it is the old question of the man and the hour. It is the old story that honest people can get relief, no matter how difficult the problem, if they awake from their lethargy and call loudly enough upon their chosen representatives to hear and act.

With one more illustration I shall end my paper. After the first important conviction, several friends said to me: "What's the use? Will not the racket start all over again, in a slightly new form and with new leaders—indeed, has not a new racket already started?" My reply was: "Perhaps; but do you fail to cut your hair because it grows out again?" I might have added: "Gentlemen, you are more pessimistic than I about the determination of the American people, once roused, to defend themselves against organized crime."

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1937.

Honorable Nathan Straus, United States Housing Administrator, on beginning his address, stated that Senate confirmation of the $500,000,000 slum clearance program was assured. He invited all the mayors to "come and get it." Mr. Straus told representatives of 68 local housing authorities that he wanted to "do some earmarking of funds today, tomorrow and the next day" for cities meeting the following preliminary requirements:

1. Applications must come from technically and financially acceptable municipal housing authorities.
2. Applicant authorities should present a definite plan for meeting the 10 per cent local contribution required by the Housing Act.
3. Applications must be accompanied by assurances that projects in question have a direct relation to a general city plan.

Straus tentatively settled an important question: "Are bathrooms to be considered rooms in the slum clearance and low-rent housing program?"

He stated bathrooms would not count as rooms, and that neither would utility rooms, laundries, closets, entries and halls. This would permit the construction of larger family dwelling units under the program, since the law limits such units to four rooms.

The nation is on its greatest housing construction boom. The Administration's 3-billion dollar private housing bill has already been approved by the House of Representatives. Its final adoption by the Senate has been delayed by the filibuster on the anti-lynch bill but it is certain to pass.

Meantime Honorable Nathan Straus, the United States Housing Administrator, has earmarked $158,995,000 to 44 cities for slum clearance and low-cost housing projects, and this is in addition to the 51 other Federal projects on housing that have been approved and actually received their quotas running into millions of dollars. All of these 51 projects have already begun work and some have almost completed their projects.

I visited some of the projects in New York and Chicago. Their scope is of tremendous size and importance, for example, the "Jane Addams Houses" project was being built on a slum site of 17 acres, three-story apartments, 2501 rooms, 723 living units, $5,316,759.70 allotted therefor.

The "Julia C. Lathrop Houses," a vacant site of 35 acres was purchased. The structure will be three-story apartments and two-story row houses and two-story flats. It will contain altogether 3254 rooms, or 925 living units. The government's allotment was $5,862,000.

In New York they have cleared away a slum site of 24 acres. There will be 5688 rooms or 1622 living units. The government's allotment was $13,459,000. The Harlem River houses in New York received an allotment of $4,219,000. The buildings that I saw have a fine appearance and they will be heated throughout by steam. Hot water and refrigeration will be furnished and the rent per room will be $7.10.

Address by Honorable Nathan Straus, United States Housing Administrator.

Honorable Nathan Straus then addressed the Conference as follows:

This talk is made informally among friends. I have not attempted to write it out in full. You, mayors of the cities, are friends of mine and friends of housing.

In particular my own mayor, Fiorello LaGuardia, has for years been a steadfast worker on behalf of better conditions of living for the underprivileged and above all for better housing.

Your executive secretary, Mr. Paul Betters, was of the greatest help in bringing about the enactment of the Wagner-Steagall Act, creating the United States Housing Authority. I congratulate you upon having so excellent, so indefatigable and so effective a worker, permanently engaged in representing the cause of the cities in Washington.

May I, in opening these brief remarks, express my sense of the importance of the United States Conference of Mayors as an effective instrument of good government.

We are partners in a big job. You have, up to now, carried the ball. Your efforts, combined with the efforts of other like-minded groups, especially in the ranks of organized labor, have been effective in bringing about the enactment of the housing law.

I know that our great President, the leader in this cause of decent low-cost housing, is well aware of the services you have performed in aiding him.

That is the past. What of the future?

What does this Wagner-Steagall Act do? How does it differ from earlier housing legislation?

The Wagner-Steagall Act sets up slum clearance and low-cost housing for the first time in the history of our government as a permanent activity and as a decentralized activity. The corporation created by the act is, in the words of the act, to be of "perpetual" duration. For the first time, housing is recognized as an obligation of government on a plane with construction of roads, fire protection, water supply, and similar governmental functions.

Moreover, for the first time the policy of decentralization is established in the law. Heretofore construction of low-cost housing has been done by the national government. Hereafter the localities will initiate, purchase the site, construct and operate the low-cost housing projects. The United States Housing Authority will establish standards, supply funds, supervise construction and operation.

My job as I see it will be to help each of you to do for his city what you yourselves want to do, in clearing slums and rehousing slum dwellers. It will be my task to be guided by you and the voters who elected you.

There has been some confusion between the Federal Housing Administration, or F. H. A., and the United States Housing Authority—the U. S. H. A. This confusion is a confusion of name and not a confusion of tasks. The F. H. A. is designed to promote private building by insuring mortgages on private property. The F. H. A. promotes the use of private capital to finance homes for the middle income group of the population. This is a government activity of the greatest importance.

The U. S. H. A. will provide Federal funds, to be used in conjunction with state and local funds as capital to finance on a lending basis the construction of homes for the lowest-income group of the population. It will also provide subsidies in an amount necessary to bring the rentals of these projects within the economic reach of present slum dwellers. This is, I believe, a government activity of the greatest importance.

The F. H. A. has, I believe, never insured a mortgage on a building that could re-house a slum dweller. The U. S. H. A. will never finance or subsidize projects except to re-house slum dwellers.

I hope that this brief summary of the differences between the two government agencies will serve to clear up some of the existing confusion.

The question may be in the minds of many of you as to when and how you can make application for loans or subsidies for projects in your cities. I would like to answer you as definitely as possible that we hope to be able to entertain applications on January 1, 1938.

The reason for the delay between November 1, the date of my appointment, and the sixty-day period which I have set for preparation can be frankly told to you.

I came into this job, not new to the cause of housing, but new to Federal work. I did not know my staff. Neither I nor anyone else had worked out the details of operation under the Wagner-Steagall Act. It seemed to me wiser to proceed slowly at the beginning and to establish a detailed policy on every point in question under the act before attempting to accept applications. Moreover, I must add that the Federal projects, transferred to me by executive order from the Housing Division of the P. W. A., are taking an immense amount of time and thought. The total number of these projects is 51. Their total value is $134,000,000. During the following eight or ten months, a number of these projects will be completed and arrangements must be made for selection of tenants, and for local management. It is the intent of the law, and it is my purpose, to turn all of these projects over to the localities as soon as possible. Pending sale, they should be leased to the localities, and toward this end your cooperation is essential.

For instance, there are now in process of completion the following projects:

Location and Name	Number of Dwellings
Birmingham, Alabama—Smithfield Court .....	544
Cambridge, Massachusetts—New Towne Court.....	294
Chicago, Illinois—

and all of these should be opened before the end of this year.

We are endeavoring to establish the new policies under which we will operate, using from the outset what I may term the new technique. Those policies must be set up under the provisions of the Wagner-Steagall Housing Act. But obviously there is a certain latitude in every act for interpretation and administration by the head of the authority. So far as such latitude exists in the United States Housing Authority Act, I hope that I will be guided in its use by the wishes of the states and, above all, of the cities by which and in which the housing is to be built. We are starting anew—not only under a new act but under a new philosophy of housing. You must be the moving force, if I understand the wishes of the Congress, in administering the housing law aright.

In pursuance of this policy I am inviting, as you doubtless know, the various local authorities to meet with us in groups, beginning on November 22. That policy of mutual consultation then established will be continued until all questions in connection with the interpretation of the act, have, so far as possible, been resolved.

This method of procedure will, I hope, set a pattern for all future activities of the United States Housing Authority. We are attempting to begin on the right basis and I know we will have your cooperation not only in this beginning but in pursuance of the same policy of close cooperation throughout all of our activities.

Meanwhile, we are studying the part which the U. S. H. A. will be called upon to play in the administration of this act. While you cannot yet make applications for loans, it seems to me that you can do certain things which will promote prompt action after January 1.

As you know, the cities are called upon to bear at least 10 per cent of the capital costs of projects. Are you ready to provide that share of the capital cost of your first project? Are you making provision to finance your local housing authorities so that they may set up a working organization? Is your housing authority making a study of building costs to be quite certain that your project will come within the limitations of the act, namely, less than $1,000 per room in cities of less than a half million inhabitants and less than $1,250 per room in cities over a half million inhabitants? Remember also that localities must bear their share, in an amount not less than 20 per cent of what the Federal government contributes, of the subsidies toward rent reduction. Are you ready to make this contribution, in the form of cash, services, or tax remissions?

Please study your part, the part of the cities. The city or state's share of the annual subsidy may be in the form of tax exemption. But I hope you members of the United States Conference of Mayors will study means of providing the cities' share of the annual grant by a wiser and more just way of assessing the costs. Tax exemption is a concealed subsidy. Tax exemption is a source of irritation to owners of other property which pays full taxes. Tax exemption, partial or complete, may be the easiest way but it is not the best, or the frankest, or the most equitable way to provide a subsidy. I ask you to study this subject and to make recommendations that seem good to you to your city councils. That is all that I am prepared to say on this subject at this time.

If you will immediately, upon your return to your cities, begin to work toward the answers to these questions, we will be able to make much more rapid progress when you submit your applications after January 1.

Remember that you and I jointly will try to make each housing project an integral part of an improved city plan. City planning is an activity that has been sadly neglected in most cities of this country. Like Topsy in Uncle Tom's Cabin—they have just grown. The operation of the U. S. H. A. will enable you to have a basis for urging upon your city councils the necessity for a comprehensive plan for improving the design of your cities.

In closing, may I offer a note of warning.

When the Wagner-Steagall bill, as finally enacted, became law with the signature of our great President, there were many notes of misgiving, even among friends of housing. We were told that the law was impracticable and unworkable. We were told that it had been so amended as to be a useless, or at most, a very weak instrument of decent, low-cost housing. Those prophets of evil were rightly condemned as unworthy of much attention.

However, I feel that today we are in danger of falling into an error almost equally great. There is a sense of complacency I find among the "housers," so many of whom are also officials of wide-awake city governments. This is almost as dangerous to the housing program as counsels of despair.

On the one hand the law is not unworkable in my belief. On the other hand, we must admit that it has not yet worked. Until it does, let us apply ourselves earnestly to the task of making it work. To build one hundred thousand or more minimum cost homes within the meaning and intent of this law in a period of three years is at best not a simple nor an easy task.

I rely on you, each of you, to work with me and with the United States Housing Authority, under the leadership of our President, to make this act an effective instrument of better life in America.

HOUSING.

Honorable Nathan Straus, Administrator, Department of the Interior, United States Housing Authority, Washington, Gave the Following Analysis of the United States Housing Act of 1937.

The United States Housing Act of 1937, commonly known as the Wagner-Steagall Housing Act, creates the United States Housing Authority as a permanent corporation in the Department of the Interior. The purpose of this Authority is to promote the general welfare by relieving present and recurring unemployment and to extend financial assistance to public housing agencies for the housing of low-income families who are living under slum conditions. To initiate this program $500,000,000 will be available for loans by the issuance of federally-guaranteed bonds of the Authority. In addition, the sum of $26,000,000 is authorized to be appropriated for the purpose of providing funds to meet Federal contributions and grants and to pay administrative expenses of the Authority.

The Act contemplates a non-Federal program consisting entirely of projects locally constructed, locally owned and locally operated. Unlike the Housing Division of the Public Works Administration, which undertook a program of Federal construction, the United States Housing Authority will have no power to construct projects, but will be limited in its functions to furnishing financial and technical assistance to local public housing agencies.

To get a general understanding of how this Act works, it is advisable to consider its seven salient provisions.

Agencies Eligible for Aid. In the first place, only public housing agencies are eligible to borrow money and receive a subsidy from the Federal Authority. No aid under the Act may be given to individuals or private corporations. A "public housing agency" is defined in the Act to include local housing authorities, municipalities, counties and states which are authorized to undertake and finance housing projects under proper enabling state legislation. It is generally expected that the public instrumentality which will participate most in the national housing program will be the local housing authority, which is a public corporation, without taxing power, created under state law for the sole purpose of undertaking low-rent housing and slum-clearance projects. At the present time 30 states have laws which provide for the creation of such housing authorities, although some of these laws are not adequate.

Local Contribution Toward Construction Cost of Project. The second important requirement of the Act relates to the local contribution toward the construction cost of a project. Where annual contributions or capital grants are made for a low-rent housing project, the local housing authority may borrow only 90 per cent of the cost of constructing the project from the Federal Authority; consequently it must obtain the remaining 10 per cent from other sources. This portion of the cost of the project may be obtained from the municipality in which the authority operates as a subsidy in the form of cash or land. It may also be obtained through the sale of bonds of the local housing authority on the open market or to the municipality. The loans by the Federal Authority will bear interest at not less than 3 per cent (present going Federal interest rate plus  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1 per cent) and must be repaid within a period not to exceed 60 years.

Forms of Federal Subsidy. The third salient provision of the Act relates to the two alternative forms of subsidy which may be made by the authority: the annual contribution method and the capital grant method. Under the annual contribution form of subsidy, annual contributions may be made by the authority over a period of years not exceeding sixty. These contributions are limited to the amounts and periods necessary to assure the low rent character of the project, and may not exceed  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent (present going Federal interest rate plus 1 per cent) of the cost of the project. Such annual contributions must first be applied towards interest or principal of any loan due to the authority from a public housing agency. Contracts for total annual contributions may not exceed \$5,000,000 per year for the first year and an additional \$7,500,000 per year for each of the succeeding two years.

The capital grant method, an alternative method of making grants to assure the low rent character of housing projects, may be made when a public housing agency demonstrates that this method is better suited than the annual contribution method for achieving and maintaining low rentals. Capital grants may not exceed 25 per cent of the cost of the project, except that for the payment of labor used in the development of a project, a supplemental grant of 15 per cent of the development cost of a project may be made from funds for the relief of unemployment upon allocation of such funds by the President to the authority. Contracts by the authority for capital grants (not including supplemental grants) may not exceed $10,000,000 for the first year and an additional $10,000,000 for each of the succeeding two years.

Local Contributions to Supplement Federal Subsidy. The fourth principal requirement of the Act relates to local contributions to match the Federal subsidy. To supplement the Federal annual contributions, an annual local contribution must be made in an amount equal to one-fifth of the annual Federal contribution. This is the minimum annual local contribution, however. The fact is that the local contribution must be sufficient, together with the annual Federal contribution, to provide housing at rentals which can be paid by families of low income now living under slum conditions. This form of local contribution may be in the form of cash or tax remissions and exemptions. The contribution represented by full tax exemption of a project would generally be sufficient to meet the requirement of a 20 per cent local contribution.

To supplement the capital grant, the state or political subdivision must contribute at least 20 per cent of the development or acquisition cost of the project. This form of local contribution may be in the form of cash, land, community services, tax remissions or tax exemptions.

Elimination of Unfit Dwellings. The fifth requirement of the Act relates to the elimination or repair of unfit dwellings. The Act requires the elimination, by demolition, condemnation and effective closing, or the compulsory repair or improvement, of an unsafe or insanitary dwelling unit in the locality for every new dwelling unit in a housing project. The elimination of slum dwellings may be deferred in localities where an acute housing shortage exists, but, even then, the slum elimination must be accomplished as soon as this shortage is relieved.

Limitations on Construction Cost. The sixth requirement of the Act relates to the limitations on construction costs. To assure that durable housing projects will be constructed at costs low enough to achieve low rentals, the Act limits the cost of construction (excluding land, cost of demolition and non-dwelling facilities) of any housing projects. In cities having a population under 500,000, the average room cost cannot exceed $1,000 and the average family dwelling unit cost cannot exceed $4,000. In larger cities, the limits are $1,250 per room and $5,000 per family dwelling unit where such higher cost is justified by reason of higher costs of labor and materials and other construction costs. The Act also requires inexpensive designs and materials, economy both in construction and operation, and average construction costs not exceeding the average cost of dwellings produced by private enterprise under similar conditions.

Low-rent Character of Project. The seventh requirement of the Act, and one of utmost importance, relates to the character of projects which may be aided. The Act is designed to serve only those who are both ill-housed and under-privileged. The local public housing agency must demonstrate that there is a need for the project in the community and that the rents in the project will be low enough to meet that need. The Act makes it very clear that dwelling accommodations are to be provided only for those who lack the amount of income necessary to enable them to live in decent housing without over-crowding. Furthermore, in order to be sure that other families are not accepted as tenants in public housing projects, the Act prohibits the acceptance of a family as a tenant whose aggregate income exceeds five times the rental of the quarters to be furnished or, in the case of families with three or more dependents, six times the rental.

The foregoing discussion of the United States Housing Act is somewhat general. Perhaps it will be a little clearer to take a specific example to illustrate the manner in which this Act would work in a particular city.

Specific Example Illustrating How Act Works. Assume that an application is filed with the United States Housing Authority for a housing project costing $1,250,000 containing 1000 rooms, and located in a city where surveys show that the families of low income who need the project can afford to pay only $4 per room per month. Further assume that the public housing agency requests aid by way of a loan and annual contributions. The local agency would proceed to borrow $1,125,000, or 90 per cent of the cost of the project, from the United States Housing Authority, and would obtain the remaining $125,000 from local sources.

While the loan from the Federal government, supplemented by 10 per cent in local funds, will make it possible to construct a housing project, it will not be possible to fix $4 rents in the project without a subsidy. This subsidy would have to be enough to make up the difference between the economic or unsubsidized rent that would otherwise have to be charged in the project and the $4 rental which the slum dwellers can afford. The economic rent in the project would be based upon the total amortization charges and the total operating expenses of the project. Thus, to take an example where tax exemption is granted, if the annual charge for interest, depreciation and amortization is $45,000 and the annual cost of maintenance and operation is $40,000, the total annual fixed charges would amount to $85,000. These fixed charges would require a total annual economic rental from the project equal to $85,000.

However, the rentals on 1000 rooms at $4 per room per month would be only $48,000 per year. When this amount is applied toward payment of the annual charges, a balance of $37,000 per year remains which must be made up in order to prevent an operating loss. This sum of $37,000 would be the amount of the annual cash subsidy needed to operate one project.

The local contribution must equal at least one-fifth of the annual Federal contribution. The fact is, however, that the local contribution would have to be sufficient, together with the Federal contribution, to provide housing at monthly rentals of $4 per room. Tax exemption would undoubtedly be necessary to the achievement of this rental, for full taxes on the public housing project would generally increase this total monthly rental per room to almost $8. Consequently, if a project is to be undertaken which will be of the low rent character contemplated by the United States Housing Act and which will meet the local needs, the local contribution should take the form of full tax exemption. This form of contribution would be sufficient to meet the minimum requirement of a 20 per cent local contribution to supplement the Federal subsidy. Since the local contribution takes the form of tax exemption, the Federal annual contribution would be $37,000 in this particular case, or less than 3 per cent of the cost of the project.

THE BACKGROUND OF HOUSING.

The need for "housing" (by which term we usually mean housing for families of low income) is revealed in a number of ways; first, by an analysis of existing housing; second, by the cost of new housing compared to the capacity of families to pay for such housing; third, by the decline in building caused by the depression; and fourth, by the need for new housing in the future.

SUMMARY ANALYSIS OF EXISTING HOUSING.

In 1934 the Department of Commerce made Real Property Inventories in 64 typical United States cities. The significant results of this investigation which may be considered typical for all urban communities were as follows:

18.1 per cent of all dwellings either needed major repairs or were unfit for habitation.

16.7 per cent were more than 40 years old.

20.6 per cent rented for less than $15 per month.

16.8 per cent were overcrowded.

8.1 per cent lacked gas or electricity.

5.0 per cent had no running water.

13.5 per cent had no private indoor water closet.

20.2 per cent had neither bath tub nor shower.

These figures were compiled from study of 2,633,135 dwellings. From them we can conclude that between one-sixth and one-fifth of all urban residential structures in the country are distinct liabilities. The standards on which these buildings were judged were liberal and many authorities have claimed that, if rural housing is to be included, as much as one-third of all American homes are substandard.

COST VERSUS CAPACITY TO PAY.

At the present time, the minimum cost of adequate new housing does not fall much below $3,500 to $5,000 per family unit, depending on location. The higher figure, of course, pertains in large metropolitan areas. In terms of rent this means roughly from $30 to $50 per month. Twenty per cent of a man's income is considered a normal rent budget. It is said that in 1933 one-third of families in northern states had total incomes of less than $630 and two-thirds had less than $1,415. In western states the corresponding figures were $652 and $1,468. In the southeast, however, these figures dropped to $444 and $1,271. On this basis, even in 1929, more than 42 per cent of the families in the country could not afford to live in new housing. What they could afford was second-hand homes approaching obsolescence and dilapidation. To date the building industry has been unable to match the progress of other industries and has failed utterly to provide a product which the low-income worker could buy without aid.

Attempts are being made to mechanize the industry and through mass production to lower costs. However, an infinite number of difficulties, which need not be enumerated here, tend to delay mechanization and for some time to come there is little likelihood of achieving such a goal.

DECLINE IN BUILDING.

Even at the normal rate of replacement, we have noted how obsolescence outruns desired production. The percentage of inadequacy of housing is increasing and will not drop until production moves faster than decay. The building industry has probably suffered more in the depression than any other. Three million building trades workers are idle. By 1934, national construction had fallen off 92 per cent from 1925. Residential construction, the staple, had dropped 88 per cent. A normal volume, noted in 257 typical American cities by the Bureau of Labor Statistics was that of 1925, when 491,222 dwellings were constructed. In the same cities in 1934, only 22,063 were built.

FUTURE NEED.

Within the next ten years, we can expect two types of growth—first, growth in gross population; second, a more accelerated growth in households. It is estimated that these increases will create a need for six and three-quarter million new dwellings. If we count replacement of substandard housing, now extant and that which will accrue in ten years, it is estimated that another six and one-half million dwellings will be needed. The total in ten years is put at 13,196,000 (statements made before Senate Committee on Education and Labor, April, 1936).

EFFECTS OF BAD HOUSING.

The effects of bad housing have been assessed in terms of health, crime, and municipal deficits. It is true that most figures contained in this statement apply specifically to large cities. The reason is simply that these are the only communities which have to date taken and published complete inventories of their bad housing. These conditions exist in no less degree in the villages and towns of every state in the Union. "Middletown" has its slums just off Main street or "back of the tracks" identical with those of Birmingham and Buffalo, Louisville and Los Angeles.

Health.

In the slums of New York, death from tuberculosis is 220 per cent higher than in the city as a whole, death from spinal meningitis is 247 per cent, and death from all causes is 87 per cent higher. In the slums of Louisville tuberculosis is three times more prevalent than in the city as a whole. Infant mortality and children's diseases, pulmonary and social diseases invariably have a higher incidence in areas of bad housing.

Crime.

In a slum area in Cleveland lives  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent of the city's population. Yet in this area 21 per cent of all murders are committed; 26 per cent of disorderly houses are located; 6.8 per cent of juvenile delinquency is centered. In one slum area of Chicago 26 per cent of all boys between the ages of 10 and 16 passed through the juvenile court in one year. These are not isolated phenomena but the typical social pattern of every urban slum area in the country.

COST OF BAD HOUSING.

Studies in Cleveland, Chicago and Boston (among many other cities) have indicated the cost to taxpayers of maintaining slum areas in their present deplorable state. During 1932, in a certain slum area in Cleveland, where 2.47 per cent of the population of the city dwelt on 0.73 per cent of the land area, the tax income was $225,035, whereas the total cost of maintaining the section was $1,972,435, or a net loss of $1,747,402.

Similar results are reported from smaller cities which have made a social survey—Birmingham found that her "blighted areas—one-fifth of the city area, consume nearly one-half of the annual budget."

Indianapolis found that "26 per cent of all of the money spent in Indianapolis for public service (tax expenditure and charitable contributions) goes for the benefit of 10 per cent of the population (living in slums)."

Assuming as these figures may be, they are typical in a general way of every city of America where there are slums, and this means practically every one.

REMEDIES.

A. Private Enterprise.

Every energy of the private construction industry is being turned to the production of better and cheaper homes. It is reasonable to suppose that the American genius which has created the low-cost automobile will, in time, be able to produce a comparable low-cost house, yet there are millions of Americans who will still be unable to live in this house just as there are millions who cannot own new cars. If these millions are to live in decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings some additional financial aid must be offered.

B. Government Aid.

Every major country in Europe has undertaken to cure these evils with government aid. In most cases the assistance has been given by the central government to local, non-profit, private agencies. In some, a joint subsidy has been provided by central and local governments to private, controlled, housing societies and in others housing has been constructed directly by municipalities. Government aid in this country has been offered both by Federal and state governments. During the depression emergency programs designed primarily to afford employment to building trades workers were instituted. Some of these programs have been put on a permanent basis. In general, they fall into two major classifications: aid to (1) private enterprise, (2) public enterprise.

A. EMERGENCY PROGRAMS.

1. Aid to Private Enterprise.

The Farm Credit Administration, the Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have made many direct loans for the improvement of existing housing and a few for the construction of new housing. The Housing Division of the Public Works Administration at one time made direct loans for the construction of controlled housing but after building 7 projects withdrew from this field.

2. Aid to Public Enterprise.

The Housing Division of P. W. A. and the Resettlement Administration built large scale, low-rent housing projects under direct government responsibility. The Housing Division's activities were confined to urban areas, the Resettlement Administration's, to suburban and rural areas. These emergency agencies, financed with relief funds, have now been dissolved.

B. PERMANENT PROGRAMS.

1. Aid to Private Enterprise.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board through its affiliated organizations, the Federal Home Loan Banks, the Federal Savings and Loan Association, and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation facilitates home building through extension of credit and insurance of investment in building loans.

The Federal Housing Administration insures mortgages on the eligible home mortgage loans made by approved lending agencies from private capital. It builds no housing nor does it lend money.

Some states offer partial tax exemption to housing projects which are constructed by private limited dividend corporations and which conform to maximum and minimum standards set up by the states.

2. Aid to Public Enterprise.

The United States Housing Authority makes loans and contributions to local public housing agencies such as Municipal Housing Authorities to aid them in the construction of large scale, low rent housing projects. The authority does no building nor does it deal in any way with private corporations. It has absorbed the projects of the P. W. A. Housing Division and will continue either to manage them itself or to lease them for operation to local public housing agencies until such time as they can be taken over by these agencies.

The present program of the authority provides for loans up to $500,000,000. By means of the subsidy in the form of either annual contributions or capital grants, it aims to rehouse slum dwellers of an even lower income group than that reached by the P. W. A. Housing Division.

Slum clearance in an amount equal to the number of new dwellings constructed is mandatory under the terms of the United States Housing Act of 1937, which created the authority.

LOCAL ACTIVITY.

Any community which hopes to participate in the program of the United States Housing Authority must first possess a legally authorized public housing agency. Next, it must take comprehensive inventory of present housing conditions for low income groups. It must develop a clear-cut and feasible plan for rehabilitation of its slum areas for consideration by the United States Housing Authority.

Notes for Both Private and Public Enterprise.

"We have built altogether since the war, 2,000,000 dwellings of all kinds. Of these the municipalities have built 800,000 for the lower paid class and private enterprise has been building 1,400,000 for the better to do people. During the last year we built 216,000 houses in the one year; of those 44,000 were built by municipalities for the lower paid classes and private enterprise added its boom by building 172,000 houses during the last year to sell speculatively."—Sir Raymond Unwin, outstanding British housing authority.

"The most pitiful victim of city life is not the slum child who dies, but the slum child who lives. Every time a child dies the nation loses a prospective citizen, but in every slum child the nation has a probable consumptive and a possible criminal. You cannot let people live like pigs and expect them to be good citizens."—Jacob Riis.

Health Department Remedies for Sick Housing.

Notes by Dr. J. C. Geiger, Director of Public Health.

For many years departments of public health have condemned dwellings as unfit for human habitation, and places of business as insanitary and rodent-infested. In a sense, then, the efforts applied by departments of public health to the problems of housing and health have been negative and destructive.

If a health department decides in its wisdom to destroy tenements that are unfit for human dwellings, then it is equally logical to demand decent dwellings for replacement.

Many of these dwellings are the forgotten houses, derelicts from the past, forsaken by their owners and left as decaying, run-down structures, where people of low incomes must live. They are the first cousins to the slum tenements; blights on the city—socially, economically, and from the standpoint of public health.

America has always had a consciousness toward slums, and there is seen today a dawning perception of our inherent right to decent conditions of living. Bad housing conditions must have cost this nation so much that posterity cannot begin to liquidate the debt. The vast army of the unemployed may always remain industrially inefficient because of disadvantageous living conditions. Forbidding atmospheres of the home, the school, and the shop may exert themselves in many problems, even to become a cause of inebrity.

It is a fact that San Francisco represents more than any other city, excepting perhaps a few, a concentration of population in more or less restricted areas, which results in the overcrowding of the lot and block areas of these respective districts.

Apparently the Federal government is trying to correct the conspicuous lack of coordination which has been manifest in America. It is attempting to reach a solution of our housing problem in order to remedy the conditions which not only may affect the health of the people, but also the stability of our government. Every American should have a plot of ground and a breathing space for the promotion of health, if health is to be promoted.

The term "slum clearance" is quite obnoxious to many people, particularly to the dweller in the city. The low-cost and low-rent houses under Federal auspices, or through philanthropic foundations, or limited dividend companies, should be a reality. There is no better reason from a public standpoint why the state as well as the city should not offer some way of subsidizing homes for the poor. This has been true both in England and Germany, which have made substantial progress in this direction. The lack of any consistent program in the United States is a striking contrast to what has been accomplished in Europe and on other continents of the world. It cannot be said up to the present that the United States has any housing program whatever, and quite often the new dwelling units erected in a city do not reach in numbers the homes that have been destroyed by fire.

The difficulty with us apparently is that we are romantic enough to cling to the individualism of the past and think that all the housing problems can be solved by private commercial enterprise. It may be brutal to assert that in some of our populations the income is too low to permit housing of the standards of health that we desire. Either the lower income groups must have wages raised, the standards to be set by the government, or the government must subsidize housing for this lower income group. If such be the case, then there is need for a permanent Federal Housing Agency to stimulate and coordinate local initiative. It has been estimated that there is need for at least six million low-cost dwelling units, and just to build a few of these at a few thousand apiece would call for Federal expenditures in billions of dollars.

Not only should the Federal government realize what the problem means, but likewise should the state and the city. To build a house is not satisfactory to the health officer. The house must be correlated with town planning, with the type of architecture, with heating, ventilation, lighting and with home safety. An intelligent community today seeks pure milk, pure water; it knows the value of diphtheria immunization, knows the problem of the control of tuberculosis, and is now beginning to understand the problems of syphilis, and that our efforts for suitable hygienic houses for American people is well worth while.

There is no doubt that living will be made healthier and happier in a suitable home provided that it can be acquired by certain groups at a low level of rental cost.

Resolution on Housing Adopted.

The United States Conference of Mayors unanimously adopted the following resolution on Housing:

Whereas, there has now been enacted into law the Wagner-Steagall Housing Bill in substantially the form recommended to the Congress by the last two Annual Conferences of the United States Conference of Mayors; and

Whereas, the housing program authorized under this legislation now makes it possible for cities having slum areas to wipe out said areas and to construct low-rent housing if they so desire; and

Whereas, under the new Housing Law, the cities are charged with the responsibility for initiating, constructing and operating low-rent housing projects; and

Whereas, the newly appointed head of the United States Housing Authority has appeared before the Annual Conference and has indicated that the cooperation of the cities is essential if the new program is to succeed; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Annual Conference of the United States Conference of Mayors pledge its cooperation to Administrator Straus; and be it Further Resolved, That the President and Executive Committee of the Conference place the facilities of the Conference at the disposal of Administrator Straus to the end that the cities and the Federal government may cooperatively work out the details and procedure for cities to follow under the new housing program.

Resolution on Rehabilitation of Subnormal Homes Under Wagner-Steagall Act Adopted.

The United States Conference of Mayors unanimously adopted the following resolution on Rehabilitation of Sub-Normal Homes Under Wagner-Steagall Act:

Whereas, it does not appear that the rehabilitation of existing property may be financed or aided under the provisions of the existing Wagner-Steagall Act; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Executive Committee use its good offices with Congress and the President to obtain legislation so as to make possible rehabilitation of sub-standard homes and blighted areas and to provide adequate, sanitary and cheerful housing for the low income bracket group.

Merit System for Heads of All Major City Departments.

The United States Conference of Mayors made public the report of its National Health Officers' Qualifying Board created early this year under a resolution enacted at the 1936 Annual Conference. This board, consisting of the leading public health authorities of the United States, was established for the specific purpose of formulating the professional qualifications which Commissioners of Public Health in the larger cities of the nation should have. The job was undertaken as the first step in the long-term program of the Conference of Mayors in improving the professional qualifications for those who hold important municipal offices throughout the country.

The membership of the National Health Officers' Qualifying Board of the Conference of Mayors is as follows:

Joseph W. Mountin, M. D., Surgeon, U. S. Public Health Service, chairman;

Allen W. Freeman, M. D., Professor of Public Health Administration and Dean, Johns Hopkins University, School of Hygiene and Public Health;

John L. Rice, M. D., Commissioner of Health, New York City;

Wilson G. Smillio, M. D., Professor of Public Health Administration, Harvard School of Public Health;

Huntington Williams, M. D., Commissioner of Health, Baltimore;

Carl V. Reynolds, M. D., Secretary and State Health Officer of North Carolina;

Edward F. Godfrey, M. D., Commissioner of Health of New York State.

The committee's report, which has been awaited by the medical and public health professions, provides for the following technical qualifications for chief municipal health officers:

QUALIFICATIONS FOR CITY HEALTH OFFICERS.

GRADE I.

(Applicable, in general, to cities of 500,000 population and over.)

The minimum qualifications for health officers in this class shall consist of:

Graduation in medicine from a Grade A Medical School and not less than 6 years' full-time experience in public health work, 3 years of which must be in a responsible administrative position; 2 of the 3 years of general experience may be substituted by a course in public health of not less than one scholastic year in residence at a recognized institution of learning.

GRADE II.

(Applicable, in general, to cities of from 100,000 to 500,000 population.)

The minimum qualifications for health officers in this class shall consist of:

Graduation in medicine from a Grade A Medical School and not less than 4 years' full-time experience in public health work, 1 year of which must be in a responsible administrative position; 2 of the 3 years of general public health experience may be substituted by a course in public health of not less than one scholastic year in residence at a recognized institution of learning.

GRADE III.

(Applicable, in general, to cities under 100,000 population.)

The minimum qualifications for health officers in this class shall consist of:

Graduation in medicine from a Grade A Medical School and not less than 2 years of full-time experience in public health work, or, 1 year of such full-time experience and the completion of a course in public health of not less than 1 year in residence at a recognized institution of learning.

The board will act, at the request of any city, to determine whether candidates for the office of Health Commissioner possess the qualifications adopted by the board. If so, the board will certify to the city this fact. In effect, the board will be constituted as a voluntary nation-wide civil service commission for the cities.

It is noteworthy that the qualifications for public health officers for the first time impose definite and specific medical and public health training and experience.

President LaGuardia, in commenting on the report, said:

"We are now beginning to make progress. If every city will adopt the recommendations now made by our special public health committee, we can avoid having the so-called 'pill doctor' or the family physician appointed to the important office of Commissioner of Health. Public health administration involves factors requiring personnel with public health experience and not only just general medical training. Consequently, if we can establish accepted standards or qualifications which all persons must have who seek the highest public health position in a city, we are insuring a real merit system.

"We have taken public health first because we have had the cooperation of the public health profession itself. We shall next establish committees in other fields—finance, fire, police, et cetera, and endeavor to develop qualifications for the major posts in the municipal service in these fields. Reformers have been talking for fifty years about the merit system. But it has remained for the mayors, acting collectively, to make the first real contribution in professionalizing the public service, in so far as the highest municipal offices are concerned."

Resolution on Qualifications for Municipal Health Officers Adopted.

The United States Conference of Mayors Unanimously adopted the following resolution on Qualifications for Municipal Health Officers:

Whereas, the United States Conference of Mayors has now received the report of its committee of seven outstanding public health authorities; and

Whereas, this report sets up standard professional qualifications for Commissioners of Health in the larger cities of the country; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the United States Conference of Mayors recommend to the cities of the country that the suggested standard qualifications for health officers be followed by all cities when appointments to the office of Health Commissioner are made in the future.

Resolution on Codes Adopted.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the United States Conference of Mayors:

Whereas, there exist a number of so-called model codes, including those dealing with electrical wiring, plumbing, et cetera; and

Whereas, these codes, on which ordinances in most of the cities are based, are formulated and adopted by national code committees composed largely of delegates of private as distinguished from public or municipal agencies; and

Whereas, it is essential to have more adequate public representation on these national code committees, including particularly the electric code committee, if the public interests are to be given proper consideration; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Annual Conference of the United States Conference of Mayors direct the Executive Committee to take such steps as may be necessary to bring about the desired result.

Resolution on Purchasing Adopted.

The United States Conference of Mayors unanimously adopted the following resolution on Purchasing:

Whereas, the Federal government holds a number of so-called term contracts with vendors covering a number of materials, supplies and equipment commonly purchased by both the Federal government and the cities; and

Whereas, it would be in the interests of the taxpayers if the cities in a number of cases could purchase materials, supplies and equipment under the Federal contracts; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Annual Conference of the United States Conference of Mayors request of Congress legislation which would authorize public bodies to purchase under contracts entered into by the Federal government, thus giving to public agencies the same price levels for public purchases as are obtained by the Federal government.

Resolution on Private Home Building Adopted.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the United States Conference of Mayors:

Whereas, under the present law establishing the Federal Housing Administration, that agency is empowered to insure construction loans up to 80 per cent of the value involved; and

Whereas, there is now under consideration a proposal to raise such insurance up to 90 per cent of the value involved; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the United States Conference of Mayors go on record in favor of this larger stimulation to private home building.

Resolution on Interest on Public Deposits Adopted.

The United States Conference of Mayors unanimously adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, under the provisions of existing Federal law member banks of the Federal Reserve System are estopped from paying interest on demand deposits of all public authorities; and

Whereas, this Federal inhibition conflicts with a number of state laws; and

Whereas, the cities of the nation have hundreds of millions of dollars which can only be placed on demand as distinguished from time deposits; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the United States Conference of Mayors petition the Congress to enact legislation amending the present Federal statutes in order that member banks of the Federal Reserve System may be authorized to pay interest on public demand deposits.

Resolution on Natural Gas Adopted.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the United States Conference of Mayors:

Resolved, That the United States Conference of Mayors, on behalf of hundreds of cities receiving natural gas from interstate pipe lines, recommend passage of the Lea Natural Gas Bill (H. R. 6586) by the current special session of the Congress of the United States, so that municipalities may be aided in their efforts to obtain lower gas rates; and be it Further Resolved, That the Secretary of the Interior be requested to assist in conserving natural gas resources by assigning an expert to assist interested cities locate and obtain natural gas supplies at low cost, so that waste of natural gas may be eliminated through the economic marketing thereof.

Proclamation.

The following proclamation was unanimously adopted by the United States Conference of Mayors:

The United States Conference of Mayors, consisting of executive officers of all political parties, desire to call attention to the fact that the problem of unemployment challenges the very existence of our industrial institutions.

We cannot continue forever to multiply production of our commodities by technological advance, and build an increasing demand for these goods, if at the same time we continue to destroy jobs and thereby virtually slaughter the purchasing power of these millions of unemployed.

The problem concerns all nations, and is of such magnitude that it threatens to unbalance all governmental budgets, to destroy the morale and threatens the home life of millions of Americans while undermining the greatest of all markets for our goods—the American buyer.

We warn the nation that this is too serious a problem to be used as a political bludgeon for any person or party but cries out to every red-blooded American for solution.

We appeal to every good citizen to do his utmost to cooperate with every possible agency, whether governmental or private, to study this problem, both as to cause and to effect and then to do his utmost to promote whatever remedy is finally evolved to the utmost.

Andrew Furuseth.

Acting President, Supervisor James B. McSheehy, informed the Board of the death of Andrew Furuseth in Washington, D. C., and the following was ordered spread in the Journal:

Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Sailors' Union, who passed away recently in Washington, was foremost among men who devoted their lives in the interests of their fellow men. He was one of the organizers of the old Sailors' Union in San Francisco some fifty years ago, and from that time till the day he was stricken, all his energy, all his effort, all his indefatigable energy was devoted to the cause of the sailors.

In the thirty-year struggle in Washington he succeeded in having the Federal statute changed eliminating the imprisonment penalties which practically made seamen slaves.

In the council of the American Federation of Labor his advice was sought and his wisdom was appreciated. His loyalty to the labor cause was unequalled by anyone.

His devotion to the United States of America at the time of the World War was outstanding among the great patriots. His loyalty was appreciated by President Woodrow Wilson, who often sought his advice and appointed Andrew Furuseth a delegate to the London Conference. In this conference he was associated with the great statesmen of the world, and his magnificent intellect and wide grasp of world affairs made him the peer of all his colleagues.

The early years of his life were spent at sea, and he never departed from his calling. When he became secretary of the Sailors' Union he continued to hold his rating as an able seaman and never sought preferment or emolument other than that received by his shipmates.

The memory of Andrew Furuseth will remain forever enshrined in the hearts of all men who go down to the sea. He gained and won the respect, the confidence and friendship of two generations of American statesmen. His life is a monument to fidelity to a cause.

The Board of Supervisors adjourns this day out of respect to the memory of Andrew Furuseth.

Adopted by rising vote.

Commission for holding examinations for certain Civil Service classes essential to the uninterrupted service of the several departments of the city and county government.

Statement of Supervisor Reilly.

The following statement was read by Supervisor Reilly and ordered made part of the record:

During past sessions of this Board I strenuously opposed the passage of this resolution which appropriates to the Civil Service Commission the sum of $10,000. In view of the fact that my objection to its passage has been made a public issue by the Civil Service Commission and its Personnel Director, Mr. Henderson, I wish at this time to set forth and extend my remarks, thereby giving my reasons for resisting said appropriation. I am convinced that by reason of the conduct of the Civil Service Commission in setting arbitrary ages for particular Civil Service examinations said Commission is violating the plain provisions of the Charter of this City and County, and I feel that a vote by a member of this Board to appropriate funds to carry out said illegal act would be and is contrary to public policy, if not positively illegal.

The Charter of the City and County of San Francisco is our organic instrument wherein the rights and duties of the Civil Service Commission, and of this Board of Supervisors, are clearly set forth. Therein also can be found the positive language which permits our citizens and residents to participate freely in competitive examinations for employment in and by this municipality.

The matter of Civil Service is dealt with in the Charter commencing with Section 140. The duty of the Civil Service Commission is outlined therein. So are the rights of our citizens to participate in Civil Service examinations. Section 140 establishes a Civil Service Commission and charges it with the duty of providing qualified persons for appointment to the service of the City and County. All appointments in the public service must be made for the good of the public service and solely upon merit and fitness as established by appropriate tests without regard to partisan, political, social or other considerations.

Section 147 of the Charter positively states that no person or officer shall by himself or in co-operation with other persons defeat or obstruct any person in respect to his or her right of examination. Section 144, in very definite and specific language, states that any citizen having the qualifications prescribed by Section 7 of the Charter may submit himself for any examination under the conditions established by the Civil Service Commission. This language brings us immediately to the qualifications prescribed by Section 7 and there we find that all employees of the City and County shall be citizens and shall have been residents thereof for at least one year prior to appointment, unless otherwise specifically provided in the Charter. Said Section 7 further provides that members of the Police and Fire Departments, in addition to being citizens, must be residents of the City and County for at least five years preceding appointment. Section 7 makes further exception where positions are to be filled outside of the City and County or where expert or technical services are necessary. Section 7 is of vital importance in this discussion and the qualifications therein contained must be borne in mind. They are simple and may be restated as follows: For membership in Police and Fire Departments citizenship and five years' residence. For all other intra-County employees, experts and technicians excepted, citizenship and one-year residence.

Let me revert once more to Section 144, which states that any citizen having the qualifications just referred to may submit himself for any examination under the conditions established by the Civil Service Commission. This again requires us to analyze and construe the language "under conditions established by the Civil Service Commission." Little pause need be made to reasonably construe the language just referred to, for Section 145 of the Charter gives the answer. This section has for its title "Qualifications and Tests." It tells us that all applicants for places in the classified service shall submit to tests which shall be competitive. The tests may be written, oral, mechanical, or physical, or any combination of them, practical in character and related to matters fairly to test the relative capacity of the applicant for the positions to be filled. As we read Section 145 we find no age limit prescribed except for entrance positions in the uniformed forces of the Police and Fire Departments. There we are told in express language that applicants for entrance positions in said uniformed forces shall be not less than 21 years of age nor more than 35 years of age at the time of appointment.

Let me remind the Civil Service Commission that the people of this City and County have a great and controlling interest in the provisions of our Charter; that they, above all, have a right to demand that its provisions be heeded; that they are the ones who supply the funds to carry out the provisions of the Charter; that they are interested in seeing that every citizen coming within the Charter provisions be given the opportunity to compete in Civil Service examinations. If they intended to impose an age condition for public employees in general, they would have written that language into the Charter. They did desire an age limit for the personnel of their Police and Fire Departments, and they made that known in no uncertain terms. The Civil Service Commission has on its Board, a brilliant and distinguished lawyer. Surely he must be acquainted with the meaning of the Latin maxim, "inclusio unius est exclusio alterius," which, translated into English, means "the inclusion of one is the exclusion of another." Consequently, when the people of this City and County set forth in their Charter, age limits for the Police and Fire Department personnel, they clearly intended to exclude them from all other classes. Any other construction would nullify the sound rule found in the Latin maxim just quoted. True, in all Civil Service examinations, the tests may be written, may be oral, may be mechanical, or may be physical, or, may be any combination of them, but I respectfully submit that the age of an applicant (with the exception mentioned) is not involved in any of said tests. It is elementary that age cannot be made the basis of a competitive test. Two applicants cannot compete in a test regarding ages. Their ages are set by the laws of nature and nature's God. They have no control over their ages. So when we speak of competitive tests in the Charter, age is not included and no such question is involved.

It may be said that notwithstanding the fact the Charter mentions no age requirement for departments, other than police and fire, nevertheless, by some implied power the Civil Service Commission may set such an arbitrary standard, but let me remind the Civil Service Commission, that the Supreme Court of this State in Couell v. Martin, 43 Cal. 605, definitely sets forth that "when a statute prescribes the particular method in which a public officer, acting under a special authority, shall perform his duties, the mode is the measure of power." In other words the tests prescribed by the Charter, limit the power of the Civil Service Commission and any extraneous conditions imposed by them is illegal and void. Let us also remember that the Supreme Court of this State in Ex parte Daniels, 183 Cal. 636, said that "it is settled law that language purporting to define the powers of a municipal corporation is to be strictly construed, and that any fair, reasonable doubt concerning the existence of a power is to be resolved against the corporation." That this is a wholesome rule, cannot be questioned particularly where a commission desires to impose an arbitrary condition which ipso facto, excludes a considerable number of our citizens and residents from competing in Civil Service examinations. Again I say that the test of eligibility is determined by competitive examinations and not by age, except in the limited cases referred to. Civil Service is called the merit system. Under that system we seek, in accordance with law, to select persons for public employment who are best fitted to perform their duties, but the fitness of such persons must be ascertained by competitive examinations and by those alone.

It may be said that the Civil Service Commission may by rule prescribe an age qualification, although such a requirement is not found in the Charter. Again the courts have informed us that while a Civil Service Commission may make rules governing the holding of examinations, such rules must not be contrary to nor inconsistent with existing laws. (See 5 Ruling Case Law, page 611.)

The Civil Service Commission, or at least Mr. Milton S. Maxwell of that Commission, has served notice through the public press that he will cite me for official misconduct because of my opposition to this appropriation and in this connection he cites Section 22 of the Charter. An examination of this section, even by a layman, readily discloses that my opposition to this appropriation is not prohibited by Section 22 or by any other section of the Charter. It is true that I am prohibited from dictating, suggesting or interfering with appointments, promotions, disciplinary actions, contracts, requisitions for purchases or other administrative recommendations or actions of the Chief Administrative Officer, or department heads under the respective Boards and Commissions. In analyzing Section 22, let me say that the Civil Service Commission is not a department head under the Chief Administrative Officer; that under Section 49 of the Charter the Civil Service Commission is a department head under the Mayor. Furthermore, I have not interfered with a department head responsible to or under any Board or Commission. Even if it were true that the Civil Service Commission was a department head under the Chief Administrative Officer, my conduct in opposing this appropriation would not be in violation of Section 22. I am not dictating, suggesting, or interfering with appointments or promotions, for the simple reason that before an appointment or promotion can be made effective, or even given consideration, you must first have an eligible list. (See Sections 146, 148 and 149 of the Charter.) I am not interfering with compensations, with disciplinary actions, with contracts, with requisitions for purchases, or with any legal or valid administrative recommendation or action of any officer, board, commission, or department head. As I outlined in the very beginning of this statement, I am opposed to appropriating public money for the accomplishment of an act which I sincerely believe to be contrary to public policy, contrary to the best interest of the merit system, contrary to the best interests of San Francisco, and one which I believe is positively forbidden by Section 147 of the Charter which, to restate, says, that no person or officer shall by himself or in co-operation with other persons, defeat or obstruct any person in respect to his or her right of examination. From my study of the Charter, I can find no justification for imposing the arbitrary age condition as a qualification to participate in a Civil Service examination, except in the case of police and firemen. My conviction in this respect is strengthened by Section 158 of the Charter, which extends retirement provisions to officers and employees who have not attained the age of 70 years, and their retirement from the service is not made compulsory until they have reached said age of 70 years. In the language of a great American, let me answer Mr. Maxwell, by saying if he believes my action in opposing this appropriation is official misconduct, then let him make the most of it. Let me also tell Mr. Maxwell, that as a native San Franciscan, and a citizen of this great City, I am not unmindful of the rights and privileges of our citizens and of our taxpayers; that I am not unmindful, and I have not forgotten the Declaration of Rights set forth in our State Constitution, which says that no citizen, or class of citizens, shall be granted privileges or immunities which, upon the same terms, shall not be granted to all citizens. I regard the merit system as being a valuable asset to our people in carrying out efficient and decent government. The merit system presupposes equal opportunity within the law for our men and women to participate in competitive, fair, and impartial Civil Service examinations. I am not concerned with the winner nor the loser, nor with their ages, except in so far as the last condition is prescribed by the Charter. Let us get our public employees from those best qualified to serve, and I know of no way in which we can carry out this sound public policy and one sanctioned by American fair play and traditional San Francisco justice, except by allowing the men 41 years of age to compete with the men of 39 years of age, and the women of 36 years of age to compete with the women of 34 years of age, and the candidate who wins and who attains the higher standing on the eligible list is and will be entitled to the position—a position of trust and responsibility, a position which involves the expenditure of public funds and the giving of the highest possible return to the taxpayer. If I am to be condemned for this stand, and if I am to be ousted from office for proclaiming and upholding such an American principle, then I am ready for the contest and the sacrifice, if necessary, for I know that American justice and American fair play will eventually vindicate me.

By reason of the foregoing, I now vote "No" on this resolution.

Letter of W. L. Henderson, Assistant Secretary, Civil Service Commission.

The following letter was read by Mr. Henderson:

January 31, 1938.

Hon. Board of Supervisors, City Hall, San Francisco.

Gentlemen: We desire to place before your honorable Board frankly and fully all the facts regarding the situation that has arisen in connection with the request now pending before you for a supplemental appropriation of $10,000 to the Civil Service Commission to be used for holding examinations.

We quote herewith an excerpt from Section 149 of the Charter:

"If a non-Civil Service emergency appointment is authorized, the Commission shall immediately hold an examination and establish an eligible list for such position. If its annual appropriation is insufficient to meet the cost of said examination, it shall report to the Mayor the estimated cost thereof, and the Mayor shall request and the Supervisors shall make supplemental appropriation therefor in the manner provided herein for supplemental appropriations."

On November 24, 1937, pursuant to the terms of this provision, we notified Mayor Rossi that emergency non-Civil Service appointments in the absence of proper lists of Civil Service eligibles had been authorized by this Commission and that, as a consequence, examinations to establish lists of Civil Service eligibles must be held within ninety days. We further advised that the annual appropriation heretofore available to us was not sufficient to hold these examinations and requested a supplemental appropriation of $10,000. Mayor Rossi approved the request and recommended to your honorable Board that the appropriation be made. That request has now been pending before you for more than a month. When the appropriation came up for final passage, one member of the Board of Supervisors asked that action be postponed and he has stated publicly, both before the Board of Supervisors and the Civil Service Commission, that he will vote against the appropriation unless the Civil Service Commission removes the 40-year maximum age limit from its scope circulars announcing examinations for bus operator, chauffeur, ambulance driver and patrol wagon driver.

Refusal or failure to appropriate sufficient funds to the Civil Service Commission has been one of the most commonly used devices for sabotaging Civil Service. It has been used effectively in many jurisdictions throughout the United States, including San Francisco in past years. There was no mandatory provision in the former Charter that sufficient funds be appropriated. The consequence was that insufficient funds were provided the Civil Service Commission and positions that should have been filled from lists of Civil Service eligibles were held for ten, fifteen and twenty years by non-Civil Service employees. It was to correct this glaring abuse that Section 149 was incorporated in our present Charter.

If necessary examinations are to be held, the funds must be provided, and if this request for funds is not granted today, our examination work will be substantially curtailed and our temporary employees must be dismissed because we have exhausted all available funds.

We urge upon your honorable Board that in view of the provisions of Section 149 of the Charter and in view of the fact that our examination work will be immediately suspended for lack of funds, favorable action be taken on our request for additional funds today.

There is another phase of this matter that is equally disturbing to us. It is our intention to show every possible courtesy to the members of your honorable Board. This Commission will always consider most carefully and sympathetically any matter presented by any member of the Board. That has always been our policy. In accordance with that policy, the Civil Service Commission last Wednesday postponed the four examinations in which maximum age limits have been fixed for four weeks to give the opponents of that policy an opportunity for further hearing and so that the appointing officers might give the matter further study. But we say most respectfully that under Section 22 of the Charter, this Commission is charged with the duty of conducting the affairs under its jurisdiction without interference or dictation. The conduct of examinations is one of the most vital and important of the affairs under the jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission.

There has been so much discussion during the past week or two regarding maximum age limits in Civil Service examinations that we desire to acquaint your Board with all the facts. The Civil Service Commission announced examinations for bus operators (a promotive examination open only to motormen and conductors now employed on the Municipal Railway), for chauffeurs, ambulance drivers, and patrol wagon drivers. Various department heads of the Utilities Commission, with the approval of the Manager of Utilities, requested that the maximum age for admission to the chauffeurs' and bus operators' examinations be fixed at age 35. The Police Department made a similar request regarding patrol wagon drivers and the Director of Health asked that the maximum age of ambulance drivers be fixed at 35. The Civil Service Commission investigated and found that these requests by responsible administrative heads conform as to policy with the practice in other jurisdictions and in comparable organizations. However, we raised the maximum age limits to age 40 in all except the patrol wagon driver. In that case, we fixed the maximum at age 35 because the Charter limits entrance into the uniformed force of the Police Department to men not more than 35 years of age and we felt that it was wise to maintain the same Charter provision regarding age and physical qualifications in the case of patrol wagon drivers. Regarding bus operators, we found that the Key Route recruits its bus operators from among its platform men who are under 35 years of age. The Market Street Railway recruits its bus operators from among its platform men who are under 40 years of age. Both companies require in addition rigid physical examinations before appointment and periodic re-examination. The Pacific Greyhound Company has a policy of not employing new drivers above age 32 except in unusual cases. They also require periodic re-examination. Commissioner Wolff obtained information from a few eastern companies. In Chicago and New York, the transit company will not assign a platform man to bus operator's duties who is above the age of 40. They also require physical examination and periodic re-examination. Information was also requested of Detroit and Washington, but has not been received up to now.

It is the duty of the Civil Service Commission to secure for the municipal service the most competent and efficient employees. To that end, it is necessary to establish minimum requirements for admission to some examinations. In certain examinations such as the crafts, minimum experience qualifications are established. In other examinations, such as social workers, minimum educational qualifications are established. In others, minimum professional qualifications are established. In still others, maximum age limits and minimum physical standards are established. These standards are not arbitrarily fixed. They are determined on the basis of the duties involved in the position and the hazards and conditions of employment and after an investigation of the practice pursued in other jurisdictions in recruiting such employees.

Bus operators are employed on an eight-hour shift. They are operating heavy buses carrying large numbers of passengers through the streets, crowded with the traffic of a metropolitan city. The safe performance of such work requires strength, endurance, stamina, good eyesight, and instant co-ordination of physical and mental faculties. We believe that the establishment of maximum age limits in these examinations is essential for the good of the service. After all, the interest and welfare of the public must be given consideration. When the examinations were announced by the Civil Service Commission, we were of the opinion that consideration for the safety of passengers and the public required the establishment of definite standards for those operating motor equipment for the City and County, and particularly bus operators. We believe that these public considerations transcend the interest of the relatively small group of men employed on the platforms of the Municipal Railway who are over 40 years of age, especially since these men are in no way disturbed in their present positions.

May we call your attention again to the fact that the Civil Service Commission has set maximum age standards in only 14 of the last 118 examinations we have conducted. Each of these 14 examinations was for specialized service which, in the judgment of the Civil Service Commission and department heads, necessitated the establishment of maximum age limits. We recently had occasion to check over examinations conducted by other Civil Service Commissions in California and we find that it is a common practice in these other jurisdictions to establish maximum age limits in almost all the examinations conducted by them. Yet the record shows that in only 12 per cent of our examinations have any maximum age limits been fixed.

In closing, may we point out that it is most unfortunate that the question of age limits in a few examinations has been injected into the matter of an appropriation. There are a large number of other examinations pending on which there is no dispute. Yet in the absence of favorable action all examinations will be curtailed.

Very respectfully,

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION,
W. L. HENDERSON,
Assistant Secretary.

Letter of the Civil Service Commission.

December 17, 1937.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors, City Hall.

Gentlemen: I am in receipt of a letter from the Civil Service Commission, copy of which is herewith enclosed, in which is requested an appropriation of $10,000 out of the Emergency Reserve Fund, to the credit of Appropriation No. 770.102.01, for the purpose of providing funds for the Civil Service Commission for holding examinations for certain civil service classes of employment. Section 15. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance and each section, sub-section, subdivision, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, sub-sections, subdivisions, sentences, clauses or phrases is declared unconstitutional or invalid for any reason.

Supervisor McSheehy presented:

Resolution No. 3775, as follows:

Whereas, on January 11, 1938, the Pan-American Airways suffered its first catastrophe through the loss of the Samoan Clipper; and

Whereas, the intrepid airmen who made up the crew of that ill-fated plane were leaders in their profession; courageous beyond words; modest in the extreme; engaging in their hazardous work with infinite caution and zeal unsurpassed; and

Whereas, these brave gentlemen, whose lives were so summarily abbreviated, performed an heroic service and a work of inestimable value in their inaugural efforts on behalf of transpacific commercial aviation; and

Whereas, a sorrowing but grateful people will require a perpetuation to the memory of these American aviator aces and to their achievements; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board of Supervisors does hereby request his Honor the Mayor to take such action as is necessary for the installation of a plaque, in a fitting place in this City Hall, to constitute a permanent expression of honor, gratitude and respect to the memories of Captain E. Publicity and Advertising Fund—Citizens' City Beautiful Committee.

(Code No. 9.051)

Supervisor Schmidt presented:

Resolution No. 3776, as follows:

Whereas, in response to a resolution adopted by the Board of Supervisors, his Honor, Mayor Angelo J. Rossi, appointed a Citizens' City Beautiful Committee for the purpose of effecting the cleaning-up and beautification of San Francisco in anticipation of the opening of the Golden Gate International Exposition on February 18, 1939, and such committee met and organized on December 16, 1937, and since that time has been, and is now, actively pursuing the purpose for which it was appointed; and

Whereas, the cleaning-up and beautification of San Francisco will create employment for hundreds of men and women throughout the present year who might not otherwise be employed and will absorb large quantities of building materials, lumber, paint, hardware, cement, etc., and in addition will advertise San Francisco to the nation and the world as a progressive city that is preparing fittingly to greet the 20,000,000 persons expected to visit the Exposition during 1939; and

Whereas, Supervisor Adolph E. Schmidt, chairman of the Citizens' City Beautiful Committee, did submit an abbreviated budget of finances required by the committee to permit it to function to the end of the present fiscal year of 1937-38; but was informed by the Chief Administrative Officer of the city that the Publicity and Advertising Fund could not finance the committee for the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1938; and

Whereas, the Citizens' City Beautiful Committee in pursuance of its important activities must rely upon the financial support of public-spirited citizens and concerns for its budget requirements for the remainder of the present fiscal year because of the failure of public funds, a situation devoutly to be regretted; and

Whereas, it is common knowledge that $300,000 or more is to be included in the Publicity and Advertising Fund in the new budget for the fiscal year 1938-39 for the purpose of advertising San Francisco at the Exposition as a city of beauty, charm, cleanliness and business opportunity, which renders all the more important that the purposes of the Citizens' City Beautiful Committee be successfully carried out and the city be made clean, sanitary and beautiful for our citizens and the 20,000,000 visitors; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Board of Supervisors that the clean-up and beautification campaign being conducted by the Citizens' City Beautiful Committee will, through rehabilitation of properties and otherwise, create much-needed employment, assist business, advertise San Francisco as a progressive city and render more effective the expenditure of the $300,000 or more of public funds to advertise our city at the Golden Gate International Exposition during 1939; and be it Further Resolved, That it is the sense of this Board of Supervisors that, in addition to the $300,000 or more intended to be included in the Publicity and Advertising Fund of the city to advertise San Francisco at the Exposition, there also be included the further sum of seven thousand dollars in the Publicity and Advertising Fund of the city for the use of the Citizens' City Beautiful Committee, beginning with the new fiscal year of 1938-39 on July 1, 1938, and continuing through to the opening of the Exposition on February 18, 1939, so that the said committee in performance of its service to the city will not require to be financed by private subscriptions of funds beyond the end of the current fiscal year, June 30, 1938.

Observations Covering Bus Operations on Eastern Trip as Follows.

Supervisor Uhl presented the following statement:

New York leads in bus operations among cities having more than 400,000 population. Mayor LaGuardia is quoted as being bus-minded covering surface transportation in New York. In the near future surface transportation in New York will be 100 per cent buses.

Substitution of buses for street cars in the City of New York has resulted in:

1. Speeding up vehicular traffic.
2. Eliminating noise of street cars.
3. Removal of rails is followed by smooth pavement, which contributes to making New York more beautiful.

New York is certainly the Wonder City, the City of Achievements, the City that Knows How.

Buses in New York are not feeders to the subways; as a matter of fact buses have cut into the revenues of the subways due to:

1. Curb loading.
2. Speed.
3. Frequency of service.
4. Disagreeable underground travel.

The most marked improvement noted in New York is substitution of buses for the old street cars on Broadway. Those cars gummed up traffic terribly. I know. I rode on them.

Buses honeycomb New York. Found them most popular, a pleasure to ride in them. Fare five cents, 2-cent transfer. Most important single deck buses are those on Madison, Broadway and Eighth avenue.

After paying from earnings $140,582.23 on account of buses purchased, the Madison Coach Company paid a dividend of $200,000.

After paying from earnings $114,522 on account of buses purchased, the Eighth Avenue Coach Corporation paid a dividend of $370,000. That certainly evidences the popularity of buses.

My visit to Public Service Corporation in Newark was worth while. Public Service Corporation is outstanding for its progressive leadership. In 1925 the corporation took its initial step in an experiment with bus transportation; purchased following: 25 Macks, 25 Whites, 25 Fageols, 25 Yellows.

Public Service now operates 2,800 buses. Whereas in 1925 Public Service operated 2,600 trolley cars, now operates only 200 trolley cars.

Following from Twenty-eighth Annual Report of the Public Service Corporation:

"Gratifying results have followed in every instance where all service vehicles have been substituted for street cars. Patronage has increased, riders have been attracted by the quiet operation of the vehicle."

Besides riding on the gas bus, I rode on the Diesel bus electrically operated. Smooth riding, rapid acceleration, takes hills beautifully. I believe it is the coming bus.

Whereas Mr. Thos. McCarter, President of Public Service Corporation, 12 years ago was 100 per cent street car-minded, Mr. McCarter today is 100 per cent bus-minded.

Mr. Arthur T. Warren, General Traffic Manager of Public Service informed me Public Service contributed to the development of the street car named President Conference Car, but Public Service will, under no circumstances, deviate from bus operation, chiefly due to curb loading.

Traffic congestion at Broad and Market streets, Newark, is comparable to congestion at Market and Third, San Francisco. As many as six buses at one time will stop on a block, load and then go their respective routes. "No Parking" strictly enforced. Fare five cents.

Many of the 41-passenger buses have been operating ten years and over.

My visit with Mr. Nolan, Superintendent of the Detroit Street Railway, municipally operated, was most interesting. Mr. Nolan has made a radical change in size of bus, having changed from 41-passenger buses to exclusively 25-passenger buses. Two reasons for the change:

1. Greater speed; an average of 17 miles per hour. Mr. Nolan states that greater number of 25-passenger buses does not congest traffic, inasmuch as the 25-passenger bus can maneuver easily through traffic, and has proved popular with patrons.

2. Mr. Nolan stated 41-passenger buses were operating in the red, whereas the 25's because of lower operating costs, were operating at a profit.

3. Mr. Nolan feels he can depreciate the 25's in three years and purchase new buses, believing the late models have their public appeal. Mr. Ford has made Detroit a price of $3,700 on the 25-passengers.

Mr. Nolan parks the Fords in open parking lot, having been informed by Ford Company the buses need not be housed, regardless of snow or ice.

The Detroit Municipal Railway paid in taxes last year $835,000.

Believing a talk by Mr. Nolan on bus operation would be of much benefit to the Board of Supervisors, I asked Mr. Nolan if he would be able to come to San Francisco and address the Board of Supervisors, if they so requested, expense of trip paid by them. Mr. Nolan stated he would be pleased to do so. I would so recommend. You would receive valuable information first hand.

My three-hour visit with officials of the Capital Transit Company at Washington was most interesting. They informed me:

In 1934, bus mileage was 5,947,019 miles.

In 1937, 14,607,951 miles—an increase of 250 per cent.

In 1934 street car mileage was 18,902,549 miles.

In 1937, 16,366,782 miles, a loss of 12½ per cent.

Capital Transit Company operates 1,100 buses. The company was confronted with either rebuilding the Connecticut avenue line at a possible cost of $400,000 or substituting buses. Decision was for buses.

Removal of tracks has made Connecticut avenue a beautiful boulevard.

It was estimated 62 buses would be sufficient to provide equal service to the service given by the street car; such was not the case, pressure was brought to bear upon the company to extend the route, and in so doing, it was necessary to purchase an additional thirty 41-passenger buses.

The officials feel they should have rebuilt the tracks. I rode on a Connecticut-avenue bus as far as its terminal, about two-thirds the distance of the entire Connecticut route.

Over the driver's seat was painted in distinct numerals, 65. That figure indicates the passenger capacity of the bus, 41 seated, 24 standees.

Within seven blocks 65 passengers boarded the bus. Driver displaced sign "FULL." As soon as bus is full, no further stops are made to take on passengers, and here is where bus operation scores. Bus after bus was passed. Gas bus operation makes that possible. The loaded bus by-passes the bus stopping for passengers, something street cars are incapable of doing. At peak 4:30 to 5:45 headway on some routes is 15 seconds. Fare ten cents, tokens  $8\frac{1}{3}$  cents. Recently raised from  $7\frac{1}{2}$  cents.

Street cars in Washington have wooden platforms for loading; not in keeping with the surroundings in beautiful Washington.

Chicago. Day spent in Chicago was most interesting. Chicago's transit predicament is somewhat similar to ours, a decade behind the times.

It was my good fortune to be accorded an interview by Mr. Philip Harrington, Traction Engineer of the City of Chicago. Mr. Harrington compiled for Mayor Edward J. Kelly, a comprehensive Local Transportation Plan for the City of Chicago. A number of Mr. Harrington's conclusions and recommendations fit San Francisco, namely:

1. That while our local transit systems are reasonably safe, substantial portions of each are neither attractive nor efficient.
2. That to a considerable degree the city has a "rapid transit" system inadequate for present needs, due to the age of equipment, indirect routing and limited zone influence.
3. That our surface systems are outmoded.
4. That there exists an intensive use of the private automobile with consequent aggravated congestion of streets and a high traffic accident rate.

Modern Service Transit Facilities.

Mr. Harrington proposes that the operating companies in consideration of a franchise be required to:

"Extend local service into many districts which have developed beyond the reach of the present routes, involving 130 miles of single-way motor bus routes are recommended."

"Conversion of 360 miles of street railway track into modern trolley or gas bus operation."

"The purchase of modern street railway cars, trolley and gas buses."

"In New York conversion of obsolete street railway lines to modern bus operation has resulted in phenomenal increase of revenue traffic."

"At this time my long-range program of future improvements must recognize the permanent advent of the automotive bus, the electrically-driven rubber-tired coach, the lighter weight and modern type rapid transit car and the private automobile as practical and usable means available for light and heavy urban transportation."

Progress of Modernization in Other Cities.

"There is no program for modernization in Chicago. In contrast with this statement in Transit Journal's September 15 issue, that the transit industry in this country as a whole may be expected to replace 70 per cent of its old equipment in the next five years. In a confidential survey of the industry it is shown that the new equipment expected to be purchased amounts to 26,000 units as follows:

"New Equipment to Be Purchased—Transit Industry, 1937-1941"

16,220	gas buses
5,880	street cars
3,530	trolley buses
500	rapid transit cars

26,130 units.

I had the pleasure of a three-hour conference with Mr. Chas. Gordon, Managing Director of the American Transit Association. A thoroughly organized association of the privately operated transit companies of the United States, including the manufacturers of the motive and street car industry. Clearance, such as foregoing is made through the American Transit Association. It would be desirable for San Francisco to have membership in this association in order to keep abreast of the times.

Continuing Mr. Harrington's statements:

"Notable progress has been made in a number of cities. Examples of surface transit modernization in the larger cities follow:

"New York—All street railway service has been discontinued by the New York Railways, Madison Avenue Railways and Eighth Avenue Railways, and service replaced with 800 modern buses. Similar replacements have been carried out by the Jamaica Railways and by the operating companies on Staten Island. The Brooklyn and Queens Transit Corporation has purchased 200 new street cars since 1930 and in its affiliated company the Brooklyn Bus Company has purchased 325 buses in the same period. All of the bus equipment is modern and the new equipment on car lines represents 20 per cent of the peak requirements.

"Boston—Since 1930, 416 buses were purchased. This represents 25 per cent of the peak surface transit units.

"Washington, D. C.—Consolidation of the three local transportation systems was effected during the past three years. This brought about considerable street car re-routing, and the substitution of buses for street cars on several important lines. More express bus lines were added. Since 1930, 35 new street cars and 344 new buses were purchased, representing 44 per cent of their peak equipment requirements.

"St. Louis, Missouri—Since 1930 St. Louis Public Service, Inc. has purchased 264 gas buses. In some instances substituting bus service for railway service. Buses carry over 25 per cent of the passengers.

"Portland, Oregon—Following the granting of a new franchise last year the Portland Traction began a program of modernization with the purchase of 120 trolley buses and 35 gas buses. These new vehicles will take care of nearly half of the city's transit service.

"Detroit, Michigan—The Department of Street Railways has developed a policy of expansion through installing small buses operating on frequent headways. Since 1930 about 1,000 buses (mostly of the small type) have been purchased.

"Newark, New Jersey—Public Service Coordinated Transport, which serves most of the cities in the eastern portion of the state, and now carries most of its passengers on buses, has, since 1930, purchased about 1,000 buses of various types.

"Milwaukee, Wisconsin—The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company is carrying on a continuous program of transit modernization. Since 1930 this company has acquired 177 gas buses and 50 trolley buses. The latter replaced street car service. The modern units represent 30 per cent of the peak requirements.

"Indianapolis, Indiana—The Indianapolis Railways have presented the outstanding example of city-wide modernization. Its program was actively under way early in 1933. In all, the modern equipment purchased up to January 1, 1937, for this program consists of 79 street cars, 43 gas buses and 152 trolley buses. But four major trolley lines were retained. These are being equipped with up-to-date cars; the remainder of the service has been replaced by modern trolley buses and auxiliary gas bus feeder lines."

Conversion of Car Lines to Bus Operations.

Mr. Harrington states: "There are many locations in the city where service could be more economically rendered with greater frequency and more comfort and at faster, yet safe operating speeds, with the use of buses in place of street cars.

"Buses will provide the greater safety and convenience by reason of loading at the curb and eliminate the need for the existing safety islands with their hazard to traffic."

Mr. Harrington then recommends in table 8 the following:

Track abandonment of 189.39 miles.

Purchase of 285 40-seat buses, 54 23-seat and 16 20-seat buses.

468 street cars to be replaced by above 555 buses.

In table 9, Mr. Harrington proposes:

Track abandonment of 360.89 miles.

Purchase of 900 40-seat buses, 83 32-seat and 25 20-seat buses.

765 street cars to be replaced by above 1008 gas buses.

Referring again to Mr. Harrington's statements:

"The Chicago Motor Coach Co. will bring to the combined system herein referred to, its valuable asset of 20 years' bus operating experience."

I had the good fortune of a two-hour conference with W. J. Sherwood, General Manager, for the past twenty years, of Chicago Motor Coach Co. Mr. Sherwood's ideas regarding bus operations are progressive and most valuable.

Following are a few high-lights from an address by Bernard J. Youngbluth, President and General Manager, International Railway Company, Buffalo, N. Y., before the American Transit Association, White Sulphur, September 23, 1937:

"In Buffalo we are using small buses on heavy duty lines. We operate 327 buses, of which 260 are 25-passenger. We have 60 more of the same type on order. The other 67 are 32-passenger buses, which have been in service for a number of years and are used only during rush hours.

"Comparing results of small buses substituted for street cars on West Utica Route:

Length of route—4¼ miles.

Policy headway with street cars—10 minutes.

Average peak headway with buses—3 minutes.

Average base headway buses—6 minutes.

Miles increase 103 per cent.

Revenue increased—96 per cent.

Profit increased—128 per cent.

"Comparing results of small buses substituted for street cars on Elwood Road:

Length of route—6 miles.

Average peak headway improved from 5½ minutes to 2½ minutes.

Average bus headway improved from 9½ minutes to 6 minutes.

Revenue increased 25 per cent; profit increased 138 per cent."

Bus routes in San Francisco will average 6 miles. If improvements in speeding up service, as noted in foregoing statements, is possible in Boston, it should also be possible in San Francisco.

Members of the Board, two things struck me most forcibly as I taxied from Third and Townsend Depot to my office:

(1) Deplorable paving condition.

(2) Obsolete noisy street cars.

If a contest were held as to which city comparable in size to San Francisco has the most deplorable street motor paving conditions and the most obsolete street cars, San Francisco would win first prize.

The foregoing statements are from outstanding transit officials and the Traction Engineer of the City of Chicago, Mr. Philip Harrington. Not one unfavorable comment regarding bus operations—quite the contrary.

Despite the favorable opinion I had of bus operations, predicated on East Bay bus operations, I went East with an open frame of mind, but from what I found there covering bus operations, I return 100 per cent bus-minded.

Besides the desirability of curb loading, eliminating noise, flexibility of bus; a most important factor in favor of bus operation is the matter of pavements.

Buses are efficiently operated. I timed the ingress and egress of passengers.

Time covering bus stop—7 passengers boarding bus and bus on its way—10 seconds; 12 boarding bus—15 seconds; three passengers out—5 seconds.

The elimination of tracks in New York City, with improved paving, has made New York City more beautiful—comparatively speaking—a new suit to a shabby old one.

Shabbiness was the impression I received on my return to San Francisco, of the tracks and paving conditions here. If a contest were held as to which city with a population over 500,000 has the most obsolete street cars and worst track pavements, San Francisco would be it. And San Francisco is the "City That Knows How."

Where does the responsibility of this situation lie?

I say with the Public Utilities Commission. The Public Utilities Commission has been in existence four years—street car service has gone from bad to worse during their four years' administration.

There is no gainsaying the fact, immediate steps must be taken to speed up transportation in order to meet competition from the East Bay in December, at which time trains from the East Bay will be routed to the Interurban Depot at First and Mission—luxurious trains—seats for every passenger—104 seats to the car.

Delivery of buses can be had within six months after funds are made available. Funds can be made available for buses as a capital expenditure by inclusion of an amount in the 1938-39 budget by the Supervisors.

I renew my suggestion that at this time two bus routes be approved as follows:

1. From California and Thirty-second avenue, via California, Presidio, Bush to Market.

2. County Line, via San Jose avenue, Alemany boulevard, Bay Shore, Potrero avenue, Brannan and Fifth, to Mint avenue.

I urge the immediate employment of a Traction Engineer, who will pass on bus routes, having in mind inclusion of a sufficient amount in the 1938-39 budget to start foregoing two routes on their way and other bus routes by a bond election.

The Supervisors have the power to submit to the electorate a matter of policy in the event the Public Utilities Commission refuses to approve the Engineer's report.

Immediate action is necessary!

Differential in Freight Rates Between Bay Cities Opposed.

(Code No. 5.3)

Supervisor Colman presented:

Resolution No. 3774, as follows:

Whereas, there is a matter now pending before the Railroad Commission of the State of California, designated Case No. 4088, Part N and V, Decision No. 30370; and

Whereas, this matter is of vital interest to San Francisco because it imposes a penalty against less-than-carload lots of freight originating or terminating in San Francisco through the imposition of a charge varying from twenty to thirty cents per hundred pounds in excess of the charge for freight originating in or destined for East Bay Cities; and

Whereas, this increased charge to San Francisco shippers and recipients of freight is, in the opinion of this Board of Supervisors, unfair, unjustifiable, and constitutes a serious detriment to local business; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board of Supervisors does hereby record itself as opposed to the aforementioned differential in freight rates; that it does hereby memorialize the Railroad Commission of the State of California and does urge that said rates be lowered and made to coincide with the rates for East Bay cities; and be it Further Resolved, That this Board does hereby authorize and instruct the City Attorney to intervene in the case now pending before the Railroad Commission and to present such arguments as will convince the Railroad Commission of the necessity for compliance with our request.

Explanation of Vote.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I am going to vote No in reference to No. 24 on the Calendar, making commitments for the expenditure of certain sums of money for this coming fiscal year for the following reasons:

No. 1. That it is illegal for us to make expenditures of moneys before we receive them;

No. 2. That it is poor business for any representative body of men to recommend the expenditure of a huge sum of money, some $25,000 additional street improvements, without a financial statement as to the cost of same.

I wish the record to show and these words incorporated in the record and made a part of the record.

ROLL CALL FOR THE INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS, BILLS AND COMMUNICATIONS NOT CONSIDERED OR REPORTED UPON BY A COMMITTEE.

Civil Service Appropriations.

The following was presented and read by the Clerk:

February 3, 1938.

To the Honorable The Board of Supervisors, City Hall, San Francisco.

Gentlemen: I am in receipt of a letter from the Civil Service Commission, in which supplemental appropriations are requested in the amount of $10,000 out of the Emergency Reserve Fund, in two items, as follows:

(a) $5,635 for the purpose of holding examinations in which emergency non-civil service appointments are now authorized in the absence of lists of eligibles and which, under Section 149 of the Charter, must be held immediately.

(b) $4,365 for the purpose of holding examinations which are necessary, but in which no emergency appointments are now authorized, and for the carrying on of other necessary work of the Civil Service Commission.

I approve these requests and respectfully urge that your Honorable Board take action by emergency ordinance at your meeting on February 7th in order to make the requested appropriations of $5,635 available to the Civil Service Commission forthwith for the reason that, pursuant to Section 149 of the Charter, it is mandatory upon both the Mayor and the Board of Supervisors to provide funds to hold examinations in all cases where emergency appointments have been allowed, and I am advised that this appropriation is to be used exclusively for this purpose.

The appropriation of $4,365 is recommended for the reason that many lists now existing in the Civil Service Commission are fast approaching their expiration by reason of the limitation of time provided for in the Charter and, to the end that the policy so definitely set forth in the Charter should be lived up to, non-civil service appointments should not be made when there is any possibility of providing eligible lists.

If it were not for the urgency of the situation I would be slow in recommending an appropriation from the Emergency Reserve Fund for this purpose, but after a most careful investigation of the matter I believe that these requested appropriations come directly within the purposes for which the Emergency Reserve Fund was created.

Both appropriations have been approved by the Controller as to availability of funds.

I therefore bespeak your prompt action on the allotment of the respective amounts to the Civil Service Commission.

Yours very truly,

ANGELO J. ROSSI,
Mayor.

Final Passage.

Proposed Charter Amendment—Civil Service Examinations.

Presented by Supervisor Reilly.

Qualifications and Tests.

Section 145. All applicants for places in the classified service shall submit to tests, which shall be competitive and without charge to the applicants. The commission shall control all examinations and may employ suitable persons in or out of the public service to act as examiners. The tests may be written, oral, mechanical or physical, or any combination of them, practical in character and related to matters fairly to test the relative capacity of applicants for the positions to be filled. The commission shall be the sole judge of the adequacy of the tests to rate the capacity of the applicants to perform service for the City and County. The commission may, for each examination, establish a passing mark or may determine the total number of persons who shall constitute the list of eligibles. The commission shall prepare from the returns of the examiners the list of eligibles, arranged in order of relative excellence. No question submitted to applicants shall refer to political or religious opinions or fraternal affiliations.

Applicants for entrance positions in the uniformed forces of the Fire and Police Departments shall be not less than twenty-one years of age, nor more than thirty-five years of age at the time of appointment and shall have the physical qualifications required for enlistment in the United States Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

Applicants for entrance positions in the classified service other than the uniformed forces of the Fire and Police Departments, shall not be less than 21 years of age nor more than 65 years of age at the time of appointment. For promotional examinations in the classified service, including Fire and Police Departments, no age less than the compulsory retirement age or ages which may be provided for in other sections of this charter shall be made a condition of appointment.

Applicants for positions in the mechanical trades and occupations may, in the discretion of the commission, be rated solely on experience and physical qualifications which may be demonstrated by such evidence and in such manner as the commission may direct, and such applicants may be permitted to such further tests as the commission may require. Examinations of laborers shall relate only to physical qualifications and experience, and laborers establishing their fitness shall rank upon the register in order of priority of application.

The commission may remove all names from the list of eligibles after they have remained thereon for more than two years and all names thereon shall be removed at the expiration of four years. The commission may, however, provide in the scope-circular of any examination that the list of eligibles secured thereby shall automatically expire at a date not less than two or more than four years after the adoption of such list.

Veterans with thirty days or more actual service, and widows of such veterans, who become eligible for appointment by attaining the passing mark in any examination, shall be allowed an additional credit of 5 per cent in making up the list of eligibles secured by such examination. The term "veteran" as used in this section shall be taken to mean any person who has been mustered into, or served in, the Army, or enlisted in, or served in, the Navy or Marine Corps, of the United States, in time of war and received an honorable discharge or certificate of honorable active service. In the case of promotive examinations, when the passing mark has been attained, a credit of 3 per cent shall be allowed to veterans or to widows of such veterans. No more than one such entrance preference, or one such promotive preference may be allowed to any one person. The Civil Service Commission may, for services or employment specified by the commission, allow general or individual preference, but not less than 10 per cent, for entrance appointment of veterans who have suffered permanent disability in line of duty, provided that such disability would not prevent the proper performance of the duties required under such service, or employment, and provided that such disability is of record in the United States Veterans Bureau.

The following was presented and read by the Clerk:

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors.

Gentlemen: Your committee appointed to investigate the request of the San Francisco Trade Union Unemployed Council begs leave to report as follows:

(1) The Director of Property, Mr. Joseph J. Phillips, has informed your committee that there is no available space in any public building for the purposes requested.

ROLL CALL FOR THE INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS, BILLS AND COMMUNICATIONS NOT CONSIDERED OR REPORTED UPON BY A COMMITTEE.

Consideration of Supervisor Uhl's Bus Plan.

The following excerpt and recommendation taken from "Observations Covering Bus Operations by Supervisor Uhl" was taken up for consideration:

"I renew my suggestion that at this time two bus routes be approved as follows:

"1. From California and Thirty-second avenue, via California, Presidio, Bush to Market.

"2. County Line, via San Jose avenue, Alemany boulevard, Bay Shore, Potrero avenue, Brannan and Fifth, to Mint avenue.

"I urge the immediate employment of a Traction Engineer, who will pass on bus routes, having in mind inclusion of a sufficient amount in the 1938-39 budget to start foregoing two routes on their way and other bus routes by a bond election.

"The Supervisors have the power to submit to the electorate a matter of policy in the event the Public Utilities Commission refuses to approve the Engineer's report.

"Immediate action is necessary!"

Subject discussed at length by Supervisor Colman and other members of the Board.

Motion.

Supervisor Uhl moved that the Board of Supervisors request the Public Utilities Commission to inform us on a two-minute schedule—how many 41-passenger buses would be required on his proposed bus service from California and Thirty-second avenue via California, Presidio, Bush to Market street, and County Line via San Jose, Alemany boulevard, Bay Shore, Potrero, Brannan and Fifth to Mint avenue—what would be the revenue and what would be the service.

Supervisor Meyer moved that this matter remain on the calendar until the Citizens' Committee is appointed and ask the Mayor to set up his Committee as soon as possible and then have all our transportation matters go before this Committee.

Action Deferred.

Supervisor McSheehy moved as an amendment to the amendment that this matter remain on the calendar until next Monday and request the Mayor to appoint his Citizens' Committee between now and next Monday.

President Shannon's Remarks Re Requested Resignation of Richard J. Welch, Golden Gate Bridge Director.

Supervisor Shannon repeated the following remarks made by him to the Directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, at the time of his election as President, regarding resignation of Hon. Richard J. Welch as Director, and requested that copy of his remarks be printed in the Journal, and, also, be sent to Hon. Richard J. Welch, to-wit:

PRESIDENT SHANNON: Members of the Board: On the occasion of my being elected president of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, I made some remarks to the board of directors, and after I finished, Director Maxwell, who is Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Napa County, told me that my remarks, while he agreed with them entirely, should be repeated before the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco, and I realized that it would be necessary and should be done. Therefore, I desire to read what I said at that time. But before reading what I stated before the board of directors, I want to read from the Bridge and Highway District Act:

"Method of Appointment of Directors to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District: One director for each county having a population of 40,000 or less; two directors for a county having a population of over 40,000 and not more than 100,000; three directors for a county having a population of more than 100,000 and less than 500,000; and five for a county or city and county having a population of 500,000 and over; provided, that in any county or city and county having a population of more than 500,000 the number of directors appointed shall be equal to the total number of directors appointed from all of the counties or cities and counties within the district having a population of less than 500,000."

Marin County, having over 40,000 and less than 100,000, has two directors. Sonoma County, the same, two directors. Napa County, one director. Mendocino, one director. Del Norte, one director; making seven, and as a result of the law, San Francisco has an equal number with all the northern counties combined, which is seven. Therefore, there are fourteen members on the board of directors, San Francisco having seven, and all the northern counties having seven.

After thanking the members of the board of directors of the bridge district for electing me president, and congratulating the board upon having James Rickett as an added director, I stated:

"I have one further thought that I want to present. It is rather bold, but I think it is something that should have been attended to immediately after the bridge was completed, and that is, I feel that Richard J. Welch, our Congressman, should resign from this board. Mr. Welch has a very able brain, he has been a very valuable man to the district; he attended the first meeting that was held in Santa Rosa on the 13th of January, 1923, and his interest has continued from that day up until the present moment. He has had all the honors that the bridge district could give him; he has been recognized on all occasions; his name is out on the plaque; he has got honorable mention in this book, and I feel that as he is absent in Washington on his official duties, that we should have the advice of the fourteen men on this board. It was determined at the outset, when the bridge district was formed, that San Francisco should have an equal representation with the northern counties. It is a great pleasure to me this morning, that the matter of the selection of a president was made without any bickering or pulling or hauling or sawing—that while San Francisco needed the odd vote, it is not a matter of politics that I refer to this condition, but I feel that we need the advice of as many heads as we can possibly get together under the law to carry on. Just how to proceed with this matter is something that is rather delicate. It has been suggested to Mr. Welch since the completion of the bridge, and I have been informed second hand that he has said that he will do it shortly. I don't know possibly but what the press may say something about this in tomorrow's papers and it may reach the ears of Mr. Welch; but if he does not do it voluntarily I am going to take it upon myself as president of the district to write a letter asking his resignation. I would not have taken this stand today if he had taken the opportunity since last May to send in his resignation voluntarily, but for one reason or another he is hanging on, and we need the fourteen men on this board to carry on the very important work involved. Therefore, I am not going to ask the press not to take note of what I say."

The particular point I want to make is that I stated in this statement of mine that I was going to write him a letter and ask him to resign. That is the point that I want to make. I am not going to do that. I was thinking of the position of the president of the board of directors of the bridge district, but it is a Board of Supervisors' matter. We accept resignations, we make appointments in this board, and I feel it is a matter for this Board to decide. Mr. Welch is absent, has been absent since the first of the year, and will be absent for a number of months. San Francisco has six votes and the northern counties have seven. I cannot understand why Mr. Welch is continuing his membership on the board of directors. We at times have sorely needed a vote. San Francisco is responsible for 85 per cent of any debt that will accrue and there is a possibility of an assessment going on its third year. Mr. Welch will be away for a number of months. There is nothing more that Mr. Welch can get in the way of honor that I know of. The book that I referred to is a 5000 edition of a very comprehensive story of the origin of the Golden Gate Bridge, and its history up to date. Mr. Welch is mentioned as being the man that was the first one to introduce a resolution in this Board of Supervisors to have a sum of money appropriated for the preliminary work. His name is out on the plaque on the San Francisco and Marin sides of the bridge.

I have never had anything but the friendliest feelings for Mr. Welch, and as I stated in my statement, I was told on reliable authority that he was going to resign shortly, and while I regret having made this publicly, since last May when the bridge was completed he has had ample time to resign. San Francisco should have a full representation on that board, of seven members, as the northern counties have seven, on matters that come before us; and furthermore, there are important matters that come before the bridge directors that I feel San Francisco should have the seven minds to look out for its interests.

I present this matter to you for your consideration and I sincerely trust that some action will be taken that will give to the board of directors and San Francisco the representation we so need. A man cannot vote unless he is present at the meeting of the board of directors. Therefore, Mr. Welch's vote cannot be transmitted from Washington on any matter, and any of the matters connected with the bridge where Washington is considered, we know that Mr. Welch will look out for San Francisco's interests. He has done it by his activity and interest from the time when we first met in Santa Rosa on the 13th of January, 1923. It was my pleasure to be in attendance at that meeting. I went up with Mayor Rolph. Mr. Welch has been one of the most active men in California in the promulgation of this important problem and bringing it to San Francisco, but I do feel the time has come now for him to step aside and let someone fill his place. Mr. Filmer carried on during the period in which the bridge district was just formed and up until its completion. Mr. Filmer has stepped aside and his place has been filled by Mr. Ricketts of the Building Trades Council, and I feel that, as the Building Trades Council has accepted, it should have been represented previously on the board of directors due to the fact that a great number of men of the Building Trades Council work on the bridge. These are the thoughts that I had at that time, and I feel that some action should be taken by this Board in bringing the matter to Mr. Welch's attention.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Do you want to discuss this now, Mr. Chairman?

THE CHAIRMAN: I would like to hear some expression. Does Mr. Brown desire to discuss it?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I think the proper action would be reference to the proper committee of the Board, which I think is the Utilities Committee.

THE CHAIRMAN: The Judiciary Committee.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Isn't it the Utilities Committee?

THE CHAIRMAN: The Utilities Committee is the committee that has always made recommendations in the past.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I will move reference to the Public Utilities Committee, Mr. Chairman.

THE CHAIRMAN: If there is no objection, such will be the order. May I request that a copy of my remarks be transcribed so that I may send them to Mr. Welch? Is there objection to that? So ordered. And printed in the Journal.

ROLL CALL FOR THE INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS, BILLS AND COMMUNICATIONS NOT CONSIDERED OR REPORTED UPON BY A COMMITTEE.

Necessity of Pacific Gas and Electric Company to Apply for Franchise for Distributing Power for Heat and Power Purposes.

The following was presented and read by the Clerk:

February 21, 1938.

Honorable Board of Supervisors, City Hall, San Francisco, California.

Dear Sirs: Some time ago you referred to me the matter as to whether the Pacific Gas and Electric Company had the right to continue the distribution of electric energy for heating and power purposes and gas for heating purposes without a franchise.

Since that time I have had many conferences with the officials of the company and have concluded, with the exception of its constitutional franchises—that is, those franchises which the company acquired prior to October 10, 1911, under the provisions of Section 19, Article XI of the Constitution, that the company is without a franchise for the furnishing of either gas or electricity for heating or power purposes. The company does claim some rights, however, under Resolution No. 15139, passed by the Board of Supervisors on April 25, 1881, which granted permission to the California Electric Light Company to erect and maintain poles along and upon streets for the purpose of placing electric light wires thereon, and also under Resolution No. 2727, adopted by the Board of Supervisors on April 24, 1899, which granted to the Mutual Electric Light Company the privilege to erect poles and posts along certain public streets outside of the fire limits of the City and County.

I doubt, however, if any rights could have been granted by these resolutions and believe that they were merely passed for the purpose of enabling the grantees to make use of the privileges they had under Section 19 of Article XI of the Constitution.

The last session of the State Legislature adopted a statute the purpose of which was to permit municipalities to grant a franchise to construct and use poles, wires and conduits for the purpose of transmitting and distributing electricity and also to use and lay pipes and appurtenances for the purpose of transmitting and distributing gas.

This act provides that an applicant for any of the franchises above mentioned shall make application to the legislative body of the municipality setting forth the name of the applicant, the purpose and term of the franchise and the applicant, if granted a franchise, will pay such municipality during the life of such franchise, 2 per cent of the gross annual receipts arising from the operation or use of the franchise, provided that such payment shall, in no event, be less than 1 per cent of the gross annual receipts of the applicant derived from the exercise of the franchise within the municipality.

The act further provides that if the application shall be for a franchise in addition to any franchise held under the Constitution, the applicant will pay such sum annually as shall be equivalent to 2 per cent of the gross annual receipts arising from the sale of electricity and that such payment shall, in no event, be less than one-half of the gross annual receipts derived by the applicant from the sale of electricity under the constitutional franchise and under the new franchise.

The act further provides, if the application be for a gas franchise, that the amount to be paid shall be equivalent to 2 per cent of the gross annual receipts from the sale of gas provided that such payment shall, in no event, be less than 1 per cent of the gross receipts which may be derived by the applicant from the sale of gas under the constitutional franchise as well as under the new franchise.

The act then provides as to what action the Board shall take upon the application. The franchise may be granted for a definite or for an indefinite term. If granted for an indefinite term it shall remain in full force and effect until the same, with the consent of the Railroad Commission, shall be abandoned by the applicant, or until the State of California or some municipal or public corporation shall acquire or condemn the property.

The act further provides that any franchise granted pursuant to its terms shall, in no way, impair or affect the right of the municipality to acquire the property of the grantee, either by purchase or by eminent domain proceedings; and further, that any such franchise granted shall never be given any value before any court or other public authority in any proceeding to determine the value of the properties of the grantee, save and except that it may be valued at whatever amount the applicant may have paid to the municipality for the franchise.

Under these conditions, it is my advice to the Board that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company should make application to the Board for a franchise under the 1937 act, and that the application should receive the prompt attention of the Board. Upon the hearing of the application, the Board may give consideration as to the exact terms and conditions on which the franchise may be issued.

I am therefore enclosing herewith a resolution directing the City Attorney to notify the Pacific Gas and Electric Company that if it desires to continue the distribution of gas and electricity for purposes other than for lighting, it should make application for a franchise under the act above mentioned.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) JOHN J. O'TOOLE,
City Attorney.

Directing the City Attorney of the City and County of San Francisco to Notify the Pacific Gas and Electric Company That, if It Is Desirous of Continuing to Furnish Electric Energy for Power and Heating Purposes and Gas for Heating Purposes Within the City and County of San Francisco, to Apply to the Board of Supervisors of Said City and County for a Franchise to So Do.

(Code No. 15.096)

Resolution No. 3807, as follows:

Whereas, the Legislature of the State of California, at its 1937 session, duly passed an act "Providing for the Granting by Legislative Bodies of Municipalities of Franchises for the Transmitting and Distributing of Electricity or Gas and Providing for the Duration and Terms of Such Franchises and the Conditions for the Granting of Same and Providing for the Forfeiture Thereof for Non-Compliance Therewith;" which said act was approved by the Governor on the 29th day of June, 1937, and became effective on August 27, 1937; and

Whereas, said act provides for the granting of franchises for the distribution of gas and electric energy for heating and power purposes within municipalities and for the payment to said municipalities of a certain percentage of the gross income received by the person, firm or corporation enjoying said franchise; and

Whereas, it is the opinion of the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is distributing electric energy and gas for heating and power purposes within the City and County of San Francisco without any franchise or authority to so do; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the City Attorney be, and he is, hereby directed to notify said Pacific Gas and Electric Company, if it is desirous of continuing the distribution of electric energy and gas in the City and County of San Francisco for heating or power purposes, that said company must obtain a franchise to so do, said franchise to be issued under and pursuant to the provisions of the above entitled act of the Legislature of the State of California; and be it

Further Resolved, That said City Attorney be, and he is, hereby directed to request said Pacific Gas and Electric Company to forthwith make application for said franchise.

Resolution No. 3806, as follows:

Whereas, the thirtieth day of May, 1938, will be Memorial Day; and

Whereas, it is customary, and most right and proper, that we who live and enjoy the blessings of liberty and security under the benign government of these United States of America should on Memorial Day pay tribute to the revered memory of those patriotic men and women who died in the service of our country so that America might continue to be secure; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco does hereby respectfully request his Honor the Mayor

Memorializing Legislature and Governor for Enactment of Enabling Act for Participation in Federal Slum Clearance and Low Cost Housing Projects.

(Code No. 5.35)

Supervisor Mead presented:

Resolution No. 3807, as follows:

Whereas, the Federal Government has recently enacted legislation to provide financial assistance to the States, and through the States to subdivisions thereof, for slum clearance and low cost housing projects; and

Whereas, in order that San Francisco and other political subdivisions of the State may be in a position to enjoy the benefits provided under the aforementioned legislation, it will be necessary for the State of California to enact enabling provisions to permit thereof; and

Whereas, Governor Merriam will, in his call for a Special Session of the Legislature to convene some time in March of this year, include a proposal for the consideration of such legislation as would, if enacted, place the State and its political subdivisions in a position to accept the benefits provided for in the aforementioned Federal legislation; and

Whereas, there is a vital necessity in San Francisco for the demolition of many old and dilapidated houses and the construction of new, modern, low-cost houses to supplant them, and this, particularly, in view of the impending Golden Gate International Exposition; and

Whereas, an opportunity for San Francisco to participate in the benefits conferred under this Federal legislation would mean the expenditure in San Francisco of a sum approximating $10,000,000 which would provide a stimulus for the building trade crafts and local materialmen; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board of Supervisors does hereby memorialize the Legislature and does urge that when the legislation on this subject is presented to it at the forthcoming session, it be enacted with all dispatch; and be it

Further Resolved, That if and when the enabling legislation on this subject be enacted by the Legislature of the State of California, His Excellency Governor Merriam is respectfully requested to immediately approve and sign all the Bills comprising such enabling legislation; and be it

Further Resolved, That the San Francisco delegation in the Legislature of the State of California be and is hereby requested to exert its best efforts to the end that the legislation hereinbefore referred to may be enacted into law at the forthcoming Special Session; and be it Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to His Excellency Frank F. Merriam, Governor of the State of California, to State Senator Walter McGovern and to the members of the San Francisco delegation in the Assembly.

Commendation of Hearst Newspapers' Program for Humanizing Warfare.

(Code No. 5.2)

Supervisor Reilly presented:

Resolution No. 3808, as follows:

Whereas, there are now two great, undeclared wars raging in the world, bringing death and destruction to thousands of non-combatants; and

Whereas, this frightful slaughter of innocent women and children in Spain and in China is inhuman and animal barbarity and may be vested upon our city and nation if we ever become involved in a world conflict; and

Whereas, the Hearst newspapers have pointed out that humanization has been applied to all factors of living but that of warfare; and

Whereas, the unmitigated slaughter of defenseless women and children, through use of bombs rained on non-military centers, is only uncontrolled murder of those who have no part in the hostilities; and

Whereas, such military maneuvers will tend to destroy our civilization; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we endorse the effort to write a new code of rules for conduct of wars with the objective that the innocents be protected from inhuman attacks; and be it Further Resolved, That we commend the program of humanization undertaken by the Hearst newspapers.

At the regular meeting of our association, held on Wednesday evening, February 9, 1938, the question of a resolution now pending before the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Supervisors requesting the resignation of the Honorable Richard J. The following was presented and read by the Clerk:

San Francisco, California.

Hon. Warren Shannon, Chairman, Board of Supervisors, City Hall.

This association strongly opposes Bill No. 1529 on your calendar today as totally unnecessary and futile. Believe present Juvenile Act sufficient for all purposes. Proposed ordinance makes it a misdemeanor for a proprietor or bartender to permit a newsboy, shoeshine boy, or flower peddler under 18 years of age to enter or remain in any tavern to transact his business. Can ordinance be referred to committee for rehearing?

Approving Plan for Eliminating Vehicular Ferry Competition with Bridges.

(Code No. 15.093)

Presented by Finance Committee.

Resolution No. 3817, as follows:

Whereas, the Governor of the State of California has stated that he will recommend to the California Toll Bridge Authority a plan providing for the elimination of the vehicular ferries in competition with the Transbay and Golden Gate Bridges if such plan was approved by the legislative bodies of San Francisco and Alameda Counties; and

Whereas, the owners of said vehicular ferry systems have indicated that they are willing to surrender the franchises under which said ferries are operated upon terms and conditions to be agreed upon with said California Toll Bridge Authority; and

Whereas, the elimination of said ferries will provide additional income to said California Toll Bridge Authority and to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and will bring about a reduction in the tolls charged by said bridges; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco does hereby approve the plan submitted to the California Toll Bridge Authority to eliminate the vehicular ferries in competition with the Transbay and Golden Gate Bridges and respectfully urges the Governor of the State of California to recommend to the California Toll Bridge Authority the elimination of said ferry systems by acquiring the franchises under which the same are operated; and be it

Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forthwith transmitted to the Governor of the State of California, to the California Toll Bridge Authority and to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Communications.

The following communications were presented and read by the Clerk:

February 21, 1938.

The Hon. The Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco, California, City Hall.

Gentlemen: At the time the Six Minute Ferry Company was organized and secured franchise to operate vehicle ferry boats between San Francisco and Oakland I became an authorized salesman to sell stock in the corporation and sold a large block of the stock to the Southern Pacific Company which would give it control of the corporation and virtual ownership of the franchise and boats under construction.

When the transaction had become practically consummated, Paul Shoup, then Executive Vice-President of the Southern Pacific Company, double-crossed me in the transaction and purchased the franchise and boats instead of the stock through Herbert Fleishhacker and acquired title by first having the franchise and boats conveyed to James Rolph, Jr., then Mayor of San Francisco, and afterwards conveyed to the Southern Pacific Company who became the owner and operated since vehicle ferries under the franchise.

It is my contention that this transaction gave me a vested interest in the franchise and boats and I have made demand upon the Southern Pacific to recognize my interest and I hereby notify the Hon. the Board of Supervisors and the City and County of San Francisco that I have a vested interest in the franchise and the boats. It is further my contention that if any deal is made between the Southern Pacific Company to cancel the franchise and discontinue the ferry system that it must have my sanction and the deal must be ratified by the Board of Supervisors in a legal way.

I understand that the Highway Board is to appear before the Supervisors today to have the Board adopt a resolution favoring the deal, but it is my contention that it is beyond the province of the Supervisors to pass any such resolution. It would be malfeasance in office and furthermore I have a letter from the General Counsel of the Southern Pacific in which he states that the Southern Pacific Company has disposed of the franchise and the boats and have no power to recognize my vested interest. It goes without saying that if they have no power to deal with me that they have no power to deal with the Highway Bridge Control and I respectfully suggest that the Board ask an explanation of this assertion by Mr. E. J. Foulds, the Company's General Counsel.

Trusting that you will give this communication consideration, I am

Very truly yours,

MARCELLUS KRIGBAUM.

February 28, 1938.

To the Hon. the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco.

Gentlemen: I have a copy of a letter addressed to the Board by City Attorney O'Toole and I desire to call the attention of the Board to the circumstance that he does not advise the Board on the prevalent points raised in my communication.

I will further advise the Board that the assignment of the franchise by the Six Minute Ferry Company to Mayor Rolph was void and that the franchise is still vested in the Six Minute Ferry Company. Rolph having approved the franchise as Mayor could not afterwards become the Owner and any attempted assignment to the Southern Pacific Company was void.

Being the holder of all the outstanding stock of the Six Minute Ferry Company, I am the actual owner of the franchise and any attempt on the part of the Board to ratify the transaction pending between the Toll Bridge Authority and the alleged owner of the franchise is simply a proposition for graft. Governor Merriam has a real estate broker's license to do business from the State Capitol in Sacramento, and is to receive the commission on this transaction. Under the law he neither can be prosecuted or impeached and under the Real Estate Act he is not required to have a Business Opportunity Broker's license in order to collect the commission on this transaction.

Rolph and Fleishhacker both committed a felony when they took over the assignment of the franchise and as Fleishhacker has been held guilty of fraud by two Federal Judges and has confessed judgment in a third fraud case, it must be apparent that the Board should be most cautious in any further dealings in reference to this transaction as I have every reason to believe that Fleishhacker is in reality engineering this entire transaction.

Governor Merriam controls the Toll Bridge Authority Board and does not carry a Real Estate Broker's license for the honor. It is notoriously for graft and the amount of the commission on the transaction is alluring to His Excellency.

I ask the Board to take no further action until the ownership of the franchise is determined, and I will take necessary court action if the Board does not instruct the City Attorney to take action on the matter. The Board should pass a resolution rescinding the franchise of the Six Minute Ferry Company except as to me and the Toll Bridge Authority could bring an action enjoining the ferries from further operation under the franchise. The proposed action is beyond the province of the supervisors and ought to be submitted to a vote of the people of the bay district.

Yours very respectfully,

MARCELLUS KRIGBAUM.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC COMPANY

65 Market Street, San Francisco, California Law Department

January 28, 1938.

Mr. Marcellus Krigbaum, care The California Real Estate Exchange, 105 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, California.

Dear Mr. Krigbaum: Mr. McDonald has referred to me your letter of January 24th, in which you ask whether the Southern Pacific Company will recognize a vested interest on your part in the franchises and boats.

Southern Pacific Company disposed of its interest in vehicular ferries, including the franchises and boats adapted to that service, quite a number of years ago, and therefore could not recognize any interest which you claim therein, even if it were willing to do so.

Very truly yours,

E. J. FOULDS.

(Copies of the foregoing ordered sent to Governor Merriam.)

JOHN J. O'TOOLE
City Attorney, City Hall
San Francisco, California

February 24, 1938.

Honorable Board of Supervisors, City Hall, San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Sirs: I have your letter of the 21st instant whereby you refer to me a letter addressed to the Board of Supervisors by Marcellus Krigbaum and Company relative to certain interests in the Six Minute Ferry Company.

I desire to advise you that, in my opinion, this is a matter in which the Board is not interested. In the first place, the Board is not purchasing any interest in the Six Minute Ferry or in the ferries owned by any of the successors of said company. The only action that the Board might take would be to approve or disapprove the intended purchase by the Interurban Railroad Company and other companies which are about to operate over the Bay Bridge. The last mentioned matter is one entirely in the hands of the California Toll Bridge Authority and Mr. Krigbaum should address his protest to that body.

Secondly, it would appear from Mr. Krigbaum's letter that if he has any grievance it is because of the Six Minute Ferry Company or its successors in interest and all he can do is take legal action or call his grievance to the attention of the intending purchaser.

You are therefore advised that, in my opinion, there is no action necessary on Mr. Krigbaum's letter.

Yours very truly,

J. J. O'TOOLE, City Attorney.

Abandonment of Street Car Service on Twentieth Avenue.

(Code No. 19.091)

The following resolution by Supervisor Uhl and reported out of Public Utilities Committee without recommendation was taken up:

Resolution No. 3762, as follows:

Resolved, That the Market Street Railway Company be and is hereby directed to discontinue street railway service on Twentieth avenue, between Irving street and Wawona street.

Communication from Manager of Utilities.

The following was read by the Clerk:

March 2, 1938.

*Subject: Estimates—Switches, Twentieth Avenue.
Streamlined Cars.*

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors, City Hall, San Francisco, California.

Attention Mr. J. S. Dunnigan, Clerk

Gentlemen: I acknowledge receipt of your letter of March 1, 1938, which contains a resolution of your Honorable Board introduced by Supervisor McSheehy. I note that the resolution requests the Public Utilities Commission to submit two estimates to your Honorable Board:

1. Cost of construction of two double switches, one at Twentieth avenue and Judah street, and one at Twentieth avenue and Taraval street, and for the reballasting of the double tracks on Twentieth avenue between Judah and Taraval streets.

2. An estimate for the furnishing complete of ten streamlined cars somewhat similar to those now in use in Los Angeles.

For the answer to No. 1 above please be referred to my letter of February 10th directed to the Public Utilities Committee of the Board of Supervisors, copy of which I send you herewith.

In answer to No. 2, please be advised that Los Angeles has in use some new "so-called" President's Conference Cars. These cost $18,000 each. Ten of them would, therefore, cost $180,000.

I have carefully investigated the possibility of using this car in San Francisco and submitted to the manufacturer several months ago, drawings of both vertical and horizontal curves over which these cars would have to operate in San Francisco. This was done with the intention of learning if the manufacturers could guarantee the cars for use in San Francisco. To date I have had no reply from the inquiry. This confirms my belief that the President's Conference Car, with its low wheel, does not have sufficient under-body clearance to pass over some of the vertical curves experienced in San Francisco. The trucks of the President's Conference Car have been specially made to use small diameter rubber cushioned wheels. To change the wheel diameter would necessitate the entire reconstruction of the car and trucks. This would make the cost of a small order, such as ten cars, prohibitive.

Very truly yours,

E. G. CAHILL,
Manager of Utilities.

February 10, 1938.

Costs—Rails, Twentieth Avenue between Judah and Taraval Streets.

Public Utilities Committee of Board of Supervisors, City Hall, San Francisco, Calif.

Attention Mr. S. H. Holton, Clerk.

Gentlemen: In answer to your letter of February 2nd, subject "Cost for Rails on Twentieth Avenue, Judah to Taraval Street", please be advised as follows: I quote below your questions:

1. "The cost of replacing street car rails on Twentieth Avenue, between Judah and Taraval Streets, together with installation of two  $\frac{1}{4}$  turn switches to make connections with the 'L' and the 'N' car lines. The cost to include all street work from curb to curb."

Answer. This request covers not only track work but the cost of all street work from curb to curb. I am unable to give you the cost of the work outside the street car tracks. The City Engineer's office informs me that they have been requested by your Committee to supply the cost of the street work outside the track right of way, so that by adding the City Engineer's figure to the figure given below for Question No. 2 will provide the answer to Question No. 1. I understand the City Engineer's estimate is not yet complete.

2. "The cost of installing street car rails on Twentieth Avenue, between Judah and Taraval streets, together with installation of two  $\frac{1}{4}$  turn switches to make connections with the 'L' and 'N' car lines. The cost to include all street work between the rails and for distance of two feet outside the rails.

Answer. To completely reconstruct the tracks on Twentieth Avenue between Judah and Taraval Streets, using new materials, and connecting them with the Municipal Railway lines at both ends, rebuilding the overhead construction, and providing power supply, will cost $250,000. To which should be added the cost of removing the rails abandoned and repaving the streets south of Taraval Street and north of Judah Street, $20,000. Total cost, $270,000.

3. "Also, cost of reballasting present rails now on Twentieth Avenue, between Judah and Taraval Streets, together with installation of two  $\frac{1}{4}$  turn switches to make connections with the 'L' and 'N' car lines."

Answer. To reconstruct the existing tracks on 20th Avenue between Judah Street and Taraval Street, using the old rail on new ties, and making connections to the Taraval and Judah Street tracks and repaving the street without doing any work on the overhead system, but furnishing power supply, $187,000. To this should be added the cost of removing the rails abandoned and repaving the streets north of Lincoln Way and south of Taraval Street, $20,000. Total cost, $207,000.

Very truly yours,

E. G. CAHILL,
Manager of Utilities.

Thereupon Supervisor McSheehy read his minority report requesting the following:

From Public Utilities Commission—cost of construction of double switches at Twentieth avenue and Taraval street, and at Twentieth avenue and Judah street; also cost of rebalasting of the tracks on Twentieth avenue between Judah and Taraval streets; also cost for furnishing complete, ten streamlined cars somewhat similar to those now in use in Los Angeles.

From Department of Public Works—estimate for resurfacing Twentieth avenue, curb to curb, between Judah and Taraval streets, with two inches of Topeka, Warranite or Asphalt; also estimate of cost of resurfacing of street, curb to curb, between Lincoln way and Wawona streets, covered with any one of these three wearing surfaces. This work to be so done as not to interrupt the continuous normal flow of street car traffic on Twentieth avenue.

Privilege of the Floor.

Mr. Newton, representing the Market Street Railway Co., was heard as to repairs to the roadbed on Twentieth avenue made by the company two weeks ago, stating that Mr. Cahill had agreed that the tracks would be in satisfactory condition and damage to adjoining property greatly eliminated.

Action Deferred.

Whereupon, the foregoing resolution was laid over one week.

Adopted.

Supervisor McSheehy presented:

Resolution No. 3825, as follows:

Whereas, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will visit San Francisco on Monday, March 14, 1938; and

Whereas, Mrs. Roosevelt should be accorded proper recognition, not only as the wife of the President of the United States, but also as an outstanding individual, and a leader among the women of our country; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That His Honor the Mayor be respectfully requested to appoint a suitable Citizens' Committee to do honor to this distinguished visitor.

Adopted by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Colman, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Shannon, Uhl—10.

Absent—Supervisor Brown—1.

Protest Against Freight Rates Increase on Drugs Distributed Out of San Francisco.

(Code No. 5.3)

Supervisor Shannon presented:

Resolution No. 3826, as follows:

Whereas, there is pending before the State Railroad Commission and up for hearing on March 15th, a proposition to increase intrastate rail and truck rates seriously affecting the wholesale industry of San Francisco by changing drugs and sundry articles from a third-class to a first-class rating, which means an addition of from 40 to 150 per cent on the cost of all goods of this kind distributed from San Francisco to points in California; and

Whereas, many San Francisco firms will be disastrously affected by such a ruling including such well-known houses as McKesson, Langley and Michaels, who pay taxes here in excess of twenty-five thousand dollars annually; Coffin-Redington Company, whose tax bill amounts to over $20,000 annually; Johnson & Johnson who handle 450 cars of freight in and out of San Francisco annually; Colgate, Palmolive, Peet Company; Bristol Myers Company; Ex-Lax Manufacturing Company; J. S. O'Callaghan, representing eight national manufacturing companies; Bayer Aspirin, handling six or seven lines of drugs; E. R. Squibb; the Owl Drug Company, also a large shipper; G. B. Dean Co., distributors of pharmaceutical lines; Morgan and Sampson; and

Whereas, such a ruling would seriously affect not only these firms but also our local hospitals which are doing a great deal of charity work and would also mean the throwing out of employment of many hundreds of our citizens, teamsters, warehousemen and others incidentally employed in the drug industry; and

Whereas, San Francisco is the drug shipping center of the Pacific Coast, embracing ten or more western states and the business of drug distributing is one of our most important industries, involving annual shipments of from 35,000 to 50,000 tons, and affecting the employment of hundreds of our San Francisco residents; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board of Supervisors go on record as protesting this change in rate classification and that we cooperate with the drug industry of San Francisco in opposing any such ruling by authorizing and requesting the City Attorney to appear before the State Railroad Commission on March 15, 1938, and to intervene in the hearing to be held at that time, with instructions to oppose vigorously the change proposed.

Adopted by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Colman, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Shannon, Uhl—10.

Absent—Supervisor Brown—1.

Supervisor Jesse Colman Delegated to Appear Before Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C., in Defense of Franchise of T. W. A. Air Service.

(Code No. 5.2)

Supervisor Colman presented:

Resolution No. 3827, as follows:

Whereas, the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco deems that the public interest and necessity of the people of the City and County of San Francisco require that they be provided with all possible and necessary facilities for air commerce between San Francisco and other cities of the United States, and that all possible facilities for transport of air passengers, air mail and air express be maintained; and

Whereas, there is now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission a proceeding instituted by Braniff Airways Incorporated which it is sought to obtain the termination or restriction of the passenger or express service of Transcontinental and Western Air Incorporated, between Chicago, Illinois and Kansas City, Missouri; and

Whereas, Transcontinental and Western Air Incorporated is one of the companies operating out of San Francisco Airport, furnishing air commerce over its routes between San Francisco and other cities of the United States; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the public interest and necessity of the people of the City and County of San Francisco, the Board of Supervisors does hereby record its opposition to the attempt of the Braniff Airways, Incorporated to obtain the termination or restriction in any way of the passenger and express service of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Incorporated, between Chicago, Illinois and Kansas City, Missouri, in the proceeding by the Interstate Commerce Commission; and be it further

Resolved, That it is the opinion of the Board of Supervisors that the public convenience and necessity require the continuance of such service by Transcontinental and Western Air, Incorporated, and in furtherance thereof, the Board of Supervisors hereby authorizes and designates Supervisor Jesse C. Colman as its representative to appear in such proceeding and give testimony in opposition to the complaint of the Braniff Airways, Incorporated, and in favor of the service rendered by Transcontinental and Western Air, Incorporated, and in furtherance of that, a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Clerk of this Board to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D. C.

Adopted by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Colman, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Shannon, Uhl—10.

Absent—Supervisor Brown—1.

Memorializing Congress to Authorize Construction of Centrally Located Graving Dock, and Pointing Out Natural Advantages of San Francisco Bay for Such Use.

(Code No. ———)

Supervisor Schmidt presented:

Resolution No. 3828, as follows:

Whereas, the settled policy of the United States government is to construct, equip, and maintain a Navy "second to none"; and

Whereas, the greater part of the United States Fleet is now, and has been for some time past, based in the Northern Pacific; and

Whereas, capital ships are now becoming obsolete requiring replacement over an extended period of time; and

Whereas, the Navy Department is now preparing plans for replacements, contemplating heavier ships in many instances; and

Whereas, the entire Pacific Coast line of about 1000 miles, exclusive of Alaska, contains but two graving docks capable of taking ships that can pass through the Panama Canal; and

Whereas, the Atlantic Coast, with only a small portion of the fleet, has six or seven graving docks capable of taking capital ships; and

Whereas, of the two graving docks on the Pacific Coast, the one owned by the government is located on the right flank about 100 miles from a foreign country, and over 1000 miles from the probable location of any Pacific naval conflict; and

Whereas, the second graving dock is centrally located, privately owned, and adequate for all peace-time purposes; and

Whereas, if circumstances should make it necessary for the centrally located, privately owned graving dock to be occupied for an extensive period of time in the repair of merchant ships, the entire naval repair program of any possible conflict in the Pacific would be indefinitely delayed because of the lack of adequate docking facilities for capital ships; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco most courteously and most earnestly petitions the Congress of the United States to authorize the construction of a centrally located graving dock capable of serving any ship which can pass through the Panama Canal; and be it

Further Resolved, That San Francisco Bay has many of the natural advantages necessary for the adequate operation of such a drydock; and be it

Further Resolved, That such a drydock should be considered as a "standby plant" of the Navy; and be it

Further Resolved, That this resolution be forwarded to the Congress of the United States, preferably in support of H. R. 8166, introduced by Congressman Franck R. Havenner, for such action as may be deemed appropriate; and be it Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the Representatives and Senators of the State of California and other interested officials.

Appropriation of $30 to Replace Counterfeit Bills.

(Code No. 9.051)

Bill No. 1536, Ordinance No. 9.051457, as follows:

Authorizing a supplemental appropriation of $10 out of the surplus existing in Appropriation No. 500.000.00 and $20 out of the surplus existing in Appropriation No. 600.000.00 for the purpose of reimbursing the Assessor's Revolving Fund in the amount of $30 to replace counterfeit bills, one in the amount of $10 received with the tax collections of the fiscal year 1935-36, and one in the amount of $20 received with tax collections of the fiscal year 1936-37.

Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco, as follows:

Section 1. The sum of $30 is hereby appropriated to the Assessor's Revolving Fund, $10 out of the surplus existing in Appropriation No. 500.000.00, and $20 out of the surplus existing in Appropriation No. 600.000.00.

Section 2. This appropriation is made necessary as the Assessor accepted, with the collection of taxes for the fiscal year 1935-36, a $10 counterfeit bill and, with the collection of taxes for the fiscal year 1936-37 accepted a $20 counterfeit bill. The same were deposited by the Assessor with the Treasurer and, when examined by experts, these bills were found to be counterfeit. It is impossible to ascertain from whom said $10 counterfeit bill and $20 counterfeit bill were received in payment of said taxes, and, further, as it is impossible to charge the sum back against the persons presenting the same, these bills being perfect counterfeits, it is felt that it is impossible for the deputy accepting the said bills to have detected the fact that they were counterfeits. The Controller is therefore directed to draw his warrant to reimburse the Assessor's Revolving Fund, in the amount of $30, out of the accounts indicated herein and to make the necessary entries on the books of the Assessor and the Controller to properly reflect this transaction and to carry out the purpose of this ordinance.

Approved as to form by John J. O'Toole, City Attorney.

Approved by Angelo J. Rossi, Mayor.

Recommended by Russell L. Wolden, Assessor.

(Code No. 15.096)

The following recommendation of Public Utilities Committee was taken up:

Resolution No. 3809, as follows:

Directing the City Attorney of the City and County of San Francisco to notify the Pacific Gas and Electric Company that, if it is desirous of continuing to furnish electric energy for power and heating purposes and gas for heating purposes within the City and County of San Francisco, to apply to the Board of Supervisors of said City and County for a franchise to so do.

Whereas, the Legislature of the State of California, at its 1937 session, duly passed an act "Providing for the Granting by Legislative Bodies of Municipalities of Franchises for the Transmitting and Distributing of Electricity or Gas and Providing for the Duration and Terms of Such Franchises and the Conditions for the Granting of Same and Providing for the Forfeiture Thereof for Non-Compliance Therewith;" which said act was approved by the Governor on the 29th day of June, 1937, and became effective on August 27, 1937; and

Whereas, said act provides for the granting of franchises for the distribution of gas and electric energy for heating and power purposes within municipalities and for the payment to said municipalities of a certain percentage of the gross income received by the person, firm or corporation enjoying said franchise; and

Whereas, it is the opinion of the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is distributing electric energy and gas for heating and power purposes within the City and County of San Francisco without any franchise or authority to so do; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the City Attorney be, and he is, hereby directed to notify said Pacific Gas and Electric Company, if it is desirous of continuing the distribution of electric energy and gas in the City and County of San Francisco for heating or power purposes, that said company must obtain a franchise to so do, said franchise to be issued under and pursuant to the provisions of the above entitled act of the Legislature of the State of California; and be it

Further Resolved, That said City Attorney be, and he is, hereby directed to request said Pacific Gas and Electric Company to forthwith make application for said franchise.

SPECIAL ORDER—2:30 P. M.

The following recommendation of Public Utilities Committee was taken up:

Directing the City Attorney of the City and County of San Francisco to Notify the Pacific Gas and Electric Company That, if It Is Desirous of Continuing to Furnish Electric Energy for Power and Heating Purposes and Gas for Heating Purposes Within the City and County of San Francisco, to Apply to the Board of Supervisors of Said City and County for a Franchise to So Do.

(Code No. 15.096)

Resolution No. 3809, as follows:

Directing the City Attorney of the City and County of San Francisco to notify the Pacific Gas and Electric Company that, if it is desirous of continuing to furnish electric energy for power and heating purposes and gas for heating purposes within the City and County of San Francisco, to apply to the Board of Supervisors of said City and County for a franchise to so do.

Whereas, the Legislature of the State of California, at its 1937 session, duly passed an act "Providing for the Granting by Legislative Bodies of Municipalities of Franchises for the Transmitting and Distributing of Electricity or Gas and Providing for the Duration and Terms of Such Franchises and the Conditions for the Granting of Same and Providing for the Forfeiture Thereof for Non-Compliance Therewith;" which said act was approved by the Governor on the 29th day of June, 1937, and became effective on August 27, 1937; and

Whereas, said act provides for the granting of franchises for the distribution of gas and electric energy for heating and power purposes within municipalities and for the payment to said municipalities of a certain percentage of the gross income received by the person, firm or corporation enjoying said franchise; and

Whereas, it is the opinion of the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is distributing electric energy and gas for heating and power purposes within the City and County of San Francisco without any franchise or authority to so do; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the City Attorney be, and he is, hereby directed to notify said Pacific Gas and Electric Company, if it is desirous of continuing the distribution of electric energy and gas in the City and County of San Francisco for heating or power purposes, that said company must obtain a franchise to so do, said franchise to be issued under and pursuant to the provisions of the above entitled act of the Legislature of the State of California; and be it

Further Resolved, That said City Attorney be, and he is, hereby directed to request said Pacific Gas and Electric Company to forthwith make application for said franchise.

Privilege of the Floor.

Richard Powell, editor and publisher of the Pacific News, was granted the privilege of the floor and heard opposing the granting of the franchise at this time to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for the distribution of heat and power.

Communication From Congressman Franck R. Havenner.

The following was read by the Clerk:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

March 12, 1938.

Honorable Dewey Mead,
Board of Supervisors,
City Hall,
San Francisco, California.

Dear Mr. Mead:

Since writing to you last week, I have received from City Attorney O'Toole a reply to the letter which I wrote him concerning the proposed new franchise for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company which is now under consideration. I enclose copy of another letter which I have written to the City Attorney.

It seems to me that it would be the height of folly for the City to give away this valuable franchise before the Federal Court renders its decision in the Hetch Hetchy case. If the decision should be adverse to the City, and the franchise had not yet been granted, I can see no reason why San Francisco would not be able to negotiate with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, on the same grounds which Los Angeles employed so successfully, for the purchase, by arbitration, of the municipal distribution system which may be so desperately needed.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) FRANCK R. HAVENNER.

Action Deferred.

Whereupon, on motion of Supervisor McSheehy, the foregoing matter was re-referred to the Public Utilities Committee. Supervisor Colman requested to be recorded as voting "No."

SPECIAL ORDER—3 P. M.

Proposed Purchase of Bay Ferries.

(Code No. 15.093)

Resolution No. 3817, as follows:

Whereas, the Governor of the State of California has stated that he will recommend to the California Toll Bridge Authority a plan providing for the elimination of the vehicular ferries in competition with the Transbay and Golden Gate Bridges if such plan were approved by the legislative bodies of San Francisco and Alameda Counties; and

Whereas, the owners of said vehicular ferry systems have indicated that they are willing to surrender the franchises under which said ferries are operated upon terms and conditions to be agreed upon with said California Toll Bridge Authority; and

Whereas, the elimination of said ferries will provide additional income to said California Toll Bridge Authority and to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and will bring about a reduction in the tolls charged by said bridges; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco does hereby approve the plan submitted to the California Toll Bridge Authority to eliminate the vehicular ferries in competition with the Transbay and Golden Gate Bridges and respectfully urges the Governor of the State of California to recommend to the California Toll Bridge Authority the elimination of said ferry systems by acquiring the franchises under which the same are operated; and be it

Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forthwith transmitted to the Governor of the State of California, to the California Toll Bridge Authority and to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

W. P. A. Sewing Project.

Supervisor Reilly presented:

Resolution No. 3849, as follows:

Inasmuch as the City and County of San Francisco is a substantial contributor to the San Francisco Women's Sewing Project of the Works Progress Administration, employing approximately 3200 women, many of whom are widows who have dependents; and

Inasmuch as there is at present a contemplated change in the management and program of the said San Francisco Women's Sewing Project which is deemed unfavorable to the morale and the success of the project program as originally outlined; now, therefore,

The Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco views with alarm and concern any change in the management and program of the said sewing project which will tend to destroy the morale of the project and throw upon relief hundreds of women and cause same project to incur the displeasure of various business, labor and employer groups of San Francisco.

State to Assume Relief Burden.

(Code No. 19.02)

Supervisor McSheehy presented:

Resolution No. 3848, as follows:

Whereas, at the time that the present State administration took office there was an accrued deficit in the Treasury estimated at approximately $30,000,000; and

Whereas, in order to meet this deficit and balance the budget, several additional forms of taxation were imposed upon the people of the State of California; and

Whereas, it is reported that the aforementioned debt will be liquidated and that there will be a surplus of $40,000,000 in the State Treasury at the end of the present biennium; and

Whereas, taxes for social welfare and relief are becoming an ever-increasing burden on the ratepayers of every county in the State of California; and

Whereas, the State Chamber of Commerce has estimated that an expenditure of $186,355,000 will be necessary for social welfare and relief in the State of California during the fiscal year 1937-1938, of which amount the Federal Government will contribute $94,761,000; the

State, $42,002,000, and the fifty-eight counties throughout the State will contribute $49,592,000; and

Whereas, the counties throughout the State are sorely stressed as a result of the continually mounting costs for relief and social service and there is no way of meeting this ever-increasing burden, under the present system, except through the imposition of additional taxes upon real estate within the counties; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco does hereby authorize those of its members who will be official delegates to the State Supervisors' Convention, to be held in San Diego on the 23d of March, to urge the Convention to adopt a resolution having for its purpose full assumption by the State of California of the total cost, exclusive of Federal aid, for unemployment relief and social service throughout the entire State.

Proposed Purchase of Bay Ferries.

(Code No. 15.093)

Resolution No. 3817, as follows:

Whereas, the Governor of the State of California has stated that he will recommend to the California Toll Bridge Authority a plan providing for the elimination of the vehicular ferries in competition with the Transbay and Golden Gate Bridges if such plan were approved by the legislative bodies of San Francisco and Alameda Counties; and

Whereas, the owners of said vehicular ferry systems have indicated that they are willing to surrender the franchises under which said ferries are operated upon terms and conditions to be agreed upon with said California Toll Bridge Authority; and

Whereas, the elimination of said ferries will provide additional income to said California Toll Bridge Authority and to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and will bring about a reduction in the tolls charged by said bridges; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco does hereby approve the plan submitted to the California Toll Bridge Authority to eliminate the vehicular ferries in competition with the Transbay and Golden Gate Bridges and respectfully urges the Governor of the State of California to recommend to the California Toll Bridge Authority the elimination of said ferry systems by acquiring the franchises under which the same are operated; and be it Donzell Stoney, 3581 Clay street, Chairman Taxation Committee, San Francisco Real Estate Board. Clerk read statement.

Communication From Real Estate Board.

The following was read and made a part of the record:

Whereas, it appears that the Chief Engineer of the California Toll Bridge Authority has recommended to that body the purchase by the Toll Bridge Authority of the existing franchise of the Southern Pacific-Golden Gate Ferries operating between San Francisco and Oakland; and

Whereas, it appears that the 1937 income, under conditions now existing due to the cut rate in effect by the ferries, shows an income of $4,391,000 on the basis of a 50c fare on the bridge, and that if the ferries are removed from the bay a base fare of 40c, or a reduction of 20 per cent from the existing fare on the bridge, and a corresponding reduction in automobile commute rates will produce an annual income of over $5,000,000 the first year; and

Whereas, it appears that if a rate war should be undertaken a diversion from the ferries of not less than 1,520,000 cars would be necessary to enable the Toll Bridge Authority to meet financial requirements of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation agreement; and

Whereas, it appears that the Bay Bridge cannot meet the reduced fare now in effect by the Ferry Company without default in the existing bond indenture; and

Whereas, the acquisition of the aforesaid franchise by the California State Toll Bridge Authority would improve the security of the bonds and enable the Toll Bridge Authority to effect a large saving thereby in interest charges; and

Whereas, the Directors of the San Francisco Real Estate Board have investigated all of the facts in connection with the proposed purchase and are of the opinion that it is in accordance with sound business practice and in the interest of the public; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, By the Directors of the San Francisco Real Estate Board that this organization recommend the proposed plan to purchase the ferry franchise, provided the transaction involves the surrender of the existing ferry franchise across the Golden Gate; and Provided Further, That the entire cost to the Toll Bridge Authority does not exceed the sum of $3,750,000.

Resolution adopted by the Board of Directors, San Francisco Real Estate Board, January 11th, 1938.

Sylvester J. McAtee, 15 Eighteenth avenue, representing Downtown Association, favored proposed purchase of ferry franchise.

Geo. W. Gerhardt, 546 Thirty-ninth avenue, Secretary of Civic League of Improvement Clubs, favored purchase, provided a lower figure than $3,750,000 could be arrived at.

THE CLERK: Nine "Ayes", one "No", one absent.

THE PRESIDENT: The motion is carried. Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now, members of the Board, we are sitting here as a committee of the whole hearing the resolution as read by our Clerk. I am going to offer an amendment to that resolution, and I would like the Clerk to read the amendment. I would like to pass—as far as I have them—copies to the various members of the Board, of the amendment.

SUPERVISOR RATTO: While you are considering that, on the old age pension I notice quite a few people here. If we are going to discuss this for an hour or more, do you think it is proper to ask them to remain, or put that over until next Monday?

THE PRESIDENT: What is the pleasure of the Board? Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: It is Supervisor Reilly's motion.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Supervisor Uhl has the floor. I thought I had finished.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I believe it is a matter so important that these people will be satisfied to wait in order that they can have a hearing today, just as long as they do get a hearing. Another thing, unless we pass old age pension today they will be shut out entirely for the month of March. Therefore, I would ask those people who are interested to remain until this is disposed of, when we can take it up.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed, Mr. Clerk.

(Amendment offered by Supervisor McSheehy read by the Clerk, as follows):

"That these several political subdivisions urge the California Toll Bridge Authority to defer consideration of the purchase of the ferry franchises and for a period of not less than thirty days to reduce the tolls on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge to an individual toll not greater than that at present paid per automobile on the ferry boats, which test, we believe, will determine the advisability of purchasing the ferry franchises and will at the same time demonstrate whether or not the financing of the bridge can be carried on a sound basis at this reduced fare."

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I move that as an amendment.

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Second the motion.

THE PRESIDENT: It has been regularly moved and seconded that the resolution just read by the Clerk be offered as an amendment to the resolution on our calendar.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: May I just say a few words—

SUPERVISOR UHL: I would just like to ask a question, through the Chair, of Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: You may.

THE PRESIDENT: You rise to a question of information?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes. Supervisor McSheehy, the last paragraph of this resolution says: "The above resolution was also concurred in by James B. McSheehy, Supervisor of the City and County of San Francisco." Do I understand that you concurred in that as a Supervisor representing this Board, or simply as an individual?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I concurred, not representing this Board, but I am a Supervisor 24 hours in the day, every day in the year, until my time expires. I was over there, with five other members of this Board. I am very sorry you didn't find the time to attend that meeting, but there were five members of this Board who attended the meeting. I seconded the amendment as offered by Mayor McCracken, and was so recorded, acting as an individual, and not representing this Board, but simply meeting with that other body.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Just so it is understood we are not committed by your action.

SUPERVISOR MEAD: I attended that meeting, and we are not committed to anything.

THE PRESIDENT: What is your point, Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: That the Board has not been committed.

THE PRESIDENT: Oh, in no way. Supervisor McSheehy has the floor.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now, members of the Board, I have offered this amendment, and in doing so I am trying to be practical. We have heard this matter now three consecutive days. Some of us have been fortunate enough to attend the meeting over there, but you know the subject-matter as well as we do, it has been well explained on both sides.

Now what position do we find ourselves in? We find ourselves in the position that Alameda County has gone on record asking that we proceed as outlined in the resolved in this amendment; and that we proceed and determine exactly the conditions that will arise after a reduction in the fare has taken place. Now, members of the Board, be practical. There is no way in the world to put any practice on any matter into effect except to do it the same way yourself. If you take any line of business—take the line that Doctor Schmidt is engaged in. If some new remedy is introduced in one of the hospitals, that particular remedy is administered to hundreds of patients before the medical fraternity take up and adopt it. And that is true in every line. You do that in your own line, Supervisor Uhl, and every man on this Board.

Now, we find our sister cities across the Bay are practical. Why not follow the same lines. They are in the same position we are in today.

You know how this matter came to us—and one point that was made by one of the speakers here struck me very forcibly. The statement was made that $71,000,000 has been expended for the Bay Bridge. We have a wonderful Bay Bridge, but were we asked by the Toll Bridge Authority to supervise any of that expenditure? We were not. They supervised that entire matter. Now why come to us at this time? Why does the Governor of the State ask the citizens of the Bay region to countenance the purchase of the ferry franchises? The last little lady who spoke, I don't know her name, made a point. It is not alone the $3,750,000 we are expending for the purchase of the franchises, but they also want to refinance, and the refinancing will cost around $3,000,000. So we find ourselves with a $6,000,000 expenditure. Why not play safe and go along and find out if this reduction in tolls can take place? Why not follow our sister cities across the Bay? I trust we are in no antagonistic frame of mind towards them. I hope some day to see the entire Bay region united, I think it will have to take place as a matter of self preservation, which is the first law of nature. We all know the conditions that exist in the south. We know that Los Angeles will, and has, and will continue to pass legislation favoring Los Angeles, and not favoring the northern section of the State, and the time will come when we will have to unite for the furtherance of the interest of this section, and I hope no situation will be created where one city is antagonistic to the other. This bridge has brought us together, and it should remain so.

Now as I have often said, we represent the largest corporation north of the Tehachapi, the City of San Francisco. We have been elected by the people of this city to represent them. The man that introduced this resolution, his Honor the Mayor of the City of Oakland, is the author of this resolution, and they passed this resolution asking that this entire matter be taken under advisement, and that practical tests be made.

So I say to you I hope that you will not attempt to place this city in a position in which it is going to countenance the expenditure of $3,750,000 to purchase these franchises from the Southern Pacific Company. A great deal has been said about the thousand dollars a day that we are losing in reference to our own Golden Gate Bridge. Do you realize that we are not being treated right in reference to our Golden Gate Bridge today? Do you realize that the Bay Bridge is receiving maintenance cost to the amount of $500,000 a year from the gas tax, and we not receiving a dollar in reference to the Golden Gate Bridge. Why should we not receive our maintenance cost? Is there any reason for that? Of course, we are told today that this great loss will take place, and we know it will take place in the winter time, but it will not take place in the summer time, and why allow us to pay for the franchises that enormous sum? We are told by Supervisor Uhl that the franchise has only 1250 days to run. Multiply that by $500 and it amounts to six hundred odd thousand dollars, and we are asked to pay $3,750,000 plus financing. I ask, gentleman, that you look at this as a board of directors interested in your city. I never lose track of that fact. I have some very close friends who represent some corporate interests, and I have often differed with them, and one man in particular said one day, "I can't understand how you are always looking after this," and I said, "Well, you always look after the interests of your corporation, don't you?" I never lose track of the fact that I am representing the City of San Francisco in the little position I occupy, and I never will. We are here today representing the citizenry of this city, and I hope and trust, gentlemen, you will not countenance the purchase of these franchises, and that you will follow the lead of our sister cities across the Bay and vote for the amendment I have proposed. It is safe and sane, you can't lose, it is practical.

THE PRESIDENT: Doctor Schmidt.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: I would like to ask a question of Mr. McCauliffe: You heard the reading of the resolution that was offered by Mayor McCracken and which has been introduced as an amendment by Supervisor McSheehy, advocating the reduction of the tolls on the Trans-Bay Bridge to an amount equal to that of the ferries at the present time, for an experimental period of we will say one month. Is that possible under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation contract?

MR. McCauliffe: No, that is not possible.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: It is not possible at all?

MR. McCauliffe: No, and we have prepared here—Mr. Andrews has blueprints worked out to answer any of these technical questions, and I prefer to give them to you in dollars and cents if you would like to have them that way.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Andrews.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Just a minute, please. This is in the hands of the Board. If you want to read any documents and submit the same to the members of the Board you may do so, and have the Clerk read it, but if we start to read documents from outside parties we are not living up to our own rules. It should be read by the Clerk.

THE PRESIDENT: As I understand the situation when it was taken into the hands of the committee officials would be permitted the privilege of the floor. Doctor Schmidt has asked a question of an official of the California State Toll Bridge Authority, Mr. McCauliffe, and Mr. McCauliffe has referred to Mr. Andrews to answer the question for him. Do you object?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: No, not under the statement you have just made.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: In order to go right to the root of the thing, this proposal by Supervisor McSheehy says, "To reduce the tolls on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge to an individual toll not greater than that at present paid per automobile on the ferry boats." Which is 30 cents one way, and 50 cents round trip. Therefore, I would like to ask the direct question: What would be the result if such a toll were installed—in your judgment as one of the officials of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, on the basis of the toll called for?

MR. McAULIFFE: I will refer that to Mr. Andrews.

MR. ANDREWS: When I was listening to Supervisor McSheehy I jotted down some figures here. The average fare on the ferries today is a little less than 31 cents, and I take it that Supervisor McSheehy has reference to that fare. The present traffic on the Bay Bridge is running around 8,500,000 cars, and the present ferry traffic 3,200,000 cars. Now to meet the annual requirements of about 4,075,000 under the R. F. C. agreement, or $4,200,000 under the proposed agreement, you would have to have in the first instance about 13,400,000 cars, and in the last instance about 14,000,000 cars.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Will you repeat that?

MR. ANDREWS: If we are figuring on the present R. F. C. agreement it would require about thirteen million five or six hundred thousand cars a year, and under the new contract, or proposed contract, about 14,000,000 cars, which multiplied by 31 cents would meet the actual requirements; and the present total crossing the Bay on both ferries and bridge is approximately 11,800,000 cars; so if you got all the traffic on the ferries and all the traffic on the bridge, you would fall short about 3,000,000 automobiles.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Will you be kind enough to state the formula that has been agreed upon between the Toll Bridge Authority and the Refinance Corporation—what is the formula?

MR. ANDREWS: On toll reductions?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes.

MR. ANDREWS: There are two requirements. First, that there must be a reserve fund of $4,000,000 if the ferries are not purchased; and if they are purchased a reserve fund of $2,000,000 up to and including 1941. The second requirement is, that—and this is the sticker in all toll reductions—and it is that tolls cannot be reduced until such time as traffic has increased to a point whereby the number of vehicles—or rather the income of the year previous, reduced to vehicles, multiplied by the new proposed toll, will meet the annual requirements for the next year, plus 20 per cent.

SUPERVISOR UHL: That is, the total number of automobiles that pass over the bridge in the preceding year, multiplied by say 30 cents, or 40 cents, or whatever it may be, must equal—what is it that it must equal?

MR. ANDREWS: The debt service, plus 20 per cent.

SUPERVISOR UHL: That is the formula that is adopted by the R. F. C.?

MR. ANDREWS: Yes, but I would correct your statement, that it is not the number of automobiles as we understand it, it is the income of the year previous, reduced to automobiles.

SUPERVISOR RATTI: You are not figuring any increase, then?

MR. ANDREWS: Well, they don't allow that, no. For instance, if we were trying to reduce tolls today, or on the 1st of March, we would have to take last year's income and apply it to the new proposed toll, and that would have to equal the debt service for the next year plus 20 per cent.

SUPERVISOR UHL: What was the estimated figure originally, as to the anticipated number of automobiles?

MR. ANDREWS: We made three estimates in the Hoover-Young report, I believe. One of them—I don't recall exactly—was estimated on 65-cent fare, then 50-cent, and on a 40-cent fare.

SUPERVISOR UHL: On the 50-cent toll, how much?

MR. ANDREWS: It was around about 8,900,000 cars.

THE PRESIDENT: Doctor Schmidt, was your question answered?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Yes, it was.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: May I ask Mr. Crocker a question?

THE PRESIDENT: I think Doctor Schmidt has a question?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: I just had this handed to me; maybe you can enlighten me, Mr. Andrews. (Inaudible discussion between Supervisor Schmidt and Mr. Andrews.)

MR. ANDREWS: This applies to an entirely different agreement.

MR. CHAPMAN: That is the proposed new agreement.

MR. ANDREWS: No.

MR. CHAPMAN: That is what it is labeled, that is what you compiled. Now give the Board the facts as tabulated by you, not misinformation. That is your own figure. Let's have the truth.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now, Mr. President, I will object, in all fairness. We must be fair, and the attorneys will have to respect this Board as they would respect a court.

MR. CHAPMAN: I am very sorry.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Let's be fair in this matter.

MR. ANDREWS: This proposes a reduction to 43 cents toll in 1938, and shows a traffic of 11,050,000 cars under that agreement, or under that condition.

SUPERVISOR UHL: When was that tabulation made, Mr. Andrews?

MR. ANDREWS: This was made the 7th of February.

SUPERVISOR UHL: This year?

MR. ANDREWS: Yes.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Did you make the estimate? This gentleman made the statement that you made it.

MR. ANDREWS: Yes, that is one of the tables our office made up.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Well, is there a defect in it, or error in it, or is that bona fide? You say eleven million—how many cars?

MR. ANDREWS: 11,050,000 cars. That is with the toll reduced to 43 cents.

SUPERVISOR UHL: You just gave me the figure, as I understood it, based on 43 cents toll of 8,900,000 cars. Now you have there a report referring to 11,050,000 cars.

MR. ANDREWS: No, that is on a 50-cent fare, 53-cent fare.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Then on a 43-cent fare, will you say there will be 11,000,000 instead of 8,000,000?

MR. ANDREWS: I will say this, if we had continued throughout the year 1938—or I should say 1937, without a toll reduction in the fare that would be—

SUPERVISOR UHL: Is that 1936?

MR. ANDREWS: No, this is 1937, and this anticipates a natural increase in traffic in 1938.

SUPERVISOR UHL: What I don't understand is this: You have given me here at the present time traffic on the bridge of 8,500,000 cars.

MR. ANDREWS: That is right.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Now this is March; and there you are giving an estimate in February of this year that at 43 cents there would be 11,000,000, so naturally it is obvious that if the toll was put to 43 cents, if we can get it to that, it would bring in a greater increase?

MR. ANDREWS: There are so many of these tables I would have to check up on the basis of this table.

SUPERVISOR UHL: In other words, I take it if these figures are correct, that the toll bridge might tomorrow reduce the tolls across the Oakland bridge to 43 cents and realize a greater increase than at present.

MR. ANDREWS: We could, providing we got all the traffic.

THE PRESIDENT: But Mr. McAuliffe has just told you it can't be done.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Here is a statement that it can.

MR. ANDREWS: If we could apply the toll reductions, but that is not as made up, not under the present agreement.

MR. CHAPMAN: That is the agreement you brought back from Washington.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I suggest any discussion about the 43-cent rate is out of order.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, as the Chair understands it, we are discussing whether there should be a 30-day continuance granted. That seems to be the purport of Supervisor McSheehy's resolution. Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: The question is whether the rate should be reduced to the same as the ferries.

MR. ANDREWS: This is with the fares reduced to 43 cents, and we contend at all times that you can reduce to 43 cents under this new agreement, if the ferries are eliminated.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Then that 11,000,000 is with the ferries eliminated? Does it say so?

MR. ANDREWS: This entire table is just a blank sheet. The statement that was asked of me a short time ago was: Whether you could reduce to a 31-cent toll, not a 43-cent toll, and that is an entirely different matter.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: May I ask a question: Your answer is that if the fare were reduced to the fare now charged by the ferries, that assuming you had 100 per cent of the traffic, you wouldn't be able to take in enough revenue to meet bond interest and redemption and fixed charges?

MR. ANDREWS: In round figures, 3,000,000 cars short.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: May I ask a question? I would like to ask Mr. Crocker one or two questions.

THE PRESIDENT: You have finished with Mr. Andrews?

SUPERVISOR UHL: I have.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. Crocker, you carefully prepared that paper handed around to the members of the Board—

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Pardon me, may I rise to a point of order: That Supervisor McSheehy's question only officials.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Officials?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Yes, we ruled that the matter be taken into the hands of the committee.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Well, if you raise the point of order I imagine the Chair will sustain it.

THE PRESIDENT: I will have to sustain it.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I know you will, too.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: I would like to ask some questions of the Toll Bridge Authority representative, Mr. McAuliffe or Mr. Purcell. Gentlemen, I have here a document issued by the Anti-Ferry Franchise Purchase League, signed John C. Stirrat, and John Crocker, under date of March 2, 1938, and they state as follows: "The McAuliffe-Purcell report states that the ferries earned $500 per day." They quote you. Is that a correct statement?

MR. MCAULIFFE: That is correct. I might say that all of these statements issued by us were made by Mr. Purcell's staff after a very careful study, and Mr. Andrews is the man in charge of that staff, and he is here with all his books and figures and that is why I referred to him for accuracy as to the amounts. He has his figures here.

SUPERVISOR UHL: The only reason I asked you is because your name is mentioned.

MR. MCAULIFFE: Yes, this plan is popularly called The McAuliffe Plan, and I am glad to have the honor of having my name attached to it. But the fact of the matter is this is the Jones Plan, Mr. Jones being the chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the banker who loaned us the money.

SUPERVISOR UHL: But so it is clear, the statement here is correct, "The McAuliffe-Purcell Report states that the ferries earned $500 per day"?

THE PRESIDENT: Will you answer the question, Mr. Andrews?

MR. ANDREWS: That, Supervisor Uhl, is brought out in the Railroad Commission hearing, from their records, from the only records we have ever been able to get from their books, and it covers about a year's period.

If you will allow me, I would like to correct a statement I made on that table. We have so many tables, so many different conditions, I didn't recognize it because the heading was torn off. I made the statement that that table assumed the purchase of the ferries. That is not true. It assumes the ferries on an equal fare basis with the bridge. That was one of the exhibits to be presented to the Railroad Commission in our fight for equality in fares, and that is the basis of that table, which is virtually the same as if the ferries were purchased.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I understand.

Now, Mr. President, in the first place I feel if you take the resolution that was read, that is before us today, it would seem to me that the amendment Supervisor McSheehy is offering does not conform. It says: "Whereas the Governor of the State of California has stated that he will recommend to the California Toll Bridge Authority a plan providing for the elimination of the vehicular ferries in competition with the Transbay and Golden Gate bridges if such plan were approved by the legislative bodies of San Francisco and Alameda counties, and whereas the owners of said vehicular ferry system have indicated that they are willing to surrender the franchises under which said ferries are operated upon terms and conditions to be agreed upon with said California Toll Bridge Authority—" without reading it all, I find no suggestion from the Governor that if we were not satisfied with his recommendation that we should submit an alternative. I think we are beside the matter in submitting to His Excellency, the Governor, an amendment, and I certainly feel it is either a question of accepting this plan as set forth instead of coming back with a proposal for a different arrangement.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, Doctor Schmidt asked Mr. McAuliffe if this could be put in effect, and Mr. McAuliffe said it could not be legally done.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes, it would seem to me that that would end that matter.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Then let's get to a vote.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Gentlemen of the Board, I have a right to close.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: If the Chair will permit me I would like to make a brief statement as to my feelings on the main question, in order to save time, because it has a bearing on my views on the amendment. I was very much interested in everything that has gone on here, everything that has been said. I think that our friends from across the Bay have presented their views to us as representing the views of the people of the Transbay cities, and we are glad to have those views. However, there are considerations which confront San Francisco in this matter that are peculiarly San Francisco's problems, and have little or nothing to do with the Oakland and Alameda County viewpoint on the transaction before us.

At last Wednesday's meeting of the Golden Gate Bridge & Highway District, the general manager of the District made a statement to the Board, and quoted some figures which I will give to the Board. For the week beginning Monday, March 7th, the gross revenue of the Golden Gate Bridge was as follows: Monday, $2,630. Tuesday, $2,404. Wednesday, $2,493. Thursday, $2,642. Friday, $2,530. Saturday, $3,055. Sunday, $4,835. Total revenue for the week $20,589, or an average of $2,941 per day.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: What should it have been?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The requirements to meet bond interest and redemption, and so forth, is approximately $4,800 per day.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Average?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: This is on the basis of seven days, and the average per day is $2,941. So we lose over a thousand dollars a day.

SUPERVISOR UHL: What was the average last year in March?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The bridge wasn't operating in March of last year.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Just how many months have you been operating?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: As I remember the figures, in a discussion about a month ago, the treasurer of the bridge district and the traffic expert were questioned, and they stated that the revenue for the year would produce an approximate loss of about a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars a day, depending on the traffic of course from now until the end of the fiscal year. That at the present time, meaning during the winter months, the deficit was running about $1,200 a day, compared with—not the per diem necessity—but the per diem necessity budgeted according to previous traffic experience, that is weighted so the winter months contribute less than the summer months.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: What did you say the average estimated loss was?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Between a thousand and fifteen hundred dollars a month.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Didn't you make a statement at the Lafayette Club that the losses would amount to about $360,000 a year, and didn't Mr. .... correct you that it was only $180,000?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: $180,000 for the six months. As a matter of fact, the figures showed more than that. That was the minimum. At the present time, members of the Board, the bridge is producing an average daily revenue of $2,941 as against necessities of $4,800. Giving effect to seasonal fluctuation, that represents losses on a budgeted basis of about $1,200 a day. It means anywhere from $350,000 to $400,000 losses for the year. San Francisco's share of that loss, figuring roughly one cent to $70,000 in the tax rate, would be about 4½ cents added to our tax rate. Now I think the figures, the details, the arguments we have had advanced are very illuminating, but they entirely miss the point, which is that if the ferries are eliminated some three thousand cars a day using the ferries, will, in considerable part, use the bridge. In the opinion of our experts that additional traffic will be sufficient to make up the deficit of the bridge. That is Mr. Taylor's considered statement. In other words, if this deal goes through there will be no deficit on the Golden Gate Bridge. If it doesn't go through, the deficit will continue.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Do I understand from your statement that if the boats and the ferries were discontinued that in March—or in April the business that would be added would offset the $1,200 per day—would offset the deficit?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: That is correct—on a budgeted basis.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Is the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District allowed anything by the state authorities for maintenance?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District is not allowed anything by the state authorities for maintenance on the bridge itself, but the State of California does contribute to the maintenance of the approaches to the bridge, the Waldo cut.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: That is a separate thing; we are not responsible for the approaches. Do you know how much the maintenance cost would amount to on the bridge if the same proportion were allowed as is allowed to the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I think the two costs of maintenance would be comparable; I think there is some additional cost on the Bay Bridge, but I think it is around $240,000.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Then if that amount were allowed by the state there would be no deficit?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The deficit would be reduced by $240,000.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: But that is not allowed?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: That is not allowed; and there is no chance of getting it.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: There is a chance of getting it.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Can you tell me what the ferry earnings on the Marin County side are, May 1st to June 1st, say?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Well, I have not the exact figures, but approximately the annual traffic of the ferry is about 3000 cars a day.

SUPERVISOR UHL: But can you tell me in period, because today they don't average anything like that.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: That is true, but that is the only figure I have; the average figure.

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Would you say that the average traffic on the bridge is above normal, due to the fact that the first 30 or 40 days there were people desiring to cross the bridge?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I don't think there is any question but what there was some traffic which was induced by the novelty of the bridge, but what the effect will be we can't tell until we have the figures on May, June and July.

Now speaking about the reduction—this experiment of reducing tolls, the Golden Gate Bridge tried that for a short period. They got about 95 per cent of the traffic during that period, and succeeded in increasing their operating loss to about $500 a day. In other words, even if they had gotten all the traffic they still would have lost money—and there was an interesting development, which was that the induced traffic which we have heard a lot about did not materialize in any noticeable number, but approximately the total traffic increased about five per cent. If it had gotten all of the traffic the loss would still have been greater than that which existed prior to the time the experiment was made.

SUPERVISOR UHL: From your experience, then, on the Golden Gate Bridge, would you say the same thing is liable to happen if the tolls were reduced on the Oakland Bay Bridge?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Mr. Andrews just gave you the figures, indicating that if they got all the traffic that is now going across there would still be about 3,000,000 cars a year short of meeting their costs.

Now we listened today to three San Francisco organizations—four. Three of them were favorable—at least two were favorable, one didn't oppose it, and the fourth, represented by Mrs. Scanlon, spoke against it. Those speaking in favor were the Real Estate Board, and the Downtown Association; and the Civic League of Improvement Clubs said they didn't see any other way out. There has been a lot of talk about the benefits of the bridges, and saying if the bridge tolls have to be kept up the bridges cannot be justified. I think the best answer to that is that the bridges have already justified themselves by reducing the average toll on the San Francisco-Sausalito run, for example, from 90 cents or thereabouts, to 50 cents. In other words, the mere existence of the bridge has already forced the ferry company to reduce their tolls first to 50, and now to 30 cents, one way, so that a two-thirds reduction of the tolls has already been achieved by the Golden Gate Bridge. Where it used to cost 90 cents for a car and four passengers, it now costs 30 cents. I think in that one fact the bridges have justified their existence.

Summing up briefly, there is no doubt good reason for the position taken by our neighbors across the bay, in their opinion; but I think San Francisco has to look at the thing from San Francisco's point of view. We have on the one hand a promise made of a 40-cent toll, a reduction of 10 cents in tolls across the Bay Bridge. We also have the elimination of an increase of at least 4 cents and possibly 5 cents in the tax rate in the future. On the other hand, we have a continuation of the present toll, with no reductions, and not only the possibility but the extreme probability that next year will see a tax levy from the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District. Considering it from those standpoints alone, I don't see how the Board of Supervisors, representing the taxpayers of San Francisco, can do otherwise than to endorse this amendment.

SUPERVISOR UHL: The amended plan?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: No, the plan itself. We are not paying out any money from San Francisco. As a matter of fact, it has been shown conclusively that the added traffic on the Bay Bridge will pay what will be the cost of buying the ferries. San Francisco will not be out one cent from its tax rate or any other source if the ferries are purchased. From our standpoint I don't see how there could be much argument. On the other hand, we stand to gain a 40 cent toll.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Again I rise to a point of order.

THE PRESIDENT: State your point of order.

SUPERVISOR UHL: My point of order is that the matter on the calendar is entirely different than the proposal submitted by Supervisor McSheehy. If this matter on the calendar is voted down I can see how he can bring in a resolution to this effect, but it certainly doesn't follow the request of the Governor. I am ready, if you will rule on my point of order, that it is well taken, to offer another amendment along the line of the matter before us on the calendar.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Before you rule, may I as the author of the amendment state this: I can't see how the Supervisor can present—

THE PRESIDENT: To save time, Supervisor McSheehy, I will rule that the point of order is not well taken.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Thank you, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Before I give my views I would like to ask a question of Mr. Charles H. Purcell. May I ask you a question, Mr. Purcell? After careful consideration of this problem, and the consultation with your respective heads, your recommendation to this Board is that this plan is for the best interests of the people of California, and you recommend to this Board the express approval of it. Do I quote you correctly?

MR. PURCELL: You quote me correctly. I recommend this, after careful consideration, as best for the bridge, and best for the people around the Bay, because I know of no other way under our present bond indenture, or any bond indenture I have had any opportunity to negotiate, of increasing the business of the bridge, which will result in a lower toll.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask a question of Mr. Purcell?

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman has the floor.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I will yield to a question, gladly.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask you a question: It is estimated there are 1250 days that the franchise still has to run, until October 3, 1941?

MR. PURCELL: Yes, sir.

SUPERVISOR UHL: And figuring $500, as set forth in your report, $500 per day, or $635,000 in round figures—

MR. PURCELL: Yes, sir.

SUPERVISOR UHL: How then can you justify the price of $3,750,000 for this franchise?

MR. PURCELL: Well, that is the lowest price, after a long period of negotiation, starting with $6,000,000, that Mr. McAuliffe or any representative of the Toll Bridge Authority have been able to get. In the second place, based on the volume of traffic on the ferries it amounts to more than $500 a day, because we get a million dollars' worth of business going on to our bridge, which will increase the traffic, reduce fares, and thus make a saving to the public. Answering your other question, our counsel advised us that although the franchise expired in 1941, that legal questions have been raised, that make it clear that to settle the legal question would take at least two years, and some have said higher than that—three years, because it will actually go through the several courts. So, therefore, although we based our estimate only to 1941, in justifying the deal we have a perfect right to plead a longer time.

SUPERVISOR UHL: For the first time today I ran into the franchise, which a Board of Supervisors granted, and it was a six-minute ferry company. The Southern Pacific were in nowise a party to it, and even a jury, if it read what I have read in today's Journal, I would feel that the point is not well taken.

MR. PURCELL: Well, I depend on the advice of our counsel.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I appreciate that.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: In speaking against the amendment, I, too, ask the privilege accorded the previous speaker of giving my views in favor of the resolution as it appears on the calendar, and after that I will express my disapproval of the amendment—

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair would prefer that you confine yourself to the amendment, due to the fact that there are only 10 minutes left to discuss it, and Supervisor McSheehy is really entitled to ten minutes to close. And when the matter is taken in the hands of the Board for the consideration of the matter I think you would have ample time at that time to express yourself on the main question.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Then I will simply content myself now with expressing my disapproval of the amendment, and speak in favor of the other later.

THE PRESIDENT: Do you wish to proceed?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I will simply say I will vote against this amendment, and speak in favor of the resolution later.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy will close.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Members of the Board: You are sitting as a Committee of the Whole, and you will rise and report in reference to my amendment, and in reference to the matter on the calendar today. I offered this amendment in good faith. Supervisor Brown told you of a deficit, and I asked him a practical question in reference to the maintenance cost, and he said $240,000, and he told you there would be a deficit of perhaps $300,000. That is an estimated deficit for next year, because it is naturally figured on the assertion that the amount of the maintenance cost would not be allowed by the Toll Bridge Authority, or the State of California. Now don't divorce yourself from this: The Toll Bridge Authority in the State of California, as represented by His Excellency, the Governor, is really one. Don't forget that. Now what position do we find ourselves in? We find ourselves in this position, that $500,000 a year is allotted for a maintenance cost out of the funds of the State of California for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge today, and they will have to allow the same to the Golden Gate Bridge.

I don't want to, but I have been a party to the naming of the majority of the members of the Golden Gate Bridge directorate, I think a majority were elected by the membership of this Board, and if they have been derelict in not asking for this maintenance, very well, that is their business and not mine, but it is coming to us, and will come to us, and therefore there will be no deficit if that maintenance cost is allowed.

Now, coming back to my resolution—it is not my resolution, but it is a resolution that was offered by the Mayor of Oakland, our sister city, and concurred in by all of our neighbors in the County of Alameda across the Bay, and that county altogether has a population that is a little over the population of the City and County of San Francisco, so that Alameda County is some county. Now those counties—Rather, all of the political subdivisions of that county have concurred in this resolution. What does this resolution mean? It is simply a safeguard, it asks us to go out, I will read it to you, especially the last resolved so that you can see the language. It was carefully thought out, it didn't happen in a moment, but the Mayor of Oakland made this resolution upon my suggestion; he prepared it and very carefully prepared this resolution:

"These several political subdivisions urge the California Toll Bridge Authority to defer consideration of the purchase of the ferry franchises and for a period of not less than 30 days to reduce the tolls on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge to an individual toll not greater than that at present paid per automobile on the ferry boats, which test, we believe, will determine the advisability of purchasing the ferry franchises and will at the same time demonstrate whether or not the financing of the bridge can be carried on a sound basis at this reduced fare."

Now, Mr. McAuliffe is attorney for the Toll Bridge Authority and he states it cannot be done. Now I have great respect for Mr. McAuliffe, and I know him very well, but Mr. McAuliffe is simply attorney for the Toll Bridge Authority, and the Toll Bridge Authority is the Governor of the State of California. The Governor of the State of California says to you, "Yes, I will agree to this refinancing, I will agree to give the Southern Pacific Company $3,500,000, but, gentlemen, go to the dear people of the entire Bay Region and see if they will agree." So we have one-half of the people of the Bay Region or a little more, led by their Mayor. Our Mayor has not led us, it has been put right in our laps. We go to the people there and they say, "We would like to make an investigation, we would like to be practical, we would like to get the figures." You know, figures are the easiest thing in the world to transpose, I have been in industry all of my life, and I know how you can transpose figures, transpose them one way or another to make them read any way you want. But the Governor of the State says, to whom—to the Southern Pacific Company, the greatest corporation in the State, "Gentlemen, I will confer with you with reference to the purchase of this franchise for three and one-half million dollars; I will confer with you, Mr. Bondholders, with reference to the entire matter so that commissions on refinancing of almost another $3,000,000 will take place; but, gentlemen, go to the dear people, they placed me where I am, and I am responsible to them, but you go to the people." I say to you now, gentlemen, we are responsible to this great city of San Francisco, and some of the members come up and say "No, I don't favor this investigation, I don't favor going forth and being practical, and I do not for this reason." Very well, I have no argument with those gentlemen, they are entitled to their opinions, and I have associated with them for years and I respect their opinions, but, gentlemen, we are here representing the people and some day we are going to have to account to the people for our stewardship. The people of this great city were very gracious here last November, they did something that the people never did in the history of San Francisco before, they returned the entire personnel of this Board of Supervisors to office—

THE PRESIDENT: One minute, Supervisor.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: All right, Mr. Chairman, you have been very fair with all of us, I will have to compliment you on that, but I have this to say to you; that I hope and trust you will vote for this amendment. This amendment is nothing but a safeguard, and nothing will take place, nothing will happen except a reduction will go on for 30 days, and then the matter will come back to us, and, of course, if we are wrong we will right the wrong, and if we are right, we will go to our neighbors and say this: "We have taken safeguards in protecting your rights, the same as the Mayor of the City of Oakland, and the Councilmen of Oakland, and the same as all of the leaders of the various subdivisions across the Bay."

THE PRESIDENT: While you have the floor, will you make the proper motion, please?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I move that we rise and report, the motion as read by our Clerk as presented to this Board by me.

THE PRESIDENT: On the main question.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: On the main question.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection? (Bringing down the gavel.)

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I move that we now reconvene as a Board of Supervisors.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Now just a minute. Is that the proper procedure?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, the motion was made to rise and report; you were sitting as a Committee of the Whole, and Mr. Brown has now made the proper motion that we reconvene as a Board of Supervisors.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Yes, Mr. Chairman, I see your point.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection? (Bringing down the gavel.) We are now sitting as a Board of Supervisors.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Is the matter still open for discussion?

THE PRESIDENT: The matter now is on the motion offered by Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes. Now I still feel that we are not responding to the request of His Excellency, the Governor, and the Toll Bridge Authority, and we have heard today, we have been told very definitely that to attempt to pass this amendment is impossible—

THE PRESIDENT: Is illegal.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes, is illegal; and I also feel, if I may express myself, I am going to vote against this. I feel the price here is—

THE PRESIDENT: Will you confine yourself to the amendment, please, Supervisor?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes, I am out of place on that. Then the question is whether or not to vote on the amendment offered by Supervisor McSheehy. All right, I say I am opposed to it; I say to you that the Toll Bridge Authorities have advised us they cannot carry through on the 1-cent toll and that it is illegal to do so. That is sufficient grounds on which to say I am going to vote against it.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Just a minute. I can't say much, Mr. Uhl has advised us he is opposed to my motion, being opposed to the people across the Bay, where he lived for a great many years. I can only say this, members of the Board, you can vote my motion down if you wish, you can vote it down, and after you vote I would like Mr. Uhl, if he has anything better to offer, to do so; but I hate to think that a man can condone himself to the extent that he stands out on that little flimsy issue, and I say this to you, that it is a very, very flimsy issue, and that Mr. McAuliffe, the attorney for the Toll Bridge Authority, has raised this issue, and he says that it is illegal, but we have a City Attorney, Supervisor Uhl, we have our own City Attorney, and Mr. Uhl says, "I condone myself tonight, I shall go before the various improvement clubs and tell them what we can do, I am the advocate of the common people," but yet he allows himself, after the story by the counsel for the Toll Bridge Authority—

SUPERVISOR UHL: Now just a minute; I would like to give the Supervisor all the time he wants, and he takes so much time any way, but he is going off into the sky and talking bubbles—

THE PRESIDENT: You rise to a point of order, Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes, I rise to a point of order, Mr. Chairman.

THE PRESIDENT: The point of order is well taken.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Call the roll.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll, Mr. Clerk. On the amendment by Supervisor McSheehy.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri? (Absent.) Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: No.

THE CLERK: Eight "Noes," two "Ayes," and one absent.

THE PRESIDENT: The motion is lost. Now on the main question.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Now on the main question?

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Roncovieri, had you been here how would you like to have voted, how would you like to have the record show you voted on Supervisor McSheehy's amendment?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: "No."

SUPERVISOR UHL: I should like to ask, Mr. President, through the Chair, of our Clerk if there has been any further legislation since the enactment of the franchise granted to the Six Minute Ferry Company; that franchise—

THE CLERK: Not here, not on that subject.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Not on that subject. Now, members of the Board, that franchise very definitely grants the Six Minute Ferry Company a 25-year franchise—

THE CLERK: 20-year.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes, a 20-year franchise, and the franchise, as I understand it, was originally taken over by Mayor Rolph and transferred to the Southern Pacific Company, which brings it up to date. They, the Southern Pacific Company, were not granted the franchise, and certainly anyone reading that who would be sitting on a jury—and certainly there are often laymen who decide these matters as jurors—I don't see any ground for the claim that the franchise can be extended. Now that brings me up to the point, gentlemen, on the toll bridge itself. We know that the ferry claims to be making $500 a day, and there are 1250 days remaining on the original franchise, or $625,000. How in the world can anyone come along and tell us that the value on that franchise today is $3,500,000? And then the statement is made that the money we are going to make on the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge will amount to $1,000,000 a year profit, and therefore they want a profit of $2,500,000. That's pretty sharp reasoning, if they can get away with it, that's just the point. Here is a franchise they are making $500 a day on, and they cannot base the price on anything, in my judgment, more than they can realize out of the matter themselves, not what we realize, that is the benefit we intend should go to our people who use the bridge. Therefore, I want to emphasize the fact that this $3,500,000 is purely an arbitrary figure, and I certainly for one, I am not going to vote for this thing now. I appreciate thoroughly—I am here representing the people of San Francisco, and it is up to us to see that they are protected. We are rather in a jam, we have been advised, given notice, that the Golden Gate Bridge is losing money, and if this deal goes through then, according to the figures we have been given, the bridge will carry itself and there will be no demand for a tax on the part of our San Francisco people.

It just so happens that Oakland, the East Bay communities, were fortunate in not being obliged to carry any part of the Golden Gate Bridge load, and I understand why they would like to see that deal made on account of the Oakland-Bay Bridge, and let us struggle along the best way we can with the Golden Gate Bridge.

Now, gentlemen, this is not our problem, at no time have we taken into consideration any of these matters. The Governor has never said, "What is your feeling on this, that, or the other thing," they have always carried it through as they saw fit. Now then, on this toll bridge, if they think this is such a fine deal, why come to us and put it on our doorstep? The reason they do that and then they will come back to us and say, "Why, you asked for this thing."

I will say this to you, in any business deal, if the Southern Pacific Company can get $3,500,000, why, I believe they would be glad to get $1,000,000. I rather feel like suggested by the Central Council of Civic Clubs, that I would favor this deal if the price was reasonable, and I figure that would be a reasonable price. Now later on, if this doesn't work out right they can come back on us, so I have this feeling; that there is no deadline on this, no hurry, and I therefore am going to move—and I hope that I will get a second—that we table this matter, and that allows us to take it up some time later, and when we find that the Governor, or the Toll Bridge Authority, may be able to make a much better deal, and I therefore favor the matter being tabled.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I am going to second the motion made by Supervisor Uhl, and I have a reason for it. I feel that a great mistake will be made if we pass this, and if it is tabled now we can take it up again next Monday and go over the whole thing; I think we should sleep on it for at least a week. Supervisor Uhl and I differ on many things, but I will gladly second any motion that anyone makes, if I think it is right, whether I agree with them at all times or not, and I don't feel that we should go through with this purchase and place ourselves on record, because if we do I am afraid that $3,500,000 will be paid for the franchise, and I am afraid that the bondholders will have a nice little contract of refinancing that will cost another $3,000,000, and it has been well said that $6,000,000 at the usual rate of interest will mean a cost to this city of $12,000,000, and remember, the people of the city are responsible for the entire deal, and we will pay our portion, and therefore I want to second the motion by Supervisor Uhl.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Call the roll.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll, Mr. Clerk.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Aye.

THE CLERK: Nine "Noes" and two "Ayes."

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I would like to speak in favor of the resolution as it appears upon the calendar: It seems to me that as the discussion today unfolded itself, and bearing in mind all of the discussions of the two previous weeks', that as far as I am concerned the problem has rather adequately solved itself. I don't doubt the sincerity and earnestness of the people across the Bay. However, I think we are in a position to look upon the problem and judge it just as clearly and just as disinterestedly and from the same good motives that I am sure I am very happy to ascribe to them, but they have offered us nothing, nothing that can be done. Two weeks ago the proposal was, "If you will only wait the Legislature will then allocate the gas tax money to guarantee the bonds and we will be able to refinance the bonds and effect large savings in interest so we won't have to buy the ferries." I think most of the members of the Board felt that would be done, and we waited, and it was not done, and can't be done now. Now, however, a proposal is made to meet the competition of the ferries and we are told legally that cannot be done, and we are told by the traffic expert that if we do buy the business there would still be a deficit amounting to the toll on 3,000,000 automobiles.

Now, gentlemen, what is the answer and how are we best serving the people of San Francisco, and of the Bay District, and the entire State? Will they be more pleased if we do nothing, and don't decrease the toll, or would they prefer an immediate toll reduction of 10 cents, followed in December of next year by a further reduction of 5 cents? If it comes to the point of going before the voters for their approval, I think it will be received much more happily and much more pleasantly if we can point to a reduction in the tolls caused by a legitimate realistic business proposition. Now I don't think anyone needs to be afraid the people will say that we are servants of the corporation if the members of the Board know they are not, that is the answer, and, of course, it is definitely true we are not. But nevertheless if we get rid of competition who gets the money is the matter for us to consider. If we get rid of competition it will clear the road for lower rates and be a saving, because if an investment of $3,500,000 makes for a saving of over a million dollars, as stated by the Toll Bridge Authorities, that is good business, and, after all, running the bridges is merely a business proposition and the people will reap the benefits of it. Now the statistics furnished by our friends across the Bay were no doubt honestly compiled—

MR. REED: No, and they have not been challenged to date.

THE PRESIDENT: Order, please—

MR. REED: Yes, and I am on my way—

THE PRESIDENT: I will ask the assistance of the sergeant at arms.

MR. REED: You don't need it.

THE PRESIDENT: Put him out.

(Thereupon Mr. Reed was assisted from the chambers by the sergeant at arms.)

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed, Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Our friends are very friendly when you agree with them, but not quite so pleasant when you disagree. I credit them with all fairness in drawing up their statistics, and that was the statement I made a few minutes ago; but I prefer, Mr. President, and members of the Board, to take the figures of the Toll Bridge Authority whenever there is a conflict, and I asked, because I wanted the members of the Board, and the citizens of San Francisco here, to hear Mr. Charles H. Purcell make the recommendation personally that he considered this for the best interests of the State of California that we buy the railroad—buy the franchise of the ferry boats. Now Mr. Purcell is known to me but slightly, my personal acquaintance with him is a slight one, but my respect and admiration for him as an engineer is very great. The bridge is there, and Mr. Purcell built it, and Mr. Purcell stakes his reputation as an engineer, as head of the Toll Bridge Authority, and after much more consideration than we can give it—it has been before him for months, and months—of earnest application to this problem, and he comes before us with sound, plausible, reasonable arguments, that I am not able to refute, and he makes this recommendation, and I am very glad to go along with him because I know that it is an honest and honorable recommendation made in great sincerity by a very splendid public official.

Now, gentlemen, we are in a position where we do disagree with our friends across the Bay, but, after all, these differences of opinion, they have happened before and no doubt will happen again, and it is with no attempt to belittle them that I now simply take the opposite view.

Now on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, enough of a saving has been shown to me to warrant my approval of this resolution, and in addition to that we have the angle of the Golden Gate Bridge, which was so well explained by Director Brown. Now we have a decided interest there, and whereas it may be true they are losing money, and it may be true they may not continue service very long, but they are in operation today and will be day after tomorrow, and I don't know for how long they will be in operation and neither do you, Mr. President, in your capacity as president of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, nor does the Golden Gate Highway and Bridge District Board, and we do know that we are doing something constructive when we eliminate any possibility of a deficit to the Bridge District, which is shared proportionately by all of the counties in the district. Now to me, I cannot see—the price—well, no matter what price is determined upon finally, the same reason, I presume, can be stated. Well, maybe it is too high, I really don't know; I didn't sit in on the negotiations, but I have confidence that is a reasonable price, and the proof of it is it shows a profit to the people of the State of California and to the several counties interested, and a saving greater than the amount of the franchise, and accordingly I am going to vote "Aye."

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Mr. President, I have dictated an explanation of my vote on this matter which I desire to read at this time, and which I wish to have made a part of the record.

THE PRESIDENT: It will be made a part of the record.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I wish to explain my vote on Resolution Number 3817, and I desire that my explanation be made part of the Journal of this Board. I intend to vote in favor of this resolution. I believe that a vote against this resolution is a vote against reducing the bridge tolls. I believe that a vote against this resolution is a vote in favor of continuing the present ruinous competition which the ferries provide for the Golden Gate Bridge. Now I would like the audience to listen to the Golden Gate Bridge problem, because you will be paying the deficit if there is a deficit. I believe that a decent regard for the taxpayers of San Francisco makes it compulsory upon me, as a member of this Board, to do everything in my power to eliminate the present competition against the Golden Gate Bridge for the reason that any deficit of the Golden Gate Bridge will become a very substantial burden on the property owners of San Francisco.

I respect the right of Mr. Reed and his associates to protest against anything in which they do not believe. The protestants have been given ample opportunity, in my judgment, to present their case. In my judgment, their case is a very weak one. The widest possible latitude has been accorded them. Letters have been read into the record of this Board which, in my judgment, were clearly libelous. The motives and the good intent of the Governor of the State of California have been impugned by Mr. Kraigbaum.

The attitude the Governor has assumed in this case is rather difficult to understand. The problem facing him is one which is covered by State regulations and agreements made in pursuance of State enactments. Responsibility under the law lies with definite State officials and State executives. This being so, the question should be faced courageously and directly by those charged with legal responsibility. We are told that a question of policy is involved, but this is the first time in my experience that a matter of State policy was referred to a municipal or county board of supervisors for determination or sanction. If a contention is unsound or weak or does not stand the light of analysis, mere noise does not supply the deficiency and political timidity should not be the basis for shifting of responsibility. I might say, in passing, and in all fairness to the members of this Board, that where responsibility is theirs they face the problem courageously, and where a determination is to be made they boldly face facts and accept responsibility.

The City and County of San Francisco, while it may not be directly and primarily involved in the solution of this problem, it nevertheless has a substantial and material interest from a collateral standpoint. As the representatives of the taxpayers of this City and County, we know that any deficit existing in the Golden Gate Bridge will reflect itself in our tax rate and that our taxpayers will suffer accordingly. It is elementary, of course, that ruinous competition will bring about such deficit and that any reasonable and fair proposition which tends to remove such deficit will react to the benefit of our property owners and taxpayers.

I believe that the California Toll Bridge Authority should endeavor to bargain further with the ferry companies with the view of endeavoring to obtain the purchase of the ferries at a considerable less sum than is now being suggested by the California Toll Bridge Authority. In voting for this resolution, I trust that Mr. McAuliffe will bring back to the California Toll Bridge Authority a request that it continue negotiations with a viewpoint that it at least endeavor to purchase the ferries for a considerable sum less than is now being proposed.

Consequently, I feel that the best interests of the people of this City and County demand that we approve of the proposal, and for reasons indicated, I vote "Aye" on this resolution.

THE PRESIDENT: The explanation of vote by Supervisor Reilly will be made a part of the record.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Mr. President—

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Uhl, just a minute, first. Does any other member of the Board desire to speak before Supervisor Uhl is given the floor again?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: I should like to explain my vote, Mr. Chairman. Mr. Chairman, and members of the Board, I have listened with a great deal of interest for the past few weeks when this matter has been before us, and we have been told the facts and figures. I might say that I am trying to approach this problem from purely a business standpoint. Who the individuals, or who the corporations, involved are, I am not so much concerned with as the effect this is going to have upon the matter of the public, the effect it is going to have on the taxpayers of San Francisco. The point is that we have it before us and we are all today merely trying to do all we can in helping to solve it. I think that—Recognizing that it is a problem, a problem that as it stands today is a certain burden upon our people, what is the best thing to do for them, is my method of approach. I feel that the facts and figures that have been given us at the hands of Mr. Purcell and his corps of experts—and I have every confidence in Mr. Purcell and his staff, and I feel that the people of San Francisco have every confidence in them—and therefore in answer to several questions that I propounded to him or his representatives I have been satisfied that it is the best thing to do for the people of San Francisco under the circumstances. I wish, like a good many members of this Board here, and like the people of San Francisco, that we didn't have to buy anything, but nevertheless we have this problem, and the question is what is the best thing to do under the circumstances. When Supervisor Brown mentioned to me the possibility of an increase in the tax rate of 4½ cents it certainly made me take notice, and I think that that is something that the people of San Francisco should ever bear in mind, that we have our liability to the extent of 85 per cent as regards any deficit on the Golden Gate Bridge.

Again, in answer to questions, the only way that we can get a reduction in tolls on the Trans-Bay Bridge is by following a course of this kind, and I have stood consistently and persistently for lower tolls on the bridges, and if this is going to help to lower tolls, I am going to be for it, because we are going to have immediately a 20 per cent reduction in tolls, which is something worthwhile, and we are going to have, a short time in the future, a reduction down to 35 cents, and when we get that reduction to 35 cents, we will certainly continue and hammer it down further, and we will find ways and means to do it. Now if this is the only way of our getting a reduction in tolls we certainly ought not to take the attitude of cutting off our own noses to spite our faces, and I think that would be the attitude we would be taking if we did not approve of this plan, that any other course would be simply cutting off our noses to spite our faces, and I think that would be a great mistake, and I am looking at it from purely a business standpoint. After I have heard this accumulative mass of evidence I cannot come to any other conclusion than that we should get the problem behind us and that this is the best way to do it, so let's face it and get it behind us; I think that's the best way to do it.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Roll call.

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Roll call.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask, through the Chair, of any members of the Toll Bridge Authority, or anyone else, who can answer it, if it is a fact that the Southern Pacific Company let it be known to the Railroad Commission that they would go along with the 40 cent toll?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: That's on the Sausalito side.

MR. McAULIFFE: Never heard of it.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I have heard it from several sources, although I haven't checked it up with the Railroad Commission; that this matter is before the Railroad Commission. Now then, has the Toll Bridge Authority asked the Railroad Commission to delay their decision in this matter which is now before them while this present matter is being considered?

MR. McAULIFFE: The Railroad Commission did grant permission to the ferries for a reduction in toll, they did grant the reduction, and we have made a request for a rehearing, but we have not as yet had the rehearing.

SUPERVISOR UHL: You made no request that this be delayed?

MR. McAULIFFE: We continued it from day to day until this matter is disposed of, this hearing.

SUPERVISOR UHL: That's what I mean, thank you.

Now you heard Mr. Purcell say that the company in the first instance asked for $6,000,000, and then reduced it to three and one-half millions, and we are informed also that the ferries will earn $650,000 during the term of the present franchise, and therefore I consider that the franchise value is not more than $650,000, and that there is an excess price asked here of $3,000,000. Now it is not a question that must be decided today, there is no dead line, the Governor simply asks: What about the people who are interested in this matter? And the people on the east side of the Bay have decided they don't want this sum paid to the Southern Pacific Company, and we are remaining to be heard from; the last legislative body to be heard from, the citizens of San Francisco. Now I am satisfied from all that I have heard that the Toll Bridge Authority and his Excellency, the Governor, will go along with the purchase of this franchise for three and one-half million dollars, and I am certainly not going to be a party to a transaction where, from my 40 or 50 years of experience in the business world I know how these deals can be whittled down and whittled down, and I know that the full value of that franchise today is $650,000 and today is not the dead line, and I certainly cannot vote for that, and will have to vote "No."

THE PRESIDENT: Does any member of the Board desire to speak? If not, as the author of this resolution, I would like to close. Supervisor Ratto, would you take the chair for a short time while I explain my position on this matter?

(Thereupon, Supervisor Ratto took the chair.)

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Members of the Board, as the author of this resolution, as a Supervisor and a citizen and taxpayer of San Francisco, and as a director of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, I sincerely trust that the members of the Board will vote in favor of the resolution.

Members of this Board, Messrs. Roncovieri, McSheehy, Colman, and myself well remember 14 months of hearings of long span bridge engineers when we were considering letting a private franchise for a bridge across the Bay, and where did the opposition come from? From the same source that the opposition to this resolution comes from today, from Oakland. And when the bridge was finally financed by revenue bonds what happened during the period when this hearing was being held with the long span bridge engineers that wanted to build this bridge, every one of them was asked, "Will you build the bridge strong enough to carry transcontinental trains?" Every one said "Yes." Here is the same thing today, and the bridge that was built is not strong enough for that purpose, and Alameda County is here again for the same purpose. San Francisco City and County slept while that proposition was being put through.

Supervisor Uhl makes the charge that $650,000 is involved. Mr. Uhl overlooks that he is only considering $500 a day, and that is the income from the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge, but figuring again and taking into account the Golden Gate Bridge for another $500 makes it $1,000, and multiply 650,000 by two and you get thirteen hundred thousand, one and a half to two million dollars, which is a whole lot different.

I feel, members of the Board, that there is nothing for us to do but vote for it. We have men of the type of Mr. McAuliffe, Mr. Purcell, and the expert, Mr. Andrews, who tell us they have negotiated for this; if this is permitted to run for a few years longer and come up to 1941, we know how easy it is to carry these matters into the court and continue them indefinitely, and the loss will continue and become a loss to the Bridge District, and it will be about \$1,275,000, and we would then have to be assessing the people of San Francisco if this loss continued, in the neighborhood of  $4\frac{1}{2}$  or 5 cents. However, I realize if we put this resolution through and the Toll Bridge Authority places the matter before the Governor with our acquiescence in a very short time tolls will be reduced and \$1,500, not \$500, a day, will be saved.

I sincerely trust the members of the Board will vote in favor of the resolution.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: You have taken the floor. May I ask you a question?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Yes, Supervisor.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: You have taken the floor, and I ask you now, as a member of this Board, Mr. Supervisor, you are a member of the Golden Gate Bridge directorate?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I am.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: And you were appointed by this Board?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I was.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: At any time during your incumbency of office in that directorate has the matter come up about the maintenance cost of the Golden Gate Bridge?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I do recall something coming up about it several years ago.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: At any time during incumbency in office did you know that the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge was relieved of the maintenance cost?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I did.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Was there any effort on the part of your board of directors to receive the same consideration from the State that the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge receives?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: There was.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: When was that effort made?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: About three years ago.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Has any effort been made in that direction since?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Not to my recollection, due to the fact that it was refused owing to the fact that the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District is a separate entity, it is not like the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge, it is entirely divorced from the State of California, and the maintenance cost cannot be taken from the tax—from the gas tax.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: You heard when Supervisor Brown stated that maintenance cost is somewhere around $240,000?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I heard him.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Is that correct?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I couldn't state.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: You do know that the statement you just made in reference to the four or five cent increase in the tax rate would amount to about $240,000, in round figures, four cents amounting to about $280,000 in our tax rate?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I said about 4½ or 5 cents.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: It fluctuates all the time. Then there has been no effort on the part of the directorate, or you as a member of the Board, except this one attempt three years ago, to receive the same consideration the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge receives from the State of California, to get an elimination of the maintenance cost on that bridge?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: The one answer given us was so definite that it could not be done, that it was illegal, that we did not try again.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: If you will pardon me, my recollection is we were informed that any action on the part of the State by way of any contribution from the gas tax under the present set-up would be illegal.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: You are simply in this position, Supervisor Shannon, you are a member of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board, so how do you condone the fact if that is illegal, why isn't it illegal for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge to receive $500,000 a year?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I am informed that the Toll Bridge Authority is a part of the State of California and as such is able legally to receive that amount.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I say they are a part of the State government. Who informed you to that effect?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The attorneys for the Bridge District.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I should like to ask Supervisor Shannon a question, I just want to ask him, or any member of the Board: What is the dead line in this matter in which the Governor has to act?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: May I be permitted to answer that, because I have given a lot of thought to that matter, and there is no dead line.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Therefore I feel that we should put the matter over so that the Toll Bridge Authority can again deal with the Southern Pacific.

Mr. President, I asked a question: What is the dead line on this particular deal?

THE PRESIDENT: I couldn't state with any degree of accuracy.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: I notice that in this resolution it says: "Whereas, the owners of said vehicular ferry systems have indicated that they are willing to surrender the franchises under which said ferries are operated upon terms and conditions to be agreed upon with said California Toll Bridge Authority." There is no definite figure in this thing at all, and I am leaving the matter to Mr. Purcell's judgment to get the best price he can; he is our agent in the matter; and I feel that if he can bring the price down to $2,000,000 or down to $1,000,000 even he will do it. I haven't anything to say, I think I am voting on the resolution and taking it for granted this amount will be as low as they can make it, I am placing confidence in these men, knowing they will get the best price possible for the people.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Mr. President, I don't know that I have anything to say that would change the vote of any one member of this Board. I have listened to several members very carefully state their reasons why they are going to vote for this resolution—

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I have to telephone, and when the gentleman is through, call me in; I want to vote on this.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I have been interrupted before, and I have been hit so often, slapped so many times, that it doesn't mean anything to me. I will say in closing that I don't think, gentlemen, that you, as the Board of Directors of this city, in a matter of this kind, should vote for this resolution. I am inclined to feel that you are voting in favor of this purchase for $3,500,000 and simply following the statement of what is indicated by the Toll Bridge Authority, and, as I have stated before, the entire thing emanated from no less a person than the Governor of the State, who appointed the Toll Bridge Authority, they are the creatures of the Governor of the State, and the attorney for the Toll Bridge Authority. Supervisor Uhl made a motion, and I was glad to second his motion to lay it on the table, but now this is the final step in the entire matter, this is the final step, and every member of this Board will some day give an accounting of his stewardship to the people. Some day it will come back to you.

Our President told you just a minute ago that Oakland created a condition on the toll bridge, the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge, that no transcontinental trains could pass over that toll bridge. As one member of this Board I did everything I could to try and see that we could have transcontinental trains here, and in trying to show that we were making a great mistake in approving the plans at that particular time, especially when it did not involve the running of transcontinental trains across the bridge.

Supervisor Reilly read a nicely prepared explanation why he is going to vote for it, just as other and various members had their reasons for voting as they did. Now you have your reasons for giving to the Southern Pacific Company $3,500,000 for a franchise that really doesn't exist, and you are also creating a refinancing that will cost you another $3,000,000. Well, I wish you good luck on your views in this matter, members of the Board, but I can't see it, and I trust and hope you will vote against this resolution, I hope that the membership of this Board will not vote for the franchise as recommended by the finance committee here today.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Just one very brief statement. I want to say to Supervisor Uhl, that while the Southern Pacific makes the $500 a day profit, please don't forget that in making that profit they are taking in over $2,500 a day, and that that gross which the Southern Pacific Company takes in becomes a net profit for the San Francisco people and the Golden Gate Bridge. I hope you realize there is quite a difference there, and that we get all of that revenue. That puts quite a different appearance on the matter with reference to the Golden Gate Bridge particularly.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll, Mr. Clerk.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: No.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, before the Clerk announces the vote, I wish to make a motion.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I wish to give notice of reconsideration, I change my vote from "No" to "Aye" and give notice that this matter will be taken up at the meeting on next Monday for reconsideration.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I move immediate reconsideration. I move suspension of the rules and immediate reconsideration of the matter now.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there a second to the motion by Supervisor Colman for suspension of the rules for the purpose of immediate consideration?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I second the motion.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Members of the Board, as I said before, I don't think that anything I can say to you perhaps would change your minds here today, but remember this, you are about to vote to close the only one road that I have, and that Supervisor Uhl has, in reference to this matter, a road and a right that is recognized by every legislative body in the United States, and that is, the right to reconsider. Now it takes eight votes to change our rules, and if four members of this Board deem this to be important enough to reconsider they simply take it over for a week, and, very well, support my motion for reconsideration, it takes eight votes. Now if you do not reconsider the matter will be acted upon forthwith today as written on this calendar, you simply will purchase this franchise and you will place yourselves in a position of opposing everything our sister cities have done in this matter. You will make a record vote, going on record here today telling the Governor of this State to purchase this franchise, and creating a refinancing condition of our entire bridge project. I can't begin to tell you what you are doing, but it takes eight members of this Board, and I hope, for the sake of safe, sound legislation you at least allow yourselves to sleep on this matter for one week, and in one week I have to come here and tell you why you should oppose this motion, the laboring oar is on me to tell you why you should reconsider this matter. We have reconsidered many important matters and when we see proof we realize we have been in error, and I trust and hope that eight members of this Board will not agree at this time to vote for a suspension of the rules for immediate reconsideration of this matter.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: We have already given the matter thorough attention and covered the situation, and I would feel Supervisor McSheehy justified in having the matter reconsidered on next Monday had we not already had two hearings on it; and one other factor that the Board have thoroughly in mind in postponing, and that is that it is costing the Golden Gate Bridge District $1,000 a day.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: May I just say one word, and I know that I probably cannot change the viewpoint of anyone on this Board, but putting this matter over one week there is nothing lost, and Supervisor Uhl asked the direct question a minute ago, and no one has shown we are losing $1,000 a day, and I can't see where there will be any $1,000 lost in this matter, because it will simply mean that the Governor of this State will advise the Toll Bridge Authority to purchase these bonds—now that is simply a matter of figures, and I have shown you it is the same entity. If the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge had used the same energy they are using in trying to put this over, in seeking the same treatment the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge is receiving today, you would have no deficit. Now don't try to, and don't think there is any loss, I say it is perfectly safe and sound to put this matter over one week and sleep on it during that time.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: By a vote of nine to two you vote approval of the matter on the calendar, and we have had three postponements, one week, and another week, and a third week, we have heard the matter from A to Z, and nothing new can be said on the problem, and it has not been changed and will not be in a week. I am assuming the attitude of the other members of the Board is the same as mine, that we have given this matter careful consideration and we have made up our minds, and I would like to have the matter behind us very much indeed, rather than go through all these hearings again next week; that is the reason I am going to vote for this resolution.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Supervisor Colman made the statement that nothing can be changed; but there is something that can be changed; if the case which is before the Railroad Commission, if that decision comes in it will make a difference, and I say that you are making a terrible mistake in acting on this matter now when there is no dead line.

THE PRESIDENT: The question is on reconsideration.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Mr. President—

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I object. I have to leave in a little while, and I want to vote.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I want to ask the Clerk to have a stenographic report, this subject is of such importance—to have the entire proceedings here today in reference to this matter written up—

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: And a copy sent to each member of the Board.

THE PRESIDENT: What? The entire proceeding? I think that is not in order right now. The question first is on reconsideration. You may take that up later.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Very well.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll, Mr. Clerk.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: No.

THE CLERK: Nine "Ayes" and two "Noes."

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Now let me make that motion—

THE PRESIDENT: We have the matter of reconsideration before us; that comes up first. The question before us now is shall the vote by which the resolution was passed be reconsidered. A vote "No" denies the reconsideration.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Call the roll.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll, Mr. Clerk.

- THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?
 SUPERVISOR BROWN: No.
 THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

 SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: No.
 THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?
 SUPERVISOR SHANNON: No.
 THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?
 SUPERVISOR UHL: Aye.
 THE CLERK: Nine "Noes" and two "Ayes."
 SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now, Mr. President, will you allow me to make the motion that the Clerk have a stenographic report made of the entire proceedings of today?
 THE PRESIDENT: You mean by that the entire statements of everybody that participated?
 SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Yes, everybody. It doesn't mean much. And a copy sent to every member of this Board.
 SUPERVISOR UHL: I want to amend that motion to make it cover the statements by the members of this Board.
 THE PRESIDENT: After we were through hearing the citizens, as a Committee of the Whole?
 SUPERVISOR UHL: Yes, I will accept that.
 THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection? Hearing none, it is so ordered.

Mrs. Ermine Dickenson, residing at Willard Hotel, 161 Ellis street, complained of delay in granting application which was filed in October, 1937. Report of welfare investigators disclosed that son in Nevada has assets amounting to $105,000 and that he was sending her $25 per month. Claim was made that he not being a resident of the State could not be compelled to support her.

He believed that it would shortly be settled.

ROLL CALL FOR THE INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS, BILLS AND COMMUNICATIONS NOT CONSIDERED OR REPORTED UPON BY A COMMITTEE.

Proposed Purchase of the Bay Ferries.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Mr. Chairman, tomorrow at Sacramento there will be a hearing, as I understand it, before the Toll Bridge Authority, on the question which was discussed last week by the Board of Supervisors; that is, the purchase of the Golden Gate Ferries by the Toll Bridge Authority. It is my understanding that those opposed to the purchase will be there and present their side of the argument. I think it highly advisable the Board of Supervisors, if the Board is of the same mind that they were last Monday,—and I think they are,—that a message be sent to the Governor, advising him that this Board, by a nine to two vote, voted in favor of the purchase of the ferries, and asking the Governor to give due consideration to that fact when the subject comes before the Toll Bridge Authority. I will make that in the form of a motion.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Yes, by all means.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, and Members of the Board: I object, naturally, to the motion, for I am unalterably opposed to the purchase of those franchises. I want to be as fair as I can. I know nine members of this Board voted in favor of the purchase, last Monday, and I assume nine votes will support Supervisor Brown in his motion, but I simply want to say this: I was asked to send a telegram up there, and I said, "No, I didn't think it was fair for me to send one;" but if this Board sends a telegram, of course I will send one. I was also asked to appear in person, and I said, "No, I didn't think it would be right for me to do so." However, if this Board wants to send a committee of three up there I would like to go with the committee, and place the minority views before the Governor. I want to say to the members of this Board that this matter came before the Redwood Empire Association, and an effort was made to have the Redwood Empire endorse this purchase. The Redwood Empire tabled that motion.

I want to tell the members of the Board that from the reactions I have gotten during the week, I have no apologies to make as to my stand, being one of the two members who voted as opposed to it. I think if it were brought to a vote of the people I have my doubts that you would ever be sanctioned in paying that enormous sum of $3,750,000 for these franchises.

THE PRESIDENT: What is the motion again?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: So, if you are going to send a telegram—

THE PRESIDENT: I would like to hear the motion.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I would like to amend the motion.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair hasn't got the motion clearly before it. What is the motion?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The motion is that the Clerk be directed to address a telegram to the Governor of the State of California, calling attention to the nine to two vote last Monday by which this Board of Supervisors favored the purchase of the ferries by the Toll Bridge Authority.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Why not send him a copy of the resolution?

THE PRESIDENT: The resolution has not come back from the Mayor's office.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: He has not signed it yet?

THE PRESIDENT: No.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Is there a second to the motion?

THE PRESIDENT: I would say that the motion is out of order.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: You will hold that the motion is out of order?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Would it be out of order to send him a telegram stating that the Board of Supervisors so voted? He asked, I think, for the opinion of the legislative bodies of the Bay area. I don't know whether he asked for a resolution. I don't want to be technical, but—

THE PRESIDENT: No, I don't think that motion is out of order. That is the vote by which we passed the resolution.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I see no harm in so advising him. We are not assuming to say whether the nine acted wisely or unwisely, but we are conveying to him the vote by which the resolution was passed.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair will entertain that motion.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I think the Board should do that. We did take that action after hearing the question thoroughly, and we did it for a purpose, to indicate that we favored it, and we want the Governor to know we did take that action.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll—Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I am not going to attempt to amend that motion, but I am going to give this notice, and I think I have this right as a member of the Board—I know the motion will carry—but I am going to send a telegram, as a member of this Board of Supervisors, and I am going to state as briefly as possible in that telegram the outline of what transpired here last Monday, to the Governor—

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I suggest, through the Chair, that a transcript of the record, which has been furnished us by the Clerk, be sent to the Governor?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I beg your pardon?

SUPERVISOR UHL: A transcript of the entire proceedings, wherein the Board sat as a committee of the whole. My thought is to send him that transcript of what was stated here by the members of the Board.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Your thought is that we send a telegram to the Governor, together with the transcript? With the suggestion made by Supervisor Uhl I will amend the motion—and I do this in the line of all fairness: That this Board send to the Governor the journal, that portion of it which gives the verbatim statement of every word that transpired in this Board last Monday.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Second the motion.

THE PRESIDENT: It has been regularly moved and seconded that a copy of the transcript of the proceedings be sent to the Governor. Are you ready for the question?—Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I would just like to ask that it be sent special delivery, so it will reach him.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, of course.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: And I will ask if Supervisor McSheehy has any objection to sending a telegram?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I have an objection to sending the telegram. I have made an amendment to the motion, and if the amendment is carried my motion will prevail instead of sending the telegram.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Did the amendment receive a second?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, Supervisor Uhl seconded the amendment.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I will offer a substitute amendment:

That a transcript of the record be sent, and a telegram be also sent.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: What will be the language of the telegram?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I have already outlined it to the Board.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I would suggest that you include the resolution that we adopted on last Monday, and say:

"Your Excellency, we adopted such and such a resolution on such and such a date."

THE CLERK: If I am not intruding, if I am directed to do so, I will send the Journal out tonight, and it will reach the Governor tomorrow morning. That contains the whole thing, the resolution and the vote, and the transcript of everything that was said.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: A marked copy?

THE CLERK: Oh, yes.

THE PRESIDENT: On what page is that roll call—Oh, I see it. The whole thing is there. However, there is no harm in sending the telegram. You can vote on that.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I think it is advisable to send the telegram, for this reason: That the Governor is a very busy man, and I think we can rest assured that even if the transcript reached him he would not have time to go through that entire document. My thought in asking that the telegram be sent was that in a few words all that is contained in the transcript could be placed before him.

THE PRESIDENT: If the Board would permit a suggestion, why not send a telegram saying a transcript of the proceedings of the Board on last Monday is being sent, and the vote was nine to two in favor of the purchase?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I will accept that.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection to that?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I do, because it doesn't give the proceedings, except in a general way. Either send him the proceedings without one word of comment, so the man may get it just as is, so the record will show just what happened, or—

THE PRESIDENT: An amendment is made to the motion, that a copy of the transcript and the telegram be sent. You asked for the language of the telegram, and I tried to give it to you.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I am willing to adopt the language of the Chair.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Will you repeat the language?

THE PRESIDENT: That the telegram be sent to the Governor, that a copy of the proceedings held last Monday, is being forwarded by air mail, special delivery, and that the vote was nine to two in favor of the purchase.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No objection to that.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I object to that, Members of the Board, and I do so simply on what I term fair play. You are sending the Governor of this state that entire matter. Now I said this before, and I say it again: Beware of Greeks bearing gifts. And he presents to us a gift, that he wants this Board to condone the purchase. Now the entire Alameda County is actually protesting against it, and you will find the same in Marin, and the northern counties, because we had it up at a breakfast in San Diego last week, and the motion was tabled. We are the only city that is sanctioning this particular purchase. We are the only city sanctioning this purchase for $3,750,000, plus the refinancing charge of the entire project, which will mean $6,000,000, and eventually mean $12,000,000 to the tax payers of this State of California. It is not our problem, and I hope we won't lend ourselves in any form to sanctioning this purchase, which will allow the Governor to condone the tremendous expenditure of $3,750,000 for this purchase. He is justifying himself with us, and we are the only ones he can hang his hat on. Everybody else around the Bay region is opposed to it, and I as one member, am unalterably opposed to it.

Again, I say to you, the right thing, and the fair thing to do is to just send him the proceedings and nothing else, and I trust you will do that, and nothing else. If you send him a telegram, I will personally send him a telegram as one member of this Board, so the record will be complete, so he can't come out and say he didn't know, and he will know as far as I am concerned, and the people of San Francisco will know that they are being robbed of $3,750,000 in the sanction of this purchase, under this flimsy excuse which the Governor is handing to the people; and I hope this will not be carried by the Board.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask a question, through the Chair, of Supervisor Brown; What was your statement? That the matter will come before the Toll Bridge Authority tomorrow?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: So I have been informed.

SUPERVISOR UHL: If it is in order I would like to make a motion that a committee of three be appointed, Supervisor McSheehy being one of the committee representing the minority, to go to Sacramento and lay the position of this Board before the Toll Bridge Authority so that it is absolutely clear.

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Second the motion.

THE PRESIDENT: That motion is not in order.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I can't add that to the present parliamentary situation?

THE PRESIDENT: No.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: It seems to me that the resolution speaks for itself. We adopted a resolution, yes or no. Send that resolution to the Chief Executive of this State, saying this resolution was adopted by the following vote.

THE PRESIDENT: That is the purport of Supervisor Brown's amendment.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: And you are going to telegraph him the text of the resolution?

THE PRESIDENT: No, we are going to send him the resolution.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: The text of the resolution as we adopted it?

THE PRESIDENT: That is the proposal.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The telegram and the text of the resolution.

THE PRESIDENT: That is the amendment, that is what we are considering.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: There is no objection to that.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: If nobody else wishes to speak, I would like to close?

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I would just like to take issue with one statement made by Supervisor McSheehy; that the people of San Francisco are being robbed of $3,750,000. As a matter of cold fact, the people of San Francisco are not contributing one cent to the purchase. As a matter of cold fact, the people of San Francisco are being saved from a contribution of between four and five cents in the tax rate because of an expected deficit in the Golden Gate Bridge. As a matter of further fact, we are told that this situation will eventually result in a reduction of tolls from 50 to 40 cents, which will result in a saving, on every person who travels from San Francisco across the Oakland Bay Bridge, of 10 cents each way. The money for this purchase, we are informed by the Toll Bridge Authority, will be made available by the increased traffic which will use the bridge by virtue of the elimination of the ferries. There is no foundation whatsoever for any statement that the people of San Francisco are being robbed of $3,750,000, or for that matter, one dollar.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown closed the debate.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I am not going to debate the matter, I am going to offer a suggestion to my motion.

THE PRESIDENT: We are not voting on your motion. We are voting on Supervisor Brown's amendment to the motion, and he closed the debate.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I am going to offer, if you will permit me, a substitution for the whole.

THE PRESIDENT: You can not do it. There are two amendments.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Very well, if you so rule.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: No.

THE CLERK: Nine "Ayes," two "Noes."

THE PRESIDENT: The amendment is carried. Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Now, if I am in order, I would move that a committee of three be appointed, one of the members of the committee to be Supervisor McSheehy, regarding the passage of this resolution at last Monday's meeting. If I am in order, I would like to make that motion, that a committee of three be appointed to be present at the meeting of the Toll Bridge Authority tomorrow, regarding the purchase.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I will second that motion.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I will offer a substitute, that the Chair be authorized to appoint a committee of three to attend the meeting at Sacramento.

THE PRESIDENT: I didn't get the last?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I will offer a substitute, that the Chair be authorized to appoint a committee of three to attend the meeting at Sacramento tomorrow.

THE PRESIDENT: I trust that the members of the Board will not pass either one of these motions. I think the testimony that is going to be sent there special air mail is sufficient, without any additional expense to the City in sending representatives up there.

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Right.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I think that is a correct statement, Mr. President; I am opposed to it.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Last Monday I offered here an amendment to the resolution on the calendar, which resolution called for the sanction of this purchase. I offered the exact amendment Oakland had passed. I stated that that amendment was introduced at the meeting over there, and there wasn't a dissenting voice of anybody present, except Supervisor Roncovieri. I will give the Supervisor his due, he did raise a dissenting voice in that committee. I seconded it, and it was carried; and I tried hard to have that same amendment presented to this Board. If I went to Sacramento tomorrow I would offer that amendment to the Governor, and I would state my views, as briefly as possible, because the Governor is a very shrewd old gentleman, he places a time limit on everything. My views would be presented in a very orderly way. I think as a minority member of this Board that I have that right, to go to that meeting tomorrow which involves a matter that is so important, and so complicated.

I won't go into details, but I think I spiked Supervisor Brown's statement of the loss to the Golden Gate Bridge, and the increase in the tax rate of  $4\frac{1}{2}$  cents. We have never received one cent of maintenance cost on the Golden Gate Bridge, and that maintenance cost would pay that 4½ cents alone. I showed that as plain as anything could be shown. Of course, if you don't want to see you won't see; and yet it has been going on for years, and your present members of the Golden Gate Bridge directorate have been derelict in their duties, in not receiving from the State of California this maintenance cost that they have been receiving on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge.

I think these views should be presented to the Governor. If you don't want a committee to go there, very well; but I know if I went there that is what I would cover. I know my time would be about five minutes, and I would use that time entirely to bring home that fact to the Governor, and to show what the other counties, what Alameda has done, and what I am sure the other counties to the north would do because of their tabling of the motion down at San Diego, which showed conclusively their views.

I think we are making one of the greatest mistakes in the history of this city. I only know of one other to compare with it, and that was the time we allowed ourselves to purchase $21,000,000 worth of Hetch Hetchy bonds for $18,000,000. That was away back in 1921, that is when we made that mistake, and I told the Board of the mistake, and we corrected it, because we have created a condition in our charter now that will not permit the purchase of bonds only for the amount of money needed at the time. I think we are making a mistake to make this purchase, it is simply to relieve the Governor of one of his whims in reference to this purchase, so I hope and trust you will send a committee. I would like to go to present that matter, and send any other two members you wish.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll—Supervisor Brown.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I would like to suggest to Supervisor McSheehy that before he criticizes the Golden Gate Bridge directors, that he familiarize himself with the facts of the matter. I don't think, personally, that criticism has any place on this Board, but when he makes the statement that the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge have been derelict in their duty, he must be misinformed, if he predicates that remark on our inability to procure from the state government the assistance of the state in the maintenance of the bridge. For his information I will state to him that last week, subsequent to our meeting here I took the matter up with the attorney for the bridge district; and he again advised me that the matter legally can not be done, as I told the Supervisor last week when the subject came up. Furthermore the amount which the bridge district expends each year in maintenance is not as great as the amount of the deficit. If you want the figures as I gave them last Monday, the amount of maintenance cost is about $240,000. The amount of the deficit will be very nearly twice that. So even if the entire cost of the maintenance were contributed by the State there would still be a deficit.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President.

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I have always felt in the handling of figures that I can handle figures as well as any man, and I have fairly stated this matter I think. Supervisor Brown stated clearly last Monday, that it was $280,000, the amount of the maintenance of the bridge, and he stated that the amount—at least not the amount—or the amount of the deficit—the amount of the maintenance would be about $240,000. So there is a difference there of $40,000, and not $250,000. Now I say it, and I say it again, and I was one of the members of this Board who voted for the directors of the Golden Gate Bridge District, but I will positively make this statement now, that I will not vote to replace any other member on that Board, on the Golden Gate Bridge. I have been elected by the people for four years, and with God's help I hope to be here for four years, and perhaps there will be other members of that Board that will come before us, and it takes a majority of the members of this Board to elect them.

I say the members have been derelict as members of that Board of Directors in allowing that bridge to ride along the way it has, with no moneys whatsoever being contributed by the state, where the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge has been the recipient of $500,000 a year. I am responsible to the people, and these directors are responsible to the members of this Board; and I serve notice right now that I will not vote for the replacement of one man who is a member of that board, and who has been derelict in his duties.

So I say this thing has come to an impasse, that something should be done, and I hope we will not sit quietly by and see the Governor of this state purchase these franchises for this enormous amount of money.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: This matter has gotten down to a personal debate in which I do not propose to join, but I will say this: It is Supervisor McSheehy's privilege who he votes for as to membership on the Golden Gate Bridge directorate. I regret he takes the position he does with regard to me; but it is not within his right to make false statements in this Board, or to quote any member of the Board as saying something that is not true. The best evidence of that is the record, which I will read from.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: What page?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Page 373. Supervisor McSheehy says: "... We are not responsible for the approaches. Do you know how much the maintenance cost would amount to on the bridge if the same proportion were allowed as is allowed to the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge?"—

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Where is that?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The bottom of page 373:

"Supervisor Brown: I think the two costs of maintenance would be comparable; I think there is some additional cost on the Bay Bridge, but I think it is around $240,000"—That was the figure which I quoted just a few minutes ago.

"Supervisor McSheehy: Then if that amount were allowed by the state there would be no deficit?

"Supervisor Brown: The deficit would be reduced by $240,000."

I think that speaks for itself.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: The question before the Board is: Do we want to send a committee to Sacramento, and Supervisor McSheehy wants representation on that committee?

THE PRESIDENT: A committee of three, and one of the three to be Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I am opposed to that. I think today, in sending to the Governor the result of the vote, with a copy of the transcript, and a copy of the resolution, we have done all we have been asked to do. He didn't ask us to come up there and convince him as to our position. He asked us, as representatives of the People of San Francisco to state our views on whether we recommended the purchase of the franchise of the ferries. This information we are giving him. That is all we could do regarding our action. I want to say further, that if I had it to do over again tomorrow, I would vote the same way. With the greatest respect to the people of Oakland, and the other sections, I can't concede to them any greater knowledge or ability than possessed by this Board; and certainly, we, in the consideration of this problem are much more vitally concerned than are the representatives of any other county, except the other counties involved in the Golden Gate Bridge. So we have met this problem, and met it honestly. I am going to ignore this "selling out" talk of our friend. I don't think he has any monopoly on honesty and integrity in comparison with the other members of the Board. I think their motives are just as clean and pure as those of our good friend Supervisor McSheehy. However, we won't go into that unless it becomes necessary, and then, of course, nobody shirks a duty. However, I am convinced, and I don't think it is advisable to send a committee.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there anybody else who desires the floor before Supervisor McSheehy again takes the floor?—Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: There is a citizen here, but I am sure if I asked for the privilege of the floor for him it would be denied, so I wish to ask this citizen just a few questions in reference to certain information that he just attempted to tell me, and I would like to have him tell the entire Board. Mr. Reed—

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Just a minute. I will rise to a point.

THE PRESIDENT: What is your point of order?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I would like to ask if the matter on which Supervisor McSheehy intends to interrogate this gentleman is the question of sending a committee to Sacramento? If it is not, I will object.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: That is the question entirely.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. Reed, will you kindly tell this Board just what you told me a moment ago in reference to certain people going to Sacramento?

MR. REED: The City Attorney of Alameda, and the City Manager of Alameda, are tomorrow to present the resolution of Alameda to the Toll Bridge Authority; and the City Attorney of San Leandro, the City Attorney of Albany, and the City Attorney of Berkeley, are to do the same for those cities. The Board of Supervisors of Alameda County will be represented by one of the District Attorney's deputies who will also present the position of the Alameda County Supervisors, and the joint action of all the group who met at the Supervisors' meeting.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now, Members, you have heard the statement of Mr. Reed. San Francisco is going to do nothing except to send up the Journal, and that is all—just merely sending that up, stating nine members acquiesced in the Governor's request that this purchase be made. I tried last Monday that it means a great deal to San Francisco to have the good will of the cities across the Bay. They are unalterably opposed to this purchase, and I hope you will give some consideration, and I trust you will send this committee up there to present your side of this controversy. If you send the committee up, and it is composed of two members of the majority, and one member of the minority, I can simply make this promise,—going up there as a member of the minority,—that I will place in writing my resolution. I will place in writing my statement to the Governor of this state, and my statement simply will contain the facts briefly outlined, not over 200 words, and that is all, and those 200 words will be placed in writing. There will be two members representing this Board, and the other members can treat the other—treat the entire matter just as they please. But I think the position of the minority membership of this Board, and their views, should be stated to His Excellency, I think that should be done in the interest of fair play. The hearing will take place tomorrow at 11 o'clock, in the Capitol Building, so I was informed today, and I trust this Board in wisdom will allow this committee to go up there, and present this all-important matter as it should be presented, and not attempt to condone it, by merely presenting this resolution and the vote. You have the votes, do as you please, but fair play, and the people of this City should be given some consideration, especially in reference to an expenditure that will eventually call for $12,000,000, and immediately call for an expenditure of $6,000,000.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Reilly.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I would like to express my viewpoint in opposing the motion before us to send a committee to attend this hearing tomorrow. I believe, Supervisor McSheehy, that this Board acted in the best interests of San Francisco whom we represent. I have been elected by the people of San Francisco, not by the people of Alameda County. I have the greatest respect for those gentlemen, but I am not so sure that they have the particular welfare of the taxpayers of San Francisco at heart. Probably they have. However, I am a representative of the people of San Francisco. I believe furthermore that the Golden Gate Bridge is a problem that this Board has to be interested in, because the people of the East Bay will not be called upon to pay any deficit of the Golden Gate Bridge, but the taxpayers of San Francisco will have to meet the bill, and as a member of the finance committee, I know our problem will be a very serious one, and we must take into consideration the problem of this county. We have, by a vote of nine to two, given our expression to the Governor, and when we caused that resolution to be passed we tell them just what we think. Alameda, and the East Bay community have their say at this time, and they are unanimously opposed, but they look upon the problem differently than we do. I feel furthermore the suggestion that has been made by Supervisor McSheehy regarding the maintenance, or obtaining around $240,000, is a very good point, and if it is possible to obtain those funds, and our citizens will be in a better position if they can be received, and the bridge will be on a substantially sound paying basis. Again, I feel that the East Bay communities have a problem different than ours, and the matter will be presented to His Excellency by this resolution, and it is a protection to the San Francisco taxpayers. I feel, being one of their elected officials, that we should take into consideration our own taxpayers, and I don't believe any member of this Board today should have any personal criticism in voting as he saw fit last Monday. It is all very fine for our neighbors to come here, and I stated we appreciated their views. We appreciated hearing from them, but after all we are the elected officials of San Francisco, and when I can save the taxpayers of San Francisco a sum of money, and I can be of any assistance in reducing the taxpayers' burden, and protecting their tremendous investment in this bridge, I feel it is my duty to vote as I voted last Monday, and I am not afraid to tell the people of San Francisco, if called upon, to give my views, the way I voted. This thing of dragging out a red herring, and clouding this entire matter with suspicion does not bespeak the dignity of this Board. We have had the courage of sending our views to the Governor, and we did act in our opinion for the best interests of the people we represent. It is all very fine to talk about this, that, or the other thing, and to cloud this entire problem with suspicion, but there is nothing to be suspicious about. It is a cold, business transaction. It is the problem of the taxpayers of San Francisco, and not the problem of our sister cities across the Bay. I believe we have been very kind to our sister cities. We have given their citizens an opportunity to make a living here. The ferries are crowded each night with those who receive employment in San Francisco, and whose salaries are paid by San Francisco employers; and I think it is about time that this Board gives some consideration to San Francisco taxpayers, and for those who use the bridge. Shouldn't they then pay their share of the cost of the bridge? They are fundamentally the greater users of the bridge, and the man who uses the bridge the most, the one who receives the greater amount of service should pay the greater cost of the bridge, and when I say we have been kind to them, we have not been kind with the counties involved in the Bay Bridge. San Francisco, to the tune of 85 per cent, is responsible for the deficits of our great bridge, and together with our sister counties in the north we are responsible for it if something happens; and if a large deficit takes place, and if the deficit results in an increase in the tax rate of 9 or 10 or 11 or 12 cents, we are the ones who will pay it. I would like to hear what some of our citizens will have to say about the action of members of this Board in that case. It is my duty, first, to protect the interests of San Francisco's citizens, and after that is done then I am willing to look forward and help the other fellow, but let's take care of home first. Self preservation is the first law of nature, and I want to say to the members of the Board I believe we have acted wisely in this matter. We are protecting a tremendous investment, and I think experience will show, as time goes on, that we have acted wisely in protecting our investment, and reducing tolls on both bridges, and I say to the nine members of the Board who have voted favorably, that I think the citizens will say to you, "Well done, my good and faithful servants."

THE PRESIDENT: Roll call.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Will the clerk please state the question?

THE PRESIDENT: The motion is that a committee of three be sent to Sacramento, and Supervisor McSheehy be made a member of the committee.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Supervisor Brown offered as a substitute that a committee of three be appointed.

THE PRESIDENT: It failed of a second.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I would like to explain my vote. There is nothing personal in my voting against this, nothing personal against Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Oh, no, I realize that, Supervisor.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Aye.

THE CLERK: Eight "Noes," three "Ayes."

THE PRESIDENT: The motion is lost.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I am going to ask the Board's permission to have a transcript of this matter prepared. There have been many personal allusions here which are not in consonance with the facts, and I believe the record should be clear.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection? So ordered.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Mr. President, is there any possibility of getting a letter from the attorney of the Bridge District as to the matter of obtaining assistance from the state in the way of maintenance? I would like to have that made a matter of record if possible.

THE PRESIDENT: To have a communication sent from this Board to the attorney of the bridge district—Is there any objection to that?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: May I ask, along the same lines—

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection to this? So ordered.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: May I ask, along those same lines, that the Golden Gate Bridge District send to this Board of Supervisors a statement as to its finances, the amount of receipts and disbursements from the time that the bridge was opened to the 1st day of March of this year?

THE PRESIDENT: You can do that under roll call. We are under Supervisor Brown's name, and Supervisor Colman is next.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: You permitted Supervisor Reilly to make a statement, and you permitted Supervisor Brown to make a statement.

THE PRESIDENT: To make a statement, but not a motion.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I didn't make it as a motion.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: You didn't make it as a motion?

THE PRESIDENT: I say we are under roll call, and I am trying to get to Supervisor Colman. We have been under Mr. Brown's name all this time.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: That is true, but Supervisor, in fairness, you allowed Supervisor Reilly to make this request—

THE PRESIDENT: What did I allow Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: You allowed Supervisor Reilly's request for the attorney to give certain information. There was no objection. You allowed Supervisor Brown—

THE PRESIDENT: What is your request?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: My request is that the Golden Gate Bridge District give to this Board a financial statement as to receipts and disbursements from the time it opened to March 1st of this year; and also that the Golden Gate Bridge give to this Board the data of the date that a request was made from the state authorities for a maintenance charge on the Golden Gate Bridge.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection to that method of proceeding? It is so ordered. Will you call the next name on roll call?

Governor to Intervene with California State Fair Commission for Appropriation to Complete Livestock Pavilion, Agricultural District No. 1A.

(Code No. 18.06)

Also, Resolution No. 3893, as follows:

Whereas, San Francisco has two hundred and fifty thousand dollars invested in the Livestock Pavilion under the jurisdiction of Agricultural District No. 1A, and said appropriation was unanimously passed by the Board upon the declaration filed with this Board by the directors of our forthcoming International Exposition, that they intended to hold livestock at said pavilion during the World's Fair as per communication attached hereto; and

Whereas, thereafter the California Legislature passed a measure appropriating five million dollars for said exposition purposes, with the distinct understanding that one-half million of same would be set up for completion of building and the holding of a livestock show on the site of the pavilion at Visitacion Valley; and further, that an agreement was signed between the Exposition officials and the directors of Agricultural District No. 1A to that effect; furthermore, his Excellency, Governor Merriam, in appointing the California State Fair Commission, charged that committee to keep said pledges and expressed his own opinion that the livestock pavilion and grounds should and must be completed; and

Whereas, the said State Commission has apparently decided to appropriate money to hold the livestock exhibit at Treasure Island in temporary buildings and has appropriated the sum of two hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars for that purpose; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board of Supervisors respectfully requests his Excellency, Governor Merriam, to intervene with said State Commission to the end that agreements solemnly made, will be kept; that the livestock show will be held where promised, and the southern part of San Francisco and this community be much benefited thereby; and be it further

Resolved, That upon the adoption of this resolution or motion to the same effect, that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the members of the State Commission on World's Fair and to the directors of the Golden Gate International Exposition, and to the Governor of the State of California.

Communication From Exposition Company Livestock Show, Agricultural District 1-A.

The Clerk read a communication from Leland Cutler, President of the Exposition Company, reciting the history of the Livestock Pavilion and its relation to the Exposition, declaring that the Exposition Company did everything possible to provide the 1939 Livestock Show at the Agricultural District 1-A site, at Visitacion Valley, but that legal difficulties and long delays in construction of plant now necessitates holding the show on Treasure Island. The time element, in the opinion of the Livestock Committee of the Exposition, is the determining factor. He urged that the Board of Supervisors do nothing in the matter to embarrass the Exposition.

Resolution No. 3910, as follows:

Whereas, the fast intercoastal liners of the Panama Pacific and Grace Lines were forced to abandon their service to the Pacific due to a provision of the Maritime Act of 1936 cancelling all operating subsidy to ships in intercoastal trade; and

Whereas, these ships were major units as naval auxiliaries and in their intercoastal runs readily accessible in an emergency; and

Whereas, world-wide conditions, especially in the Pacific, demand that the greatest of naval strength be concentrated in American waters; and

Whereas, the Welch and McAdoo bills now before Congress will correct the present disastrous situation; and

Whereas, McAdoo-Welch resolution would give one year's grace for the Panama Pacific Liners, until this corrective legislation can be acted upon; now, therefore, be it

Communication From the Mayor Re: Curtailment of Expenses and Denial of Salary Increases.

The following was presented and read by the Clerk:

April 11, 1938.

The Honorable the Board of Supervisors, City and County of San Francisco.

Gentlemen: For the past two weeks I have carefully studied estimates of revenues and changes in the revenue structure in connection with the budget which I must shortly submit.

I have given detailed consideration to the departmental requests as filed with me.

These requests, if approved, would necessitate a tax rate of $4.87. This is unthinkable. I will not permit.

It is my duty to drastically curtail the proposed expenditures. I propose to do so. There can be no salary increases in the ensuing year. There can be no extension of departmental service. There can be no new jobs.

Any departmental plans, however desirable, which conflict with this policy of retrenchment, must be abandoned. Additions to existing equipment must be restricted to items of urgent necessity within the most literal meaning of the words "urgent necessity."

Our moral obligations to needy San Franciscans and our legal obligations to creditors have always been met and we will continue to meet them.

Many requests have been filed with me by various groups seeking extension or liberalization of the service now rendered by many departments. However desirable these extensions may be, the answer to those requests must be—simply—"This year the taxpayers cannot afford to provide those increased services."

It is inevitable that there should be certain salary inequalities in a personnel as large and as varied as ours. There are cases, I know, where earnest effort and application to duty on the part of municipal employees warrant salary increases. I do not deny the justice of such claims, but I must defer consideration of them.

There are departments of local government which are understaffed. I regret this, but I now call upon all departmental executives and all employees to do a little more than their share of work, confident in the belief that if they do, the people of San Francisco—their employers—will later reward them.

On the subject of San Francisco's participation in the Exposition and on the matter of co-operating with whatever program the Federal Government evolves for the stimulation of employment and business, I will shortly submit a special message to your honorable Board.

We are going to trim our sails, because the skies look cloudy. When the clouds lift, we will again unfurl them. Until they do, no one has the right to exact from the taxpayers a penny more than is essentially necessary to carry on the essential obligations of government.

To that policy I stand irrevocably committed.

Yours very truly,

ANGELO J. ROSSI, Mayor.

Motion.

Supervisor Roncovieri moved that for the present the matter of salary standardization be not further considered and that report on standardization of salaries, as submitted by the Civil Service Commission, be returned to the Civil Service Commission for further study and without prejudice.

Motion carried.

City Attorney to Advise as to Necessity of Franchise for Operation of Ferries Between San Francisco and Exposition Shoals.

Supervisor Uhl requested that City Attorney be requested to furnish written opinion as to whether operation of ferries between San Francisco mainland and the San Francisco Shoals (Exposition site) will require a franchise.

Motion carried.

Old Age Security Application Form.

The following was read by Supervisor Uhl, under his name, at roll call:

Form Aged 29, October, 1937,
State of California,
Department of Social Welfare.
13077-OA

Notice to Applicant of Approval by Board of Supervisors Old Age Security

Your application for aid under the Old Age Security Act was approved by the San Francisco County Board of Supervisors for $22.50, effective April 1, 1938. This grant is based on your present circumstances and is in accordance with the existing laws. It is subject to revision with a change in your circumstances. If you are dissatisfied with the action of the Board of Supervisors, you may write the State Department of Social Welfare, located in the State Office Building, at Sacramento, but we suggest you first discuss the matter with the County Welfare Department, at Room 105, Health Center Building.

Supervisor Uhl thereupon called attention to the sentence being in line six, "If you are dissatisfied, etc., etc.," and declared that the language of the application form put the blame on the Board of Supervisors for decisions made by the Welfare Commission, of which the Board of Supervisors knew nothing. He requested that the Welfare Commission be requested to correct the form, eliminating the language in the seventh line "with the action of the Board of Supervisors."

Referred to Public Welfare Committee.

Distribution of Hetch Hetchy Power.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Here is a resolution.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy presents the following:

(Code No. 15.09)

Resolution No. 3922, as follows:

"Whereas, since 1879, the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has had a franchise in the City and County of San Francisco for the sale of gas and electricity for illuminating purposes only; and

"Whereas, during most of this time and now, the said company, without any authority, has been distributing and selling gas and electricity for other than illuminating purposes in the City and County of San Francisco; and

"Whereas, this company's operation without a franchise for the distribution and sale of power (other than heat), has resulted in a loss to this City and County of over $300,000 in each of the last several years which loss this City is now sustaining and will continue to suffer at the rate of approximately $1,000 each day; and

"Whereas, the failure of the City to bring an action against the company for past delinquencies has permitted the running of the Statute of Limitations on its claims against the company and the loss to the City of several millions of dollars; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the City Attorney be and he is hereby instructed to file suit forthwith on behalf of the City against the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to recover as damages the amounts due the City from the company by reason of its selling and disposing of gas and electricity for other than lighting purposes without any franchise or other legal right so to do."

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President?

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I would just like to say a word before I ask for the suspension of the rules, and that is this: As I state in this resolution—and I brought a similar resolution over a year ago—we are losing over a thousand dollars a day, and that is a lot of money, simply because the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has no franchise, and according to law they should be paying two per cent for the operation of their plant today, and that amounts to the huge sum of about $300,000 a year.

In this resolution all I am asking is that action be brought against that company by our own City Attorney. We have had this matter up here several times, and I am going to ask at this time for a suspension of the rules and the adoption of this resolution so as to start the machinery in motion, because if you do suspend the rules and adopt this resolution under these conditions you will permit your City Attorney to bring an action—and every day that it is delayed there is that loss of between $800 and $1,000 every day, and time is running against it, the franchise is going on. Do you realize that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company are selling to the people of the City of San Francisco—their gross income is $24,000,000 some odd hundred thousand dollars, annually, and it only takes $30,000,000—the entire tax rate amounts to $30,000,000; and just think, $24,000,000, the gross receipts of this company, and they are running without a franchise.

So I say to you members of this Board I trust and hope under these conditions you will not send this to committee, because sending it to committee will mean delay, and I hope that you will suspend the rules and ask the City Attorney to bring action against the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

I will move, under those conditions, members of the Board, the suspension of the rules.

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Second the motion.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Mr. Chairman.

THE CHAIRMAN: Suspension of the rules has been requested. Is there objection?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I object to the suspension of the rules, Mr. President. First of all, on the ground that I believe it is a very important question, the question of power, and it is a very important question to us at this time. This should go to committee, and that will not result in any unusual delay, I don't believe. There has been an unusual delay already, evidently several years' delay, but due to a case in Los Angeles that has been called to the attention of the members of the Board of Supervisors, and our officials, to the effect that we have the right to this revenue, or the granting of a new franchise according to the suggestion you are making in this resolution, and to receive revenue for San Francisco. Now that we want to do, but I don't believe we should take hasty action, and this is hasty legislation.

I believe that the Utilities Committee of the Board should go into the entire phase of this with the City Attorney to determine by law how many years we can go back in a retroactive figure, and before we jump at conclusions, be informed by our City Attorney, and have the recommendation of the Public Utilities Committee as to the action we should take. I trust the committee will meet this week and hear the subject matter of your resolution, but I am opposed at this time to hasty legislation. It should go to committee, and I oppose the suspension of the rules.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I realize the objection of one supervisor will naturally send it to committee.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Mr. President, a resolution—I don't know whether it is the same as this—did come before the Board, and it was brought at the request of the City Attorney, and it authorized the City Attorney to begin negotiations between the City and the company for the purpose of getting this income. That came from your committee, Supervisor Meyer, I think. Now that was postponed before because of Supervisor McSheehy. I think at that time some of us voted against further delay, but Supervisor McSheehy held it up. At that time we were ready to pass it. Now I agree with Supervisor Reilly, I don't know the wording of this resolution, I have just heard it read, but I agree with him that it should be gone over by the City Attorney and the Public Utilities Committee of our Board, and brought back to the Board with the proper recommendation after study. But the delay heretofore was, I think, three times our colleague, Supervisor McSheehy, asked to have it put over, and asked to have it referred back to his own committee. I may be in error on that,—am I, Mr. Chairman of the committee?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Yes, that is correct.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: That was my recollection. Now, if we have a different set up it ought to have the careful scrutiny of the City Attorney.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, I realize that the objection of one member can have any resolution sent back to committee, but in reply to Supervisor Colman I want to say that this is an entirely different matter. It is not on all-fours in any shape or manner with the other. The other resolution was one in which the Pacific Gas and Electric Company asked us to ask them to apply for a franchise, which places us in an entirely different position.

However, Supervisor Reilly has objected, and so therefore it goes back to committee, and I have no objection—I could not object if I wanted to, because our rules are very strict.

THE PRESIDENT: Public Utilities Committee.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I have another resolution, Mr. President.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy presents the following:

(Code No. —)

Resolution No. 3923, as follows:

"Whereas, the United States District Court for the Northern District of California (Southern Division) recently rendered a decision declaring illegal the sale by the City and County of San Francisco to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company of hydro-electric power developed on the Hetch Hetchy project, resulting in a loss to the City of over $2,000,000 a year; and

"Whereas, this decision makes imperative an amendment to the charter to permit the City to engage in the sale and distribution of electric energy produced on the Hetch Hetchy Project through revenue bonds; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That Charter Amendment No. 1, submitted to the voters of this City and County on the 9th day of March, 1937, entitled:

"Describing and setting forth a proposal to the qualified electors of the City and County of San Francisco, State of California, to amend the charter of the City and County of San Francisco by adding a new section thereto to be known as Section 121.1, relating to a system for the generation and distribution of hydro-electric power, and providing for the financing of the cost of said system by the issuance of bonds or other obligations payable wholly out of the revenue of said system, in an amount not to exceed $50,000,000," be re-submitted to the voters at a special election to be consolidated with the state primary election to be held on the 30th day of August, 1938; and be it

"Further Resolved, That the City Attorney be and he is hereby requested to prepare the necessary legislation for the re-submission of Charter Amendment No 1."

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I move reference to committee, Mr. President. That is a very important matter.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Is that your resolution?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: No.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: As author of the resolution, I think I have a right to state my position. I would say naturally I am not going to ask for the suspension of the rules because I realize this resolution has to go to committee. Therefore, I suggest it be sent to the utilities committee of this board.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: It also considers the adoption of a charter amendment?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Yes.

THE PRESIDENT: I feel that it should go to the judiciary committee.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I have no objection.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I would like, with your permission, the privilege, although perhaps out of order, I might go back to my name on roll call—I would like to have the privilege of briefly discussing the proposed amendment.

THE PRESIDENT: Upon the conclusion of the roll call we can re-refer to your name, but the resolution has gone to the judiciary committee.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Well, have you so ruled?

THE PRESIDENT: No, I really did not.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Before you rule, could I discuss it? It is a matter of such importance, and my own views may be different from those of other members of the Board, and it seems to me it would be timely, if you would allow me a few minutes.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair has no objection; but not now. Immediately upon conclusion of the roll call then you can refer back to your name. Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I think an error has been made by yourself, and by Supervisor McSheehy, in even presenting this at this time. I had the same thought, and took it up with the City Attorney, and with Mr. Cahill, and they declare that section 119 of our charter is controlling in the matter of the distribution of electricity or anything else. That section reads:

"Whenever the board of supervisors, as provided in sections 101 to 104, inclusive, of this charter, shall determine that the public interest or necessity demands the acquisition, construction and completion of any public utility or utilities by the city and county, or whenever the electors shall petition the supervisors, as provided in sections 105, 179 and 180 of this charter, for the acquisition of any public utility or utilities, the supervisors must procure a report from the public utilities commission thereon."

Mr. O'Toole, whom I consulted, bringing to him a copy of the charter amendment that had been voted on and defeated, said, "You must follow Section 119 of the charter," and I have had Mr. O'Toole prepare a resolution which I will present under my name, which calls upon the public utilities commission to lay out the plan, and tell us the cost. If you adopt the resolution presented by Supervisor McSheehy, everything would go awry, because Mr. Cahill has declared to me that Plan 7, which he recommended, and which we adopted, is no longer in its entirety, as written, entirely applicable. Many things have happened since Plan 7 was submitted. The Pacific Gas and Electric Company has invested millions of dollars in improvements. That alters largely the situation as it was then, and as it is now. It is possible that when the—Mr. Cahill declared at that time that the cost would be approximately $50,000,000. He said to me it is up very materially; just how much I can't say, but I would not be surprised if it went up to 55 or even 60 million dollars. So that plan which called for the sum of $50,000,000 is out of date, and it must be studied further, and this morning in a further consultation with Mr. Cahill he said it would take several months to prepare a new plan—based upon Plan 7, of course—that was the meat of the whole cocoon—to bring it up to date, and he said it would take several months to do that. I asked him if it was possible to finish it in time to submit it to the people at the August primary, and he said he doubted very much if he could do so, and that after all, being a charter amendment, it would not take effect on the vote of the people, if the people should adopt it, that it would have to wait until at least January of the coming year so that the legislature would approve the amendment as adopted by the people, if the people did adopt it, and he said there is no real hurry, and I need several months. He tried to consult Mr. Ost over the phone, who was not in, but he said it is very difficult for me to give you an approved plan in time for the August primaries.

I say this, because, while it would do no harm to go to the judiciary committee, nothing can come from that resolution at present, and later on I will start the wheels moving in the direction that Supervisor McSheehy desires by presenting a resolution in consonance with Section 119, and this has been prepared by the City Attorney, and they both approved the method.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Mr. President?

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: You allowed Supervisor Roncovieri to speak on the same line, he is speaking on that, and I would like the privilege of speaking briefly on the question.

THE PRESIDENT: I don't think that I can deny it. I don't feel you are referring back to your name now, you are discussing as to what committee it should go, is that correct?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No, I am discussing the matter along the same line as Supervisor Roncovieri.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, objection has been made to the consideration of the resolution at this time, and reference has been asked to committee.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Yes, but—

THE PRESIDENT: And Supervisor Roncovieri was showing that the resolution was in error, and it was out of order. Proceed.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: My point is this: I think Supervisor McSheehy's motion is out of order—not out of order, but untimely, for this reason:—

THE PRESIDENT: He has not made any motion.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: His resolution which has been referred to committee.

THE PRESIDENT: That we are considering referring to committee.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: The Board of Supervisors have gone on record requesting the City Attorney to appear before the United States Court for the purpose of establishing the point that San Francisco is already reasonably legally complying with the Raker Act. It is quite true that the decision was rendered as stated by Supervisor Ron-covieri, but the public utilities commission immediately authorized the City Attorney to take an appeal of that case to a higher court, the United States Court of Appeals, I think it is called, and the City Attorney feels, and the public utilities commission feels—

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, may I ask—

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: —that this should be determined by the highest court of the land—

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I would like the City Attorney to be sent for.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I have no objection. But in view of that fact—

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I rise to a point of order.

THE PRESIDENT: State your point of order.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: The point of order is that this entire discussion is out of order.

THE PRESIDENT: It is all out of order, but I have allowed Supervisor Roncovieri latitude, and it is difficult to refuse Supervisor Colman. However, if you raise the point of order that Supervisor Colman is out of order—

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I raise the point of order.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I wish you wouldn't do that. I will be through in two or three minutes.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I withdraw my point of order.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Will you ask the City Attorney to come here, Mr. President?

THE PRESIDENT: Well, just a minute, about the City Attorney. We are not going into any discussion of this resolution, and if Supervisor McSheehy will state why he wants the City Attorney brought here I will be in a position to determine whether to do that or not.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I say that under my name, under roll call, I am going to ask for the City Attorney to come in, and I have some questions I want to ask about this.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I have here several questions that I carefully compiled on that decision. I think the entire Board is interested, and therefore I ask you kindly to send for the City Attorney.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I will be through in a moment.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, send for the City Attorney.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I claim the next step in the city's interest is to appeal the decision to a higher court, and I think action has been taken along that line. For the Board of Supervisors to now introduce an amendment along this line is a practical admission of the fact that the city's case is weak, and that in the opinion of this Board the city is not complying with the Raker Act. I think that position is inconsistent, and it is not my sincere belief, nor is it the expressed opinion of the Board of Supervisors or of the City Attorney in the brief which he filed before Judge Roche. Also in the decision of Judge Roche he ruled that this contract was not legal. It might be that the City could enter into another contract which is legal. Also there is another course open to the City—a logical consistent course, and that is, after we are fully aware of the legal status of the City—and you will recall that was our purpose, to find that out, in the telegram we sent to the Secretary of the Interior—after we find that out, the next logical step would be to try to have the Raker Act amended by Congress, and have the particular section either amended or stricken out. Now that is my firm belief in the matter, that we are doing harm to nobody, that we are doing great harm to our people to lose this revenue, and we should make every effort to conserve this revenue. The question is a long way from being permanently settled, and we are a long way from settling the legal questions; and that is my thought, that Supervisor McSheehy's motion is not in order, and is not timely.

THE PRESIDENT: Judiciary committee.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: May I say this—I am asking for the same privilege granted to Supervisor Roncovieri, and Supervisor Colman. I won't take much of your time—

THE PRESIDENT: I just want to say to the members of the Board, you can't blame the chair for trying to enforce the rules, and when one man is given latitude every member of the Board has a right and privilege to speak. I permitted Supervisor Roncovieri to speak out of order, Supervisor Colman has spoken out of order, and now Supervisor McSheehy wants the same privilege, and I can't stop him.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: All right, I won't abuse it; I simply say this to Supervisor Roncovieri: I think, Supervisor Roncovieri, we are entirely in accord, with one thought in mind, and that is to present to the people of San Francisco a bond issue for the purpose of purchasing a distributing system. I won't go into details—I won't attempt it—but if you have a resolution that is better than the one I have asked to be presented to committee, very well, if it goes to the same committee I can assure you as chairman of that committee it will receive due consideration, and the proper consideration, irrespective of any resolution that I introduce, because I don't look upon the verbiage of a resolution as meaning anything, it is the intent of the resolution which is important. I say this to the members of the Board, I naturally noted in the press that you contemplated presenting a resolution—or one day you contemplated it, and another day it was not contemplated, but irrespective of what you do I know what I am going to do, and trying to do, and what I will do, if I can receive the support of six members of this Board, and that is to present an ordinance to the City of San Francisco asking them to authorize revenue bonds to the amount of $50,000,000, or thereabouts, for the purpose of a distributing system for our hydro-electric power. We have a huge investment there, and if you go into the details you will find it amounts to approximately $160,000,000—that includes the interest that has been spent on this project. So I say it is a very important matter that is before us, and let's not quibble on who introduced the resolution. Let's introduce the correct resolution, and let's have the resolution presented in the form that the majority of the people will adopt.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I would like to comment on the resolution.

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed, Supervisor Reilly.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I would just like to say this, that I am equally interested with Supervisor McSheehy and the others to determine some course to follow on the problem of power and the possible revenue for San Francisco; but I can't at this time let the controversy go by without just out of line a little reminding the members of the Board that this contract was a 24-hour contract, and if some of those who are so serious about this water problem had attacked it some time previous to today, there was nothing to stop this Board, or any member of the Board, from attempting to break the contract. Probably it should have been broken. I don't know. But certainly we should give a little time and consideration to it, and it has been carried along, and in checking the record, as far as I can, I don't think any member of this Board has ever attempted to break the contract with the P. G. & E. I think that probably should have been done a long time ago, and I am not going to be frightened at this time into following somebody's ideas on power. I am going to give it consideration, but I do say, I wonder why a contract has been allowed to go so long without any attempt having been made to break it.

THE PRESIDENT: The matter has been referred to the public utilities committee—

THE CLERK: Judiciary committee. There is a charter amendment involved.

THE PRESIDENT: The judiciary committee, yes.

* * * * *

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I will ask that this resolution be read.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri presents the following:

(Code No. ....)

Resolution No. 3928, as follows:

"Whereas, the Charter of the City and County of San Francisco provides that it is the declared purpose and intention of the people of the City and County, when public interest and necessity demand, that public utilities shall be gradually acquired and ultimately owned by the City and County; and

"Whereas, by reason of the decision of the District Court of the United States, in and for the Northern District of California, it has been determined that the present method of distributing the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy system is a violation of Section 6 of the Raker Act; and

"Whereas, by reason of said decision public interest and necessity demand the acquisition of a municipal distribution system for the purpose of distributing directly to the people of San Francisco the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy project; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the public utilities commission of the City and County of San Francisco be requested to submit a report to this Board of Supervisors for the acquisition by the City and County of San Francisco of a distribution system for the purpose of distributing the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy project directly to the people of San Francisco; said system to be in accordance with Plan No. 7 heretofore submitted by said Public Utilities Commission to this Board of Supervisors, and said Public Utilities Commission is hereby requested to bring said Plan No. 7 down to the present date."

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Mr. Chairman, I would request that this be sent to committee for study, and that they report as early as possible—that is, the public utilities committee?

THE PRESIDENT: No, judiciary committee.

THE CLERK: This is not a charter amendment.

THE PRESIDENT: Isn't it? I thought it was. Perhaps you are right.

THE CLERK: Utilities committee. It is the same as it was before, it is just asking for a report.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I think—I would like to be corrected if I am wrong—but there was a special committee that was appointed before, the public utilities committee of this Board, and the finance committee, when we studied the various plans submitted by Mr. Cahill. If that is the way it was done, probably it should be done that way this time.

THE PRESIDENT: We have a very fine public utilities committee; let it go to the public utilities committee.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, not to conflict, I don't want to get into any debate, but I introduced a resolution, and we won't talk about which one is right or wrong, but you referred it to the judiciary committee—

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, yours is a proposed charter amendment.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Well, this does likewise, doesn't it?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Oh, no.

THE PRESIDENT: No, this is an appeal to the commission to render a report to this Board. Entirely different.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Asking the public utilities commission to report to this Board on the Plan 7.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: To me it doesn't matter what committee it goes to. As Supervisor Roncovieri said, there was a special Hetch Hetchy Committee appointed a couple of years ago, that consisted of a number of members of the Board, and the last matter that was brought in was brought in by that particular committee. If you want to refer it to that committee, it is all right. I would rather see it go to a large committee, because some of us are looking for results, irrespective of what committee it goes to.

THE PRESIDENT: I have sent your resolution to the judiciary committee.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: If you want to send this to the public utilities committee, I have no objection. I would ask that you send mine to the utilities committee, because I don't want to see a duplication.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, then, I will refer it to a joint committee of public utilities, and judiciary.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: That is satisfactory to me. Both resolutions will be referred to that joint committee?

THE PRESIDENT: That is correct.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: And I recognize Supervisor Meyer as the chairman of the joint committee, you having named the joint committees of the public utilities and judiciary, and he stated a meeting would be called for next Friday, at two o'clock. That is satisfactory to me, and I would ask that the clerk send the proper notices.

SUPERVISOR MEYER: That means-Supervisor Ratto, and Supervisor Mead.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: That is satisfactory to me.

THE CLERK: A letter addressed to the "Honorable Warren Shannon, President, Board of Supervisors, San Francisco, California," reading as follows:

"April 12, 1938.

"Dear Supervisor Shannon:

"I have just been informed by the Interior Department that the Federal court has decided against the city in the Hetch Hetchy power case, and has sustained the government on every point. Thus far I have not seen the decision, so I am not personally familiar with its details.

"In my opinion, the logical thing for the city to do now is to do exactly what Los Angeles did two years ago and file suit against the P. G. & E., to restrain the corporation from further illegal use of the streets for the distribution and sale of electricity and gas for any purpose other than lighting. The city should file at the same time corollary suits for damages against the company for illegal use of the streets in the past, within the statute of limitations. It should then immediately begin negotiations with the P. G. & E. for the purchase of its distribution system.

"As I have told you before, Los Angeles succeeded in compelling the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company to stipulate in court that the franchise under which it was operating two years ago did not authorize it to distribute or sell either electricity or gas for any purpose other than lighting, and the city exacted from the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Company an agreement to sell its electric distribution system to the city at a price to be fixed by arbitration before it would grant the company a new franchise of which it was in absolute need.

"The present situation in San Francisco is on all fours with the situation which existed in Los Angeles when that city finally acquired the private distribution system. It would be nothing short of treachery to the best interests of the City for San Francisco to pursue any course other than exactly the same course which Los Angeles pursued two years ago. The City ought to retain as an advisor one of the legal experts of the Los Angeles Water and Power Bureau who was connected with the litigation to which I have referred.

"At the same time, in my opinion, the city should prepare a charter amendment authorizing the issuance of revenue bonds for the purchase of the electric distribution system from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in San Francisco. Unless the experts of the Public Utilities Commission raise some valid objection I can see no reason why this charter amendment should not be identical with the one submitted to the voters last year. The date of submission of this charter amendment should be fixed by the Board of Supervisors at a time which it considers most appropriate and favorable to its passage.

"If I have seemed to state my opinions on this subject in rather positive terms, please pardon me, for as you know I have been vitally interested in this matter for many years. San Francisco is confronted with an extremely critical problem, which should be dealt with in forceful and forthright manner for the public good.

"With kindest regards, Sincerely yours, Franck R. Havenner."

THE PRESIDENT: I will refer that to the joint committee.

Discussion.

THE PRESIDENT: Number 11 on the Calendar, the appropriation of $5,000, Raker Act litigation.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Supervisor McSheehy asked temporary postponement.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Yes. Mr. President, and members of the Board, I have asked the City Attorney to be here. He was also asked by Supervisor Uhl to be here on another matter. I wanted to ask the City Attorney about this appropriation, and I have asked him the direct question: Does the expenditure of this money come out of the surplus of the Hetch Hetchy power operating fund? Of course, that eventually finds itself into our own budget, or the water department, so it is six of one and half a dozen of the other. So I am asking the City Attorney about this expenditure.

MR. O'TOOLE: Well, that amount of $5,000—I think it has been mostly expended already—but under the authority given in the charter, when this litigation was about to be tried the Public Utilities Commission desired to get assistant counsel who was familiar with the early history of this Hetch Hetchy contract, and on the recommendation of the manager of utilities and with the approval of the commission, the approval of the Mayor, they retained Mr. Robert Searls. A portion of this sum will go for that purpose. The other will be—some of it, I suppose another five or six hundred dollars, will go to pay for the transcript of the testimony taken on the trial, and the remainder will go to provide, when it gets to another court—in other words, we can't fight without the sinews of war, Supervisor. That is about all I know. I don't know as I could break it down any more than that. Mr. Searls stated that if he were to fix his fee in advance he would necessarily have to fix a much higher fee, and if we would pay him as it went along it would be much more reasonable. Now when you come to litigation that means to the city the sum of two or three million dollars a year it is rather sizeable litigation and deserves an adequate fee.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, and members of the Board: This matter is an old matter, has been before this Board some twenty odd years, right in the Board for 12 years, the simple matter of our own investment in Hetch Hetchy. We have made that investment, and you have heard me tell you what it amounts to, that it amounts to the sum of $160,000,000.

Now I know Mr. Searls. I was on this Board quite a number of years ago when Mr. Searls was assistant City Attorney, and he was, and now is, an advocate of the present 24 hour contract. I think Mr. Searles wrote that contract, and is a known advocate of selling this power to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. Mr. Searls is a good lawyer, but he doesn't think as some members of this Board are thinking, or as some of these members some 12 years ago thought, and he doesn't think as the majority of the people of San Francisco today think; and I remember well when every advocate of the present method of selling the power to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company were defeated for the office that they aspired, even including his own superior officer. There has been no change that I know of. We have tried three different times to purchase—to have the people of this city authorize bonds to purchase that power distributing system, and three times the Pacific Gas and Electric Company have defeated that; and it was only the other day that it was broadcast in our own papers, that their expenditures in 1937, boldly stated, that they had expended the sum of $25,234, for the purpose of defeating the last bond issue—a year ago last March. Now it is a sad condition when a company that sells an output to this city of twenty-four million and one hundred and some odd thousand dollars can go to the people and say, "Yes, I have spent this money, what are you going to do about it?" It goes in as an expenditure, and you will have to pay for it as increased rates. Now you are asking some of the members of this Board, who have been consistently advocating the sale of our own power, to approve an expenditure of $5,000 for the purpose of going out, and asking the repeal of the decision of Judge Roche in reference to this all important matter. You are asking some of us to employ a man who, in season and out of season, has advocated the power contract as it is written today; and who is the author of the particular contract in question. There is no one who has, in season and out of season, advocated the power contract more than Attorney Searls. Now I have got to be right with myself as a member of this Board, and I can't, and will not allow myself to vote for an appropriation of this kind under these conditions.

MR. O'TOOLE: Just let me ask you a question: We have been given six months by Judge Roche, when the injunction will become effective. There is no more chance of San Francisco distributing its power within six months, whether it is buy or build, than there is of my reaching up to the ceiling while standing on the floor. Now as far as Mr. Searls is concerned, under the direction of this Board, and with the approval of the Utilities Commission, the City Attorney—not the direction of this Board, but on the motion of Supervisor Shannon, the Secretary of the Interior was requested to bring suit to determine the legality of this contract, and the matter is in the courts now. All that you say of Mr. Searls may be absolutely true. I am no advocate of the Pacific Gas and Electric, and I guess, as far as my record in San Francisco, it will compare with anyone else's on the question of public ownership; but as a lawyer, when I have a job to do it is my duty to throw everything I have into the case to win that case, and I wouldn't want anybody sitting at my side assisting me who was convinced that the other side of the controversy was the right one. As long as we were sent into court it was the sworn duty of the City Attorney, and every assistant in his office, to make every effort to win the case. When the case is finally determined—And Judges are not always right, and I am offering no criticism of the opinion of Judge Roche, but still I can say that I differ with it in a great many particulars, and that does not mean I am not for public ownership. This $5,000 will be used, not only in this litigation, but to carry out the purposes of your next resolution, number 15 on the Calendar, wherein I was directed on your motion to negotiate with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and see what we should do toward recovering back pay to the city due on amounts of electricity sold in the city; and if I didn't think we needed $5,000 I wouldn't ask for it. As I say, most of it has been already expended, or I should say has already been incurred, and we have a moral obligation to pay it. As far as the $5,000 is concerned it will make no difference in the stand of the City Attorney on Municipal ownership. The City Attorney will continue to fight this case until somebody in authority tells him not to; and as I say, it is very difficult to carry on litigation, especially in the Federal court, where the fees are very high, without the sinews of war.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I am not differing with the City Attorney as to his duty, but I have a duty as a supervisor that I want to perform as my conscience dictates. I want to be consistent, and I have advocated throughout the city distribution of our own power. I have gone into details, and given a lot of time to it, probably as much in time as anyone on this Board; and I can not consistently vote for this appropriation of $5,000. I am sorry if our City Attorney has allowed himself to go so far as to spend some of this money—

MR. O'TOOLE: Oh, don't worry about that.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: —and I am very desirous of not having any personal difference between you and I, because I don't want that. I am sorry, nevertheless, but I say to this Board, you voted—you advocated, the membership of this Board, to place before the People of this city a bond issue for the purpose of distributing our own power. We had a wonderful bond issue, well written, and I hope this Board in its wisdom will again attempt to place before the people of the City and County a bond issue saying that they can expend $50,000,000 for the purpose of distributing our own hydro electric power.

MR. O'TOOLE: That is in the progress of preparation now.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I know it is; and I say to you, and to the membership of this Board, if the Board took a firm stand against the appeal of this decision, and not attempt to appeal it, and carried it forth to the people in the form of a bond issue, asking the people to issue revenue bonds for that amount of money so that they could distribute their own power, so that we could give the people of this city cheap electricity, and so that we could place this city in the position Los Angeles is in today, I think we would have accomplished something. Our city is going back, not forward. I say this to you, members of the Board, and I say it earnestly, and I will say it, and broadcast it wherever I can: It is up to this Board. This Board has the responsibility. You can blow hot, and you can blow cold, or you can take a firm stand on matters of this kind; and if we do take a firm stand on this matter today it will mean to the people that this Board is firmly in favor of public ownership. I know the membership of this Board as it was constituted 10 years ago, because nine members of this Board were elected positively through the stand they took on this all important matter of public ownership. Every officer of this city government that went up for election, who took part in that campaign favoring the so-called 24 hour contract was defeated—new men were elected throughout this entire city government. I don't think the people have changed, but the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has got itself in the position that they can go out today and say, "I can spend anything I wish to spend for the purpose of attacking the public ownership of utilities, in other words the distribution of your own power; that that should not take place," and they spend a huge sum of money, $25,254, and you are paying for it in your rates. So I say to you, if you want to go on record and show you are consistent, in season and out of season, you will vote this particular appropriation down.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Mr. President, may I ask this question: Didn't the Board of Supervisors vote to have the City Attorney go into court on this case?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Yes.

SUPERVISOR UHL: If we voted that, naturally it is within the discretion of the City Attorney to furnish his own assistant. I presume Section 22 of the Charter prevents us from saying who he should employ.

MR. O'TOOLE: Yes—he was employed by the Public Utilities Commission. They asked especially for him.

SUPERVISOR UHL: It seems to me we have nothing else to do but to appropriate the money.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: If the Board did not vote to appropriate this money to appeal this decision, the Board would be taking $2,200,000 of the tax payers money and throwing it in the river. The Board of Supervisors unanimously, practically, as stated by the City Attorney, requested Secretary Ickes—stated that it was the desire of the Board to have the legal status of the city determined. Accordingly, the first suit was filed in Judge Roche's court. It is true, as has been stated, that his decision has been adverse; but it is a common practice, when the amount involved is so large, and the legal point is so important, that an appeal is taken. If the next decision is adverse it might be advisable to take it to a higher court of the land, and if that fails there is still another step, namely, trying to have the Raker Act amended.

The people of San Francisco determined only last March—March the 9th—that they did not want to go into the hydro electric energy business, and they did not authorize the issuance of revenue bonds by even a majority vote. There were 13,000 more “No” votes than “Aye” votes; and it is interesting to note in that connection, that in the Fifth Congressional District, a majority favored revenue bonds, and in the Fourth a sufficient majority to offset the 8 or 9 hundred majority in the Fifth, and rolling up a 13,000 majority of “No” votes against it. Now the very points stated about Mr. Searls, apparently being opposed to him, would mean that he is the right man to represent San Francisco. Obviously we can not have an attorney who does not believe in the case of his client. We must have a man who feels that his client is right, and he is a man who has been in this fight from its very inception, and who sincerely believes that the city is reasonably complying with the terms of the Raker act. And I want to state that there is a very large—a reasonable proportion of our citizenry who feel the same way; and until such matter is legally determined by the higher court, when, of course, in that instance, every one will bow to that knowledge. But the thing to do today, by all means, is to continue this litigation until the city definitely finds out where it stands.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll on number eleven.

Explanation of Vote.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: May I explain my vote, Mr. President? That in voting for this appropriation that I do not believe I am blowing hot or blowing cold. This Board authorized that this money be spent for the purpose of the City Attorney carrying out our wishes. I don't think I am blowing hot or cold, when I have confidence in the City Attorney doing a job that we asked him to do—and Supervisor McSheehy voted along with the rest of us, asking him to do the job.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there anybody else who desires the floor before Supervisor McSheehy again takes it?—Proceed, Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: The remarks of Supervisor Reilly seem to indicate some joke. I don't seem to be able to get it—and Supervisor Uhl is trying to condone his opinion in this matter—

SUPERVISOR UHL: Now, Mr. President, I made no such statement, and the Supervisor is entirely out of order. I made no such statement to condone anything. I want that clearly understood.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy, Mr. Uhl denies the allegation.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Because it is clearly out of order.

THE PRESIDENT: And he evidently defies the “allegator”.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, and members of the Board, Supervisor Colman has just stated that we authorized our City Attorney to proceed—that Supervisor Shannon made a motion several months ago, asking that Secretary Ickes carry out his threat if he so wished in regard to the Raker Act. Well, he carried it out, and it was referred to the Federal court, and the Federal court has decided it. Now they are going on record, by a record vote, asking our City Attorney to appeal from the decision of the Federal court, and there it will go to the United States Supreme Court—

MR. O'TOOLE: The Circuit Court of Appeals.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Not being a lawyer I am not familiar with the courts. But I imagine this Board will then carry it to the United States Supreme Court, and what will be the outcome there, of course none of us know. What will be the outcome of the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals we don't know. We do know the Board's position, and we do know we are making a record vote. We do know we have the right to determine this question today, and if we should decide to take a stand today that we oppose carrying this matter any further, of course our City Attorney will abide by the record; and we will make a record, an honest to God record that we are in favor of public ownership. Blow hot or blow cold as you please. Six members of this Board can tell the City Attorney what he shall do by not making this appropriation. I don't say they can tell him what to do, but they can place him in a position where I don't think he would be very keen to attempt to carry this further, if six members of this Board feel an appeal should not be taken. Now this is a serious matter, gentlemen. This Board has started the machine in motion to have a bond issue in reference to the purchase of the Pacific Gas and Electric properties, to a degree that we can distribute our own power. I have told you so often in reference to the amount of money they are receiving annually—$24,000,000, and in the year 1936, all the taxes for the entire City and County of San Francisco, for the last fiscal year, was a little less than $30,000,000 a year, and yet this company sells to the people of this city electricity and gas that amounts to $24,150,000. One-third of their entire output for this northern section of California is distributed in San Francisco. What are we trying to do? Very well, go along with this. I hope the people of this city will sometime recognize there are certain members of this Board in favor of public ownership—there are certain members of this Board who want to distribute our power, and perhaps there are certain members opposed to public ownership, and don't want to distribute our power, but the day will come—it came 12 years ago, and it will come again, and people are realizing the conditions that exist today here in our City of San Francisco.

Now, members, do your duty, vote this appropriation down, and you will make a record vote as to just how you stand in reference to distribution of your own hydro electric power.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: I would like to ask Mr. O'Toole a question. From a legal standpoint, isn't it right and proper that we pursue this matter to a higher court? In other words, I feel the Board of Supervisors want to know where they stand from a legal standpoint, and the people of San Francisco want to know that.

MR. O'TOOLE: I think possibly that last remark is very pertinent. I think the people themselves do want to know what right they have under the Raker Act, and therefore they want to get a decision of at least the Circuit Court of Appeals. Of course, we may never get into the Supreme Court of the United States. But I look at it this way, if that decision should become final, the injunction becomes operative in six months, and even admitting that you could hold a bond election within a period of six months, if you wanted to call a special election, and even admitting that revenue bonds can carry, they would not be floated, and the amendment would not be approved until January, and the six months would have long passed before we reach the month of January, and Judge Roche's injunction would become effective, and we would have to cease collecting any money for the distribution of this power. An appeal will stay the effective date of that injunction, and at the same time there is nothing, in taking the appeal, that prevents us going right ahead, getting our house in order, and submitting the matter again to the public, in the hope that they will recognize Judge Roche's decision, and possibly vote the bonds. There is the whole situation. And if we do—if we had to stop in six months this amount of over $2,000,000 would be cut off before the 1st of December.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Just a minute. I must reply to that. The people by no vote of their own have said to carry on this appeal. We represent the people, and if six members of the Board tell the City Attorney not to carry on the appeal, well and good. Now, in reference to the $2,000,000, Secretary Ickes has made the statement through the press, and we all know, if this matter comes to a bond issue, and the people of this city by a majority vote vote the revenue bonds for the purpose of purchasing this property, and for the purpose of distributing our own power, we know that Secretary Ickes or no other member of the Cabinet, or of the United States Government, would think of confiscating our property for the purposes outlined. They wouldn't think of it. And we all know that, and we all know—we are trying hard to put this before the people, and get it before the people in the form of a bond issue that will carry, because we know that the company will spend a huge sum of money for the purpose of defeating this bond issue. They are not spending their money, they are spending your money and my money because it goes into the rates.

Now, Members of the Board, think this over. You are starting here this afternoon to instruct your City Attorney to proceed with the appeal. It is a step in the wrong direction. Your City Attorney—

SUPERVISOR REILLY: May I ask the City Attorney a question? In this resolution, number 11 on the Calendar, it states here that the sum of $5,000 is being requested. It further states "For the purpose of paying expenses in connection with"—get this, Supervisor McSheehy, because I don't think you are fair with the Board—"for the purpose of paying expenses in connection with the Raker Act litigation." Did you not tell this Board that most of this money has been expended?

MR. O'TOOLE: It has been pledged.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: And I can't see that this prevents this Board from submitting another bond proposition for the purchase from the P. G. & E. Now there is another proposition. I say it is blowing hot, and I say it is blowing cold, when you tell me this Board is responsible for that condition. I want to let you know that it is because of the Los Angeles litigation that we found out we weren't receiving pay for this franchise, and we are taking steps just as soon as we found that out. But when you stand up before this Board, and when you seem to insinuate this Board is unfriendly to the citizens, tax payers, and municipal ownership, that is not stating the facts, because we are taking steps to make this retroactive, to go back for three years, and force the P. G. & E. to pay the amount they should have paid in the business of having that franchise. Secondly, the 24 hour contract, this $2,000,000 to the city, I have heard about this Board that came in and went out with the wind, and I recall also when that tax rate jumped from $3.60 to $4.13, and if they went out because of the P. G. & E. they went out for the other reason, too; they went out for both. Let's be fair about it. And nothing has been done by the "Ins" to cancel the 24 hour contract, to my knowledge. The record doesn't show it if there was. Did Supervisor McSheehy ever introduce anything to stop the boys or the city from getting the $2,000,000? We have a great problem before us, but I am not going to be bluffed, and kicked around, by someone who wants me to agree with everything he or she thinks about this. We have the problem before us to deal with. We gave the bond issue to the voters last March. Whose fault is it that they failed to pass it? Certainly, large sums were spent to defeat it, but we will give it to the people again. We are not shirking our responsibility, this has nothing to do with that question, it is being clouded and wind-bagged for the benefit of people who sit in these chambers. It has been here a long time, it is a hot and cold baby. I am not a new member here, and I am not afraid to give the people an opportunity to vote again, but I am not going to try to sand bag the members, and go out and make speeches, "Hip, hip hooray, they are all out of step but Jim." I say somebody else is out of step, and I am not.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead? (No response.) Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Aye.

THE CLERK: Eight "Ayes," two "Noes," one absent.

THE PRESIDENT: The ordinance has failed of passage.

THE CLERK: It is on passage for second reading, Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: It has failed of passage. That is the ruling of the Chair.

THE CLERK: Mr. President, may I explain, it only takes six votes.

THE PRESIDENT: How many would it take on final passage?

THE CLERK: Six votes.

Chair Declared Motion Lost.

THE PRESIDENT: The Chair's ruling stands, and refer my decision to the City Attorney.

MR. O'TOOLE: What was your decision?

THE PRESIDENT: My decision is that the ordinance has failed passage, as it needs nine votes.

THE CLERK: Respectfully suggest it does not need nine votes.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I will ask the City Attorney to render an opinion on that, if he will?

MR. O'TOOLE: I would have to get the charter, and give you a ruling, an opinion before next meeting. It won't come up again for two weeks.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown?

Appeal From Decision of the Chair.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I will appeal from the decision of the Chair on that matter.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I second the appeal.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I second it.

THE PRESIDENT: The decision of the Chair has been appealed from. I would suggest to Supervisor Brown respectfully that he hold the decision of the Board until we hear from the City Attorney at the next meeting.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: The City Attorney says he can not render a decision today?

MR. O'TOOLE: I wouldn't want to render a decision without looking at the charter, as long as I am personally interested.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: What is the immediate need of the $5,000?

MR. O'TOOLE: Just as I told you, number 12 is more immediate than this number 11.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: If the City Attorney is in no immediate need for the decision, I see no objection to postponing it a week. Therefore I move the matter go over one week, the matter of the appeal from the decision of the Chair, and that it be made a special order of business.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: May I ask, as a matter of information, what was your reason for stating that six votes would not carry it?

THE PRESIDENT: I would much prefer that the matter go over to next Monday, and if I have to give the reasons I will do so.

MR. O'TOOLE: Oh, Mr. President, I think the matter is clear now. This is not an emergency matter at all. This is merely authorizing a supplemental appropriation out of the surplus, and carries by a majority. I was thinking of the $2500 in the next resolution. This doesn't require nine votes.

THE PRESIDENT: I would prefer the matter go over one week so that I could discuss it with you.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I think if six votes have already passed this ordinance that you are exceeding your rights, other than to state the matter is passed.

MR. O'TOOLE: This is not an emergency measure of any kind.

THE PRESIDENT: There are things, Supervisor Colman, that I would rather not say in the open, but if I am forced to I will.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I have no objection to saying it in the open.

THE PRESIDENT: Then I will tell you that the Public Utilities Commission is not paying, it is running in the red, and this must have nine votes. That is the reason.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Well, I dispute that statement.

THE PRESIDENT: Well, let's dispute it next Monday. You are disputing with me my decision. The City Attorney has been asked to render his decision, and Supervisor Brown who has taken the appeal has agreed to allow it to go over until next Monday. How are you going to open it up?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I move that the matter go over, but I did not receive a second, so I withdraw my motion.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: There is nothing personal in this, Mr. President—

THE PRESIDENT: I know, but why take an appeal from the decision of the Chair that may be correct.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: It cannot be correct, and whether the Public Utilities Commission is in the red or not has no bearing on your decision.

THE PRESIDENT: Yes, it has.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No, it has not. Six members of this Board passed this matter—there were only two "No" votes—nine to two—

THE PRESIDENT: Eight to two.

SUPERVISOR COLEMAN: Correct. Then that becomes passage for second reading, and in my opinion you have not the right or power, as President of this Board, to do anything else except to state that it is passed for second reading. In the meantime, on final passage, if you want to look up anything you have that right, but I don't think the position of the Utilities Commission—

THE PRESIDENT: You say I have no right to render any other decision. Suppose it was out of the Mayor's emergency fund, and it was eight to two. Would I have a right to give that decision?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: You would be then stating a fact, that the motion fails of passage, because that law requires nine votes. This is not such an ordinance, and it requires six votes.

THE PRESIDENT: Very well, I see no objection to taking the appeal, and in the meantime let the City Attorney decide whether the Board is in error or I am in error.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: The City Attorney has decided that the Board is not in error. He said it is not an emergency measure, and can be passed by six members.

THE PRESIDENT: May I ask the City Attorney if he is of the same opinion still?

MR. O'TOOLE: I am, because it is coming out of the surplus. I think I know what you have in mind. You have that provision in the charter in mind that the rates charged for any utility must be sufficient to pay the expenses of that utility, unless the board, by nine votes I think it is, votes that into the budget?

THE PRESIDENT: That is correct.

MR. O'TOOLE: But that only comes in when you are dealing with the particular appropriation and making the appropriation. As far as I am concerned, if it goes over a week it doesn't make any difference to me, but—

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown has withdrawn his motion which he claims was not seconded, and an appeal has been taken from the decision of the Chair, and seconded by Supervisor Colman. Supervisor Reilly, will you kindly put the question—Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Yes, I wish to say a word on the question. I realize the position you are in, and you are perfectly within your rights, because you are our presiding officer, and it is your interpretation of this resolution. I say this respectfully to our City Attorney: The president's interpretation of the resolution can be that it is an emergency according to a certain section of our charter, and you are within your rights, and the City Attorney, who is a very wise man, can see the question. Now we are starting out on an important matter, and we are either right or wrong. Any citizen can mandamus the Controller with reference to the expenditure of this money under these conditions, and it would not sound very well either for the City Attorney or the Board of Supervisors to pass an illegal amount of money. So I say this to the Board, as friendly as I can—I know very little attention has been paid to me, but attention will be paid some time—so I simply say to the membership of this Board that you can, if you wish, put this over, I think the City Attorney is simply asking that the matter go over for a week—

SUPERVISOR UHL: Has the City Attorney made that request?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: No, he has not; he has made a request that he be allowed time to consider this matter.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I say this to you: My understanding is that he makes the definite statement that it is on second reading, and takes six votes to pass. Is that right, Mr. O'Toole?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I don't want to rise to a point of order, but I have the floor.

Chair Overruled.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: A point of order. An appeal has been taken, and you are allowing Supervisor McSheehy—

SUPERVISOR BROWN: You are the Chairman.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Very well. An appeal has been taken from the decision of the Chair. Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the decision of the Board? A vote "Aye" sustains the Chair; a vote "No" overrules the Chair.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Members of the Board—

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I rise to a point of order. As I understand on an appeal the only one that is qualified to speak are those making the motion and the Chairman.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: That is the decision. The appeal is before the Board. Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I beg your pardon, did you sustain the point of order?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I did, on the grounds an appeal has been taken, and there should not be any further argument, excepting the person making the appeal, and the President.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I don't care for your explanation. I just want to know if you sustain the point of order?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I am just putting the appeal.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I didn't ask for any explanation. If you sustain it, I shall sit down.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I sustain the point of order.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Thank you.

THE CLERK: Shall the decision of the Chair be the decision of the Board. A vote "Aye" sustains the Chair. A vote "No" overrules the Chair. Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead? (No response.) Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I will ask to be excused.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: No.

THE CLERK: Eight "Noes," one "Aye," one excused.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: The decision of the Chair is overruled.

THE PRESIDENT: I would like to have the City Attorney give his opinion at the next meeting, in writing.

MR. O'TOOLE: That will be here for you.

Thereupon, the matter was laid over one week and made a Special Order for 2 p. m., Clerk to request Commission to attend.

SPECIAL ORDER—2 P. M.

Hearing of Appeal, Rezoning of Southeast Corner California and Scott Streets.

Appeal from the decision of the City Planning Commission, by its Resolution No. 1762, dated March 17, 1938, denying application to rezone from Second Residential District to Commercial District, property located at the southeast corner of California and Scott streets.

Communication From Charles Goff, Captain of Traffic.

The following was presented by Supervisor Mead and read by the Clerk:

OFFICE OF TRAFFIC BUREAU
Company "K"

Friday, April 29, 1938.

Subject: Letter No. 48484-12. Dewey Mead, Supervisor, Room 235

City Hall, April 27, 1938. Requesting report on number of accidents adjacent to auto supply stations.

William J. Quinn, Chief of Police.

Sir: In regard to the attached communication from Dewey Mead, Supervisor, wherein he requests a report showing the number of accidents involving personal injuries which have occurred to, and which might be attributable to, automobile supply stations, I respectfully advise.

That the records of this Bureau do not show any injury accidents attributable to the location of automobile supply stations, and in tallying thousands of reports our recollection is that there have been few accidents attributable to said stations.

Respectfully submitted,
CHARLES GOFF,
Captain of Traffic.

Supervisor Ratto inquired as to distance of proposed station from school and was advised that the application fulfilled all requirements in that respect.

Adopted.

Whereupon, the roll was called and the following resolution was adopted by the following vote:

Disapproving Decision of City Planning Commission, Denying Application to Rezone From Second Residential to Commercial District, Property at Southeast Corner of California and Scott Streets.

(Code No. 13.02)

Resolution No. 3949, as follows:

Resolved, That the action of the City Planning Commission by its Resolution No. 1762, dated March 17, 1938, denying application to rezone from Second Residential District to Commercial District, property located at the southeast corner of California and Scott streets, is hereby disapproved.

Ayes—Supervisors Brown, Colman, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt—8.

Noes—Supervisors McSheehy, Shannon, Uhl—3.

Resolution was thereupon declared adopted and the Commission overruled.

Explanations of Vote.

Supervisor Uhl explained his vote by saying that he had gone carefully into the matter and that in his opinion there is no question that proposed station is close to the school, that he has no objection to a Gilmore Station, but the present station on the southwest is sufficient for needs of traffic and there is a real danger from accidents by reason of nearness of school.

Supervisor Colman declared that he would vote for the proposed station, overruling the Commission. California and Scott streets, he said, are two major traffic streets and auto traffic there may logically be expected to increase. It is better to grant another permit in such a location rather than scatter into the adjacent district where not so logically suited.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

Amending Ordinance No. 1008 (New Series), entitled "Regulating the Construction, Erection, Enlargement, Raising, Alteration, Repair, Removal, Maintenance, Use and Height of Buildings; Regulating Character and Use of Materials in and for Buildings; Establishing Fire Limits and Repealing All Ordinances in Conflict With This Ordinance", by adding thereto a new section to be known as Section 31-A relating to ceramic facing.

Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco, as follows:

Section 1. Ordinance No. 1008 (New Series), the title of which is recited above, is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be known as Section 31-A relating to ceramic facing, to read as follows:

CERAMIC FACING.

Section 31-A:

Buildings may be faced with slabs of terra cotta which for the purpose of this section are defined as having more than seventy-two (72) square inches of superficial area.

In no case shall the ceramic facing be considered in computing the strength of the structural frame or bearing walls, nor shall it be considered a part of the required thickness of the wall.

Walls to which ceramic facing is to be applied shall be rigid and free from oil. Just prior to installation the backing wall shall be wire brushed and put in condition to assure proper adhesion.

Ceramic facing may be attached to backing wall either with metal anchors, or by adhesion only without anchors.

If anchored the terra cotta facing shall be not less than one and one-quarter inch ( $1\frac{1}{4}$ " ) in thickness and shall be tied to backing wall with substantial non-corrosible metal anchors, not less than No. 6 gauge wire, in horizontal bed joints on about twelve inch (12") centers, and in no case more than sixteen inch (16") centers. The facing shall be set with back of terra cotta spaced not less than one and one-half inch ( $1\frac{1}{2}$ " ) from face of backing wall and the space shall be filled solidly with grout of Portland cement mortar and top gravel in the proportion of not less than one to six (1 to 6). Just before setting, the backing wall and the ceramic facing shall be drenched with clean water and shall be distinctly damp when grout is poured.

If not anchored the terra cotta facing shall be not more than one inch (1") in thickness with units not to exceed thirty inches (30") in any one dimension and having not more than five hundred forty (540) square inches of superficial area and shall have corrugations or vertical scorings on the back thereof. Just before setting ceramic facing, each piece shall be soaked in clean water for one hour or more and the surface of the backing wall shall be saturated with water applied through a hose nozzle at a pressure of at least twenty-five pounds (25 lbs.) per square inch. A brush coat of neat Portland cement and water shall then be applied both to the backing and to the back side of the ceramic facing. Mortar shall average three-quarter inch ( $\frac{3}{4}$ " ) in thickness. The proportions of this mortar shall be as follows:

Approved Portland cement .....	1 cu. ft.
High calcium slacked lime putty screened and aged at least 20 days, containing not more than 4 per cent magnesium oxide .....	$\frac{1}{2}$ " "
Clear sharp siliceous sand.....	4 " "
Ammonium stearate paste, or approved equal.....	1 quart

Half of same shall be applied to the piece and half to the backing just prior to setting. Pieces disturbed after having been tapped into place shall be removed immediately, after which, additional mortar shall be applied as required above and the piece reset. A unit shearing strength between backing and facing of not less than fifty (50) pounds per square inch shall be developed.

Privilege of the Floor.

Wm. Coughlin, representing the Associated General Contractors, was heard in opposition to the proposed 81¼ cents per hour for laborers. He requested that the matter be laid over one week and that the following questions be submitted to the City Attorney:

1. Is it not necessary for the Civil Service Commission to determine by actual survey just what is being paid by firms in private industry, instead of merely accepting the word of one or two organizations as to agreements entered into concerning, in most cases, work to be paid for in the future and not that work which is at present under way?

2. Is it not necessary that the wage scales as first recommended by the Civil Service Commission and later passed by the Board of Supervisors be wages which are actually paid in private industry and not merely the basis of an agreement?

3. When an agreement is entered into by a minority group, shall this agreement be accepted as the "highest general prevailing wage," particularly when the wage is not, as yet, being actually paid to any great extent on account of old contracts which are protected and the old scale is being paid?

4. Just what percentage of the employers should pay, or what portion of the employees should be actually paid, the "highest general prevailing wage" before it is possible for the proposed scales to be officially recognized?

5. On subventions from the State of California (Gas Tax Funds—1c County Road Fund; ¼c City Streets; ¼c State Highways—Cities) should the City Charter of the State Prevailing Law be recognized, taking into consideration the recent decision, Southern California Roads vs. McGuire, 2 Cal. (2) 115?

Telegram from Gordon Johnson, attorney for Associated General Contractors, requesting that matter be deferred until he can be heard, being at present out of town, was read by the Clerk.

Mr. Jos. Marshal, representing Laborers Association; A. J. Gallagher, speaking for Building Trades Council; and Larry Roche, representing Construction and General Laborers Union No. 261, were heard in favor of the $0.81¼ rate for laborers.

Communication from the Civil Service Commission recommending the 81¼-cent rate for laborers was read by the Clerk.

"Long cut" shall have the plate removed at a point parallel to the chine-bone and making a twelve-inch wing.

(2) "Beef round" shall consist of the buttocks cut to include the section from the socket bone to the gambrel or hock.

(3) "Round steak" shall be cut from the round, including top and bottom with or without bone. In advertising any cut of round steak, the particular kind of round as defined herein must be stated.

Public Utilities Commission to Report on Distribution System for Hetch Hetchy Electric Power.

(Code No. 15.032)

The following recommendation of Public Utilities Committee was taken up:

Resolution No. 3928, as follows:

Whereas, the Charter of the City and County of San Francisco provides that it is the declared purpose and intention of the people of the City and County, when public interest and necessity demand, that public utilities shall be gradually acquired and ultimately owned by the City and County; and

Whereas, by reason of the decision of the District Court of the United States, in and for the Northern District of California, it has been determined that the present method of distributing the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy system is a violation of section 6 of the Raker Act; and

Whereas, by reason of said decision public interest and necessity demand the acquisition of a municipal distribution system for the purpose of distributing directly to the people of San Francisco the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy project; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Public Utilities Commission of the City and County of San Francisco be requested to submit a report to this Board of Supervisors for the acquisition by the City and County of San Francisco of a distribution system for the purpose of distributing the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy project directly to the people of San Francisco; said system to be in accordance with Plan No. 7, heretofore submitted by said Public Utilities Commission to this Board of Supervisors, and said Public Utilities Commission is hereby requested to bring said Plan No. 7 down to the present date.

Discussion.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President and members of the Board: This is a recommendation from a joint committee of public utilities, and judiciary, and at that committee meeting I asked about how much time they would take for this report from the Utilities Commission, and as is usual, when a conversation of that kind takes place before a lesser committee, I was more or less requested to find out that information from Mr. Cahill. So I called on Mr. Cahill and I asked him how long he thought it would take. "Well," he said, "a great deal depends on the time, the number of men I can make available, and the money you gentlemen might set aside for this purpose." I will say this, Mr. Cahill showed quite a desire to help this along.

Now, members of the Board, we have a primary election on August 30th of this year. It takes, I understand—Mr. O'Toole will confirm this—it takes about 40 days for the usual advertising of a matter of this kind—Am I right, Mr. O'Toole?

MR. O'TOOLE: More than that—What are you talking about, a bond issue or a charter amendment?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: A bond issue.

MR. O'TOOLE: Forty-one days before the election.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Forty-one days. So that along about the 17th or 18th of July this Board would have to pass it so as to have the required number of days—it is calendar days, is it, Mr. O'Toole?

MR. O'TOOLE: Calendar days, yes.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: So I would say to you, members of the Board, I feel that we should, if possible, try and arrange our finances so that Mr. Cahill can proceed forthwith, and give us a report as to the additional expenditures connected with a bond issue of this kind. In other words, we had a bond issue a year ago last March of $50,000,000. How much capital investment the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has made from that date to this I don't know. Mr. Cahill does not know to the degree he would like to know for the report. He has some ideas. So I say to you, members, if you have an honest desire to place this before the people of San Francisco you will make a small appropriation so that Mr. Cahill can employ experts to go in and ascertain exactly the detail of the capital investments that have been made in the past year, so that we can present a bond issue as outlined under Plan No. 7. It might be 55 million dollars, it might be 53 million dollars, I don't know. I do know that Plan No. 7, in my opinion, is a good plan. I do know that if the people of this City should adopt the plan they will be doing something that the City of Los Angeles has done, and a great many other progressive cities of the United States have done. I do know the large sum that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is collecting annually from the City and County of San Francisco—$24,154,000 for gas and electricity—almost as much as our Assessor collects for every assessable piece of property in San Francisco. It is the largest corporation in San Francisco, and we do know they are not even paying a franchise tax for the streets they use. So it is high time that this Board should at least look to the people of San Francisco, and present the facts to the people of San Francisco. We do know that the court decided against us in this matter. We do know that there is an appeal being taken. Personally, I was deadily opposed to that appeal. Nevertheless, a majority of this Board have voted a sum of money for the appeal. So I hope today that I will be in a position, if you will allow, to make an amendment to this resolution authorizing Mr. Cahill to proceed in this matter.

I will first ask Mr. Cahill a question or two in reference to this entire matter so the Board will have first-hand information directly from Mr. Cahill. Mr. Cahill, about how long do you think it would take your office to complete a report, and to submit a report to this Board as somewhat outlined by me?

MR. CAHILL: Mr. Supervisor, I cannot go on record stating any time. All I can say is that as soon as an appropriation to finance the work is provided, that the Public Utilities Commission engineers will do it as fast as we can.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: About how much of an appropriation would you require, Mr. Cahill?

MR. CAHILL: I thought that matter over pretty carefully, Mr. McSheehy, and I think we would require $3,000.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: $3,000?

MR. CAHILL: $3,000.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask a question, through the Chair?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I will gladly yield to the Supervisor for a question.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Doesn't the "resolved" of this resolution cover what you just proposed? In other words, you are referring it to them, to bring Plan No. 7 down to date. Then the request for it would come from the Public Utilities Commission, advising the Board of Supervisors how much they want to appropriate out of their surplus. We have no money to appropriate.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Well, we have the money; I think we have money out of the Operating Fund, that is the fund of the Hetch Hetchy which they are using entirely today. I am trying to bring forth legislation that would start in operation this bond issue. I told you a moment ago when I questioned Mr. O'Toole, that the last day for a bond issue for the August primary is along about the 16th or 18th, or thereabouts, of July. Now we know Mr. Cahill has to be given some time for this report. If we delay this a week or two weeks there will be just that much less time that Mr. Cahill will have. Of course, I know there are members on this Board who will not vote to place this bond issue before the people of San Francisco. What the outcome will be I don't know entirely, but I do know that from past experience with certain members of this Board—and they do not hesitate to express themselves. They are unalterably opposed to the distribution of our own hydro-electric power. They are entirely within their rights, but I disagree with them. So I say to the members of the Board I think this is the time to start. I would like to insert an amendment, inserting the words $3,000, and starting Mr. Cahill on his work today, if possible.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Well, Mr. President, I would like to ask Supervisor McSheehy again that question: As to the proper procedure, and if the City Attorney is here I would like to ask him if it is not a fact that all we can do is to make the request of the Public Utilities Commission. Then the request for funds must come from them out of their operating funds. I will ask, through the Chair, of the Controller, if that would not be the correct procedure—Mr. Cahill?

MR. CAHILL: If the Board of Supervisors passes number 16 today, asking the Public Utilities Commission to make a report on this matter, I will recommend to the Public Utilities Commission that we recommend to the Mayor, and ask him to recommend to this Board that $3,000 be appropriated from the power operating surplus. I can't do that until next Monday, because that is the first time the Public Utilities Commission meets in executive session.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: The Public Utilities Commission does not meet today?

MR. CAHILL: It does not meet in public session. It meets every other Monday in executive session, and only on those sessions, in a public meeting, can it pass such a matter as this.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Time means so much in this matter—

MR. CAHILL: I believe I have outlined the proper procedure. If Mr. O'Toole will tell me some other way I will be glad to go along.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: May I ask you this question: About what time does your Commission meet today?

MR. CAHILL: At four-thirty.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Is it possible for a special meeting to be held during the week? Or do you have to have a public meeting for a matter of this kind?

MR. CAHILL: Yes, we do; and the only way to do it, is if President Byington would call such a meeting. The only way it can be held is by call of the chairman.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Mr. President, I was just considering a motion, and if I would be allowed the privilege of the floor right after this—Will you allow me the privilege of the floor to make a motion as soon as this is disposed of? It is on the same subject.

THE PRESIDENT: No question about it, Supervisor McSheehy. The question is on adoption of number 16.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Mr. President?

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I am speaking against the adoption of number 16. I want to read first, the second whereas: "Whereas, by reason of the decision of the District Court of the United States, in and for the Northern District of California, it has been determined that the present method of distributing the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy system is a violation of Section 6 of the Raker Act."

Now that whereas is not a correct statement. It is quite true that the District Court of the United States in and for the Northern District of California did decide the question in that way; but the decision of that court does not state definitely and positively that the present method of distributing the hydro-electric power is a violation of Section 6; and this Board recognized that fact by taking an appeal from the decision of the Judge to the United States Court of Appeals. Until the decision is rendered there, and until any subsequent appeal might be taken which might leave it to a question for the United States Supreme Court to determine whether or not it was a fit matter for their consideration, and if so what their decision would be—until such action has been determined the statement made in "whereas number two" is not correct, because no member of this Board knows whether or not the present method of distributing power is in conflict with the Raker Act.

Now that is unquestionably true, and as I stated, this Board has recognized that fact, and the Commission has recognized that by directing the City Attorney to take an appeal to a higher court, and this Board of Supervisors believes that that has been a wise move to make in protection of the people's rights and the people's money.

Now if "whereas number two" is not sound, then "whereas number three" must likewise follow, because "whereas number three" reads: "Whereas, by reason of said decision public interest and necessity demand the acquisition of a municipal distribution system for the purpose of distributing directly to the people of San Francisco the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy project"—and so forth.

If that decision does not demand it—does not prove to be the correct decision, certainly it does not demand any action be taken, and accordingly I am opposed to this action being taken at this time, for the reasons stated, and also for the reason that in my opinion there is still another course open to the City in case the decision of the higher court should be against San Francisco's interests, and that is, the City has a perfect right to go to the Congress of the United States and ask that the Raker Act be amended by what would be a fair ruling on Section number six, which I sincerely believe the citizens of San Francisco are entitled to.

Now, this is the opinion of a layman, but I think it would be a great mistake, if we did not believe in our own hearts, if we accept the decision of the first court and went ahead with proceedings with reference to this bond issue. It would indicate that we are afraid of future decisions of the court that might go against us. Now I have no such fear, and I tell you that frankly, and my views are shared by a group of competent attorneys who have made a study of the question.

So I think this is untimely, to pass this resolution at this time, and my vote shall be against it.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Uhl.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I agree with Supervisor Colman in much that he has said, but I am anxious to see the figures brought down to date, from month to month, or year to year. Is it a fact, Mr. Cahill—through the Chair—that in place of $50,000,000, that today it runs far in excess of $50,000,000 for the distributing system in San Francisco, that would be required for Hetch Hetchy power?

MR. CAHILL: The answer to that is, Supervisor Uhl, that I don't know.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Didn't you make the statement that the cost would be 55 or 60 million dollars? What was your statement last week?

MR. CAHILL: I made no such statement. I stated that added to the $50,000,000 would be any expenditures for operating purposes. I don't know how much that is.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I can see no question—This doesn't involve a bond issue. That comes later on, in order to finish the proceeding. I see no objection, and would vote for this resolution in order that we get information which I think is pertinent, and which we should have. But I would also ask, that in bringing us in Plan 7 down to date, also an anticipation of what the next five years would require in the way of investment. I wouldn't want to stop there, and then later on find out that it would cost several million dollars additional.

MR. CAHILL: Supervisor Uhl, I am perfectly willing to prophesy two years in advance, as I did in my last estimate. 1937 has borne out what we expected to happen in 1936, and is probably going to happen in 1938, but I am not desirous of being made a prophet for any five years. Now it will take about $3,000—less if possible—to bring this up to date. If the Board of Supervisors want this to be a continuing thing it should be budgeted. But I will do the best I can to bring it up to date, and project it a year or so, but no five-year plan.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Let me ask you, was an evaluation made several years ago of the electric properties?

MR. CAHILL: Yes, sir.

SUPERVISOR UHL: At that time did the company accept the figures that were submitted? My mind is not clear on that.

MR. CAHILL: No, the Railroad Commission made up those figures.

SUPERVISOR UHL: They did not accept it?

MR. CAHILL: No.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Then there is a question as to whether the company will accept those figures?

MR. CAHILL: There certainly is, and that is the reason why we added something like five or six million dollars, because we thought we would have to bring condemnation proceedings, and it would have to go to court, and we did not know what the court would say as to whether those figures were correct or not.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I agree with you, a sound thing would be to have a budget item to cover that; that would keep us informed. The question, Mr. President?

THE PRESIDENT: The question is on adoption.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I forgot just one point—

THE PRESIDENT: Does anybody else desire to take the floor before Supervisor Colman concludes?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Yes. Members of the Board, as you know, there were two resolutions submitted to the joint committee; one of Supervisor Roncovieri, and one that I introduced. This resolution that is before you today is Supervisor Roncovieri's resolution.

Your City Attorney helped Supervisor Roncovieri to draw up that resolution. I think your City Attorney has a better knowledge of the law than some of us might have, and I have no desire to criticize any portions of this resolution. I think it is well drawn. I would like to see it pass. It is a step in the right direction. Of course, one, who in season and out of season, from bond issue to bond issue, has always opposed distribution of our own power—of course, he is going to pick out some section of the resolution and take it apart, but I hope, gentlemen of the Board, that you will allow this to go through today, and let's start a bond issue for the distribution of our own hydro-electric power. I don't know what the outcome of the court procedure is going to be. I have been asked that question by several citizens. Suppose, for the sake of argument, that the higher court—suppose that the Supreme Court denies our appeal. What are we going to do with our investment there? So I hope you carry out the report of this committee, of which five members were present, and five members acquiesced in this resolution.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: The point I neglected to state, in addition to those arguments that I presented against this resolution, there is still another one: The decision of the court held that this particular agency contract was not in legal compliance with the Raker Act, and the question comes up possibly some other contract which would meet the terms concerning which Judge Roche expressed disapproval—some other contract could be drawn up which in my opinion would be legal. That is another reason in addition to the others, why I am voting "No."

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll on adoption.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto? (No response.)

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I ask for a call of the Board.

THE PRESIDENT: Mr. Sergeant at Arms, a call of the Board.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Aye.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I ask a call of the Board.

THE PRESIDENT: We have eight "Ayes."

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I want a call of the Board. I insist upon it.

(Supervisor Ratto enters the meeting room.)

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Ratto, the question is on adoption of Resolution No. 3828, on the calendar as number 16.

SUPERVISOR RATTO: I am going to vote "No" on that, owing to the fact that until the court decision—

THE PRESIDENT: All right, the vote is "No." Now you can file the written reason for your vote.

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Very well.

THE CLERK: Eight "Ayes," three "Noes."

THE PRESIDENT: Carried.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now I have a motion on this matter. Mr. Cahill has just stated his president could call a special meeting of the Public Utilities Commission. That meeting could be called by that Commission during the week, and a report would be in to this Board next Monday. If the Commission meets next Monday at four o'clock, of course it will not be presented to the Mayor and we lose two weeks. Time is the essence of everything to try to get this before the people in the August primary—

THE PRESIDENT: What is the motion?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I am just laying the ground work. My motion is that this Board request the Public Utilities Commission's president, Mr. Byington, to call a special meeting of that Commission for the purpose of taking up this resolution as voted on by the membership of this Board today.

SUPERVISOR MEAD: I second the motion.

THE PRESIDENT: It has been regularly moved and seconded that this Board request the Public Utilities Commission to call a special meeting of that Commission for the purpose of considering this resolution.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Members of the Board, I hope you will vote in favor of this motion. It has but one intent, and that is to try and get this bond issue on the August primary, and it will save us just exactly one week. I feel if the majority membership of this Board makes this request that Mr. Byington, the president of the Public Utilities Commission, will act on the request, and we will have this matter next Monday before this Board in reference to the appropriation of $3,000. That is the whole intent of the motion. Mr. Cahill outlined just the exact procedure of his Commission, and if we want to help ourselves in this matter we will vote this motion today, and I think we will be in a position next week to adopt a motion, or pass a resolution in reference to an expense of $3,000 for the purposes outlined by Mr. Cahill.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Mr. President, I desire to record my vote "No." If Mr. Byington desires to call a special meeting of his Commission, of course that is his affair. I have nothing to say about it; and in addition, Mr. Cahill has been present at this discussion, he has heard everything said, and in my opinion the Public Utilities Commission is fully competent to handle its own affairs, without suggestions from the Board of Supervisors. Without regard to the question itself, it is just a matter of policy, of my not wishing to interfere with the Commission in the handling of their won duties. I desire to record my vote as "No."

THE PRESIDENT: Doctor Schmidt.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: May I ask Mr. O'Toole, would that be going contrary to Section 22 of the Charter?

MR. O'TOOLE: I did not hear the motion.

THE PRESIDENT: The motion is to request President Byington of the Public Utilities Commission to call a special meeting of his commission to follow out the mandate of resolution number 16 on the calendar, which would require an appropriation of about $3,000.

MR. O'TOOLE: I don't know, I doubt that that would be in violation of Section 22, because before you could proceed you need the money, and you certainly have a right to send this resolution to them, and if you ask them to hurry it along I don't think that would be contrary to Section 22.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Mr. President?

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I am not going to object to the adoption of this motion; but I want to call the attention of the other members of the Board to this: You will gain nothing by rushing this matter at this time. The purpose, as explained by Supervisor McSheehy, is to submit the bond issue, or the Charter amendment, whichever it is, to the people in August. That will cost you the sum of $20,000 or $25,000—

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Why?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: For the reason that Mr. O'Toole told me that you cannot place anything on the ballot of this character unless it is on a separate ballot, something of that kind, which would cost that sum of money. That is correct, is it not, Mr. O'Toole?

MR. O'TOOLE: Yes. In other words, you cannot consolidate any election with your August primary. That is the law. Now whether you could use the voting machines or not, I don't know. It is a matter that would be open to question, and to let the validity of a Charter amendment hinge on a small thing like that does not seem advisable to me.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: If it were passed in August nothing would be gained. You would have to sit down and wait until January or February until the Legislature will meet, in 1939. If you pass it today, or in August, any time before November, you will accomplish nothing whatever, because it does not become a law until the Legislature has passed upon it. They have the last word. This matter can be submitted to the people in November.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Without additional cost?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Without any cost.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Is that right, Mr. O'Toole?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: And those of us who favor the submission of that amendment, which has to be written yet, stand a better chance of educating the public to the importance of adopting it between now and November. You will have all you can do to get the thing ready, and to educate the people by that time. You will have all you can do to educate the great mass of the people who have already turned it down, and you will need all of the time up to November to educate the public. So I think it would be better to let Mr. Cahill work out his problem in his own way, and let the thing go along quietly, without expense at the November election, and with the additional advantage that there will be time for the advocates of this plan to explain it to the public. The one thing to our advantage, those of us who believe in this, is the fact that we have hanging over our heads the famous sword of Damocles. We have the decision against us, and if we rest now and do nothing about it, and instruct the City Attorney to do nothing, we lose—it was nearly a month ago that the decision was rendered, and the court said, because of his friendship for this City he did not want us to lose this immediately, he said "six months after the date of my decision the income will stop," an income which represents from $2,000,000 up, or 25 cents in the tax rate, so six months from now—the decision was about a month ago, and we have about five months to go, and the whole machinery stops—I notice you are shaking your head, and that is true, it will not stop if we allow our City Attorney to go on with his appeal. You are right there; but in the meantime, if we show to the government in Washington a disposition to live up to Section 6 of the Raker Act it probably will be that the government will not be so severe on us. It may be in less than six months the City Attorney may again be defeated, or the City—I know he is doing his best—I read his brief, and I can't see how the Judge turned it down, but he did. It may happen again. Then where will we be? So I believe we should concurrently carry on the purposes of this resolution, and let the City Attorney try to make a case if he can. Then we have those two strings to our bow. If he wins we are all right. If he loses we will have this to fall back on. I think haste is unnecessary, however, at this time, that is because of the Legislature meeting only in January of next year; and we can do nothing, no matter what the people say about it, we can do nothing until the Legislature approves it in January or February of next year. But I will vote with you, if you want.

THE PRESIDENT: Anybody else desire the floor before Supervisor McSheehy again takes the floor? Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, and members of the Board: Supervisor Roncovieri stated that he thought that better results might be attained in the general election. He also thought that there would be a cost of $25,000. Now the City Attorney has not said as to just what that cost will be. The City Attorney has not said as to just how the election will take place, except that we will have to provide for a special ballot, or another place on the machine. We discussed this in committee, and in committee the City Attorney said that as we have machines—we have 1058 voting places, and we have some 1200 machines, so therefore it can, if we wish it, it can be placed on the machine with scarcely any cost to the taxpayers. Now this is no small bond issue. It is probably a little over $50,000,000, how much I don't know. Now the court has decided against San Francisco, and you have heard all kinds of explanations as to the interpretation of Section 6, but if you will go into the history of hydro-electric power throughout the United States—

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy, this is a motion to have a communication sent to President Byington to call a special meeting of the Public Utilities Commission.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I am trying to lead up to that. I don't mean to take up your time—

THE PRESIDENT: We all know what it is for, Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: All right, then, but the thought that I have in this matter is that we will make a great mistake if we do not do everything we can in our power to put it on the August primary. Now we vote a resolution one minute, then we ask an appropriation, and we ask one of our Commissions to go ahead and create conditions so that this appropriation will take place immediately—and for what purpose? For the purpose of time, nothing else. I want to see this, and I think you do, too, on the August primary, because I think the people will have a clearer view of it, and I think the courts will understand that we are honest in our endeavor to try and distribute our own power. Of course, if it is not ready it will go over to November election. What will happen I don't know. I do know this, that the law that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company are operating under permits them—they can and did, last election, add $25,000—$25,234 to their operating fund for the purpose of defeating the Charter amendment last election, and the law countenances that, and they place that in the rates. Now they can take $100,000 and put it in their operating fund, and charge it to election expenses, for the purpose of defeating this, and creating propaganda. So I trust the membership will be sincere, and place this on the August primary, and not attempt to wait until the November election.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: If it is going to cost the taxpayers of San Francisco 20 or 25 thousand dollars to put it on the August primary, and if there is nothing to be gained, as Supervisor Roncovieri has brought out—if we are not going to lose any time, would you be willing to spend the $25,000 to put it on the August primary?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Number one, it will not cost $25,000. I heard that statement made, but—

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: My interest is merely that of saving this sum of money.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I will bring you in a report next week showing exactly what it will cost, so there will be no question about it.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Then I would like it to go over one week. If there is going to be nothing gained, there is no idea of rushing this.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: The only thought I had in trying to rush it is to give Mr. Cahill as much time as possible to bring in a report. He can't make one move until this Board has set aside the money for the purpose of experts going over the entire cost of the Pacific Gas and Electric.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Why not pass this temporarily, and send for Major Collins to advise us as to the approximate cost? I am willing to vote in this matter if I can find out—

THE PRESIDENT: Is there any objection to sending for the Major to find out the approximate cost of the election?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: No, I have no objection.

THE PRESIDENT: So ordered.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I want to emphasize that it will cost you nothing to place it on the November election, and you jeopardize the legality of it, as Mr. O'Toole has told you, and you don't give yourselves time to prepare a campaign of education on a matter that has been turned down before. It will require time, and you know, Supervisor McSheehy, as a matter of good political strategy—

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Roncovieri, you are out of order.

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I know I am.

Adopted.

Should said grantee fail or neglect to pay the said amount due on or before the 15th day of March of each calendar year then, in that event, the amount so due shall bear interest at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum from the said 15th day of March until the said sum due as aforesaid shall have been paid. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the City and County of San Francisco from terminating said franchise for failure to pay the amounts herein specified.

Section 6. The provisions of this franchise and all rights, obligations and duties hereunder shall inure to and be binding upon the grantee, its successors or assigns.

Section 7. The grantee shall file a written acceptance of this franchise and an agreement to comply with the terms and conditions herein set forth with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco within thirty (30) days after the date that the ordinance granting this franchise becomes effective.

Section 8. The rights, privileges and franchise hereby granted shall continue and be in force for a period of twenty-five (25) years from and after the effective date of this franchise.

CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO

Mayor's Office—200 City Hall

May 2, 1938.

To the Honorable the Board of Supervisors, City Hall.

Gentlemen: I am in receipt of a letter under date of April 29th from the Honorable James B. McSheehy, Supervisor, pertaining to the use of City streets by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Enclosed herewith is copy of my reply to the same, embodying Supervisor McSheehy's letter to me, which I address to your Honorable Board with the request that both communications be made a part of the official record of your Board.

Yours sincerely,

ANGELO J. ROSSI,
Mayor.

May 2, 1938.

Hon. James B. McSheehy, Supervisor, City Hall, San Francisco.

Dear Supervisor McSheehy: I have your letter under date of April 29th, which reads as follows:

"On April 25, 1938, Resolution No. 3822 was unanimously passed by the Board of Supervisors which, it seems to me, may be of great help to you in formulating next year's budget.

"It is to the effect that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has been in default for a number of years past in paying to the City compensation for use of the City streets for the sale of gas and electricity for other than illuminating purposes, and that a proper charge for this amounts to approximately $1,000 a day.

"The Charter places full responsibility for the management of all public utilities in the hands of the Public Utilities Commission. As a Supervisor may I, therefore, suggest to you, as Mayor of this City and County, under whose authority the Public Utilities Commission functions, that suit be filed immediately against the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in order to recover the $1,000 a day due to the City and which amount the City will lose every day until some settlement is reached between the company and the City. The total amount now due the City is about $1,200,000. This sum, plus about $1,000 a day lost to the City, will help materially in meeting the City's obligations next year, and particularly in providing funds for use during the Exposition.

"I most respectfully make this suggestion to you in the hope that the company may be forced to make restitution of all moneys due the City, and in the further hope that additional losses will not be suffered by the City."

I am grateful to you for your suggestion as I am to any other member of the official family who make suggestions which will help in forming a budget which will reduce the burden of the taxpayer. Before formulating my budget I gave consideration to your letter.

I note that you say "that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has been in default for a number of years past in paying to the City compensation for use of the City's streets for the sale of gas and electricity for other than illuminating purposes, and that a proper charge for this amounts to approximately $1,000 a day." You also direct attention to the fact that the Charter places full responsibility for the management of all public utilities in the hands of the Public Utilities Commission, and you suggest that I, as Mayor, recommend to the Public Utilities Commission that they take action to recover the amount now due from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company which you claim to be $1,200,000.

I am inclined to believe that, as a member of the Board of Supervisors, you are endeavoring to shift your responsibilities to the Public Utilities Commission. I can find nowhere in the Charter any authority for the Public Utilities Commission of the City and County of San Francisco to meddle in the affairs of any privately owned utility, with the exception that, in Section 133, the Commission is vested with a rather limited authority to regulate street railways, cars and tracks.

The general powers of the Public Utilities Commission are found in Section 121 of the Charter, which provides as follows:

"The Public Utilities Commission shall have charge of the construction, management, supervision, maintenance, extension, operation and control of all public utilities and other properties used, owned, acquired, leased or constructed by the City and County, including airports, for the purpose of supplying any public utility service to the City and County and its inhabitants, . . ."

It is hardly necessary for me to direct your attention to the fact that the utility owned and operated by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company is neither "owned, acquired, leased or constructed by the City and County," and I can find nothing in our Charter which would authorize the Public Utilities Commission to interfere in any way with the operation of that Company. It appears to me that this matter is one entirely within the jurisdiction of the Board of Supervisors, for under the State law it lies within the power of that Board to grant, or to refuse to grant, a franchise to any person, firm or corporation making use of the public streets except as authorized by the Constitution of the State, that is, to make use of the streets for distributing either gas or electricity for lighting purposes.

If the Board of Supervisors has taken no action either to compel the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to obtain a franchise or to prevent it from occupying the streets of the City without a franchise, the responsibility should not be passed to the Public Utilities Commission, for there is no action which that body can take which can prevent a recalcitrant corporation from operating without a franchise, nor has the Commission any authority to compel the payment of any amount which might be due by reason of their failure to obtain a proper franchise.

Further, I am of the opinion that the Public Utilities Commission would have no authority to inquire into any amount which should be paid by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company by reason of its failure to obtain a franchise, nor what amount should be paid in the future until such a franchise is granted for, as I have said, the matter of the granting of a franchise lies entirely in the hands of the Board of Supervisors and it seems to me that it would be most unfair to compel a body which is in no way responsible to the Board of Supervisors, to determine the amount of payment which should be determined by the Supervisors.

I realize the fact that you have been a member of the Board of Supervisors for a great number of years and thought that you were entirely familiar with both its duties and responsibilities but, in view of your letter, I take it that possibly you have not given consideration to this particular phase of the responsibility which rests upon the Board in dealing with franchises, which duty, it seems to me, our Charter has not cast upon the Public Utilities Commission.

If this office can, without interference with the duties which rest upon the Board, be of assistance to you in determining this question I assure you you will find me co-operative in every way in working out this problem which is the responsibility of the Board of Supervisors.

Very truly yours,

ANGELO J. ROSSI,
Mayor.

Presentation of Budget.

His Honor, Angelo J. Rossi, appeared before the Board of Supervisors, presented the proposed budget for the ensuing fiscal year, and read the following letter of transmittal into the record:

May 2, 1938.

The Honorable the Board of Supervisors, City and County of San Francisco.

Gentlemen: As required by the Charter (Section 72) there have been transmitted to your honorable body this day the following:

The consolidated 1938-39 budget estimates for all departments and offices.

The proposed 1938-39 budget.

The detailed estimate of all 1938-39 revenues of each department.

The estimate of the 1938-39 requirements to meet bond interest and redemption, and other fixed charges, and revenues applicable thereto.

The draft of the 1938-39 annual appropriation ordinance prepared by the Controller.

The City and County budget which is now before you does not contain a single salary increase, nor a single new position. As originally submitted, it contained:

$140,126 covering 700 requested salary increases

644,197 covering 347 requested new permanent positions

---

$784,323 ELIMINATED

In addition to eliminating the above three-quarters of a million dollars certain other drastic curtailments have been made in proposed expenditures.

Requests have been made that wage rates of certain craftsmen employed by the City and County of San Francisco be equalized to conform with rates paid in private employment. In view of the fact that a SALARY STANDARDIZATION SCHEDULE covering these crafts was adopted by your honorable Board on May 24, 1937, neither the department heads nor the Mayor has authority to alter the rates thus established.

Departmental requests as originally filed totaled $69,566,757; the budget transmitted to you totals $61,567,495. Despite this slash of $7,999,262 the submitted total is an increase of $2,612,238 over the 1937-38 budget approved by you.

The principal items contributing to the increase are:

Increased Cost of Humanitarian Activities

Maintenance of minors.....	An INCREASE of $	33,318
Widows' pensions .....	An INCREASE of	50,646
Needy aged .....	An INCREASE of	1,056,823
Needy blind .....	An INCREASE of	37,500
Indigent sick—dependent poor..	An INCREASE of	320,000
Maintenance of feeble-minded..	An INCREASE of	5,000
Milk for needy children.....	An INCREASE of	10,000	$1,513,287

Other Increases

Exposition purposes .....	A NEW ITEM of $	302,862
Publicity and advertising.....	An INCREASE of	119,180
Bond interest and redemption..	An INCREASE of	236,614
Primary and general elections..	An INCREASE of	92,951
Emergency Reserve Fund.....	An INCREASE of	75,000
Employees' Retirement System..	An INCREASE of	47,718
Superior Court—visiting judges.	An INCREASE of	12,700
Various departmental functional obligations (net) .....	An INCREASE of	211,906	1,098,951
Summarized total .....			$2,612,238

The increase in the Emergency Reserve Fund is intended to provide a guarantee for uninterrupted departmental operations in view of the drastic curtailments already made.

Three hundred thousand dollars has been provided for W. P. A. sponsorship, but this amount will be augmented by sponsorship contributions from sources other than this fund. At the request of the Public Welfare Department, and in view of the Mayor's official responsibility to the Federal Government, these funds have been set up under the Mayor's jurisdiction. The same procedure has been followed with the funds provided for Exposition purposes.

This budget, like all local budgets, will be financed by revenues accruing from taxes levied, and by revenues accruing from sources other than taxation. In submitting the estimate of anticipated revenues for the fiscal year 1938-39, as required by the Charter (Section 69), the Controller, under date of March 15, 1938, said:

"The statement of anticipated revenues is necessarily subject to revision prior to transmittal of your budget recommendations to the Board of Supervisors and, unquestionably, will have to be revised prior to final passage of the budget, and also prior to the fixing of the tax rate."

The task of estimating revenues for a period which will not terminate until June 30, 1939—fourteen months from now—is a difficult one.

It is obviously necessary that revenue estimates be subject to revision.

On the basis of present estimated revenues from all other sources, there will be required from taxes to finance the submitted budget the sum of $33,538,172. This is $1,568,346 in excess of the amount which the current tax levy was intended to provide. The submitted budget, which includes a four cent levy for Exposition purposes, and a four cent levy for publicity and advertising—the maximum amounts allowed by the statutes—will require, on the current tax base, a tax rate of approximately $4.07.

Yours very truly,

ANGELO J. ROSSI,
Mayor.

Dear Mr. Dunnigan: In reply to your letter of May 3rd, would say that Mr. A. D. Wilder, Executive Engineer of the San Francisco Housing Authority, will attend the Board of Supervisors' meeting on Monday, May 9th, at 3 p. m., to give such information as the Board may desire.

15 California Street, San Francisco, California,

May 9, 1938.

Mr. J. S. Dunnigan,
Clerk, Board of Supervisors,
Room 235, City Hall, San Francisco, Calif.

Dear Mr. Dunnigan: Your letter of May 3rd to Mr. Walter H. Sullivan stating that Supervisor Uhl of the Board of Supervisors has requested Mr. Sullivan's attendance at the meeting of the Board on Monday, May 9th, has been referred to me by Mr. Sullivan with instructions to attend the meeting of the Board and give such information as the Board may desire.

Some days prior to the receipt of your letter Mr. Sullivan had instructed me to obtain copies of the basic laws under which the U. S. Housing Authority and the San Francisco Housing Authority had been created and to send same to each of the Supervisors together with a short brief explaining the powers, functions and purposes of the Housing Authority so far as they have now been determined. Inasmuch as the Housing Authority has only this morning obtained office space and facilities for working it has not been possible as yet for me to execute Mr. Sullivan's instructions but we hope to do this in the near future.

Last Saturday I communicated with President Shannon and told him that I would be glad to attend on the Board of Supervisors at any time they desired but that I thought it would facilitate matters if my presence at the Board were postponed until I had had an opportunity to send to each Board member a copy of the above synopsis and they had had the opportunity to read same. Mr. Shannon agreed with this and requested that I write you this letter suggesting that my attendance on the Board be postponed for two weeks.

Yours very truly,

A. D. WILDER, Executive Director.

Action Deferred.

Communication From Curtis D. O'Sullivan.

The following was read by the Clerk:

May 4, 1938.

Mr. J. S. Dunnigan,
Clerk, Board of Supervisors,
235 City Hall, San Francisco, California.

Dear Sir: I received this morning your communication concerning my attendance before the Board of Supervisors on May 9th.

As I returned from New York last night and as a meeting of the Traffic and Transportation Committee has been called for May 13th, Supervisor Uhl has agreed to a postponement of my appearance before the Board of Supervisors until May 16th, at which time it will be possible to make a more detailed report on progress.

Yours truly,

C. D. O'SULLIVAN.

Action Deferred.

Whereupon, the foregoing matter was continued one week and made a Special Order of Business for 3 p. m. May 16, 1938.

Appropriation of $5,000 for Expenses of Raker Act Litigation.

(Code No. 9.051)

The following matter was taken up:

Bill No. 1566, Ordinance No. 9.051471, as follows:

Authorizing a supplemental appropriation of $5,000 out of the surplus existing in the Hetch Hetchy Power Operative Fund to the credit of Appropriation No. 767.604.00 for the purpose of paying expenses in connection with the Raker Act litigation.

Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco, as follows:

Section 1. The sum of $5,000 is hereby appropriated and set aside out of the surplus existing in the Hetch Hetchy Power Operative Fund to the credit of Appropriation No. 767.604.00 for the purpose of paying expenses in connection with the Raker Act litigation.

Discussion.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I move the City Attorney be sent for.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy: Will you permit at this time the reading of a letter and opinion from Mr. O'Toole as the result of the Chair's action when this was originally considered. Even I make mistakes some times!

THE CLERK (Reading): "Opinion of City Attorney. May 9, 1928. Subject: In re passage of Supplemental Appropriation Ordinance to Finance Hetch Hetchy Litigation. Dear Sir:

"I have before me your request that I advise you whether it takes a two-thirds vote of the Board of Supervisors to make an appropriation out of Hetch Hetchy operative surplus, or whether such legislation can be adopted by a majority board.

"I understand that the matter in controversy occurred on Monday, April 25th, at which time there was on the Calendar of the Board, Ordinance No. 9.051471, the purport of which was to appropriate out of the surplus existing in the Hetch Hetchy operative fund, the sum of $5,000 for the purpose of paying expenses in re Raker Act litigation. The ordinance was regularly on the Calendar, it having received the favorable recommendation of the Finance Committee.

"I further understand that on motion to pass the proposed ordinance for second reading, that the motion received the vote of eight out of ten of the members in attendance on the Board, and that two members voted against it. The ordinance was not an emergency measure, nor did it provide for any appropriation out of the Mayor's Emergency Reserve Fund.

"Opinion. The intended appropriation ordinance was proposed pursuant to the provisions of Section 80 of the Charter, the pertinent portions of which read as follows: 'Provided however that any such surplus created in the year 1933-34, or created or existing any subsequent fiscal year may be appropriated by the Board of Supervisors at the last meeting of such Board in any month, by means of an ordinance designated as a supplemental appropriation ordinance, etc. . . . in the same manner and subject to the same conditions, except time, as provided in this Charter for the submission and approval of the annual budget and appropriation ordinance.'

"Only a majority vote of the Board is required to pass the annual budget and appropriation ordinance (see Section 72), hence if the supplemental appropriation ordinance received a majority vote of the Board it was passed for second reading.

"The President of the Board took the position that the appropriation was in the same position as an ordinance fixing rates for a public utility as provided by Section 130 of the Charter. True, this section provides that the rates for service from all utilities must be fixed so that the amount thereof will be sufficient to meet the cost of operating such utility, together with interest and sinking fund charges for any bonds issued for the acquisition, etc., of the utility, provided that the Utilities Commission may provide a lower schedule of rates with the approval of a two-thirds vote of the Board. In the instant case rates were not being fixed, and rates were in no way before the Board. The Controller has certified that funds were available out of surplus to meet the amount of the appropriation. The President of the Board of Supervisors is therefore advised that six votes are sufficient to pass the ordinance in question either finally or for second reading.

"Yours very truly, John J. O'Toole, City Attorney.

"To: The President of the Board of Supervisors.

"C. C. to the Controller."

THE PRESIDENT: It may be well, since this may be debated, to temporarily postpone it until we get through with the Calendar on uncontested matters. If there is no objection, such will be the order.

* * * * *

THE PRESIDENT: All right, proceed with the consideration of Number two on the Calendar, appropriation of $5,000, expenses of Raker Act litigation.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Now, Mr. President, in reference to this matter I have here a letter that I have received from a former colleague of ours, now Congressman Honorable Franck R. Havenner. I want the Clerk to read it, because I want it made a part of the record.

THE CLERK (reading): "May 4, 1938.

"I cannot understand how it could be anything but disastrous to the city's interests to grant a new franchise to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company before the problem of municipal distribution is satisfactorily settled. Of course, the city would derive some temporary revenue from the gross income franchise tax, but this would be a trivial price for turning over the streets of the city to the company for use in perpetuity. In my opinion, the granting of a new and unlimited franchise for the distribution and sale of electricity to a private corporation now would be equivalent to a declaration of policy by San Francisco that it has no intention of distributing its own electricity in the future. I am confident that the Department of the Interior would regard the issuance of such a franchise to the P. G. and E. before the present case is settled as an evidence of bad faith on the part of San Francisco.

"The suggestion that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company can automatically demand and obtain from the City and County of San Francisco a new franchise by paying the gross income franchise tax to the city is something entirely new to me. If there is such a law on the statute books of California, I have not heard anything about it, and in my opinion it would constitute an outrageous deprivation of the rights of the people. I know that the Market Street Railroad succeeded in having a similar provision placed in the Charter of the city, but I firmly believe that a majority of our people now rue the day when they voted to place this millstone around their necks.

"If this law is now in effect in California, I think that the government of San Francisco should find some legal means of contesting it, and should fight to the last ditch in an effort to invalidate it. The idea that a corporation, by the mere payment of a sum of money, can compel any political subdivision to sign away its control over the use of the streets is so utterly repugnant to the whole theory of democratic government that it ought never to be tolerated in a free country.

"It may be true, as suggested, that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company will never voluntarily consent to the sale of its electric distribution system to San Francisco, but it does not by any means follow as a logical and proper alternative that the City and County of San Francisco ought therefore to surrender to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in this fight and strengthen that company in the possession of its streets. In my opinion, the exact contrary of this procedure is the only honorable course for the city to pursue.

"The truth about the whole situation is this. San Francisco came to Congress a quarter of a century ago and begged for a grant of water storage rights in the Hetch Hetchy Valley. It agreed fully, and without reservation, to the proviso that the hydro-electric power to be generated in connection with the Hetch Hetchy project should never be sold to any individual or corporation for resale. The publicly announced purpose of this proviso was to prevent any privately owned public service corporation from appropriating this electric power to its own use and profit. The officials of the city government publicly proclaimed their intention to distribute and sell this power to the people of the city. As an evidence of good faith they constructed the Moccasin Creek power house and built a transmission line in the direction of San Francisco. My own limited intelligence will not enable me to believe that it was merely by accident that the city's money ran out when this transmission line was completed as far as the Newark substation of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. However, there the transmission line stopped, and there it has continued to stop until this day.

"The city officials then apologetically entered into the so-called agency contract with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, which has at last been declared invalid. I say apologetically, because all through the ordinance which put this agency contract into effect, and which is still on the statute books of San Francisco, runs the declaration that it is the intention of the city to acquire and operate its own municipal distribution system, and that the agency contract is merely a temporary arrangement pending such time as the city does acquire and operate such a system.

"There is another pledge which ought to be binding upon our city but which the opponents of municipal distribution always either ignore, or sneeringly decry. It is the declaration in the Charter that it is the policy of San Francisco to own and operate its public utilities.

"Cynics have said that consistency is a vice of foolish minds. However, I cannot escape the conviction that the government of San Francisco ought to be just as honorable in the fulfillment of its official obligations as any of its citizens would be required to be in their private relationships.

"I do not make these statements with any personal bitterness, or with any desire to fix the responsibility for this delinquency upon any particular group of individuals. I merely make the statements because they are true.

"The time has now come, in my judgment, when the interests of San Francisco must be placed ahead of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, and a fight to the finish should be waged upon this issue. This issue seems to me to be clear cut, and no compromise involving a surrender of any of San Francisco's rights ought to be tolerated.

"I do not contend that San Francisco should not appeal from the recent decision in the Federal Court but I am convinced that the appeal will eventually be denied, and in the meantime the city should take every possible step to strengthen its position. There is no reason why condemnation proceedings should not be instituted as soon as it is legally possible to do so and in conjunction with the other suits which I have previously suggested.

"I have never been optimistic enough to believe that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company would meekly consent to the immediate sale of its properties to the city. But I think that the company should be placed on the defensive in every possible way so that it will become unmistakably apparent to the people of San Francisco that this corporation is openly defying the city Charter, the provisions of its own agency contract, the Federal law and government, and the financial well-being of San Francisco.

"Of course, the City Attorney should be allowed to use reasonable discretion in the matter of pressing the suit to enjoin the Pacific Gas and Electric Company from future illegal use of the streets. But the suit ought to be filed, possibly in such a form that San Francisco would be enabled to enforce the injunction in certain sections of the city without depriving the entire city of electricity. If such a form of injunction could be legally contrived, it might be practical, for instance, to bring the city power into the industrial districts, and, as soon as it was ready to serve, shut off all competition. IF this were possible, such a program could be gradually expanded until the city was in control of the entire distribution service. Of course, I am not a lawyer but what is needed in this emergency is careful and aggressive legal thought, so that the battle may be won for San Francisco and not for the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

"Franck R. Havenner, M. C."

SUPERVISOR UHL: Just read that last paragraph. The City Attorney did not hear it.

THE PRESIDENT: Before that is done, I desire to call your attention to the fact that the hour of three-thirty has arrived, which was set as a Special Order for the report of Citizens' Committee on Rapid Transit. Is Mr. O'Sullivan present? Is there a communication from Mr. O'Sullivan?

THE CLERK: Yes.

* * * * *

THE PRESIDENT: Proceed now, with the reading of that last paragraph for the benefit of the City Attorney.

(Last paragraph of letter of May 4, 1938, signed "Franck R. Havenner, M. C.," again read by the Clerk.)

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Mr. President, and Members of the Board: Two weeks ago this matter came before us, and I believe two members of the Board objected to it. I was one of the objectors, and, of course, I am objecting here today.

Now, members of the Board, you have just heard a letter written by a former colleague of ours, now Congressman, a man who has given a lot of attention to this particular subject. Now it is up to you to continue this suit. Your City Attorney is standing over there, and he undoubtedly will continue the suit if this Board orders him to. If this Board does not order him to, then, of course, he will have to receive his orders elsewhere, but the responsibility as it stands now is ours in reference to this particular appropriation. If we vote this appropriation on final passage this afternoon the City Attorney will go forth and proceed with the suit.

Now, I am informed that certain people connected with the Federal administration as it is now constituted will not tolerate the continuance of our selling this power to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company. If we do not show good faith, that we are trying to do something in reference to complying with Section 6 of the Raker Act you might find yourself in a position here some time in the latter part of October—I believe that is about the date the six months is up—you might find yourself in the position that you would be enjoined from proceeding with the sale of that electricity.

Now we are going forth here now, and we have received a budget, and it will be in our hands I imagine this week to pass on, and we are making allowances for this $2,000,000 in compiling this budget. If we find ourselves next October, or thereabouts in a position that we cannot use this $2,000,000 we are in an embarrassing position. Now, members, it is up to this Board. I have used this expression a great many times, but it is nevertheless true, that some day some members of this Board may have to give an accounting of their stewardship—and most of the members have given an account of their stewardship, but some day we will be charged with this responsibility. Now it is up to us this afternoon. We must be consistent——

THE PRESIDENT: Order, please.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Here a few months ago we passed a resolution asking the Public Utilities Commission to start the machinery in motion for a bond issue. I tried hard in my own way to get going as rapidly as possible. There are members of this Board that do not wish a bond issue. Every time a bond issue has come up for the purchase of a distribution system they have gone out and publicly opposed it. I have no difference with those members, but I have a difference with the man who is on the bench, who doesn't know his own mind, and I don't think the people of our city are anxious to have a man of that kind represent them. They respect a man who has the courage of his own convictions. So we have those members here, and by their vote they show themselves here this afternoon, and you are going to vote this $5,000 for the purpose of instructing your City Attorney to proceed with this suit. I can't see the consistency of it. I can't see how you can go before the people and say, "We want to distribute our own hydro-electric power, we want to give to the people of San Francisco the same advantages the people of Los Angeles have. We want to do this, and yet by our vote we do not give the people that right or chance. I don't know how you are going to defend it. You know what Abraham Lincoln said: "you can fool all of the people part of the time, and you can fool some of the people all of the time, but you can't fool all of the people all of the time"—if my quotation is right. I don't know. So I say to you, laugh as you please, think as you please, but some day you are going to answer to the people here in reference to your attitude this afternoon.

I trust and hope that you will see the error that you made two weeks ago, and that six members vote here today to not adopt this resolution, which has for its purpose instructing your City Attorney to go forth and ask the repeal of the decision as rendered by the United States judge. And I trust you will not do it, because I don't think you are doing the right thing, and I think some day that the Federal government will recognize that fact, and it will not surprise me—and I am informed by men in close touch with the Federal government in Washington, that if we do not show an honest disposition to create a bond issue for the distributing of our own power that we will find ourselves in a very embarrassing position, and the opinion will be upheld, and the judge of the United States Court will decide that we cannot sell that power any longer to the power company. If we were not the city that we are we never would have received the opinion from that judge that we did. He would have enjoined us forthwith, and in so many days. But he gave us six months, and there is a disposition of some members that this city will not be given an opportunity to issue revenue bonds for this purpose. So I say to you, just give this some thought, and do not make the same mistake you made two weeks ago. You have had two weeks to sleep on it, and I trust you will not pass it.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Colman.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: The letter read from Congressman Havenner has no bearing here. The matter he referred to has been decided. The City Attorney has been instructed to negotiate, and if the negotiations fail he has been instructed to bring suit. I feel we can handle our own affairs, members of the Board, without being advised by the Honorable Congressman. I think that is a matter for this Board to determine, and I think were we not to pass this $5,000 appropriation, then we would be guilty of inconsistency to a startling degree—to such a degree that we would not be taking care of $2,000,000 of the taxpayers' money. This Board requested that legislation. It has been started. The first decision has gone against the city. That is the lowest court, from which an appeal can be taken. It is logical and proper to appeal that decision to the next higher court, and failing there, to determine whether or not we can go to the highest court of the land.

It is also a logical step to determine, although this contract may not be considered reasonably complying with the Raker Act, if another one could not be drawn that might be considered actually a legal compliance with the Raker Act. Now, if when we serve notice of an appeal the City Attorney advises us that the decision of the lower court is held up, that must be the case, because until the decision comes from the highest court, Judge Roche's decision is not law—until it is sustained. That is the statement of the City Attorney. So there is no danger whatsoever that anything could happen as suggested by our colleague. Now as far as the people of San Francisco are concerned, and I might refer just a moment to the Fourth Congressional District which the writer of the letter represents. It was only on March the 9th, 1937, that the people of the Fourth Congressional District, 40,415 voted "No" on revenue bonds, and 27,122 voted "Yes." It would not appear from that result, and in going back to other revenue bond elections the difference is just the same. It would not appear that the representative of the Fourth Congressional District understands thoroughly how his constituents feel upon the question of revenue bonds. He apparently, as I see it, is decidedly out of touch with his district. Were I politically ambitious it would be a glorious moment, but I am not. Nevertheless I do call your attention to those facts, and I do say in conclusion that this Board can only vote to continue this appeal, to protect the money of the taxpayers of San Francisco.

SUPERVISOR RATTO: The question?

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll—Supervisor Reilly.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I would just like to make a statement before we vote, but I will yield to Supervisor McSheehy, if he wishes?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: No, I have already spoken.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I just wanted to make this statement, Mr. President and members of the Board: That it places me in a position of wonderment for the moment, at least, although I am determined in my own mind as to how I think I should vote. I am committed, as a public official, to the Charter; and the language of the Charter is for public ownership of our utilities. Our City Attorney has proceeded with a certain suit that this Board requested him to proceed with, and I repeat, and I want the record to show this, or to show my language in case I refer to it at some future time, that no member of this Board, to my knowledge—and if I am incorrect I know I will be corrected by the members of this Board—at no time has the City Attorney been requested by any of these strong advocates of municipal ownership to fight this contract during the past few years, or during the life of the contract. In other words, I want to be consistent, and I may have to step on a toe here or there in order to do it, and in order to protect my position in the future, when I present my stewardship to the voters—and I am proud to say that they were intelligent at the last election, and another 5000 votes and I would have been number one on the ticket. I still think if I had two weeks more time I would have been. However, I say that only in a joking way, and with respect, because I think Supervisor McSheehy is well respected as a member of the Board, and the people want him on the Board, and they have said so, and I said that more in a joking way than anything else. However, to be consistent on this power problem, as a new member of the Board,

I am wondering now just what position to take. The members of the Board who are constantly fighting this $2,000,000 a year, that seems to have a kind of odor attached to it. I don't know. It has been on the Board a long time. Now with respect to Congressman Havenner, when the matter of the Ins versus the Sell-outs came up, nothing was done when the Sell-outs went in and the Ins came in on the matter of the 24-hour contract. Put yourself, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen, in the position of a new member of the Board who is committed to the policy of public ownership by the Charter, and who doesn't want to fool these citizens. Have you ever been requested, Mr. O'Toole, to fight the legality of this 24-hour contract by this Board officially?

MR. O'TOOLE: Supervisor, the Board did not have to do that. The contract could have been cancelled on 24 hours' notice.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Thank you. That brings me to question number two: Did any member of this Board who so strongly fought the sell-out and came on the Board, did they ever attack the legality of the act? No. But every budget time they saw the $2,200,000, and when they made speeches before the Improvement clubs in this city they said, we have reduced the tax rate, and they kept putting in the dark horse, and the red herring kept sticking in there for 20 years. Now we are becoming alarmed about the power question. Now let me tell you that is a hot one. We are all alarmed about the power question. I can't see at all, if the same members of the Board want to be consistent, if they have been inconsistent for nineteen and three-quarter years or more, I can't see why eight more months will make a great deal of difference. Because it is still in the budget this year, $2,200,000, and I don't know from the last budget hearing of any complaint that was registered. We were glad to get the $2,200,000, and we have always been glad to get it.

Now we have asked our City Attorney to do what? He is asking for an appropriation to continue to do the thing this Board asked him to do. Now he would be inconsistent—Now I would be inconsistent if I did not vote the appropriation, having confidence in the City Attorney—and I don't like the last paragraph in Congressman Havenner's letter, and I consider him a great friend of mine. And in that paragraph he says, in one paragraph, "I don't contend San Francisco should not appeal from the recent decision of the Federal Court," and then he says something about the City Attorney—of course, I am not a lawyer—well, we all know that. And he says, in this emergency. I want to say to you, Mr. City Attorney, that I consider we have the finest legal talent in San Francisco, and I place the future of San Francisco, as far as I am concerned, in your hands any day in the week. (Applause.)

Now let me just, in closing, say this, and I say it respectfully to Supervisor McSheehy, and all other members of the Board who are power minded, and who see an emergency in this: Let's see if we are in good faith with each other. Let's assume that we stop the suit, and this is what I want you to think over—let's assume that we stop the suit. Would we take out the $2,000,000 from the budget? We would not. That $2,200,000 would remain there as long as we could get our mitts on it, and you know it. And I don't think any member of the Board would vote that $2,200,000 out at this time. It does not prevent us from presenting the power issue to the people. My only conflict, and it is a very friendly and honest conflict with Supervisor McSheehy, and it is this: I am afraid he will cloud the issue, and place some members of the Board who are in sympathy with this matter in the position that by voting this appropriation that we will be voting against eventually purchasing our utilities. It is no such thing. We are doing, I believe, a consistent piece of business, and when the proper time comes, we will vote, I presume, for the best interest of San Francisco as far as our power problem is concerned. But I repeat this one thing in closing: That for twenty long years this 24-hour contract, to my knowledge, has never been attacked, and the record doesn't show it. No member has brought in a resolution condemning it, and asking the Board to cancel it; and at this late hour, 19 or 20, or some odd years late they are coming in with this suggestion, that we should not appropriate the funds. I think we are doing the proper thing. We are honest with ourselves, and we are honest with the citizens, and it is not a vote, and no member of this audience should feel it is a vote to determine your policy on public ownership. It is a vote to do something that you advocated and requested the City Attorney to do—and in this $5,000 are moneys already expended by Mr. O'Toole. Is that not a fact, Mr. O'Toole?

MR. O'TOOLE: Not all of it, Mr. Reilly.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Some of it?

MR. O'TOOLE: Some of it has.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Therefore, we are paying the bill for moneys already expended by the City Attorney to date, to do what we, the members of the Board, asked him to do. And I think in good faith, as a new member, knowing twenty long years have gone by, and that 24-hour contract has not been cancelled, I can do nothing else,—and it is still in existence, and going right along.

THE PRESIDENT: Any other member of the Board desire the floor? Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I had intended to speak, but my good friend has said it all!

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Supervisor Reilly, when he came on this Board about a year ago, made somewhat of the type of Fourth of July speech he has made here today, and Supervisor Colman asked him if he was ever a yell leader in high school or college. Supervisor Reilly said no, and Supervisor Colman said he thought possibly he had, that it was that kind of a speech. Supervisor Reilly seems to have that faculty of continually making these yell leader talks. Coming down to the real facts, and analyzing the questions—he asks the question, and he says 20 years have passed, and why didn't we cancel this contract? To begin with—and for a young man Supervisor Reilly has been around—I think he was 21 at the time we had that election of what was known as the Clean-outs against the Sell-outs, in which every man that came up for election that favored the Sell-out was defeated—but now may I simply say this to Supervisor Reilly, going back on that question, and trying to analyze it, that we, the City of San Francisco, made huge investments of millions and millions of dollars all told, as I have stated—$116,000,000, including the interest—and at the time we made these huge investments, as we went along, we brought our power to Newark. I do not want at this time to attempt to talk about a man that has passed to the Great Beyond, but through some influence or other the power was brought to Newark, where the Pacific Gas and Electric Company has a step-down station; and we found that we had spent all of the money at that time that the bond issue called for. The power was at Newark, and then we found the condition—I notice Supervisor Uhl is going out, I would like him to hear this—

SUPERVISOR UHL: I can tell you a lot about it.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Yes, because you played a very important—because as the power was brought to Newark, and we found ourselves in this position—we were enjoined by the Supervisor who just stepped out of the door, from using any money for the distributing system, and the Supervisor was the one who brought the suit and paid for counsel. All right, then, we found ourselves; and as said by our own President, and he was quoted in the newspaper, and he has never changed, he has taken the same position, the stand I have taken—he made the statement, what can we do with the power? Let it run into the ocean? We found ourselves in that position, we could not do anything because we were enclaved into the position of bringing our power down to Newark, and enjoined from using any of our money for a distributing system—and the citizen who enjoined us was a citizen no less than our present colleague, Adolph Uhl. We found ourselves in that position, and we went along, and the Board was, you might say, entirely reorganized, and while our good friend Supervisor Colman has been consistent—he was opposed to the distribution of power, yet he happened to be very fortunate and wasn't one of the Supervisors that came up for election at that time——

SUPERVISOR UHL: Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

THE PRESIDENT: State your point of order.

SUPERVISOR UHL: The point of order is he is not talking to the motion, when he gets into personalities, and talks about Supervisor Colman not being one of the members up for election that year—I think that is getting into personalities, and aside from the matter before the Board. I think the gentleman is out of order.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: He did say I was here, which is true. I do not consider that a personality.

THE PRESIDENT: The point of order is not well taken.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Not well taken?

THE PRESIDENT: Not well taken.

SUPERVISOR UHL: As usual!

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now, Members, I would like to answer Supervisor Reilly to this degree: The Board went along and made a huge appropriation in the Budget which was used for the purpose of appraising the P. G. and E. properties—this is memory only, and I think the amount was $325,000, and we used that sum of money for the purpose of making a survey of all their property. I remember well how we employed experts, and they even went into a dynamo and stripped it, and counted the wires, and they would go on to a pole—

SUPERVISOR UHL: Mr. President, I don't think you understood what my motion was. My point of order was that he is not talking to the motion. We have before us here a question of an appropriation of $5,000 to appeal a suit. What would that have to do with that?

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Uhl, you have been on this Board of Supervisors now about four and a half years, and you know it takes Supervisor McSheehy some little time to get around to the point he wants to make. Therefore, I will have to say that your point of order is again not well taken. Give him a chance.

SUPERVISOR UHL: All right.

THE PRESIDENT: Give him a chance.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I have tried hard not to use a certain adjective I have used against Supervisor Uhl——

THE PRESIDENT: Be tolerant.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: ——but if he drives me I will use it again.

So I say to you, Supervisor Reilly, that it was impossible for us at any time—and the length of time is 12 years, and not 20, for any member of this Board to bring in a resolution asking the Board of Supervisors to discontinue selling the power to the power company. Time in and time out I told the members of this Board, and when I appeared before Secretary Ickes at Washington—and Supervisor Colman was there,—I made no bones of telling Secretary Ickes that we were selling that power for $2,000,000, and they in turn were selling it to the consumers for $10,000,000. These are facts. They are before us today, and I think the people of this City want to, if they are given a chance, distribute their own power. I have told you several times, Supervisor Reilly, and I have told the members of this Board, and I will tell you again, that conditions have been so constructive that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company can spend $100,000, or $1,000,000, if they wish to, for the purpose of defeating a bond issue in San Francisco, and put that in their rates. They have done that.

Supervisor Colman stated in the particular district that Congressman Havenner represents that by a vote to 40,000 to 27,000 they defeated that Charter amendment. Why, Supervisor Colman, if anybody will go out and spend the huge sum of money that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company have spent, and legalize that expenditure—of course, they will defeat almost any bond issue, until the people of this city really realize just exactly what it means.

I think they will realize it when we are enjoined from continuing to accept from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company $2,000,000 a year, and they in turn selling it to the people for $10,000,000.

Now, I don't need to speak about our good friend O'Toole. Perhaps I have differed with him, but I certainly respect him, but since Supervisor Reilly made that statement, I am informed, not by one but three different attorneys, that Judge Roche has the power to enjoin us, and if the decision is not rendered by the court at that time he can render that decision. It would be up to the Judge. And I think if the Judge wishes to look at it in that way, especially when we show no disposition to distribute that power—if we are going to continue to block everything that has for its purpose the distributing of our power, we are not acting in good faith, and we will have to answer for that. And above all things we are losing the distribution of our power, which means a saving to our people, and which will allow manufacturers to come to San Francisco. We did not mortgage our city for more than a hundred million dollars just for the mere purpose of bringing water, and distributing our own water. We are not even using it. 70,000,000 gallons is running into the ocean every day. We aren't even giving the people the advantage of that. We find we are paying more for water than any other city in the United States—

SUPERVISOR UHL: Mr. President, I move the speaker's time be increased another ten minutes.

THE PRESIDENT: The motion is not in order.

SUPERVISOR UHL: The rules are 10 minutes, and he has talked now nearly a half an hour.

THE PRESIDENT: No, the gentleman has talked exactly 10 minutes, with two interruptions by yourself; and the Chair is watching the clock, and his time can be extended five minutes.

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Let's cut out the horse-play and get down to business.

THE PRESIDENT: If there is no objection, Supervisor McSheehy's time will be extended.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now I simply say this in closing, on this entire matter, to Supervisors Uhl, Reilly, and Colman, or any other Supervisor: You can vote this appropriation here today and it will be mandatory upon your City Attorney to continue the suit and try and have the decision repealed. All right, I have said it before, some day you may have to answer for it. It is up to you. I don't know as I can convince a member of this Board. I thought perhaps I might. I thought perhaps you might give some thought of it. I don't find Supervisor Reilly quite so set. I find him explaining his vote somehow in a sort of Fourth of July manner: It might go, or it might not go. I don't think it will continue to be accepted. I don't think the people of San Francisco want Fourth of July orations. They want their power, their water, and they don't want taxes increased. Talk means nothing, but it is your vote here today that counts, and your vote only.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Mr. President.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Uhl.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I feel since Supervisor McSheehy's statement will be on record, and having used my name in relation to the mandamus suit I would just like to explain that there was an attempt to violate the Charter, and it was on that ground that I brought the suit, and the Supreme Court decided in my favor, and it was merely because I was trying to stop that Board of Supervisors from violating the Charter.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I would like to ask Mr. O'Toole a question, after listening to the remarks of Supervisor McSheehy. Mr.

O'Toole in the appropriation of this $5,000, by so doing, will that in any way prevent this Board from acting, and within the shortest period of time, and within whatever period of time the Board deems it necessary—will that in any way prevent this Board from doing that?

MR. O'TOOLE: From doing what?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Presenting the power question to the voters?

MR. O'TOOLE: No, they are entirely separate. The matter of going ahead with the appeal is what you have before you, and the other question has been referred, I think, to the Utilities Commission to get the necessary data to re-submit Plan 7.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: If Plan 7 was submitted to the people and adopted, doesn't it have to be ratified by the State Legislature?

MR. O'TOOLE: Yes.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: And they convene next January?

MR. O'TOOLE: I don't assume there will be any special session between now and that time. Of course, under the recent amendment to the statute you can ratify a charter amendment at a special session, but it is very unlikely that there will be any special session between now and the end of August, or the November election.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: And in voting this appropriation there is nothing that binds any member of the Board from presenting the problem of distributing our power to the people?

MR. O'TOOLE: No, it is entirely separate.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Would you think then that Supervisor McSheehy was making a Fourth of July speech instead of me?

MR. O'TOOLE: Well, of course, not knowing much about Fourth of July speeches I will have to let the Board judge that.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll on number two.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Aye.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Just a moment.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I wish to change my vote from "no" to "Aye" and give notice of reconsideration.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Mr. Chairman.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I move suspension of the rules for the purpose of immediate consideration.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Second the motion.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown, seconded by Supervisor Reilly, moves suspension of the rules for the purpose of immediate consideration. Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Now, members, I simply do this, as I did last week, for the purpose of taking this under advisement for another week. Now it takes eight votes for immediate reconsideration, and if you immediately reconsider this, and put this through today, why, you can do so, but I think you should put it over for another week. You might change your mind. The reconsideration rule is a rule in effect in every parliamentary body, and we know it is a rule for the prevention of hasty legislation. So I hope you give this consideration and do not vote immediate reconsideration. It is making a record of your vote, that you are not in favor of the distribution of our hydro-electric power, irrespective of what you might think.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Mr. Chairman.

THE PRESIDENT: Just a minute. Mr. Clerk, what is the vote?

THE CLERK: The vote now stands eight "Ayes," two "Noes."

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I am going to do my colleagues the honor, pay them the compliment of considering that they have had two weeks which has elapsed between the first and second consideration of this matter, and they have had ample time to change their minds if they desired to do so, and that a further reflection would not change the mind of any member of this Board. It does not seem to have changed them in this vote, and I do not think it would change within that week, hence I respectfully submit to the Board the statement of the City Attorney that this matter is entirely unrelated, unassociated to the question of public or private ownership of utilities by the city, that the two are disassociate, and that a vote on this appropriation of $5,000 in no way prevents any member of the Board for voting exactly as he sees fit on any deliberations on public ownership of power that may come before us in the future.

Against that you have the statement of Supervisor McSheehy that this is a record vote, and all sorts of dire things might happen if you vote in favor of this $5,000. I don't think there is any necessity for further comment. The Board are all grown men, they are not children, they have the power to make up their minds, and I think ample time for consideration has been given, despite Supervisor McSheehy's statement to the contrary.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll on suspension of the rules.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Just a minute, if nobody else wants to speak, I simply want to close by saying to the membership of this Board—

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Just a minute. I rise to a point of order.

THE PRESIDENT: What is your point of order?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: As the mover of the motion for immediate reconsideration, I have the right to close.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Well, I will withdraw the word "close." I simply wish to say to the members of this Board that if this matter is put over one week, as an opponent of the appropriation of $5,000 it will be my duty, and the duty of any member of the Board who shares my views, to present this matter to you. It will be placed in the hands of what might be termed a majority—it only needs six votes, and during the week you have a chance to sleep on it, and think it over, and I again reiterate my words, that in my opinion—I will put it that way, that you are today making a commitment you are going to perhaps find it rather hard some day to tell the people of San Francisco why you voted this particular appropriation to start this suit on its way. We do know if the appropriation is voted down the decision remains as is, and we can bring the bond issue before the people of San Francisco and perhaps we will convince the majority of the people of the city that they should distribute their own power, irrespective of the huge sum of money that will be spent by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to defeat it. Where a company is so large, that today, or at least in the year 1926, the entire receipts of that company from the people of San Francisco was $24,154,000 for gas and electricity, you can see the company you are dealing with. And we know it is only a subsidiary of an eastern company that controls the company out here; and they are so afraid that they can and will spend any sum of money; that they can put it in their operating fund and charge it to the people of San Francisco as rate. We have a real task before us, and why not start the ball rolling today and not attempting to vote this particular appropriation.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask a question, through the Chair? You heard Supervisor Reilly's statement regarding 24-hour contract, why was no attempt made to break that?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I shall try to explain it to you, and I hope you will not rise to a point of order on me, because you may do that.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I will, if it is not to the point.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I am allowed ten minutes now to explain it, if you wish. You are a difficult man to explain things to.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Well, I would ask a direct question, why hasn't he made a motion to cancel the contract?

THE PRESIDENT: And you want a direct answer?

SUPERVISOR UHL: I do.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: My reason was this: The motion would have been a useless motion. It would have been a waste of time for this Board or any Board to stop the sale of that power until they had some plant, or ways and means of distributing the hydro-electric power. You know, Supervisor Uhl, hydro-electric power is created by water, and that the water is at a certain elevation——

SUPERVISOR UHL: Really?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Yes, and with your knowledge of certain matters, while you appear to be a brilliant fellow, whether you are balanced or not, I doubt. (Laughter.)

Hydro-electric power is generated in Hetch Hetchy, and that power must be taken off——

SUPERVISOR UHL: It is developed at Priest Hill.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: We have a power house that develops 80,000 kilowatt hours, and we haven't water enough to furnish electricity for our whole city—we had that much before we raised that dam; however, the very moment you stop generating that power, that water virtually finds itself into the ocean, and the power is not created, so therefore when we had no means of distributing the power, we could do nothing else but go on and I told you how we went on and spent $325,000 to follow the law so we would have an estimate of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's property.

THE PRESIDENT: Will you state again what the receipts of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company are in San Francisco?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: The combined receipts for gas and electricity of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for the year 1936 was $24,154,000.

THE PRESIDENT: In San Francisco?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: In San Francisco, for gas and electricity.

SUPERVISOR UHL: How much for electricity?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I think it was around sixteen million dollars, but you will find that record in the Railroad Commission report. Have I made myself clear, Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: No, you have not answered why you did not bring a motion in to cancel that contract.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Of course, I can't make myself clear to a man that has a mind like you have.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Reilly.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I would like to ask, through the Chair, of Supervisor McSheehy, and I want you to feel I am very serious about this. Supervisor——

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Oh, that is all right.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: And the thought I have is this: That if this $2,000,000 contract—if you had brought in, for example, the necessary legal resolution to cancel that contract say 10 or 11 years ago, and this Board had cancelled the contract 10 or 11 years ago, wouldn't it then have forced San Francisco into the position of doing something 10 or 11 years ago that you now seem to think should be done? In other words, 10 or 11 years have elapsed, and now is there any reason why on May 9, 1938, at the hour of four thirty p. m. any more importance than there was ten years ago?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: 20 years ago.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Well, the length of the contract. In other words, if it was 20 years, let's go back 20 years. What I am trying to determine is this: If you brought in the resolution to cancel this contract, wouldn't San Francisco then have been in the position to insist on buying, or going into the power distributing business? And now all those years have elapsed, and by not cancelling the contract San Francisco did not force itself into that position of doing something immediately, and what is the emergency now? Nothing can be done until the Legislature convenes next year, any way, and you aren't doing anything now to cancel the contract; it still goes on. If you were to bring in a resolution today to cancel this contract, if you were sincere—and I say that respectfully—if you came in here now with a resolution to cancel it I might look a little differently, but you are not doing that. I think you are creating an impression in the minds of the public that if I vote for this I am committing myself against power distribution by the city. I am not. I have definitely committed myself to the Charter on that matter, and if we were voting on it I would vote accordingly. But this is an entirely separate motion. And here is what you are doing, and I am fearful of it: You are creating the impression that he who votes for the $5,000 appropriation today is opposed to the city distributing its power. That is not a fact, and I say to you if you were in good faith, if you come in with the cancellation of this contract, and you want to force the emergency on the people, that is one thing. But you are not doing it, you are letting the contract run on, and I think somebody is being fooled.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: May I answer the Supervisor as briefly as possible. I told him how the power was generated, I told him how it was created; I don't want to touch on the name of a man who has passed away, but meetings upon meetings were held in this Board of Supervisors, and in the Mayor's office, and the best legal minds that we had at that time, especially the late Chief Justice Sullivan, as an attorney, and a member of the Utilities Commission, and several other attorneys, especially our own City Attorney, and there was nothing for us to do but to enter into what is known as the 24-hour contract so we could use our power.

I have been a party four different times to bond issues for this purpose. The only way we can distribute our power is by creating a bond issue, and when we tried to use money that we had Supervisor Uhl enjoined us, because the Charter specifically stated that that money should be spent in no other way, and as a good citizen of this municipality he went on record and stopped this Board from proceeding to use the surplus money we then had, and the court enjoined us. I tried hard, then, and I am trying hard today, as hard as I can, to see if we can not get a bond issue before the people of San Francisco for the purpose of distributing our power. We cannot cancel the contract. If the court enjoins us, very well, then we have not kept faith with the United States government, because you know Section 6—

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Why can't you cancel the contract?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Well, it is impractical for us, as I said, to cancel the contract until we can distribute the power. We have nothing—If we cancel our contract in 24 hours, the very moment we cease to distribute the power, the power ceases, and we lose that sum of money. We cannot cancel it until we have created a distribution plant to distribute it.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: That is my point, that you cannot stop the contract, and this contract is going to continue, and what then has this lawsuit of trying to stop the contract got to do with presenting to the people the clear cut issue you want them to vote on?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I will tell you: If this Board should go on record, and if you feel—if you are at all in the dark then you should not vote for reconsideration. It is before you now, and will go over until next week. You have a beautiful chance, because I imagine the same three men will vote again, and it takes eight votes to carry this for immediate reconsideration. We can stop it, just as I told you—

SUPERVISOR REILLY: You missed the question, Supervisor, and I say it again respectfully: The question I am seeking information on is this—you say it is impractical to cancel this contract?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Yes.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Now if it is impractical to cancel it today, what has that got to do with this $5,000 being appropriated because the contract is going to continue? It is not going to be cancelled, because you admit it is impractical to cancel it, and it won't be cancelled, presumably. What has that got to do with the submission to the people of San Francisco of the clear cut issues of power distribution, and in the meantime continuing to enjoy what you as a member have allowed them to enjoy so many long years, $2,200,000 worth of power. I think you are confusing the issue. If you can answer that I am willing to vote for postponement. I have no objection to postponement for one week.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: We are enjoined by the injunction from the court which will take place some time, I think it is in October. It is a question on which there is a difference of opinion between our City Attorney and the three attorneys I have counseled with, as to the powers of the court, as to whether decision will be rendered by the higher court as to the injunction. With reference to the legality of the decision, I don't know. We do know when those things go into the Federal Court they take time. If this Board goes on record as opposing this appropriation it will be a mandate to our City Attorney not to continue it, and if the Board went on record that way it will be followed up—because it is already started, a bond issue to distribute our power, and if that bond issue is brought forth and presented to the primary election in August, with the opinion expressed by this Board that it does not wish to continue the 24-hour contract, because they are in a position to legally destroy it by not continuing it, then we will find that Mr. Pacific Gas and Electric Company will be at their wit's end to convince the people that they should not bind themselves.

So, members of the Board, I hope that you will not vote immediate reconsideration. I feel this Board is making a clean record as to its views on this point. I don't want to use the expression that I often use on the Board—"blow hot and blow cold"—but it is your vote only that will count. Now, Supervisor Reilly, as you seem to be in doubt, as a young man, I know what I would do: I would take this matter under consideration for one week, and you have the chance right now, because it will take eight votes on this Board to carry out Supervisor Brown's motion in reference to reconsideration. Then it will be up one week from today, and we, the advocates of this particular motion, will have to show that we are right. So I say to you, as a young man, and as a wise man, you would be doing the prudent thing in voting for reconsideration today and taking the matter under advisement, and some of your friends may tell you how the city feels in reference to this all-important matter.

MR. O'TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, can I have the privilege of the floor?

THE PRESIDENT: Yes.

MR. O'TOOLE: There seems to be a great deal of discussion. I think possibly everyone has gone far afield. Now the purpose of this appropriation is to pay the costs partially incurred for the trial of the case, and to make provision for an appeal. It has absolutely nothing to do with any proposition to distribute the power ourselves. If it did that, I wouldn't be asking for it. I wouldn't be asking the Mayor to recommend the appropriation, or this Board to vote for it. My record in San Francisco for the last 12 years is known to everybody. I have prepared some seven or eight Charter amendments providing for municipal distribution of power, and I spoke in favor of every one of them on the public platform, over the radio, and through the press. So I want to repeat here and now that this $5,000 has no more to do with the matter of the submission to the people of the municipal distribution of power than the first matter on your calendar, which I think is the matter before it, something to do with the salaries in the Assessor's office. Now I have heard Supervisor McSheehy say that this judgment will become final in six months. Judge Roche has so stated, that the injunction will become effective six months after the order has become final. However, the order has not yet become final. We have submitted amendments to the findings, and they are now, and have been for some time lodged with the Secretary of the Interior, awaiting his suggestions to the United States Attorney, to say what should be done with them.

Now if this judgment should become final, what is going to happen to this city is this: Supposing Judge Roche signs his findings and issues his decree tomorrow, that judgment will become final on the 10th of November. Now there is no possibility, absolutely, of this Board of Supervisors, or of the people of San Francisco either acquiring the properties of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, or building a distribution system within that period of time—and why? Because you have to build it, either on a revenue bond basis, and must amend your Charter for that purpose, and that amendment cannot become effective until it is ratified by the legislature; or, if you wanted to vote it on a general obligation bond, which would take a two-thirds vote of the people, practically the earliest time that that could be submitted would be November, unless there was a special election between August and November at rather a considerable cost. Now, if we do take this appeal, two things can happen. Judge Roche may reserve unto himself to extend the time when that injunction will become effective; and undoubtedly if during that period of time it was made known to him, by proper affidavits, that the city was in earnest in making a survey of the power situation, either to acquire the properties of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, or to build a competing distribution system, it would lay within his power to extend the effective date of that injunction, to give the people the opportunity of expressing their views. And if he did not see fit to do that, if you have an appeal pending, you can always make an application to the appellate court to extend the time as against the time when they will finally decide the matter. And I can not see for one moment, but what if San Francisco was in good faith in prosecuting its appeal, and at the same time going ahead with the matter of submitting to the people the matter of the municipal distribution of this power, I don't think there is a Circuit Court in the United States that would refuse to grant us a supersedeas—that is, refuse to make the injunction final until the suit was finally settled. And why? Because the government cannot be damaged. We can shut down the entire Hetch Hetchy power plant and not one cent goes into the Federal treasury or one cent is taken out.

That is why I think an appeal should be taken in this case. In other words, it puts us in a position—it gives us time to go ahead and present this matter to the people, and at the same time not having our revenue cut off. If this appeal is not taken, whether we have a distribution system or not, when the six months is up, Judge Roche has lost all jurisdiction to extend the restraining time, or the effective date of the judgment, much as he might want to do it; and no matter how much good faith this Board, or the Utilities Commission, or the people of San Francisco themselves might show in endeavoring to get a municipal distribution system, the only way this matter can be kept alive—the only way this $2,200,000 can be saved to the City for the next year, is to take this appeal. And this appeal has no more to do, as I have said today, with the municipal distribution of power, than the matter of fixing the salaries of the men in the Assessor's office has, which was before you today.

Now if I don't get the money here, I presume I will find it some other place, and go through with the appeal any way.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I move the previous question.

THE PRESIDENT: Call the roll on the suspension of the rules—the previous question has been asked for—Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Of course, it takes three members to ask for the previous question. I trust the Supervisors will not do that, because I am going to say a few words—

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I will join Supervisor Uhl, making the second member who moves the previous question.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy has the floor.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: It takes three members to move the previous question.

May I say this to the membership of this Board: I am not going to attempt, as a layman, to differ with our City Attorney. Our City Attorney is entitled to his opinion, but we ourselves are charged with the responsibility. He closed by saying if we do not make the appropriation he will go elsewhere, and see that the appropriation is made. I say yes, let our City Attorney go elsewhere and see that the appropriation is made. If his Honor the Mayor wishes to shoulder the responsibility, let him shoulder it, and his Honor the Mayor will tell the Utilities Commission to probably make the appropriation and perhaps—Just a minute, Mr. O'Toole—

MR. O'TOOLE: I am not going to interrupt until you are through.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I have the floor. The responsibility is ours, and no one else's. We will be held responsible. So I say to you members of the Board—Now in reference to Judge Roche's decision, the decision has been rendered, and we have got to show the court we are in good faith, and we tell our City Attorney to go along and file this appeal, and we go along in reference to the bond issue, and we will find November coming on, and no bond issue. Do you think the Secretary of the Interior will look favorably on that? Every Secretary from the day that we entered into that 24-hour contract, twelve years ago, was opposed to the contract, but the conditions warranted its continuation, because this city would be penalized this huge sum of money on account of the contract. The contract was beautifully thought out. The power was brought to Newark, the best attorneys in our city tried at that time, twelve years ago, to find ways and means to stop the entering into of that contract, but it was entered into, and nine members of this Board who entered into it at that time—I think there were eleven or twelve, but not all of them came up for reelection—and they were defeated, and every other public official who came up for election was defeated. The people have some knowledge as to this question, but they were confused every time a bond issue came up on account of the huge sum of money every year put out by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, and we have to show the people now, by something direct that they have made a mistake in the past, and I hope they will not continue.

MR. O'TOOLE: May I say a word?

THE PRESIDENT: The question is on the suspension of the rules.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: I would like to hear from Mr. O'Toole.

MR. O'TOOLE: No, it is all right; never mind.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: Aye.

THE CLERK: Eight "Yes," three "Noes."

THE PRESIDENT: Suspension of the rules is granted. Roll call on immediate consideration.

SUPERVISOR REILLY: What is the motion?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Will the Clerk state the motion.

THE CLERK: He has not made a motion to reconsider.

THE PRESIDENT: The motion made was for the suspension of the rules.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: For the purpose of immediate reconsideration. Now if Supervisor McSheehy wishes to move reconsideration that is his privilege.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Well, of course I will—

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor Brown, you are the mover of the motion, you have to move immediate reconsideration, and then vote "No."

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Just a moment. May I explain that the motion has passed—the matter on the Calendar has passed.

THE PRESIDENT: Correct.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Supervisor McSheehy gave notice that he would move for reconsideration next Monday. I asked for immediate consideration.

THE PRESIDENT: You asked for the suspension of the rules for the purpose of immediate reconsideration. Now the suspension of the rules has been granted.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Now, if Supervisor McSheehy desires to move to reconsider he may do so.

THE PRESIDENT: All right, Supervisor Brown, you have stated your case. (Gavel.) The matter is closed. Supervisor McSheehy will move for reconsideration next Monday.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Just a minute, please, Mr. President. I would like to move immediate reconsideration, then, and I will vote against it.

THE PRESIDENT: That is the only way to carry the matter through.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I want this thing that passed today to be a matter of record.

THE PRESIDENT: That is the only way we can do it.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I will make that motion, and vote against it.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: You so rule, Mr. President?

THE PRESIDENT: I so rule.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: All right, I second the resolution.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: Now, gentlemen, if this immediate reconsideration is voted down, then the appropriation of $5,000 has gone into effect.

THE PRESIDENT: That is correct, when the Mayor signs it. Call the roll.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Brown?

SUPERVISOR BROWN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Mead?

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Aye.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Meyer?

SUPERVISOR MEYER: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Ratto?

SUPERVISOR RATTO: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Reilly?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Roncovieri?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: No.

THE CLERK: Supervisor Schmidt?

Transfer of Certain City Land to Real Estate Department for St. Francis Statue.

(Code No. 12.175)

The following matter was taken up:

Resolution No. 3954, as follows:

Whereas, on March 9, 1938, the San Francisco Board of Fire Commissioners passed a resolution consenting to the transfer of certain City-owned land in San Francisco, California, to the Real Estate Department to be used as a site for the erection of a statue of St. Francis; and

Whereas, the Mayor has recommended that said transfer be made; and

Whereas, this Board has considered the proposed transfer, and hereby determines that said land is no longer necessary for Fire Department purposes and can be advantageously used by the Real Estate Department as a site for the erection of a statue of St. Francis; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the control of said land be and is hereby transferred to the Real Estate Department, which land is all that portion of Lot 1, Block 2719-C, as per the current block books of the Assessor of the City and County of San Francisco, bounded on the west and on the north by Twin Peaks boulevard, on the south by the northerly line of land of Wells Fargo & Company, and on the east by the following described line:

Commencing at the point of intersection of said northerly line of land of Wells Fargo & Co., with the westerly line of Burnett avenue; running thence along said northerly line north 81 degrees west 250 feet to the true point of beginning; thence north 2 degrees 30 minutes east 730 feet more or less to point of tangency with the easterly line of Twin Peaks boulevard.

Being a portion of that certain 46.103-acre tract of land conveyed to the City and County of San Francisco by Market and Stanyan Street and Golden Gate Land and Improvement Company by deed dated January 8, 1906, and recorded January 13, 1906, Book 2158 of Deeds, page 197, Official Records of San Francisco.

Privilege of the Floor.

Jos. Phillips, Director of Property, was heard. He stated:

This project has now received the full approval of the Federal Government as a WPA project and the amount required as the sponsors' proportion will be raised by private subscription, and I understand that the necessary amount has already been pledged. I am also informed that the Art Commission has given its final approval to the design.

Before the City would allow any construction work to commence on this location it will also be necessary to secure the approval of the City Engineer as to the construction features and a proper guarantee made to the City that the Federal funds will be earmarked.

This parcel of land is a portion of the tract acquired in 1906 in connection with the high pressure system, and it is my understanding that it is not necessary as a part of that project.

In order to conform to the wishes of the people sponsoring this project it will be necessary first for your Commission to pass a resolution transferring this property to the Real Estate Department. We will then request the Mayor as per proper ordinance to consent to the transfer and forward a request to the Board of Supervisors confirming said transfer. Upon the completion of the project another transfer will be made to some other department—possibly the Park Department.

I therefore respectfully request the passage of a resolution by your commission transferring the necessary property to the Real Estate Department. The land described in the enclosed description is separated from your reservoir by the Twin Peaks Boulevard and leaves a strip of land 250 feet or more between the proposed statue site and Burnett avenue.

Adopted.

Whereupon, the foregoing resolution was adopted by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Brown, Colman, McSheehy, Mead, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Shannon, Uhl—10.

ROLL CALL FOR THE INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS, BILLS AND COMMUNICATIONS NOT CONSIDERED OR REPORTED UPON BY A COMMITTEE.

Declaring That No Bond Issue Shall Ever Be Submitted Unless at the Same Election There Shall Also Be Re-Submitted the Hetch Hetchy Power Bonds.

(Code No. 15.032)

Supervisor McSheehy presented:

Resolution No 3959, as follows:

Whereas, San Francisco has an outstanding bonded indebtedness in excess of $160,000,000 and its present limit of bonded indebtedness is approximately $229,000,000; and

Whereas, a decision has been rendered by the United States District Court that the contract between this City and Pacific Gas & Electric Company for the sale of our Hetch Hetchy power for approximately $2,000,000 a year is prohibited by Section 6 of the Raker Act of Congress, and this $2,000,000 a year will be lost unless provision is made for the acquisition or construction of facilities for the transmission and distribution of Hetch Hetchy power, and a bond issue of $50,000,000 or thereabouts for such electric transmission and distribution system must be submitted to the voters and ratified by them within six months; and

Whereas, any bond issues for a rapid transit system or other purposes ratified by the voters of this City would increase the bonded indebtedness permitted by law and make more difficult the issuance of bonds for the electric transmission and distribution lines necessary to distribute Hetch Hetchy power in this City; and therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Board of Supervisors will not submit to the voters for ratification any bond issue for a rapid transit system or other purposes unless there shall also be submitted at the same election, or at an election previously held, of a proposition to authorize the issuance of bonds in the sum of $50,000,000, or such other sum as may be appropriate for the extension of the Hetch Hetchy power lines to San Francisco, and the acquisition or construction of an appropriate system for the city-wide distribution of electric energy.

Congress to Restore Appropriation for G-Men.

(Code No. 5.2)

Supervisor Roncovieri presented:

Resolution No. 3960, as follows:

The Board of Supervisors of San Francisco respectfully urges the Congress of the United States to restore the appropriation for the uninterrupted and efficient operation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. It is brought to the attention of the Board that reduction of the working forces of the FBI has created fear and apprehension in the minds of the public; that criminals will feel emboldened to commit depredations of various kinds. The publication of the fact that the "G" Men have been given enforced leave of absence for an indefinite period has already brought about an increase in crime in many localities.

Federal officers cooperated effectively with San Francisco and California police authorities in the pursuit of criminals and the suppression of crime, and it is certainly hoped that no diminution will be had in the function of these valiant officers, who have done so much to protect the lives and properties of the citizens of this country.

The Clerk is instructed to forward this petition to Senators Johnson and McAdoo of California, and to Representatives Havenner and Welch.

Adopted by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Brown, Colman, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Shannon, Uhl—11.

Memorializing U. S. Senate to Approve Welch Resolution With Regard to Granting of Subsidies for Operation of Intercoastal Liners.

(Code No. 5.2)

Supervisor Schmidt presented:

Resolution No. 3962, as follows:

Whereas, Congress is at present giving serious consideration to the question of granting of subsidies for the operation of fast intercoastal liners, vital to the National Defense; and

Whereas, such corrective legislation appears impossible of being consummated during this session of the Congress; and

Whereas, a very careful and exhaustive consideration of this entire subject will take a considerable period of time and should not be attempted without due deliberation; and

Whereas, the Welch resolution provides for a two-year operation to allow the necessary time for such a study; and

Whereas, this resolution has already passed the House of Representatives; and

Whereas, it is our earnest conviction that this legislation is vital to the welfare of our country as an act of National Defense and therefore merits the wholehearted approval of every member of the United States Congress; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Board of Supervisors urge Senator William G. McAdoo to place the Welch resolution at the earliest possible time before the United States Senate and to make every possible effort to secure approval thereof; and be it

Further Resolved, That we urge Senator William G. McAdoo and Senator Hiram W. Johnson to make every effort to restore, in the Senate, Section 30 which was deleted from the amendment to the Maritime Act in the House of Representatives last week; and be it Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the representatives from California in the United States Senate.

Lloyd Taylor, executive secretary, Market Street Association, requested that a $60,000 appropriation for street cleaning equipment be restored to the budget. Dirty streets, he declared, due to inadequate street cleaning equipment, are no credit to a city like San Francisco, where an international exposition is about to be held. We have only one adequate street flusher and we need several. The Police Department, he declared, is inadequately manned; there are less policemen this year than last. He requested that the appropriation asked for by the department be restored.

Supervisor Uhl requested that the Clerk obtain from the City Attorney an opinion as to whether or not street cleaning equipment may be considered as a capital expenditure by the Board of Supervisors.

Fitzgerald Ames, representing the Grattan Fathers' Council and the Parent-Teachers' Association, asked for adequate appropriations to purchase of land to complete as soon as possible playgrounds in the four principal school districts. At the present rate of appropriation, $10,000 a year, it will take 16 years to complete purchase of land. W. P. A. funds are available now if the land is acquired.

John J. O'Connor asked that consideration be given to asphalt workers and rammers who are not being paid as high a rate as is paid in private employment. This proposed increase, he said, would not effect the tax rate, as the money comes out of the Good Roads Fund.

Referred.

Whereupon, the budget was referred to the Finance Committee, which Chairman Roncovieri announced would meet in the Controller's office each day at 4 p. m. and, if necessary, sit until 11 p. m. until work is concluded.

Board of Supervisors Congratulates and Felicitates, Upon His Retirement, Hon. Walter Perry Johnson, Judge of the Superior Court.

SPECIAL ORDER—3 P. M.

Report of Citizens' Committee on Rapid Transit.

On motion of Supervisor Uhl, Curtis D. O'Sullivan, chairman of Citizens' Committee on Rapid Transit, is requested to appear at this hour and make progress report on solution of rapid transit problem.

Curtis D. O'Sullivan, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee, read the following recommendations of the Executive Committee on Traffic and Transportation adopted at a meeting of the General Committee held in the Assembly Room, Mills Building, Friday morning, May 13, 1938.

After numerous meetings and conferences with various engineers, transportation authorities and others in a position to offer counsel, the executive committee has reached certain major decisions on which it herein reports back to the general committee for consideration and approval.

As a further prefatory note to what follows, the committee visualized the problem by the consideration of only those things which will bring the greatest relief to the greatest number, by giving major emphasis to the problems of mass transportation and pedestrian safety.

The committee recognizes that considerable data is available as a result of studies by engineers of the Public Utilities Commission, the City Engineer's office, the McClintock Limited Way report and the McClintock Dead-end Street report, all of which have due consideration in the development and coordination of all of the factors entering into the proper solution of the problem.

The committee originally expected to finance the preliminary work out of funds raised through popular subscription. This had to be abandoned, however, when C. H. Purcell, chief engineer of the San Francisco Bay Bridge, after a series of conferences with the committee, estimated that such preliminary work would cost approximately $250,000. This amount, however, would put the completed plans in final shape with full engineering data and specifications.

In view of the foregoing, the executive committee has reached the following conclusions:

(1) To carry out a comprehensive traffic and transportation program providing San Francisco with modern mass transportation, increased pedestrian safety and a free flow of traffic with a minimum of congestion, the committee recommends the submission of a charter amendment, setting up a traffic and transportation commission, free to function without political influence or bias.

Summarized, the proposed charter amendment:

Creates a traffic commission of five non-political members.

These will serve without compensation for a period of three and one-half years only, except that the Supervisors and Mayor can extend the life of the commission for one year. The commission has broad powers to investigate all phases of traffic including street cars, buses, automobiles, pedestrians, signals and ordinances and to prepare a final detailed plan with specifications and cost estimates. It also will be given broad powers to employ or contract for the services of engineers and other experts. To meet the costs of its work, the commission is given a fixed allowance of a one-cent tax on the assessment roll each year for three years only.

(2) Because next year is San Francisco's Exposition Year, it is proposed that the entire job be divided into two phases: a pre-exposition period, during which such steps would be inaugurated that could be completed prior to the opening of the exposition in February; a post-exposition period during which the major construction activities would be undertaken, leaving the City free of such disturbances during the period of the exposition.

The Pre-Exposition Program.

The major objectives in the pre-exposition program would be as follows:

(a) Improvement of street car services, elimination of duplicating and obsolete lines, by agreement or otherwise, and such other steps as might be accomplished within the limited time allowed.

(b) Recommendation of an overhead pedestrian way from San Francisco Bay Bridge rail terminal (Plan X) to the north side of Market Street to facilitate the safe and expeditious handling of an estimated traffic flow of 28,000,000 people annually.

(c) The codification of traffic ordinances and the submission of new ordinances designed to give greater flexibility of traffic, free streets of congestion and promote traffic safety.

(d) Synchronization of existing traffic signals, during this pre-exposition period, in an effort to step up traffic movement and clearing them of all obstructions.

(e) Establishment of parking area on the Embarcadero to provide necessary facilities during the exposition year.

(f) Consideration and recommendation of one-way streets.

(g) The establishment of a traffic school for the training of police in the latest technique of handling traffic.

(h) A campaign of education to bring about a condition of public cooperation with the police traffic squad, coupled with effective support by the judiciary in upholding the police department in its traffic work.

Post-Exposition Period.

The discussion of proposed major construction activities during the post-exposition period can only be properly outlined by such a commission as is provided in the suggested charter amendment and then only after the fullest study.

Again the committee emphasizes that such projects must necessarily take into consideration the greatest good to the greatest number, city-wide improvement of transportation facilities, and a measure of pedestrian safety that will make San Francisco America's safest city.

In submitting these recommendations, the committee urges that the success or failure of the city in attaining a sound solution of its urgent traffic and transportation problems is contingent not only on the plan adopted, but also on the civic spirited cooperation of all groups of its citizenry who put the welfare of San Francisco as a whole above that of private or district interests.

PROPOSED CHARTER AMENDMENT.

The Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco, hereby submit to the qualified electors of the City and County of San Francisco at the Special Election to be held on the 30th day of August, 1938, a proposal to add a new section to the Charter of the City and County of San Francisco to be designated as Section 118.1 to read as follows:

TRAFFIC COMMISSION.*Section 118.1.

Subdivision 1. There is hereby established a Commission to be known as the Traffic Commission which shall consist of five members who shall be appointed thereto by the Mayor forthwith after this section of the Charter becomes effective and who shall hold office until July 15, 1942. The members of said Commission shall serve without compensation and no person shall be eligible to serve on said Commission while holding any public office, position or employment. In no event shall the Traffic Commission continue in existence beyond July 15, 1942, provided, however, that the term of existence of the Traffic Commission may be extended for one year by ordinance.

Subdivision 2. The Traffic Commission shall make a comprehensive survey and study of all phases of traffic, transportation and matters relating thereto for the benefit of the public and relief of general traffic congestion in the City and County and the co-ordination thereof. This shall include, without thereby limiting the generality of the foregoing, the following; general street and highway plan and related matters, street railways, bus and stage service, automobiles, city and interurban transportation of all kinds, pedestrian traffic, traffic signals and traffic law enforcement.

The Traffic Commission shall prepare and submit to the Board of Supervisors and the Mayor of the City and County a complete report or reports covering all of its activities, findings, recommendations and detailed plans, specifications and estimates for carrying into effect its findings and recommendations. It shall also prepare for submission to the proper authorities such recommendations and legislative measures as in its opinion will aid in the consummation of such plan or plans as it may recommend.

Because of the temporary and highly specialized and technical nature of the work of the Traffic Commission neither it nor its employees shall be subject in any way to any of the provisions of Sections 140 to 165, both inclusive, or of Section 172.1 of this Charter.

Subdivision 3. The Traffic Commission shall have power to employ a chief executive officer, engineers, draftsmen, clerks and all other assistance that may be found necessary and to contract for a period not extending beyond the term of existence of the Traffic Commission for consulting and technical services required by said Commission.

Subdivision 4. For the purpose of paying the compensation of its employees and all its other expenses, the Traffic Commission shall prepare and file a budget estimate for each of the fiscal years 1939, 1940, 1941 and 1942 if the term of existence of the Commission is extended as herein provided, covering all of its expenses for each of said years.

Neither the Mayor nor the Board of Supervisors shall have the power to decrease or reject any item of the annual budget estimate of the Commission so that the total amount of said budget allowance and appropriation shall be less than the sum requested by the Commission, provided, however, that in no event shall the budget allowance and appropriation of the Commission exceed the equivalent of one cent annually on each one hundred dollar valuation of the property assessed in and subject to taxation by the City and County.

The Traffic Commission shall receive such portion of its budget allowance immediately after July first of each fiscal year as it needs at that time and if necessary for that purpose the Board of Supervisors are authorized and directed to borrow idle unencumbered balances in any funds except a pension fund in the manner provided by Section 81 of this Charter.

No unused appropriation or unexpended balance in revenue or expense appropriation of the Traffic Commission in any fiscal year shall be considered as general revenue of the ensuing fiscal year as provided in Section 80 of this Charter but shall continue to be subject to the order of the Traffic Commission in the next fiscal year.

Upon conclusion of the term of office of the Traffic Commission and any extension thereof, any surplus funds remaining in the control of the Commission not subject to prior commitment shall be transferred to the general fund of the City and County.

Subdivision 5. All departments and officers of the City and County shall upon request furnish to the Commission such information and data as it may require for its work.

Subdivision 6. If any portion of this section of this Charter conflicts with any other section, subsection, subdivision or provision of this Charter the provisions of this section of this Charter shall prevail.

Whereupon, the foregoing matters were referred to Joint Committee on Public Utilities and Judiciary for hearing Friday.

ROLL CALL FOR THE INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS, BILLS AND COMMUNICATIONS NOT CONSIDERED OR REPORTED UPON BY A COMMITTEE.

City Attorney to Bring Action to Recover Value for Use of Streets by Pacific Gas & Electric Company for Distribution of Gas and Electricity for Other Than Lighting Purposes.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Mr. President, and Members of the Board, I have asked Mr. O'Toole to come over here. There is a question I wanted to propound to him, and it is in reference to the franchise of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company to distribute power here in our City. A resolution was passed by this Board authorizing Mr. O'Toole to negotiate with the company in reference to this all-important matter. From the data I have at hand I feel that this company is delinquent to the amount of $1,200,000, which is a huge sum of money, for the use of our streets. I won't attempt to repeat what their gross income has been, because I have said it so many times you must be tired of hearing that, but it is the largest gross income of any corporation in this City, and it is almost as large as San Francisco's total income.

Now we find this company delinquent, and I would like to have the Board, if it would, instruct the City Attorney that if the company would not negotiate, that he file a suit immediately. A suit, members of the Board, will simply mean this: We will be then in a position to collect approximately $1,000 a day. The statute of limitations is going on every day, and if we file a suit today, one week from today we have $7,000 caused by their not paying the same. The statute of limitations starts from the day we file the suit. Now they haven't had a franchise for some sixty odd years, but the City—the statute of limitations will not allow us to file a suit except for four years.

So I have asked Mr. O'Toole today if he would not report to the Board just how far he has proceeded in these negotiations.

MR. O'TOOLE: Well, we have had several conferences, Mr. McSheehy, and members of the Board, and our engineers are working with the engineers of the company; but I am of the opinion that possibly the best thing to do is to commence suit, and I have so advised the vice-president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, that unless within the next 10 days we could come to some agreement, which I could report to this Board, that I would be willing to report to this Board, that possibly suit should be filed.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask, was it stipulated whereby a certain day was agreed upon when the matter was first discussed?

MR. O'TOOLE: That was discussed many months ago when I was directed to discuss with them the matter of the franchise. At that time their suggestion was that if the franchise was granted they would be willing to go back and take that as a starting day.

SUPERVISOR UHL: In other words, I appreciate Supervisor McSheehy's point, that every day that passes we lose $1,000; but if there were a stipulation—

MR. O'TOOLE: I don't know whether a thousand dollars is the correct figure or not, but this would not be the only suit that we would have to bring. Possibly we would have to bring one suit every year until the matter was finally determined in order to preserve the right of the City. But I doubt, frankly, whether we are going to get any particular agreement that I would be willing to report to this Board, and I think if the thing is not settled within the next 10 days or two weeks we will be prepared, acting under the resolution heretofore passed by this Board, that if the negotiations were not conducive of results, to file suit, and in all probability the suit will be filed, and we will continue our negotiations afterward.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Mr. O'Toole, I respect your position as our attorney, and at the same time I know you respect our position as your client; and under these conditions I feel this Board should today adopt some resolution—I suppose a motion would be in effect—

MR. O'TOOLE: It is all right with me, that if I cannot report to this Board two weeks from today, something concrete, that I proceed with the suit.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I will make that as a motion, so we will have a record, and the City Attorney will be working under authorization of this Board; that if the City Attorney is not able, within the next two weeks, to negotiate terms with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company as to the terms of their franchise—

MR. O'TOOLE: Well, wait just a minute. If you want me to continue negotiating with the franchise, that is an entirely different matter. I understood this Board was not desirous of granting a franchise?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: They are not.

MR. O'TOOLE: Then all we can do, if we cannot come to some agreement as to what the past use of our streets were worth, is to file suit.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: May I ask your help, if you would dictate the motion, and I will take the responsibility for the motion?

MR. O'TOOLE: Resolved, That unless the City Attorney can report to this Board of Supervisors by June 1st of the present year, some concrete proposition from the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, to compensate the City for the use of its streets during the past years, the City Attorney be and he is hereby instructed to bring action in the proper court against the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to recover the reasonable value of the use of said streets by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for the distribution of gas and electricity, for other than lighting purposes. How is that?

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: That is fine. Mr. President, you have heard the wording of the resolution, and I will offer that if I can receive a second.

SUPERVISOR MEAD: Second the motion.

THE PRESIDENT: Supervisor McSheehy, may the Chair suggest that you change the word "Resolved" and in the place thereof insert the words, "I move".

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: I will make it that way.

THE PRESIDENT: Is there objection to the motion?—Supervisor Colman?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: No objection at all, it is really a repetition of the motion which was passed which would authorize the City Attorney to go ahead with the suit if he could not come to an agreement with the company. However, there is no objection to reaffirming our position.

THE PRESIDENT: Reaffirmation. Is there any objection? (No response.) So ordered.

Joseph B. Strauss, Master Builder of Bridges.

(Code No. 5.91)

Supervisor Shannon presented:

Resolution No. 3871, as follows:

The Board of Supervisors learns with extreme regret of the death of Joseph B. Strauss at Glendale, California.

Joseph Strauss was world-famed as a master builder of bridges and left lasting monuments of his skill and scientific attainment in the Golden Gate Bridge, one of the greatest engineering feats ever accomplished by man. Mr. Strauss designed and superintended the construction of the bridge and, at its completion, culminated a long career of bridge building which is equaled by no engineer of his generation. His bridge structure at Montreal, at Longview, Oregon, and lesser accomplishments were part of a life of great industry and indefatigable effort.

Mr. Strauss came to San Francisco as a consulting engineer on bridge matters before the two great bridges were inaugurated and was chiefly responsible for the preliminary work which led to the erection of the Golden Gate Bridge.

He established his office in San Francisco in 1929 in order to conduct the construction work of the Golden Gate Bridge. He remained here constantly till the completion of his work in 1937. He made many sincere, loyal friends in this community, and his passing is regretted by scores of people who knew him.

He was a retiring, modest gentleman, a great scientist, and lover of music. Among musicians he was regarded as a friend and philanthropist as he contributed generously to encouragement of the art.

The Board of Supervisors for and on behalf of the people of San Francisco extends to the family of the late Joseph B. Strauss sincerest sympathy and adjourns its meeting this day out of respect to the memory of this great engineer and courtly gentleman.

Adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

President Shannon, on motion duly made and carried, appointed as a committee to attend the funeral Supervisors Mead, Roncovieri and Brown.

Citizens' Committee to Arrange for Celebration of Flag Day.

Resolved, That His Honor the Mayor be and he is hereby respectfully requested to appoint a Citizens' Committee to cooperate with the San Francisco Lodge of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in planning patriotic exercises on Sunday, June 12, 1938, in celebration of "Flag Day".

Adopted by the following vote:

Ayes—Supervisors Colman, McSheehy, Mead, Meyer, Ratto, Reilly, Roncovieri, Schmidt, Shannon, Uhl—10.

In Memoriam—Dr. Arthur R. McDowell.

Supervisor Schmidt presented:

Whereas, Dr. Arthur R. McDowell has been summoned to his eternal reward; and

Whereas, Dr. McDowell, during his lifetime, was an outstanding citizen in the City and County of San Francisco, and exercised a particular influence in connection with the progress of dentistry and dental surgery; and

Whereas, Dr. McDowell, in his capacity as Dean of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, carved for himself a niche high in the regard of his fellow doctors; now, therefore, be it Further Resolved, That when this Board adjourns this day, it does so out of respect to the memory of the late Dr. McDowell.

Telegram to Congress Relative to Federal Appropriation for Funston Avenue.

On motion of Supervisor Shannon, the following telegram was ordered sent to Washington:

MONDAY, MAY 16, 1938.

WESTERN UNION.

San Francisco, May 16, 1938.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson,
Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.
Senator William G. McAdoo,
Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Understand Senate Postoffice and Roads Committee has made drastic slashes in Federal Aid Bill HR 10140 which has already passed House. This action of committee if approved by Senate will seriously handicap San Francisco and possibly prevent either this year or next year financing of Funston avenue approach to Golden Gate Bridge. San Francisco has been overlooked almost entirely in past in distribution of Federal Aid funds and further reduction of Federal Aid funds now by Senate will undoubtedly eliminate possibility of any future aid from this source for years to come. We respectfully urge that funds as approved by House be left intact and that no reductions be made by Senate.

Supplementary Budget Request from Mayor, Police and Fire Protection for Exposition.

The following was presented, read and referred to the Finance Committee:

To the Honorable The Board of Supervisors, City Hall.

Gentlemen: On April 18th I wrote your Honorable Board outlining the problem of police and fire protection for the Exposition, and informing you that after having public hearings in the matter I would submit a special message to you on the same.

I feel it necessary to include in the 1938-39 budget as supplemental items the sum of $57,100, for police protection and $161,320 for fire protection. These amounts I believe represent the minimum requirements for such services.

After mature study I believe that police and fire protection on Treasure Island is a justifiable charge against the City and County of San Francisco since the Exposition site is within its bound.

When the 1915 Exposition was held, it was held on the mainland and the people of the city contributed five million dollars to it. The site of that world's fair was comparatively central and fire equipment close at hand. The world's fair of 1939 is being staged by private subscription and without any donation from the City and County of San Francisco. At the conclusion, San Francisco will obtain from the Exposition and from the Federal Government the benefits from the expenditure of $7,326,900.

The Exposition Company and the Federal Government have created, without cost to the City and County of San Francisco, a new airport which can be reached within fifteen minutes from all the great cities in the Bay area. In my opinion, the tremendous development in the past few years shows that the science of aeronautics is in its infancy and that San Francisco cannot have too many airport facilities.

I believe that Pan American Airways, Inc., will presently occupy quarters in the permanent structures built, without cost to San Francisco, by the Exposition Company. This will definitely anchor the Pacific Coast terminal of the greatest existing trans-oceanic airplane company in the center of San Francisco Bay. Inevitably, other air transport companies will follow Pan American's lead. The definite assurance to San Francisco that Pan American's terminal facilities on the Pacific Coast will be secured to San Francisco is sufficient, in my opinion, in itself, to have warranted San Francisco building the facilities required. These, as stated above, have been built for the City without a penny of taxpayer expenditure.

At my request, Mr. E. G. Cahill, Manager of Utilities, has supplied me the detail of this $7,326,900 investment, which is as follows:

Construction of the Island .....	$3,803,900
Water system .....	468,000
Storm sewers .....	240,000
Sanitary sewers .....	100,000
Permanent hangars .....	950,000
Air terminal building .....	850,000
Paving .....	500,000
Permanent roadway on Yerba Buena Island.....	250,000
Building at 585 Bush street .....	165,000

$7,326,900

In the light of the creation of these permanent values, we believe San Francisco would be ungrateful if it did not contribute such police and fire protection. I am enclosing with this letter copies of requests from the Police Department and the Fire Department for the necessary men and equipment properly to police and give fire protection to the Exposition during the five months of the coming fiscal year when the Exposition will be operating.

It will be noted that in the Fire Department's letter added protection to Treasure Island is asked from July 1, 1938, and that included in the total of $161,320, there is set up $67,706 for equipment.

The Police Department's request is for fifty police officers at $200 a month, for five months, and for two matrons at $170 a month, for five months. There is also set up $5,400 for equipment.

I ask the earnest consideration of your Honorable Board to these two requests, and enclose copies of letters received by me from the Down Town Association, the San Francisco Real Estate Board, the Building Owners and Managers Association and the Chamber of Commerce, all of whom endorse these requests.

Very truly yours,

ANGELO J. ROSSI, Mayor.

It is the intention that the men and apparatus provided by the foregoing appropriation will be stationed within the fairgrounds, and that they will constitute the response to all alarms transmitted over the wires of the American District Telegraph Company to their respective stations, and that they will be augmented, in the event of an alarm transmitted over the regular city fire alarm system, by the response from the mainland, of the following:

On first alarms: 3 engine companies, 1 hose tender, 2 truck companies, 1 fireboat and 1 Chief Officer.

On second alarms: 4 engine companies, 1 hose tender, 1 truck company, 1 fireboat and 1 Chief Officer.

On third or greater alarms, the response will be the same to each alarm, as that to the second alarm, excepting the fireboat; and of course all special apparatus such as rescue squad, water towers, searchlight engines, air compressors, etc., will be available to respond to special calls.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Hall of Justice, San Francisco.

May 16, 1938.

Hon. Angelo J. Rossi,
Mayor of San Francisco, City Hall.

My Dear Mayor Rossi: A preliminary survey of the personnel required to police the proposed Fair Grounds at Treasure Island for the period of ten months—from February 18, 1939, to December 2, 1939, would indicate the employment of fifty police officers and two matrons. The salaries paid for these positions at the present time are, police officers $200 per month, and matrons $170 per month.

In our opinion, these employments should be made effective February 1, 1939, so that these officers may receive some instructions as to the duties they are to perform.

In view of the fact that we anticipate using a patrol wagon in connection with the Fair, we recommend the replacement of one of the wagons now in use, which will amount to approximately $1,800. We also recommend the replacement of three radio patrol cars, fully equipped, at an approximate cost of $1,200 each.

It will be necessary to establish police headquarters on Treasure Island and therefore provision should be made for furnishing same with the necessary equipment. It is impossible at this time to estimate the cost of such headquarters.

Trusting this will meet with your approval, we are,

Yours very truly,

BOARD OF POLICE COMMISSIONERS,

Per: Chas. F. Skelly, Secretary.

THE SAN FRANCISCO REAL ESTATE BOARD.

One Eleven Sutter Street, San Francisco, Calif.

May 16, 1938.

Honorable Angelo J. Rossi,
Mayor, City and County of San Francisco,
San Francisco, California.

Dear Sir: The San Francisco Real Estate Board, representing a considerable number of the larger taxpayers in San Francisco, has always opposed unnecessary increases in our City budget. There is a matter before us, however, which appears to be of vital importance to the entire City at this time and for which no provision seems to have been made in the current budget.

We refer to police and fire protection at the Exposition. It seems to this organization that it is the duty of this City to make provision for this protection at this time but we hope that the increase in the tax rate occasioned thereby will not be considered as a basis upon which to compute a possible increase in future tax rates.

Our recommendation in this regard is based upon the feeling that the Exposition should receive the support of not only all citizens but of the City Government in order to make it a success, and immediate fire and police protection appears to be a real necessity.

Very truly yours,

SAN FRANCISCO REAL ESTATE BOARD,

Dear Mr. Mayor: I am enclosing copy of resolution passed by our Board of Directors at its regular meeting held today at luncheon.

May 16, 1938.

Whereas, adequate police and fire protection are essential for the Exposition; and

Whereas, the City and County of San Francisco should contribute to the welfare of the Exposition; be it

Resolved, That the Board of Directors of the Building Owners and Managers Association of San Francisco favor the supplying of such police and fire equipment and personnel as may be necessary properly to protect the Exposition and its guests, provided, however, that every effort be made to the end that the tax rate for the next fiscal year be not increased above the proposed rate of $4.07 and that the money necessary to supply such fire and police equipment and personnel be obtained from economies and reduction of operating expenses of the City and County of San Francisco on the proposed $4.07 tax rate, and provided further that necessary steps be taken to insure that any personnel supplied to the Exposition for such police and fire protection shall not constitute permanent additions to the City's Police and Fire Departments.

The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the origin of life. It is shown that the problem is one of the most important and most difficult in the history of science. The author discusses the various theories of the origin of life, and shows that the most plausible is the theory of spontaneous generation. This theory is based on the fact that life is a complex of many different parts, and that these parts are all derived from a common ancestor. The author also discusses the problem of the origin of the first living organisms, and shows that the most plausible theory is the theory of abiogenesis. The following was presented and read by the Clerk:

May 21, 1938.

Mr. Warren Shannon, President, Board of Supervisors, San Francisco, California.

Dear Mr. Shannon: I am enclosing herewith a memorandum addressed to your Honorable Board to which is attached copies of the laws under which the United States Housing Authority and the San Francisco Housing Authority have been created, and also certain other documents which define and explain the powers and functions of the Housing Authority of the City and County of San Francisco.

These laws have only very recently been passed and many persons therefore have not had the opportunity of acquainting themselves with their provisions. I have thought, therefore, that it would facilitate matters if you could cause a copy of the enclosed memorandum to be given to each of the Supervisors, so that, at their convenience, they could so far as they deem necessary, acquaint themselves with the provisions of the law and the proposed procedure. This information can, I think, be more quickly attained from a written record rather than from an attempted verbal explanation. After that, if it is thought desirable, I shall be very glad to attend on the Board at any time they find is convenient to answer, in so far as I am able, any questions they may then have to ask.

I am enclosing twelve copies of the above mentioned memorandum.

Yours very truly,

A. D. WILDER, Executive Director.

Action Deferred.

Whereupon, the foregoing matter was laid over until May 31, 1938, and made a Special Order of Business for 2:30 P. M.

Appropriation of $3,000 for Revising Plan No. 7, Distribution of Hetch Hetchy Power.

(Code No. 9.051)

The following matter was taken up:

Bill No. 1579, Ordinance No. 9.051479, as follows:

Authorizing an appropriation of $3,000 out of the surplus existing in the Hetch Hetchy Power Operative Fund to provide funds to defray the cost of revising Plan No. 7 for the distribution of hydro-electric power from the Hetch Hetchy Project.

Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco, as follows:

Section 1. The sum of $3,000 is hereby appropriated out of the surplus existing in the Hetch Hetchy Power Operative Fund to provide funds to defray the cost of revising Plan No. 7, heretofore submitted to the Board of Supervisors by the Public Utilities Commission, for the acquisition by the City and County of San Francisco of a distribution system for the purpose of distributing the hydro-electric power generated on the Hetch Hetchy Project directly to the people of San Francisco.

Approved as to form by John J. O'Toole, City Attorney.

Recommended by Edward G. Cahill, Manager of Utilities.

Approved by Forrest B. Gibbon, Secretary, Public Utilities Commission (P. U. C. Resolution No. 2630).

Approved by Angelo J. Rossi, Mayor.

Explanation of Vote.

Supervisor Colman explained his vote by saying that he objected to foregoing appropriation. He did not believe it timely, stating that the matter was on appeal to a higher court, and until such time as an appeal had been decided, and any future action as to other appeals, if necessary; also, possibility for amendment of the Raker Act is exhausted, or the possibility of adopting some other method of distributing our hydro-electric power in some other manner. He stated also that any such appropriation might be construed as an intimation that the City and County is wrong—in its distribution of hydro-electric energy—something which he did not believe, and stated he would vote "No" on such an appropriation.

Motion.

Supervisor Colman moved that the matter be referred to Finance Committee.

Motion carried by the following vote:

SPECIAL ORDER—2:30 P. M.

Consideration of the Proposed Budget of Municipal Expenditures for the Fiscal Year 1938-1939.

The Board of Supervisors thereupon proceeded to the further consideration of the proposed budget and particularly with reference to the matter of wage scales as affecting crafts affiliated with the Building and Construction Trades Council.

Communication.

The following communication from the San Francisco Building and Construction Trades Council was presented by Supervisor Mead and read by the Clerk:

May 23, 1938.

Hon. Board of Supervisors, City Hall, San Francisco.

Gentlemen: At its meeting on Thursday, May 19, the Building and Construction Trades Council of San Francisco adopted a resolution directing that a communication be sent to your Honorable Board in reference to the wage scales to be incorporated in the annual salary ordinance for the year 1938-39 in so far as crafts affiliated with the Building and Construction Trades Council are concerned.

During the past two years, crafts affiliated with this council have succeeded in obtaining contracts in private employment providing for higher wage scales than are now obtaining in the municipal service. Last year, when the budget estimates for the year 1937-38 were being prepared, your Honorable Board, on the recommendation of Mayor Rossi, amended the budget estimates to provide the prevailing wage scale for a number of these crafts. We now request that the same consideration be given to the other crafts who are presently working in the City service for less money than is being paid in private employment.

Several weeks ago we contacted Mayor Rossi and Chief Administrative Officer Cleary and explained the situation to them and they made a definite promise and commitment that they would recommend the prevailing wage schedules in the budget estimates when submitted to your Board for consideration. However, when the budget estimates were submitted to the Board of Supervisors for consideration, we found that the old schedules had been recommended by the Mayor and that he had not recommended the current prevailing scales. We again contacted Mayor Rossi and he told us that it was his intention to recommend the current wage scales in a supplemental communication and recommendation to your Board. On last Friday we conferred with Mayor Rossi concerning this matter and we were advised by the Mayor at that time that he had changed his mind and that he would not recommend that the City pay the prevailing wage scale and that our members would have to continue to work for lower scales than prevail in private employment.

The result is that the budget estimates now under consideration by the Board of Supervisors do not provide the wage scales prevailing in private employment and, under these budget estimates, crafts affiliated with the Building and Construction Trades Council will be working for the City for as much as $2 per day less than members of the same crafts receive in private employment. The Building and Construction Trades Council protest this discrimination and we desire to point out to you that if the budget estimates under consideration are approved by the Board of Supervisors, your action will have the effect of tending to reduce wage scales in private employment throughout the Bay District and California.

It is not the intention of the Building and Construction Trades Council to stand by and see the wage scales which have been built up through negotiation with private employers destroyed by the action of politically minded officials of the City and County Government. This council is not asking for anything more than justice. Not only are private employers in the Bay District uniformly paying the current wage scale that we are asking for City employees, but we desire to call to your attention that the State of California also is paying these wage scales to all State employees. The Golden Gate Bridge District, the Toll Bridge Authority and the Exposition Company are all recognizing and paying the scales we are asking for municipal employees in San Francisco.

Furthermore, under the Charter of the City and County of San Francisco and under the salary ordinance for the current fiscal year, the City must pay the current prevailing scales whenever City employees are performing work under the contract provisions of the Charter. Also on all work performed in part with Public Works Administration funds, the City is required to pay the prevailing wage scale. This is in accordance with the Bacon-Davis Act. In this connection, however, we wish to point out to your Honorable Board that contrary to Charter provisions and the salary ordinance adopted by the Board of Supervisors and State and Federal legislation, departments of the municipal government are refusing to pay these schedules although bidding for work in competition with private employers who are required to pay them.

We wish to emphasize that we are not asking for increases in salary. We are asking simply that the City and County of San Francisco pay the wage scales that are already established in private employment. The Civil Service has recommended these schedules and has submitted to your Honorable Board on February 16, 1938, a salary standardization schedule in which these wage scales are incorporated. In spite of repeated efforts made by representatives of this council and other labor and civic organizations, the Board of Supervisors has failed to take any action on these schedules. As we understand the law, pending the adoption of salary standardization, these current wage scales can only be made operative on the recommendation of the department head and the approval of Mayor Rossi. This approval Mayor Rossi at the very last moment has now refused to give.

The only alternative, therefore, is that the Board of Supervisors adopt as salary standardization schedules the rates recommended on February 16, 1938, by the Civil Service Commission in so far as crafts affiliated with the Building and Construction Trades Council are concerned, and make these schedules operative effective July 1 for the next fiscal year.

Under these conditions, we now most respectfully and most earnestly ask that the Board of Supervisors take that action today.

Yours very truly,

BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION TRADES COUNCIL,

ALEXANDER WATCHMANN, President.

Privilege of the Floor.

Jas. E. Ricketts, representing the Building Trades Council, after the reading of above communication, was granted the privilege of the floor and he stated that the last paragraph was the request of the Building Trades Council, and urged that "the Board of Supervisors adopt as salary standardization schedules the rates recommended on February 16, 1938, by the Civil Service Commission in so far as crafts affiliated with the Building and Construction Trades Council are concerned, and make these schedules effective July 1 for the next fiscal year."

Discussion.

Discussion followed, during which the City Attorney stated that the Board had not taken the requisite steps necessary before any changes in the Salary Standardization Report, as submitted by the Civil Service Commission, could be adopted.

Privilege of the Floor.

The privilege of the floor was granted Mr. Andrew J. Gallagher, who questioned the City Attorney as to his ruling in the event that the Board voted to adopt a portion of the Salary Standardization Schedule, to whom the City Attorney replied that he must rule such act illegal; the Board must accept all the schedule, reject all the schedule, or send the schedule back to the Civil Service Commission for amendment. The Board cannot accept part of the schedule.

Temporary Postponement.

Further discussion of salaries for crafts affiliated with the Building Trades Council was postponed because of the arrival of Chief Administrative Officer, Alfred J. Cleary, in the Chambers.

Mayor's Supplemental Budget Requests, Police and Fire Protection, Treasure Island.

Whereupon, the Mayor's supplemental budget requests were taken up and the following was read by the Clerk:

"May 16, 1938. To the Honorable The Board of Supervisors, City Hall. Gentlemen:

"On April 18th, I wrote your Honorable Board outlining the problem of police and fire protection for the Exposition, and informing you that after having public hearings in the matter I would submit a special message to you on the same.

"I feel it necessary to include in the 1938-39 budget as supplemental items the sum of $57,100 for police protection and $161,320 for fire protection. These amounts I believe represent the minimum requirements for such service.

"After mature study I believe that police and fire protection on Treasure Island is a justifiable charge against the City and County of San Francisco since the Exposition site is within its bounds.

"When the 1915 Exposition was held, it was held on the mainland and the people of the City contributed five million dollars to it. The site of that World's Fair was comparatively central and fire equipment close at hand. The World's Fair of 1939 is being staged by private subscription and without any donation from the City and County of San Francisco. At the conclusion, San Francisco will obtain from the Exposition and from the Federal Government the benefits from the expenditure of $7,326,900.

"The Exposition Company and the Federal Government have created, without cost to the City and County of San Francisco a new airport which can be reached within 15 minutes from all the great cities in the Bay area. In my opinion the tremendous development in the past few years shows that the science of aeronautics is in its infancy and that San Francisco cannot have too many airport facilities.

"I believe that Pan American Airways, Inc., will presently occupy quarters in the permanent structures built, without cost to San Francisco, by the Exposition Company. This will definitely anchor the Pacific Coast terminal of the greatest existing trans-oceanic airplane company in the center of San Francisco Bay. Inevitably, other air transport companies will follow Pan American's lead. The definite assurance to San Francisco that Pan American's terminal facilities on the Pacific Coast will be secured to San Francisco is sufficient, in my opinion, in itself, to have warranted San Francisco building the facilities required. These, as stated above, have been built for the City without a penny of taxpayer expenditure.

"At my request, Mr. E. G. Cahill, Manager of Utilities, has supplied me the detail of this $7,326,900 investment which is as follows:

Construction of the Island .....	$3,803,900
Water system .....	468,000
Storm sewers .....	240,000
Sanitary sewers .....	100,000
Permanent hangars .....	950,000
Air terminal building .....	850,000
Paving .....	500,000
Permanent roadway on Yerba Buena Island.....	250,000
Building at 585 Bush street.....	165,000

$7,326,900

"In the light of the creation of these permanent values, we believe San Francisco would be ungrateful indeed if it did not contribute such police and fire protection. I am enclosing with this letter copies of requests both from the Police Department and the Fire Department for the necessary men and equipment properly to police and give fire protection to the Exposition during the five months of the coming fiscal year when the Exposition will be operating.

"It will be noted that in the Fire Department's letter added protection to Treasure Island is asked from July 1, 1938, and that included in the total of $161,320 there is set up $67,706 for equipment.

"The Police Department's request is for 50 police officers at $200 a month, for five months, and for two matrons at $170 a month, for five months. There is also set up $5,400 for equipment.

"I ask the earnest consideration of your Honorable Board to these two requests, and enclose copies of letters received by me from the Down Town Association, the San Francisco Real Estate Board, the Building Owners and Managers Association and the Chamber of Commerce, all of whom endorse these requests.

"Very truly yours, Angelo J. Rossi, Mayor."

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask this question: In the Mayor's budget there is also included the sum of $302,662. Just what does that cover?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: That is San Francisco's participation.

MR. ROSS: That amount was not requested by the Mayor, it was requested by the departments. Here it is set up here (indicating).

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor Shannon, would you make an explanation on that?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: What is that?

THE CHAIRMAN: The $302,000.

SUPERVISOR UHL: It has not been deleted? Let's delete it from this budget.

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Members of the Board: The Finance Committee received a letter from the Mayor under date of May 19th: "Gentlemen: At your request I am including a break down of the items in the budget in the sum of $302,862, for San Francisco's participation in the Exposition as submitted by Mr. Clarence....., the architect engaged to work out the plan. Naturally, this is a rough estimate, and, of course, subject to revision. It contains in addition the sum of $258,519.80, for the entire and complete interior of the building of the City and County of San Francisco."

SUPERVISOR UHL: How much was that?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: "$258,519.80, for the entire and complete interior of the building of the City and County of San Francisco to be erected; the sum of $15,000 for maintenance, and $29,342.20 for contingencies."

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask, is that going to be a permanent building? In spending that sum of money it would seem it should be a rather permanent building.

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: My idea is that there will be only one permanent building that will be over there, and that will be the administration building, after the Exposition is over.

THE CHAIRMAN: And the hangars.

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: If the members of the Board desire this break-down I can read it.

SUPERVISOR UHL: What is that?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Well, it gives you those items that go to make up the erection of the building. Now, somebody asked a question regarding the firemen. From July 1, 1938, to February 14, 1939, seven and a half months; two captains, two lieutenants, and 25 firemen; and from February 15, 1939, to June 30, 1939, four and a half months, one battalion chief, one chief's operator, three captains, four lieutenants and fifty firemen; and the equipment will be, two pumping engines, one high pressure hose wagon, two water tank apparatus, one chief's automobile, 8,000 feet of 2½-inch hose, 1,200 feet of 1½-inch hose, 1,000 feet of 1-inch hose, gas masks, tools, et cetera, and badges.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Is that the item of equipment?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: That is $67,706, equipment. What is the pleasure of the Board, gentlemen?

THE CHAIRMAN: What is the pleasure of the Board?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: On which item?

THE CHAIRMAN: On the Mayor's supplemental request for $218,420 for fire and police protection for the Exposition.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I move it be granted, that that be included in the budget.

SUPERVISOR MEYER: Second the motion.

THE CHAIRMAN: It has been moved and seconded that the supplementary budget of the Mayor be adopted.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Just a couple of questions: I fully realize it is the function of government to offer police and fire protection, and I think—I imagine the majority of the members of the Board feel the same way, but there are just one or two thoughts that come to my mind—namely, in the matter of police protection, 54 new men, does that mean 54 permanent men added to the police department? What is going to happen to these men after the Exposition is over?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: The answer to that is that 40 men go out by normal process each year. Isn't that the answer, Supervisor Shannon?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: That is correct.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: My thought is that if the police protection is going to cost $57,000, why not appropriate an amount, say, $50,000, for the use of the Exposition, and let them hire their own police officers, as the 1915 fair did. I just offer that as a suggestion.

MR. BOYD: The situation with regard to the 1915 exposition was this: The management of the 1915 exposition had an amendment to the Constitution of the State in 1912 to permit, in that one specific case, a gift of public funds, which otherwise is forbidden. If your present suggestion was considered it would mean that you were making a gift of public funds to a private corporation, and that you cannot do. It was done in 1915, true, through the medium of a constitutional amendment, which specifically made it possible for that one specific exposition, and that one specific year.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: The reason I ask that question, and the same applies to the Fire Department, is that several people have asked me if it is going to mean a net increase after the fair is over, in these two departments.

THE CHAIRMAN: The executives of the Police and Fire Departments are convinced that the net increase, if any, would be very slight, for the reason that about that number of men go out of each of those departments each year, either by death, resignation or retirement.

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: In making that motion—I think the same applies to the fire and police, the second item that will come up—there are so many reasons why the Board should grant this request. First, it is a part of our own City, separated, it is true, by the bridge, which makes it all the more necessary that a headquarters be established over there on the Shoals for the purpose of fire and police protection. Perhaps it was not so urgent in 1915, when, after all, the reaching of the fair by engines, and police apparatus, was a much easier matter.

And if we go back to 1915, we will find that the people of San Francisco voted $5,000,000 worth of bonds, which they turned over intact to the exposition. That $5,000,000 cost another $5,000,000 in interest, which brought our participation in 1915 actually up to $10,000,000. It is true that we received the auditorium as a legacy from it, but I found out that the City paid $250,000 for the granite in front of the auditorium.

Consider the difference in value for what we are going to get from this exposition as compared with the 1915 exposition. We have 400 acres of land over there, and I would hesitate to place a value upon that—$10,000 or $20,000 an acre, but in actual cost, including the buildings, there is over $7,000,000 represented there, actual cash expenditures for the creation of the land, for the building of the administration building, and of the two hangars. That in itself makes it more than worth while for us in every possible way. We are receiving something of great value, that in the opinion of the Utilities Commission will be used as a permanent port by the Pan-American lines, and the Clipper ships will land and take off from the Shoals airport.

Now, the exposition people really have, in my opinion, kept their word with the Board, and I think they are fully within their rights to ask us to protect that fair from a fire and police standpoint. They have asked for no participation. After all, the building we are going to put up is something that we ourselves determined. It is our exposition, and we therefore should have something representing San Francisco, and the $300,000, I am told, is only one-third of what the County of Los Angeles is going to construct for their exposition. So in view of the fact—and the increase in publicity is due greatly to the fact that the fair is going to be held here. Let's bear in mind a conservative estimate of the fair is that there will be $240,000,000 spent in and around San Francisco, money spent where goodness knows it is going to be a great blessing, and something needed so badly. It will be a means of saving San Francisco, and it is going to be a very fine thing, and I think this contribution, if you call it a contribution, which I would not, is a very modest one, and will be paid in cash. It may be followed by something in next year's budget, but even if so, it is not at all out of line.

SUPERVISOR UHL: May I ask how it is that you now bring in the Pan-American Airways, when in Proposition Number Two, the Airport Bonds, was for the same purpose, when that argument was made for $2,850,000 for the airport bonds?

SUPERVISOR COLMAN: I think everyone connected with, or knowing the aviation industry, realizes that changes are taking place in the arrangement and ideas all the time—

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: I rise to a point of order. We are discussing that appropriation for police and fire protection for Treasure Island, and my understanding is that these bonds were voted for the development of Mills Field and has no connection with this.

THE CHAIRMAN: The point of order is well taken.

SUPERVISOR UHL: How much is San Francisco going to spend for equipment that we will have as a permanent investment?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: We have those figures here—$68,000 for equipment; $67,706 for equipment for the Fire Department.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Mr. Chairman?

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor Brown.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: Speaking about the fire and police protection of the exposition—is that the subject before us?

THE CHAIRMAN: That is correct, the Mayor's supplementary budget is before us, which provides for an appropriation for police and fire protection.

SUPERVISOR BROWN: I would like to give the Board a few ideas as to why the protection is absolutely essential. In the first place, looking at it purely from a fair standpoint, the island, as we all know, is exposed to winds which blow through the Golden Gate, and which would materially add to the destructive ability of any fire that might take place on the island. Likewise, they would add to the speed with which the fire would spread if it should start. The island is approached by one roadway only. That roadway comes down from the Bay Bridge in a rather circuitous route, and for at least one-half of its total length the on-road and off-road are one structure. I think you can imagine what might happen should a fire take place at the Exposition. The first thing in everyone's mind would be to get off the island as quickly as possible, and there is no doubt that there would be thousands of people trying to fight their way up that single roadway. The difficulty of bringing apparatus from the mainland to fight fire on that exposition is sufficiently great as it is. They have had test runs from the engine house, and it has taken them about 12 minutes to get to the island. If you add to that the necessity of bucking the crowds of people that would be rushing off the island without any order or control to their departure, you would have a situation that would be very difficult to cope with. The possibilities for loss of life would be tremendous, to say nothing of the possibility for the loss of property. The only way in which such a condition can be rendered improbable is by the establishment on the island itself of adequate fire protection, equipment and personnel. Now, the City and County of San Francisco will, as the result of the Golden Gate International Exposition receive property which has cost upwards of $7,000,000. They will receive a man-made island. They will receive the hangars and administration building which are on the island, and they will have first-class airport for future development. At the time of the 1915 Exposition in San Francisco the City contributed $5,000,000 to that Exposition by means of a bond issue. The City has not been asked to make any such contribution in the Golden Gate Exposition now under way, and that the City should contribute the fire and police protection out there seems to me to be entirely reasonable under those circumstances. The amount in the tax rate is small compared to the benefits which we will receive; and the land is unquestionably a part of the property of the City and County of San Francisco, and even property on the island, even though exempt from taxation, is entitled to receive the physical protection of San Francisco's police and fire forces, just as other tax exempt property in San Francisco receives the protection of the fire and police forces.

The Exposition will be a wonderful thing for this City, and will go far toward rehabilitating the City of San Francisco in the opinion of the people of the United States, and the people of Northern California; and the amount we are asking for in this budget is certainly not disproportionate. Briefly, you have a physical return in the form of an actual land and buildings return, which the City will receive at the end of the fair, and you have the obligation of the City to protect fire-wise and police-wise, its own territorial limits, and thirdly, you have the real danger from fire to the visitors unless adequate protection is provided, and I think there is no question that the City should follow the Mayor's recommendation.

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Question on the motion.

THE CHAIRMAN: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Just a minute—Supervisor Uhl, did you want the floor?

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor McSheehy, you have the floor. You have not talked on this question.

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Supervisor McSheehy, will you permit an interruption—

* * * * *

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: Now, Mr. President, you have before you the Mayor's budget, supplementary budget, and calling for an expenditure of $218,400 for police and fire protection. I don't think there is a man on this Board that would object to that expenditure, except for the conditions it is being made under. There are three members of this Board who were not members when this Board had a very decisive fight as to the location of the fair. It was debated here for several weeks, and at one time it was 6 to 5 against Treasure Island. Then one member saw fit to change his mind, and it was 6 to 5 the other way. The great argument about putting the fair on the Shoals was that if it was put on Treasure Island we would have the cooperation of all the Bay counties, and San Francisco represents only about one-half of the population today of the surrounding Bay counties. But you are asking San Francisco, today, to shoulder the entire expense of the $218,000 for fire protection on this island. Yes, if you want to say so, technically, it is San Francisco County. If you want to go a couple of hundred feet more it would be in Alameda County, but it is an island, a man-made island, and millions of dollars were spent by the government making the island. We have it today, and we have to make a success out of our Exposition, but members of the Board, I don't think it is fair to saddle the entire burden of this expense on the City and County of San Francisco. I don't think it is fair. We know Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, and all of the Bay cities will receive benefits from this fair, and why saddle the whole burden over on San Francisco? At the time the vote was taken, I can read to you from transcripts, from one of our local papers, showing a positive promise made that there would be no cost to this City in reference to this entire matter. I very carefully prepared a report and submitted it to all, showing the conditions that would arise as were so well described by Supervisor Brown, in reference to the fair. We all know the conditions, we know gales do blow out there, running as high as 50 miles an hour, and we know if a fire should take place, with a gale blowing on that fair, that we would have a real conflagration. Some of us who went through the fire here know what happened some thirty years ago.

Now, members of the Board, I don't think the entire burden should be saddled on San Francisco, and no effort made whatsoever to place a part of it on the Bay counties. Now we represent San Francisco, we are elected to represent them, and, using an expression I have used time and time again, we sit here as a board of directors, directing the expenditure of this huge sum of money outlined in this budget. And yet, here comes one item on which we could make a saving. Has there ever been an effort made to have the counties across the Bay pay their pro rata? To my knowledge, I don't know.

I know it is hard for us to stand up here today, some of us, and say, no, we pass this financial recommendation. But on the other hand let's take the exposition company—whose responsibility is it? It is the company's responsibility. The president of that company is receiving $25,000 a year as a salary. That is a rather nice salary for a gentleman who never had anything to do with an exposition before in his life. And we do know quite a number of men in reference to the exposition company who are receiving very nice salaries. I have no argument with that. Perhaps I would like to be one of that number. But I am here representing San Francisco. I have been elected by the people of San Francisco.

Now, members of this Board, why not have the exposition company shoulder this responsibility? They are making up a budget for the expenditure of various sums of money. It is all allotted, various types of buildings are being allotted, and everything pertaining to the exposition, and yet not a dollar has been allotted for police and fire protection. We will go to San Francisco, they say—Dear Old San Francisco, Santa Claus for the Bay region—she will contribute $218,000. Isn't it high time that we, poor old Santa Claus, stop making these generous contributions in season and out of season? I doubt, Mr. Chairman, and members of the Board, that if this matter was submitted to the people of San Francisco, and they knew the conditions, whether they would ever allow us to make that expenditure. That expenditure belongs to the exposition company. They made a positive promise in reference to this matter. They knew when they had the island designated as the point for the exposition of the fire hazard. They knew that. Why come here today and say to the poor taxpayers of San Francisco, let's run the tax rate up three cents more. I know if you were to ask for something in reference to certain other matters pertaining to our city that the same people here today advocating this would do everything to stop us. We know that the down town interests have an obligation in San Francisco, and in season and out of season, anything that has for its purpose the raising of the tax rate, they tell you we are directly interested, we represent large taxpayers. I saw an article in the press in which His Honor, the Mayor, is quoted as saying in reference to a certain matter, no, I will not allow that, there will be a strike of the large taxpayers. Who is going to receive the benefit of this? Will the small taxpayer in the outlying districts receive the benefit? No, it will be the large taxpayer, and the large taxpayer is the same man who took care of placing this exposition on the island. Therefore, I feel it is the responsibility of the exposition company. Now, members, it is your vote here this afternoon that will say whether this expenditure should be made by the exposition company, or the people of San Francisco. If you should include it in your budget, of course it will be made by the people of San Francisco, but if you do not, it positively will be made by the exposition company. They will cut their cloth accordingly. They will find $218,000 to provide for the proper equipment, and fire and police protection. Don't be fooled in this matter. Number one, you are allowing Alameda County, who are receiving benefits, not to pay one dollar; and number two, you are allowing the exposition company—relieving the exposition company from paying for something that should be a part of the exposition. San Francisco, good, dear, old San Francisco is taking it up once again, saying, yes, we will make this expenditure, we will contribute $218,000. I hope, members, you will simply vote the item down, and it will be mandatory on the exposition to provide the necessary sums out of moneys that they are allotting for other purposes, and the exposition will go on just the same.

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor Ratto, will you take the Chair? I would like to make a statement on this matter.

(Thereupon Supervisor Ratto presided as Chairman.)

SUPERVISOR REILLY: Mr. Chairman, and members of the Board:

As a member of the finance committee, our Chairman, Supervisor Roncoviari, Supervisor Shannon, and myself, have a great deal of consideration to the supplementary budget request of Mayor Rossi. After considering it, and going into detail with this very important problem, I have prepared a statement, and in order that I am not misquoted I am going to ask the Board to indulge me while I read this statement.

The question before this board relative to including in its budget for the coming fiscal year the sum of $521,282 to be used in connection with our Golden Gate International Exposition which is scheduled to open in 1939 is a matter of great importance and must be treated with the utmost seriousness by the members of this body.

Before giving my reasons for the inclusion of this item in our budget, let me briefly and in a general way sketch the background.

The dream of our pioneers and the vision of serious thinking men of other generations were brought to a successful conclusion by the building of our San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and our Golden Gate Bridge. For years the projects were spoken of as mere creatures of thought and engineering abstractions. Whenever the feasibility of their erection was referred to by engineering experts, the reference was set aside or disregarded by the mere reply "It can't be done." Distance was involved; foundation solidarity or lack of it was mentioned; hazards to navigation were said to be controlling; and, above all, the millions to be invested were deemed to be inaccessible. However, when the faith, ability, foresight and responsibility of San Francisco were harnessed, we found that the obstacles referred to, while challenging, were easily overcome, and today, we have imposing structures known the world over and redounding to the glory of our great city.

Completion of the bridges demanded dedications in honor of the living and the dead who in their manhood had labored so efficiently in making the dream a reality. Our dedicatory celebrations are now matters of history and while they truly exemplified the spirit of San Francisco they were nevertheless transient and local in character. A few of our public spirited citizens originated the idea that the accomplishments of San Francisco in spanning our bay and Golden Gate were worthy of a celebration which would attract and compel the admiration of the world. An exposition or fair was spoken of and after a great deal of preliminary debate it was decided that an exposition should be held. Its location produced public discussion, with the result that that question was submitted to the electorate for decision and their vote determined the location as the bay shoals, where it now is.

The mandate of the people being expressed, the next step was the organization of a corporation, private in its legal aspect, and to be managed and controlled by responsible citizens of this municipality. Public subscriptions were called for and received. Federal and State agencies were called into play and with their funds and the private funds of the exposition corporation what was a few years ago a mere body of water became solid substantial dry land.

I wonder how many realize that at this very moment while San Francisco is being acclaimed the world over for its progressive spirit in constructing these bridges, and for its vision and courage in preparing for this great exposition, it has not been called upon and it has not been required to spend directly from its treasury one single penny toward the holding of this great event. True, San Francisco has invited nations, states, cities, municipalities, public corporations, private corporations and private individuals to send their exhibits, to erect their buildings, and to otherwise participate in the exposition. This conduct on our part is most laudable and I am sure that those nations, states, political subdivisions and individuals who do participate and who do invest their moneys in the exposition will be amply and liberally rewarded, but must we not ask ourselves now, as inevitably the world will ask later on, what is San Francisco doing or going to do for its own fair? Must we be compelled to reply that we have given only lip service?

Gentlemen, that cannot and must not be the answer. The honor, integrity and reputation of San Francisco are at stake. These are matters which cannot be measured in dollars and cents, but they are nevertheless more controlling and more essential in keeping the decent respect of mankind than any material or monetary consideration.

Entirely apart from the question of honor, integrity and reputation, there is, to my mind, another and separate obligation resting upon this Board and upon this municipality which cannot be side-stepped, shifted, or evaded, and that is the legal responsibility placed upon San Francisco by State law. Before citing the statutes which are pertinent, let me by way of preliminary statement remind you that the exposition grounds are located within the limits of the City and County of San Francisco; that it is governed and controlled by a private corporation which has all the rights and privileges under the law of any other private person in our midst; that it has the right to expect governmental agencies, particularly Police and Fire Departments, to function and to give it service so that it may carry on its activities with a reasonable degree of peace and safety. Let us suppose that instead of holding an exposition, this private corporation were to engage in the manufacture of automobiles and did establish its place of business south of Market. Let us suppose further that it had invested millions of dollars in this automobile industry and that in the conducting of its business, whether it be by way of a dedicatory advertising celebration or routine display of transportation or mechanical activities, it should require police and fire service. Would this Board and would this municipality say to that private automobile concern "we will give you no police service, we will give you no fire service, you either pay and maintain such service yourself or go without it." Gentlemen, it may be in our discretion to so reply, but we would place ourselves and our municipality in the class of being penny wise and pound foolish, for the simple reason that if such a corporation because of lack of police protection or fire protection were exposed to the illegal conduct of mobs or rioters, San Francisco would be compelled to pay from its treasury sums in far greater amount than it would have expended in complying with the original, decent and reasonable demand.

Section 4452 of the Political Code reads as follows: "Every county and municipal corporation is responsible for injury to real or personal property situate within its corporate limits, due or caused by mobs or riots."

Section 4455 of the Political Code makes it mandatory upon the Supervisors to pay the amount of judgment recovered by reason of the violation of Section 4452 just quoted.

The corporation holding an exposition, the nations, states and individuals erecting buildings and placing their exhibits there, have the same right to call upon San Francisco for police and fire protection as the automobile concern to which I have referred, and it may be equally true that in our discretion we may now say to the exposition directors and to those participating in the fair, that we will not give them such service. Gentlemen, our risk and our responsibility is too great under the law to give such an answer. Bear in mind that millions of people will visit this fair; that we will have vehicular and pedestrian congestion; that we will have those criminally inclined mingling with our peaceful, law-abiding citizens and guests; that we will have those who take advantage of disorder and lack of police and fire facilities; that we must reasonably anticipate the danger to exposition properties from those in our midst who gain by criminal acts. Let us suppose that we refuse to furnish the necessary police and fire protection then the exposition officials may well reply, "Very well, we will attempt to carry on exposition activities without police and fire protection from San Francisco, but if through the activity of mobs or rioters we suffer injury to our business or our property or the property of those participating, then we will look to you, San Francisco, to compensate us in damages." We who realize how very readily damages may run up to half a million or a million dollars as a result of mobs or riots, cannot set this argument aside by merely saying, "It cannot happen." The experience of every large city illustrates the point and it cannot be treated lightly in this case. Also let me remind you that any use of force or violence by two or more persons acting together and without the authority of law is a riot (see Section 405 of the Penal Code). Section 679 of that same code provides for the prevention of public offenses by forming police units and by requiring their attendance in exposed places. Consequently we are legally bound and it is mandatory upon us to furnish police and fire protection to this fair. If we do not provide for them in this budget, then we must take them from the department personnel now available. This will mean the taking of men from the mainland assignments and exposing our business men and residents to attack by the criminal element. Furthermore, the fair congestion will involve the mainland as well as the exposition grounds, and it will merely be robbing Peter to pay Paul to attempt to cope with the situation by taking our police and firemen from the mainland, thereby stripping essential posts in transferring man power to the island. Before concluding this aspect, I wish to say that we have no choice but to supply police and fire protection, unless we wish to run the risk of dishonor among nations, states and cities, and the risk of paying from our public treasury large sums in damages in the event of injury to buildings or property, done or caused by mobs or riots.

We have ample precedent for facing this situation with courage and determination. For our World's Fair in 1915 we voted five million dollars in bonds and this year we are making the final payment on this bonded indebtedness. Can it be said that our 1939 fair is of less importance to our City than the 1915 fair, notwithstanding the fact that since then we have grown substantially in population and wealth? Here we are asking not for five million dollars, but for $521,282. Of that amount $302,862 will go for a San Francisco exhibit and $218,420 for fire and police protection. Our duty is so plain, our responsibility so serious, and the item so reasonable and so essential, that it is difficult to understand the casting of a negative vote.

By reason of my faith in San Francisco, my responsibility as an elected public officer and the dangers to be anticipated in case of denial of the services involved, I vote YES on the passage of this item.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: Mr. President, may I ask the Supervisor, is that a statement that you have prepared in reference to this matter?

SUPERVISOR REILLY: That is a statement I prepared, and prepared myself, in reference to this matter.

SUPERVISOR McSHEEHY: If there was no argument would that statement have been read?

* * * * *

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor Uhl?

SUPERVISOR UHL: I am satisfied that each member of the Board knows exactly how he is going to vote, and is not going to be influenced in any way by what I might say, but nevertheless I do want to be of record on this matter.

Reference has been made to the $5,000,000 bond issue San Francisco voted, but it was not stated that that $5,000,000 has placed upon our property rolls millions of dollars in property and improvements in the Marina. That will not be the case in this exposition, it is simply an island, and it has no connection with San Francisco, and they hope to get the Pan-American Airways over there.

Much has been said here about the San Francisco exposition, and let me read to you, if you please, from The Examiner of Friday, March 25, 1938, in which Mr. Cutler is quoted as follows: "At the same time I think it is very important that the Supervisors be impressed with the fact that the exposition is not a San Francisco enterprise, but a state project in which the state of California has contributed."

Mr. Cutler came before the Board on several occasions, and he made the definite promise, as head of that exposition company, that not one dollar would be requested of the taxpayers for the construction or operation of that exposition. Now when the Supervisors make a promise they stick to it, and I am asking Mr. Cutler and his associates to stick to his promise. Naturally, I have a feeling in this matter, because I was too deeply in earnest to see that exposition on our shores, in order that we would benefit, the same as we benefited from the 1915 exposition, in the improvement of properties in San Francisco through the means of the erection of the exposition; and I don't want you to forget another thing, that there was $500,000 promised by the legislature, and ear-marked for our Cow Palace, to have that benefit accrue to San Francisco. Did we get it? We did not. That $500,000 was absolutely ditched, and there stands our Cow Palace, and it is a reflection on the City and County of San Francisco that it is not completed, and won't be completed, whereas it should have been with the expenditure of the $500,000 to be donated by the state of California.

I would like to ask this question: Is there any provision for taking one of the two fireboats and anchoring it over there?

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Nothing was said about that.

SUPERVISOR UHL: I think there is a chance to help the exposition company out. There are 27 men on that boat, and that is a mighty fine complement of men. There is absolute protection, and if that has not been considered it should be considered, and tendered to the exposition company. As I said before, there is no use talking at great length. You have already made up your minds, and I know I am going to vote "No", because of the promise definitely made that our taxpayers were not going to be asked to contribute one dollar for the exposition.

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor Shannon.

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: My recollection of the statement made by Mr. Cutler at the time he appeared before the board was, that there would be no solicitation of funds for the support of the exposition from San Francisco; and I would like to bring Supervisor Uhl up to date on the opinion of the Examiner, and read to him from the editorial in this morning's Examiner. Sixty days have evidently opened the eyes of the Examiner.

"Included in the budget before the Supervisors today for final consideration is an appropriation of approximately $220,000, to provide fire and police protection on Treasure Island during the 1939 Exposition. This amount—the least required for adequate protection—should and must be approved. To slash it would be both a foolhardy and a niggardly thing for the city to do. San Francisco gave $5,000,000 for the 1915 Panama Pacific Exposition in 1915. Total appropriations planned for next year's World's Fair are only $838,000. These include advertising and participation costs, as well as costs of police and fire protection. Surely San Francisco is as able now as in 1915 to give financial aid to an enterprise, which, primarily, will benefit this city. There should be no dispute over the exposition appropriations today—no last minute attempts to slash these items. There would be no valid reason for such action."

As far as the added assessment roll in the Marina district, when that fair was started in 1915 that was a waste down there, and it remained a waste for several years after the exposition buildings were razed, and it was only through the foresight of some enterprising real estate men that the property was put upon the market. Of course, if you want to use the argument that the property over here has nothing adjacent to it that can be made available, there is no answer, but there is an answer in this: That the construction of the island which will cost $3,803,900; a water system, $468,000; storm sewer, $240,000; sanitary sewers, $100,000; permanent hangars, $950,000; air terminal building, $850,000; paving, $500,000; permanent roadway on Yerba Buena Island, $250,000; and building at 585 Bush street, $165,000; and please don't forget that the equipment amounting to $68,000 will be used in San Francisco's fire department as long as it will be in condition to be used.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Why don't you offer them separately?

THE CHAIRMAN: Call the roll.

SUPERVISOR UHL: Call the roll.

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor McSheehy?

SUPERVISOR MCSHEEHY: I would like, for the sake of the record, because I feel as Supervisor Uhl does, that argument will do very little good—I think the members have their minds fairly well made up, but I am just going to read this:

"We quote from the San Francisco Chronicle dated, July 28, 1935: Statement of Mr. Leland Cutler, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Golden Gate International Exposition, "'We have set out to build a fair without cost to the city.' And the same day, same news item, Chronicle: 'Mr. Cutler indicated that the City would not have to pay any part of the total, that is, the cost of the fair.'" Then from the Chronicle of July 24, 1935, the statement of Controller Leavy: "Under no circumstances will the City be asked to put up any of the money for the exposition. This has been made clear in our conferences on the subject." That is from our own Controller, who has passed away. Also quoting from the Chronicle, July 25, 1935: "In adopting the resolution authorizing the request for Federal aid, the Board cast aside the attempts of the obstructionists of the Shoals site after Cutler had promised the City and County of San Francisco would not be required to pay any part of the cost."

Now, gentlemen, as was said by Supervisor Uhl, I know a man doesn't remain on this Board any length of time that doesn't keep his word. We had the word of the exposition company, and I feel it is their obligation, and part of the obligation belongs to Alameda County. No effort has been made to have that county meet that part of the obligation, and in fact no effort has been made to have the company meet it, and the company should meet the obligation.

I don't think you can make a comparison between this exposition and the 1915 exposition. We all know we were in competition with other cities, and especially New Orleans, and we know that the Chamber of Commerce raised—and it was stated broadcast at the time, $4,000,000, in two hours, something that had never been done, with no contribution by the City. Today we have a different situation—and I want to wish the exposition property every success in the world, and I have never attempted in any manner to have my minority report circulated around the City, I never attempted and will not do so, I want to see a success of the exposition, but I do honestly believe that this is their responsibility and not San Francisco's, and not the small taxpayers of San Francisco.

It is up to the Board, you are saddling this expenditure on to San Francisco, and you have their promise it would not be, if this Board sanctioned the Shoals site, yet we in turn are allowing them to saddle this responsibility over on the City.

THE CHAIRMAN: Supervisor Schmidt.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: Through the Chair, Supervisor Shannon, what is the total amount of expenditures made by the exposition as regards permanent improvements San Francisco is going to receive after the fair?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: $7,326,000.

SUPERVISOR SCHMIDT: That includes the sewer, water system, and so on?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: I will read what Supervisor Shannon read to you: Construction of the island, $3,803,900; water system, $468,000; storm sewers, $240,000; sanitary sewers, $100,000; permanent hangars, $950,000; air terminal building, $500,000; permanent roadway on Yerba Buena Island, $250,000; building at 585 Bush street, $165,000; a total of $7,326,900, which we get for nothing, merely for providing—well, equipment, $67,000 which will never be lost, we will use that equipment in San Francisco, and $300,000 for participating in the fair—and that is not giving any money, San Francisco should participate in the fair.

THE CHAIRMAN: What is the amount of our participation as regards the county building?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: $302,000.

THE CHAIRMAN: What is Los Angeles County spending? Somebody said three times that?

SUPERVISOR RONCOVIERI: $270,000, Mr. McIlveen said.

SUPERVISOR SHANNON: Since the Chronicle was quoted I would like to read an article, in this morning's Chronicle:
